LARGE NUMBER OF INDIANS TO ATTEND INAUGURATION

Are to Watch the Induction Into Office of Vice President Curtis, the First With Indian Blood in His Veins to Be Elected to This High Office—The Red Men Will Pitch Their Tepees on the Grounds Around the Washington Monument.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—An unusually large number of Indians will attend the inauguration and watch the induction into the vice presidency of Charles Curtis, the first with Indian blood in his veins to be elected to this high office.

One hundred Indians, representing several western reservations, will occupy a prominent place in the inaugural parade which will be reviewed by the new president, Herbert Hoover, and Mr. Curtis. Bedecked in their traditional feathered head dresses and buckskin garb the Indians, together with a group of several hundred western cowboys mounted on broncos, will form one of the most colorful divisions of the parade.

Several hundred more Indians also plan to be well watch the parade, according to Commissioner Burke of the Indian bureau, who is in charge of the arrangements for the Redskin delegations.

During their stay in Washington the Indians will pitch their tepees on the ground around the lofty Washington monument, but there is some concern on the part of officials to prevent any clashes between tribes traditionally hostile to each other.

Care is being taken to see that such tribes are not located near each other and a special police force may be placed near the Indian camp ground.

At the same time the officials in charge of the entire inauguration arrangements said that if advanced demand fro seats and room reservations was any indication, the largest crowd in the history of the country will witness the ceremonies.

ACQUIRED FINANCIAL STANDING BY FRAUD

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—A Sing Sing convict who had been a bank vice president fully explained how two business corporations in their more innocent days had enjoyed an immense financial standing through transactions that at times involved not a cent of capital.

The confession was given by Anthony S. Cuccia who was brought back to Sing Sing where he had been sent for embezzlement of funds of the defunct Broadway Central bank while he was second vice president. He testified in federal court against Herbert Ca and John T. Locke and five other men accused of a $5,000,000 fraud against investors while operating the Copper Exploration company, Inc.

"Washed" checks and time loans were the medium through which the men obtained their financial standing, Zegal testified. When the Copper Exploration company obtained a $100,000 loan from the bank, he said, the money became part of a $1,200,000 check which Copper Exploration drew against Canario check for similar amount. The same officials controlled both accounts, the witness said, and no money was transferred; although entries in pass books and in the bank records indicated heavy dealings by the corporation.

TILSON SAYS SPECIAL SESSION CONGRESS APRIL 15

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—The special session of congress for consideration of farm relief and tariff revision probably will be called on April 15 as a result of suggestions placed before President-elect Hoover by house republican leaders.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, majority floor leader, announced today that this date, subject to change, had been proposed to Mr. Hoover after consultation with the chairmen of the house agriculture and ways and means committees as to when they would be ready to report the farm and tariff bills. The president-elect, he added, previously had informed the leaders that he would be willing to abide by their judgment. The date of April 15, previously had been mentioned for the start of the session.

Tilson said the farm bill would be given precedence over the tariff measure. The former, he said, would be ready for house consideration around April 20, and could be disposed of in about a week. Chairman Hawley had assured him, he said, that the tariff bill would be completed by April 20. Tilson thought this measure would require from three weeks to a month to pass.

DENIAL OF PLOT AGAINST THE PRESIDENT OF CUBA

HAVANA, Feb. 28—(AP)—Charges by Cuban secret police that a nation-wide plot had been discovered to kill President Machado and bring about armed intervention of the United States through a coup d'etat here, were denied today by Dr. Alejandro Vergara Leonard, one of ten men arrested last night as principals in the alleged plot.

"There is no truth to the charges that a plot existed against the life of President Machado. Nor is there any more truth to the charge that a revolt was planned for the purpose of bringing American intervention in Cuba," Vergara said in an interview.

"I knew I was to be arrested on serious charges and so, two days ago, I informed the United States embassy here of the movement of the government. My sworn statement is at the embassy at this time," Vergara said. His statement was confirmed at the embassy later.

1928 AUTO FATALITIES IN STATE MORE THAN IN 1927

HARTFORD, Feb. 28—(AP)—Automobile fatalities increased more than 17 per cent. in 1928, over the preceding year of 1927, according to figures made known today by the Connecticut department of motor vehicles. The rate of increase for the year was about the same for pedestrian fatalities as it was for car occupants.

During 1928 there were 254 pedestrians and 212 car occupants killed in auto accidents. There were 60 more pedestrians killed in 1928 than in 1927 and an increase of 51 in car occupants.

Men were involved in more accidents than women. Out of 463 operators held after accidents, 450 were men and 13 women.

Collisions at street intersections resulted in 119 fatalities. Sixteen accidents occurred at railroad crossings during the year.

TEN MEMBERS OF MEX. BANDIT GROUP KILLED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 28—(AP)—Ten members of the bandit group which last week captured and, it is alleged, murdered the two American mining engineers, W. M. Underwood and G. C. Aleathorpe, were killed in a battle with federal troops in the state of Guanajuato. Two others were captured.

News of the encounter was contained in a report by the military command of the state of Guanajuato to chief of the presidential military staff tonight.

SHOE WORKERS ARE ON STRIKE IN LYNN, MASS.

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 28—(AP)—More than 850 employes of 45 shoe factories in this city were on strike tonight and 500 others were prepared to join them tomorrow. Indications were that unless a speedy settlement is effected it may cripple the shoe industry here.

The strike was called today for the purpose of gaining agreements with manufacturers on wage questions and to force recognition of several independent unions. The employes who went out today were lasters and stock-fitters, members of two of the three independent unions.

The cutters union voted tonight to join in the strike tomorrow. Their strength would increase the total number to more than 1,600.

There were no acts of violence reported today and picket lines had not been organized. The cutters union announced tonight that they would begin picket duty tomorrow and also would establish soup kitchens for their membership.

A new wage schedule was presented to the manufacturers two weeks ago, union officials said tonight. With no action on this list indicated the strike call resulted.

Several of the factories conducted on the co-operative plan are not affected by the strike, although union officials claimed that 70 lasters employed in the "Golden Rule" plant were out. This factory is the largest of the cooperative plants.

CONGRESS DEADLOCKED ON INTERIOR DEPT. BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP)—The deadlock between the senate and house over the interior department appropriations bill, was further emphasized today, when the senate again supported Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, in his opposition to the house proposal to give the government blanket authority to condemn private land in Glacier National park.

The senate insisted by a vote of 58 to 23, that private lands devoted to residence, religious and hotel purposes be exempted from the condemnatory provision, a compromise which the house has refused, 304 to 28.

The Walsh compromise was offered and adopted by the senate after the house had refused to accept the senate suggestion that the condemnation provision be eliminated altogether.

In supporting Senator Walsh, the senate followed the lead of numerous senators who declared that the house was attempting to exert its authority without due attention to the wishes of he senate.

The interior department bill, carrying vast sums for reclamation and other domestic purposes, now goes back to conference with good indications that the bill may fail entirely if the house pesists in its opposition to the Walsh compromise.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—The national camnaign cost the two major parties $16,568,115 exclusive of expenditures by district, county, city and precincts organizations.

The senate was given this information today by its campaign funds investigating committee in a final report which listed expenditures of $9,455,604 in behalf of the republican party and $7,152,511 for the democrats. The committee said that responsible political organizations, and "particularly the national committee," had complied with the federal corrupt practices act.

The investigating committee, which is headed by Senator Steiwer, republican, Oregon, proposed several changes in the law to tighten up the regulations governing expenditures but it made no proposal for fixing a maximum limit upon national campaign expenditures.

Most of the expenses were attributed to the national committees, the republican committee being charged with $4,064,517 and the democratic committee, with $3,157,453.

AGREEMENT REACHED BY OIL COMBINES

MOSCOW, Feb. 28—Announcement was made today of the signature of an agreement for three years between the Anglo-American oil combine led by the Royal Dutch Shell group and Russian Oil products. The latter company, by the agreement, is given an equal share of the British market with the other companies concerned.

The contract, which is regarded as ending the long-standing Soviet-British oil war, provides for the delivery of large quantities of Soviet kerosene, crude oil and petrol to the companies making up the combine.

Newspapers commenting on the deal today said that the agreement does not provide for any compensation to former owners of Russian oil fields confiscated by the Soviet government.

L. G. Sokolnikov, head of the Soviet oil syndicate, in negotiating the contract, was felt to have scored an outstanding success for Soviet foreign business by removing one of the chief causes of economic and political conflicts with Britain.

GENOA, Italy, Feb. 28—(AP)—Elihu Root, noted American jurist who will serve on a special committee of experts for revision of the statutes of the world court, arrived here aboard the Steamship Augustus.

LONDON, Feb. 28—(AP)—The Anglo-American Oil company and the Power Petroleum company, today announced an increase of two pence one farthing per gallon in the price of petrole effective tomorrow.

HEARINGS ON BIRTH CONTROL AND PROHIBITION

STATE CAPITOL, Hartford, Feb. 28—(AP)—Though the judiciary committee of the general assembly gave indication it would report unfavorably on the bill which would repeal the penalty provisions of the act prohibiting the practice of, and dissemination of information on birth control, sufficient support rallied to the measure this afternoon at the hearing as to bring signs of doubt concerning the decision among members of the committee.

The support was stronger this session than ever before for a measure of this kind, which would, in effect, make possible the practice of limiting family sizes, obtaining information from physicians and treatment from birth control clinics without the danger of a prison sentence or fine. Nearly 1,000 persons were attracted to the hearing, the old senate chambers in the state capitol being jammed from door to door and from the back of the room to the very bench on which the judiciary committee sat. Twice "sentiment" votes were called in the assemblage; once a decided majority indicated, by raising its hands, it was for the repeal of the penalty. Another time, the vote stood about 400 to 400. This second time the "noes" had equaled the "ayes" because the assembled listeners and speakers had had an opportunity to hear the opponents of the bill. The first time they vote was called, only proponents had spoken. The opposition today was weaker, as compared to the opposition which developed at other sessions.

MISS FAUNTZ WINS NATIONAL DIVING TITLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 28— (AP) —Jane Fauntz, slender brunette from the Illinois Women's Athletic club, Chicago, tonight won the senior women's amateur fancy low-board diving championship at the national meet here, with a point total of 193.31. Georgia Coleman, Los Angeles Athletic club, was second and Rose Boczek of Cleveland was third.

Miss Fauntz then shattered all swimming tradition when she came back after a short rest to win the national 100-yard breast stroke championship with a margin of five feet over Margaret Hoffman of Scranton, Pa. Catherine Mearls of Boston, the defending champion, finished third. The time was 1:21 4-5 or two and two-fifths seconds slower than the world's record.

It was the first time in the national tournament's history that the low-board diving champion won the breast stroke event. With her rapid crawl stroke, Miss Fauntz came from behind with a brilliant sprint to beat the field.

STATISTICS OF PRODUCTS OF AMERICAN MANUFACTURER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—Products of American manufacturing industry for 1927 were valued at $62,713,947,403 on the basis of census bureau figures. This was a slight increase over the value of 1925 output, which the bureau placed at $62,688,259,591, but an increase of 43.4 per cent. over the 1921 output, which had a value of $43,618,565,920.

In 1927, there were 191,563 manufacturing establishments operated in the country, which employed 9,351,257 workers, and paid out in wages for the year $10,484,782,433. This was a decrease in number of workers from the 1925 manufacturing census which had listed 187,224 plants, with but 8,381,511 workers, whose wage total for the year was $10,727,337,625.

RAILWAY EXPRESS CO. PROPERTY OF RAILROADS

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—(AP)—At midnight tonight, the American Railway Express company becomes the property of the railroads and adopts the new name of the Railway Express agency, Inc.

The new name will virtually be the only change growing from the sale of the express company to the railroads. The same offices and personnel will be maintained by the railroads and business will proceed as usual.

All the trunk line railroads, with the exception of the Southern railway, are participating in the purchase of the express company. The Southern railway has its own express company. The sale of the express company involved a consideration of between $30,000,000 and $31,000,000. Negotiations for the sale were in progress for about a year.

BOSTON SLASHER GOT ONE VICTIM YESTERDAY

BOSTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The subway "slasher" continued his attacks upon women riders in subway and elevated trains here today in spite of the efforts of 100 policemen, five policewomen and a score of especially assigned Boston elevated guards. The slasher's victims in greater Boston now number 33.

Today's single attack was upon Miss Beatrice Morgan, of this city, while she was riding on a crowded subway car. When she alighted she discovered an eight-inch slash down the side of her coat.

WOMAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF BEING A TRAMP

BOSTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—The first woman ever to be arrested in this city on the charge of being a tramp was arraigned in municipal court here today. She was Miss Leno Prio, 18, of Waterville, Me. The girl who said she left home last Friday to look for work, pleaded not guilty and was held for a hearing. The court ordered her parents notified.

MR. AND MRS. GENE TUNNEY HAVE DEPARTED FROM ITALY

Compressed Air Tank Blast Killed Six; Rivers In 4 States Out Of Their Banks

Ten Others Injured—Explosion Was in Quarry a Mile North of Stone Mountain, Ga.

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., Feb. 28—(AP)—Seven men lost their lives and ten others were injured, several seriously, late today in an explosion of an air compressor at the quarries of the Stone Mountain Granite corporation, about a mile north of here.

The explosion occurred as the men were crowded about a time clock near the compressor, checking out after the day's work.

The dead, all of whom lived here are: C. G. Davis, 32, foreman; O. Z. Cowan, 25, and John D. Glaze, 45, both drillers, and four Negroes, Charles Haynes, Will Maddox, Cody Smith and Cal Howard.

The most seriously injured included John Swimm, Morris Brown, Eugene Shinna and Carl Sewell, the last named a Negro. Physicians said Swimm and Sewell probably would die.

Company officials tonight could not ascribe a definite cause for the explosion of the tank of compressed air, but said they believed it was due either to a defect or overcompression.

STATEMENTS READ INTO THE EDEL MURDER CASE

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—Five hundred or more aliases were used by Frederick W. Edel in his travels about the country for years before and for months after the time he is accused of having slain Mrs. Emeline Harrington, actress, in her Washington Heights apartment late in December 1927, a statement purported to have been made by him and read in court today disclosed.

While police witnesses at Edel's trial in general sessions today read into the court record this statement, another statement from him carried persistent denial that he had killed the woman or that he had ever been in her apartment. They did explain, however, that women friends of Edel had been presented personal belongings of the actress.

Detective Joseph Donovan, stenographer of the homicide squad, who attended an examination of Edel after his arrest in St. Paul last year, testified as a state witness, and read from his notes a statement of the prisoner that an assumed name he had registered under at the Pennsylvania hotel the night of the killing was only one of many pseudonyms he had used in his career as bartender and waiter in such places as Chicago, St. Louis and New York, where he has worked since he came here from Germany in 1910.

TOWN THREATENED BY SMOULDERING MINE FIRE

NEW STRAITSVILLE, O., Feb. 28—(AP)—Perry county's perennial peril—the smouldering, 45 year old mine fire that has eaten out a network of tunnels in the earth and hundreds of acres of the countryside—menaced a section of this town today as it creeped to the surface and sent forth its gas over the hillsides.

A smouldering crater fifty feet square became exposed today and sent flames leaping into the air. Miners under the direction of Thomas Richards, district mine inspector, dynamited in the territory surrounding the crater in the hope of checking the spread of the persistent fire.

Six homes on the rim of New Straitsville, were imperilled today by the steady approach of the fire and the village school was menaced. Its foundation passes through the burning vein.

The fire was started in the 80s by striking miners who are said to have set fire to a loaded coal car and sent it into the mine. The flames from the car ignited the coal in the mine and since then the fire has spread in every direction. Smoke and gas prevented men from entering the mine to fight the fire.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN HAS PASSED CRITICAL STAGE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28 (AP)—Charlie Chaplin, noted screen comedian, has passed the critical stage of his illness, Chaplin studio officials said today.

"Mr. Chaplin's condition has improved greatly and any adverse development is exceedingly remote" his representatives said. "His temperature at noon today had fallen from a high of 101 1-2 degrees on Tuesday to 97 degrees. He slept peacefully most of the day."

Improvement in the actor's condition, following his collapse from an attack of ptomaine poisoning last Monday which was accentuated by a relapse Tuesday and a slight case of intestinal influenza was noted last night.

FORMAL CHARGES MADE AGAINST JUDGE HARDY

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 28—(AP)—Trial of Superior Judge Carlos Hardy, of Los Angeles, on charges of misconduct in office growing out of his efforts to air Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, in her kidnaping case several years ago, was brought a step nearer today with the filing of five impeachment articles with the state senate.

The formal charges were presented by the house board of managers, which will prosecute the case before the senate sitting as a court of impeachment.

Many Cities and Villages Are Marooned in Georgia, Alabama and North and South Carolina.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 28—(AP)—Swelled to flood stage by a 48 hour downpour of rain, rivers and tributaries in Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas swirled out of their banks today, marooned cities and villages, impaired rail and highway traffic, and claimed six lives in one small Georgia community.

The Ocmulgee and Oconee rivers in Georgia, the Coosa, Tombigbee, Black Warrior and Tallapoosa rivers in Alabama, and the Catawba, French Broad and Swannanoa in the Carolinas were the principal streams affected. Wide areas of inundation, washed out bridges and flooded roads and rail lines, were reported in the lowlands of these streams.

Georgia was perhaps the hardest hit. Here the torrents of the Ocmulgee spread out a mile wide, surged within four blocks of the main business section of Macon and threatened to overflow Central City park. City employes worked throughout last night and this morning strengthening levees with sandbags.

Near Lincolnton, Ga., the flood waters today gave up the bodies of six persons who were drowned in their automobiles that plunged into the surging waters of Cherokee creek flowing through a washout in the highway fill. The bodies of Fred A. McWhorter, prominent attorney and a state representative-elect and his three small children were taken from the stream this morning, along with the bodies of Ben F. Foreman of Allendale, S. C., and Edward Barrett, 37, of Grovetown, Ga.

The six victims were occupants of two cars that plunged off opposite sides of the washout.

Milledgeville, Ga., was marooned. Augusta, Ga., protected by levees, was cut off from its South Carolina neighbor, North Augusta.

Flood stage also was approached by swollen streams in the Carolinas, many streets in Greensboro, N. C., were flooded.

Central Alabama was threatened with the worst flood since 1919 as the rivers rose.

Windstorms added to the damage in both Georgia and Alabama.

FLOODS THREATEN THREE SECTIONS OF OHIO

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 28—(AP)—Flood conditions continued to threaten three widely scattered sections of Ohio tonight, but over the rest of the state high waters were receding and leaving residents to take stock of damage which has passed the $2,000,000 mark.

The worst menace, that of the Ohio river in the vicinity of East Liverpool, was averted today, when that stream, after rising to within its flood stre of 33 feet, began to recede. Hundreds of residents of lowlands in the vicinity of East Liverpool and Pennsylvania and West Virginia villages who had prepared to move their belongings nad stock, found their fears allayed.

THREE PERSONS KILLED BY DYNAMITE EXPLOSION

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—All America cables was informed today that the Steamer Teutonia, loaded with dynamite and gasoline, exploded in the harbor at Buenaventura, Colombia, today, with a probable loss of three lives.

The cable company report said that the Teutonia was a total loss. The crew was reported to have abandoned ship prior to the explosion, but the captain, the chief officer and the second officer were believed to have stood by their ship and to have been killed.

Property damage was at first reported to be extensive but a later report said that it was superficial. A lighter standing by the Teutonia caught fire and burned, but beyond that damage was said to be trivial.

Shipping records available here list two Teutonias, one large and one small. The large one, of 6633 gross tons, is owned by the Hamburg-American line and was last reported arriving at Rotterdam from Antwerp on January 24, last, evidently not the ship reported from Colombia. The other Teutonia listed is of 131 gross tons and is owned by W. Kunstmann, of Stettin, Germany. Her movements are not recorded in the maritime register.

INCREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending February 27, were announced by the Federal Reserve board today as $5,507,000,000, representing an increase of $30,000,000 compared with the preceding week, due chiefly to an increase of $56,000,000 loans for the "account of others."

SAMUEL GALLO FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

BOSTON, March 1—(AP)—Samuel Gallo, clothing salesman, charged with the murder of Joseph Fantasia on June 11, 1927, was convicted by a jury early this morning after more than seven hours' deliberation. Gangi Cero, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is already under sentence of death for the crime.

Samuel Manuel, 65 years old, backed his automobile into an open elevator shaft in a garage on Halsey street, Newark, forgetting that the lift was not there. The car fell two stories, overturning and pinning him beneath. He was killed instantly.

An agreement has been reached between the United States and Canada whereby the short wave radio channels available for commercial purposes on the North American continent have been allocated to different countries most concerned.

Mrs. Bettina Massarelli, 20, was found guilty of robbery while armed, by a jury in Middlesex superior court at Cambridge, Mass. The jury returned the verdict after deliberating less than two hours. She faces a possible maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Edward Montemarquette of Montreal, accused of assault with intent to kill Motorcycle Patrolman Francis M Gallagher in Springfield, Jan. 15 by shooting him with the officer's revolver, waived examination in district court and was bound over to the grand jury in bonds of $30,000.

Michael Palinori, a Worcester fruit dealer, was killed and a boy named Joseph Charamella also of Worcester, escaped death at South Barre, Mass., when an automobile in which they were riding skidded while rounding a sharp curve, crashed through a guard rail at Powder Mill bridge and plunged 40 feet into the Ware river.

BILL INCREASING DRY LAW PENALTIES UP TO PRESIDENT

Jones Bill Was Passed by the House Yesterday 283 to 90, a Distinctive Victory For the Drys Over the Wets—During the Acrimonious Debate the Wets Gained Support From a Number of the Drys—Senate Passed the Second Deficiency Bill Carrying $2,700,000 For Prohibition Enforcement.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—A dry army marched roughsod over the wets in the house today and passed the Jones bill to increase the penalties ties for prohibition law violations without changing a letter in the measure as it was received from the senate. The vote was 283 to 90.

Led by republican drys, the prohibitionists threw a cordon of votes around the measure to turn back every move which sought to alter it in any manner that would make necessary a conference with the senate and at the end they demanded a roll call vote on the proposal to pass it and send it to the president.

While the house was taking this action, the senate also was busy with the prohibition problem. That body passed the second deficiency supply bill carrying $2,700,000 that the president had recommended for enforcement.

Debate on the Jones bill in the house was acrimonious at times. The wets gained support from a number of drys, democrats and republicans, who contended the measure embodied legislative errors that should be corrected.

Several changes to correct those were proposed and the first ray of victory appeared to have dawned for opponents when as a result of an amendment proposed by Representative Tucker, democrat, Virginia, to discriminate between the first offenders and the habitual violators being adopted by a standing vote. Tellers were demanded, however, and enough protectors were marshalled to defeat the proposal.

The Tucker amendment was opposed by Representative Christopherson, republican, South Dakota, on the ground that any change in the measure at this stage of the congressional session would endanger it in becoming a law.

The amendments offered included one by Representative O'Connor, democrat, New York, to make capital punishment the penalty for dry law violators. This proposal like all others was rejected.

O'Connor said he offered the amendment to show the temper of the house and predicted it would be adopted except it might result in the defeat of the bill because of the severity of the punishment proposed.

Then, answering an attack upon him by Representative Moore, republican, Ohio, the New Yorker declared that his oath to support the constitution did not preclude his opposition to any of its sections.

"Are you pledging your full faith and allegiance to the constitution?" he asked of the advocates of the measure. "or are you doing for the Anti-saloon league, whose leader and whose dictator sits there in the corner watching your every move and who is sending messages down here somewhere, I do not know.

"He sits up there, Dr. McBride, the super president of the United States. Many of you know he is here, that is the constitution and that is the amendment you are supporting and not the eighteenth amendment."

Moore criticized O'Connor for a speech yesterday in which the New York member declared he despised and abhorred the 18th amendment and would not vote for any measure to enforce it.

The bill was defended by Representative Michener, republican, Michigan, and other advocates on the ground that while there were certain defects in it, they were minor in character and the law was needed by the department of justice to enforce the 18th amendment.

CONSTANT STREAM OF VISITORS TO COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—An almost constant stream of visitors calling to say goodbye and extend their good wishes is making it difficult for President Coolidge to keep abreast of the multitudious duties imposed upon the nation's chief executive.

He is finding that the occupant of the white house has very little if any time he may call his own and the closing days of his administration have increased rather than diminished the work placed upon his shoulders.

FIVE OF EIGHT MEN FOR HOOVER CABINET LAWYERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—Of the eight men selected for the Hoover cabinet whose names now are known, five are lawyers, one is a banker, one is an educator, and one is a former steel worker. Seven are his seniors, while the eighth, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, is of the same age, 54.

The eight are:

Secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, of Pennsylvania, banker, aged 75.

Attorney general, William D. Mitchell, of Minnesota, lawyer, aged 55.

Postmaster general, Walter F. Brown of Ohio, lawyer, aged 60.

Secretary of labor, James J. Davis, steel worker, aged 56.

HOOVER COMPLETING SELECTION FOR CABINET

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 28—(AP)—Friends of President-elect Hoover sent the volunteer cabinet makers into a new frenzy of speculation today by predicting that the selections made for the agriculture and commerce posts would furnish real surprises for the country.

There was concentration of thought and racking of memories after it was stated that neither of the men had even been mentioned in the conjectures that have been made in connection with these port-folios, but tonight the volunteers appeared to be no nearer a solution of the question than during the forenoon when the prediction was made.

The selections for all except these two posts are known, the question of who would get the labor appointment having been disposed of during the day with authentic information that the president-elect had decided to continue James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, in his position until he can find another man.

William N. Doak, of Virginia, an official of the Railroad Brotherhoods, had been under serious consideration, but opposition developed from some of the labor organizations and thus far they apparently have been unable to agree upon a man. Davis also is a labor man, holding a union card as a steel worker.

Those in the confidence of Mr. Hoover said he had selected two outstanding men for the agriculture and commerce department and that he hoped to be able to keep their names secret until the list of nominations is presented to the senate for confirmation early Monday afternoon.

FLIGHTS RENEWED BY LINDBERGH AND FIANCEE

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 28—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today demonstrated with one hand his confidence in flying even while his right arm remained in a sling as the result of his "mishap" of yesterday. Miss Anne S. Morrow, his promised wife, bravely followed his lead with undiminished faith in the ability of the colonel and the safety of the work which has been his life.

Miss Morrow apparently found tonic in the medicine prescribed in the training corps of the United States army by which a flier is sent back into the air to renew his confidence as soon as possible after a crack-up. She seemed a little nervous as she entered the airplane but after three short flights over Valuena field, she was as gaily confident as her companion.

The aviator himself showed no uneasiness at managing the plane with his left hand nor did he display any awkwardness in handling the commercial plane to which he was a stranger. He did examine the ship minutely before taking off and discussed its points with its regular pilot. His flying was straightway and all within sight of the field.

The colonel also showed that he could drive an automobile despite his crippled condition. On the way from the embassy to the flying field he handled the automobile deftly. Mrs. Morrow drove the automobile on the return trip.

Lindbergh made three takeoffs and landings with half an hour. The flights were limited to circling over the field.

ADVOCATES CREATION OF FEDERAL FARM BOARD

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—Creation of a federal farm board to alleviate the plight of the American farmer is advocated by Prof. Edwin R. A. Seligman, of Columbia university, who was retained by the democratic national committee to make a survey of the situation during the last presidential campaign.

Although the report was submitted to John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, before election day, its publication was withheld. Prof. Seligman is making the results of his study public in book form.

The present depression he believes, is only temporary and would disappear in the course of natural events, but that the government could alleviate the conditions.

Solution of the domestic problems he would place in the hands of a farm board whose principal function would be price control.

ICEBERGS CLOGGING THE MOUTH OF THE BOSPHORUS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 28—(AP)—For the first time in more than a hundred years the mouth of the Bosphorus is almost impassible because of icebergs and icefloes which have floated down from the Black sea.

Turkish vessels arriving in Constantinople from the Black sea after cutting a channel through the floating ice, report many icebergs are floating southward. One floe was said to be seven miles long. The sudden springlike warmth which has come to Constantinople after the terrific cold of the past two weeks is expected to melt the obstructions shortly.

A terrific landslide has destroyed a masque and many dwellings in the Anatolian village of Ineguell. The entire population has left the village because of recurrent danger from landslides.

STAFF OF HOMICIDE BUREAU SHAKEN UP

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—Joab A. Banton, district attorney of New York county, has shaken up the staff of his homicide bureau so thoroughly that only one of his several assistants assigned to duty there will be left on the job tomorrow.

No reason for the changes had been announced by Mr. Banton, and whether the bureau's handling of the unsolved Rothstein murder mystery had any connection with them could not be learned. There were reports that another homicide case had been so handled as to make shifts in personnel advisable.

ANOTHER GANGSTER ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 28—(AP)—Rocco Fanelli, Capone gangster, was identified today by a witness as one of two men who entered the North Clark street garage where seven men were shot down two weeks ago today. The witness said he had seen Fanelli and a companion walk into the place about the time of the murders. Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege said the witness was one of those who had also pointed out Jack McGurn, captured yesterday, as an occupant of the death car.

PROCEEDINGS IN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

HARTFORD, Feb. 28—Among the bills passed from the calendar today was one providing for biennial elections in the town of Hebron.

The act is to take effect upon approval by a majority of the legal voters present at a meeting held for that purpose.

A bill concerning the election of school committees has so many changes from the present law that it is here given in full:

"Section 1. The town school committee of each town managing schools under the provisions of chapter 52 of the general statutes shall consist of three, six, nine or twelve residents of such town. One-third of the members thereof shall be elected annually by ballot for the term of three years, to begin on the day of election. If the number to be chosen at any town meeting be two or four, no person shall vote for more than half that number. If the number to be chosen be three, no person shall vote for more than two, except when the total membership of the committee shall be three. Said school committee shall have the power to fill vacancies in its membership until the next annual election, when such vacancies shall be filled for the remainder of the term by the town, by ballot. No boards of school visitors shall be elected, and no district committees, except in districts organized under special acts. Any town may, at any time, vote to make the number of its school committee three, six, nine or twelve, and, at each subsequent election, the new board shall be elected in the manner above provided, but those theretofore elected shall remain

LOCAL CHAMBER STILL HOPES FOR VETERANS' HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 28—Unperturbed by the alleged favorable light in which other facilities in Connecticut and Rhode Island have placed themselves as logical sites for the proposed million dollar veterans' hospital, the committee of the Willimantic chamber of commerce continues active in the field of contenders. Day telegrams have been sent to several influential leaders in Washington stressing the plea for eastern Connecticut on the grounds that it is the central geographical center for both Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The fact that the larger cities of Hartford and New Haven and that Rhode Island business men and senators are "pulling" for Westerly, R. I., has failed to ruffle the local committeemen. On the other hand it may be said that the competition has added incentive here. Out of the Willimantic chamber of commerce comes the emphasis that this city is the central point of eastern Connecticut. It is 30 miles from the Massachusetts line, 30 miles to the coast line and approximately 50 miles east and west to the boundaries of the main district to be served. Highways are splendid, transportation facilities, elevation from sea level are unexcelled. The committee has also pointed out the advantages of soil and ground, readiness for construction and proximity of any site in this vicinity to business centers. A supplement in the form of a photographic folio showing in picture form advantages of this city and vicinity has been sent to Washington headquarters in support of the statistics sent some time ago.

FUNERAL

Jasper S. Harris

The funeral services for Jasper Stanford Harris were held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter Washburn, of South Coventry, at 2 o'clock, this afternoon with military attendance. Rev. Mr. Atwood officiated. The remains were taken to the receiving vault at the Willimantic cemetery and will be interred later in the Nathan Hale cemetery, South Coventry. In respect to the Civil war record of the deceased a firing squad from Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National guard, acted as escort and fired three volleys as the body was placed at rest at the cemetery. The bearers, all members of Earl W. Green post, No. 52, American Legion, of Coventry and Mansfield, were: Henry P. Frink, Ralph V. Reynolds, Frank W. Thiem and Joseph W. Dore. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

A new arrangement of the air mail service makes it possible for local mail posted here four hours later than in the past, to reach Chicago, Ill., at the same hour as heretofore. It was announced today by Postmaster Frank M. Smith. Air mail posted at the postoffice before 5:30 p. m., will be delivered at the Chicago postoffice at 8 a. m. the following day, this in effect, cutting four hours off the shortest schedule available by railway, and allowing air mail matter to arrive at its destination one whole day earlier than that sent by train. The rate of postage is five cents for the first ounce or fraction and ten cents additional for each additional ounce. This also applies to package mail matter.

The continued cases of Charles Saunders, of Manchester Green, and Frank Hooey, of Bolton, jointly charged with violation of the liquor law by manufacturing intoxicants and having them in their possession with intent to sell were again postponed at Hartford, Wednesday, owing to the illness of United States Commissioner Russell Corcoran. The defendants and Federal Prohibition Enforcement Officers Stanton L. Briggs and Harry W. Avery were in Hartford prepared for the trial when they were notified of the illness of the commissioner. Saunders and Hooey were respectively owner and part time occupant of a farm on Bailey road, in south Bolton, which was the scene of the explosion of a gigantic distilling plant one week ago Monday. Nearly 40 steel drums of 50 gallon capacity which exploded during the fire that followed the explosion of the huge still were marked as having contained a lacquer thinner, a highly alcoholic paint thinner that the federal department has found much in use in re-distilling plants during the past several months.

Following the joint meeting of the boards of assessors and relief held Wednesday, the relief board met in the town building this evening to make a final check-up of the grand list total. The list will then be turned over to Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton who is expected to return from a vacation in Florida, about March 10, after which he will issue a call for a special town meeting to levy a tax rate. Just what action was taken on the many complaints filed with the board of relief by property owners was not made known today but a summary indicating whether the complaints were generally allowed is expected to be announced later.

Mrs. E. B. Latham, who, with Mr. Latham and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Taylor are motoring in Florida, writes that her brother, Asher Palmer, died recently at his home in Orange City. He leaves four sisters, Mrs. Latham, Mrs. Daniel Chase, Mrs. Lida Weaver and Miss Frances Palmer, of Orange City, and at whose home the deceased expired.

A well attended entertainment program was carried out in the vestry of the First Baptist church Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the flower and decoration committee, with Miss Elizabeth Peacock as chairman. The church quartet composed of Albert V. Caufield, Russell A. Andrews, Joseph Atkinson and Percy Wilmot, rendered selections and violin solos were by Edward Shippee. The feature consisted of two playlets with the following taking leading parts: Byron Hawkins, Miss Nellie Harbison, Miss Margaret Hawkins, Miss Inez Paton, Mrs. Byron James and Mrs. Alice Greenwood. Refreshments were served.

Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock delivered an address at a parent-teachers' meeting in the First Congregational church house tonight. His subject was, The Part Religion Should Play in the Education of the Child.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Leonard have received a cablegram from their son, Dr. George S. B. Leonard, of Mystic, announcing his safe arrival at Gibraltar. Dr. Leonard is to spend two months on a tour of Spain and France.

Mrs. Ashton C. Persons and her sister, Miss Fannie Bishop, of North Adams, Mass., were visitors in Norwich, today.

Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue Leon T. Wilson, of Putnam, was making arrangements for office space in the town building today in preparation for his income tax work on which he will enter next week.

Mrs. Louis Duchesneau and Miss Betty Taylor, of this city, with the former's son, Antonio Duchesneau, of Dunielson, have returned from New York city, where they attended spring millinery shows.

Mrs. John J. Dennehey, of Carey street, was discharged from St. Joseph's hospital today after being a patient at the institution since December 13.

Principal George H. Shafer, of the Willimantic State Normal school, has returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where he attended the national education convention.

Lucius H. Elmer, proprietor of the Elmer Auto company, has announced his retirement from the Willimantic branch which he has conducted for the past 20 years in the sale of small cars. The agency held by Mr. Elmer has been taken over by the R. G. Remington, Inc.

Ensign John A. Williams and Mrs. Williams, formerly of this city and now of Long Beach, Calif., are at present in Seattle, Wash. where they will remain for about three months while the U. S. S. Maryland is in dry dock.

Mrs. Nellie Skinner, of East Hartford, has returned to her home in East Hartford, after a week's visit with her niece, Mrs. John R. Loomis.

C. Vincent Shea and George Bedford, who are spending two weeks in Miami, Fla., and Cuba, witnessed the Sharkey-Stribling bout Wednesday evening.

AMERICAN LEGION POST REACHES GOAL OF 150 MEMBERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 28—James J. Shea post, No. 19, American Legion, reached its membership quota of 150 two days prior to the scheduled closing the week's campaign, it was announced at a meeting of the post held in the G. A. R. rooms tonight. In reporting that the quota had been reached to an exact number, Chairman T. Frank Cunningham stated that an effort would be made to go over the top with a membership of 175 or 200 when the drive formally closes Saturday night. In the absence of Commander Dr. W. P. S. Keating, First Vice-Commander Lester H. Bilah presided. There was a good attendance, including many of the new members. James J. Lee, chairman of the rooms committee, said that repairs in the upper rooms of the Jackson street fire house which has been given over by the city for use by veterans' organizations were now complete. Work will start on the lower floor and the building will be ready for occupancy in about a month. A week from Saturday there will be a turn-out of Legionnaires to assist in the renovation work. A committee, Roy W. Downer, Raymond A. Parker and T. Frank Cunningham, was appointed to prepare resolutions on the death of Frank L. Grant, a member of the post. The deceased, who died here recently, was a first lieutenant in the 304th Field Signal battalion. It was announced that the district meeting would be held in Rockville on Sunday. District Commander of District 4 E. A. Zimmerman addressed the post and congratulated them on the success of their membership drive. He outlined several of the activities in which the post could participate. The following permanent chairmen were appointed for the year by Commander Keating, each having the privilege of choosing those to serve with him: Service officer, James J. Lee; Americanism, Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock; membership, T. Frank Cunningham; finance and audit, Abraham Sussman; publicity, Roy W. Downer; athletics, Maj. Joseph R. Morrison; community and civic betterments, James B. Fullerton; visiting, Joseph Roux; program and entertainment, William Mann; special entertainment, William Marn, chairman; Walter W. Taylor, Victor Brunelle, Alvin Swanson, George F. Robinson, Samuel Neild and Charles F. Cook.

COLCHESTER

SEVEN CANDIDATES SLATED TO RECEIVE GRANGE DEGREES

At the next meeting of Colchester grange, the recently organized Colchester degree team is to confer the third and fourth degrees on seven candidates.

There was a fair attendance at the meeting of the W. C. T. U., Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. J. N. Dauphinee, Linwood avenue. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served. The wet, disagreeable weather prevented the attendance of several members.

Guy B. Clark has had his steam sawmill, with a large gang of men, at work in a small wood lot near Chesterfield Center, during the past few weeks.

Baldwins 65c. A Basket

An enterprising farmer from the Bull Hill section was about the village Thursday selling nice looking Baldwin apples at sixty-five cents a fourteen-quart basket.

R. C. Cottrell, of New London, and John H. Sherman, of Norwich, were here Thursday.

The next meeting of the "Where Next" bridge club is to be held at the home of Miss Rose Smith, on Linwood avenue.

Principal and Mrs. Raymond O. Kendall left Thursday, for Winchendon, Mass., called there by the illness of Mr. Kendall's mother.

Louis Maples, of Norwich, was calling on Colchester friends, Thursday.

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church held a meeting at the home of Miss Edna Strong, on South Main street, Wednesday afternoon. Plans are being made to hold a church supper.

JEWETT CITY

NORWICH TRUCK RUN INTO BY PAWTUCKET, R. I., CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 28—At 10:45 Thursday morning two big auto trucks were in collision on the west end of the Quinebaug state highway bridge. William Ralli, driving E. Dufresne's big Mack, had 5 tons of coal aboard, bound from Norwich to Glasgo. John Hollis, Jr., of Riverside (Pawtucket) R. I., was driving a Reo speed wagon, westbound, light.

The Reo belongs to the J. S. White Co., of Pawtucket. The Mack was a quarter way across the bridge on the proper side, driving slowly with his 10,000-pound load. The driver of the Reo approached to pass the Mack. Evidently the Reo, as the driver claims, had begun to slip when he came on the planking. When he applied his emergency brake he skidded into the front of the Mach.

Both trucks were considerably smashed in front. The Reo rebounded into the guard fence that separates the road from the sidewalk, bending several of the steel trusses. Hollis was thrown against one of these and was cut slightly on his face. State road traffic was blocked for more than an hour before the local police and state troopers from the Danielson barracks, could check up on the case and establish one-way traffic.

A big Mack service truck arrived from Norwich and hauled the wrecked Mack away. The Reo was pulled off the east approach.

The Connecticut company had coaches at either end of the bridge, and passengers, for a couple of trips, were oblized to transfer.

The New England bus from Providence, bound for Norwich, was held up on South Main street. Chief of Police Henry Veglard ordered Hollis to appear in court Friday morning charged with failure to grant right of way. Only the heavy steel trusses saved the lighter truck from dropping 30 feet into the Quinebaug river.

Flynn's tonight, China night. Also Nancy Carrol and Gary Cooper in The Shopworn Angel, with Photo Tone.—adv.

Some of the local weather sharps predict that the snow flurry of the last day of February is all there will be, and that the winter is sewed up.

Going Back To Lawrence

After eight and one-half years with the Aspinook Co., John Jacobs, overseer of the make-up department is resigning and will go to the Pacific Print works, Lawrence, Mass. Mr. Jacobs' ability is demonstrated in the efficient management of his department. He came here from Lawrence and March 13, he expects to begin his duties there again.

A couple of hundred local radio sets were tuned in on the Sharkey-Stribling fight Wednesday evening, but were then, as is often the case, quite inconvenienced by the interference of some persistent local "blooper."

PROF. FARRELL'S STUDENTS' RECITAL AT OLSON STUDIO

Invitations have been issued to an informal recital by the artist-students of Professor Frank Farrel, to be given at the home studio of James Olson, in Sylvandale (Lisbon) this (Friday) evening, at 8:15. The musicians will include John Cavallaro, of New Haven; Miss Elizabeth Lyman, Montville; Miss Alma Boutilier, Occum; Miss Mary Stewart, Miss Constance Learned and Mrs. William Wodsan, Norwich, and James Olson.

Mrs. G. H. Prior will be in Waterbury today (Friday) to address Helen Goodrich chapter of the King's Daughters.

Elmer Tarbox is still laying off on account of a bad cut on his hand. He was working for the Mohican Co., in Norwich, when a meat saw caused a wound that needed four stitches.

Peter Flynn was calling on friends in the borough, Thursday.

King's Daughters Hold Supper

Whatsoever circle, of The King's Daughters served a bean and salad supper in the Baptist vestry, Thursday evening. The table napkins carried out the purple color of the order, being bordered with violets. The committee was Miss Alice A. Brown, Mrs. Thomas Brown and Mrs. E. M. Gray. The dining room was in charge of Miss Mabel McBroome and Mrs. John MacLean. The waitresses were Mrs. E. E. Gilbert, Elsie Brown, Mrs. Leonard McBroome, Beatrice Cathcart, Verna Tarbox, Winifred Scates, Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, Mrs. Lewie Hewlitt and Ruby Gray. Mrs. G. H. Prior received the tickets at the door.

WARDENS FEED HUNGRY QUAIL FROM AIRPLANE

RIVERSIDE, Cal.—(AP)—Nature has come to the rescue of the quail in the mountains of Riverside county this winter, but only after man and his airplane tided the feathered creatures over two foodless months which followed the forest fires of last fall.

The fires burned more than 100,000 acres of mountain land and virtually wiped out the natural food supply.

Game wardens, faced with a serious emergency, utilized airplanes to distribute food through the valleys. Daily flights were made over the fire-scarred lands with pilots unloading bags of food as they swooped low where game could be seen fighting for the scanty food remaining on the ground.

Troubles Of the Law.

BOSTON—(AP)—A Boston traffic officer laments that when he tried to halt a young woman driver for running past signals she threw her shoe at him.

Plans African Flight

BRUSSELS (AP)—Miss Suzy Lippens daughter of the controller of the ministry of transport, plans to fly her own plane to the Belgian Congo. She was the first Belgian woman to obtain an air pilot's license. The flying courses at the Antwerp aviation school are popular with women of the Belgian aristocracy.

DANIELSON

TWO SMALL BOYS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR BREAKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 28—The series of breaks at business places in Danielson the past fortnight was cleared up today when two boys, age 11 and 13 years respectively, admitted their responsibility, in keeping with well established through this medium. Before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this afternoon they pleaded guilty to breaks and attempted breaks at the People's Dry Goods store this week, and of getting into the Stampas store on Furnace street, the Dejordy store on Dyer street, the office of the Kennedy corporation on Cottage street and attempting entrance to the office of the General Supply company on Furnace street in the very recent past. Judge W. Fenner Woodward ordered the youngsters committed to the State School for Boys at Meriden, but suspended execution of the sentence for a period of six months, during which time they are to report weekly to Attorney A. G. Bill as probation officer.

Chief John McFarland, working for a solution to the breaks for the past fortnight, rounded up the pair of culprits. A starting point was the leaving of a pair of gloves in the People's Dry Goods store, which was entered Tuesday night. Another factor in directing suspicion toward the pair was the fact that they appeared to have an overabundant supply of money for boys and that they were hiring taxis to ride about town, also making one trip to Putnam. After all, they didn't get a great deal—about $4 from the dry goods store, about $1.00 in pennies from another place and some few things other than money that claimed their fancy.

The mystery of how they got into the dry goods store was cleared up when they admitted breaking a panel out of the vestibule door and slipping the hooks on the inside of the rear door of the store with the blade of a knife. Both boys wept copiously when being questioned this afternoon, and appeared badly frightened. It was impressed upon them that they will be sent to the reformatory if they deviate in the next six months from ways that are good and proper. In addition to breaking and entering the boys admitted stealing articles from cars parked in Center and School streets while their owners were attending the theater.

Today at the home of Clinton Shippee, east of East Killingly and near the Rhode Island line, the death of Mrs. Idella E. Handall, 70, occurred. Mrs. Handall had been in Mr. Shippee's employe as a housekeeper for several years. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker A. F. Wood and is now at his funeral home here. Mrs. Handall leaves a brother, George Cook of Ballouville, a sister, Mrs. Sarah E. Wells, and a half-brother, Albert Simmons, both of Auburn, R. I.

The will of John T. Bryant, just filed for probate in Fair Haven, Mass., leaves the bulk of his estate to his widow. Of interest are four bequests of $100 each to the four janitors of the court houses of Bristol county, Mass. Mr. Bryant, who died recently was chairman of the board of county commissioners of Bristol county for 6 years. It was from this town that he set out as a boy 15 years of age but looking several years older, to enlist for service with the Union armies during the Civil war. He made a practice of coming here periodically each year, and was a visitor in town only a few weeks before his death.

Plans have been completed for the first inter-state Friendly Pow Wow to be held in the Providence Y. M. C. A. on March 16, with delegates in attendance from the Windham County Y. M. C. A., including the Norwich area, and the Providence Y. M. C. A. Secretary L. Edwin Hill, Danielson, of the Windham County Y. M. C. A., in conference with Clarence H. Goff of the Providence Y. M. C. A. has worked out the following program for the event: 9 a. m., inter-state 20-yard dash, preliminaries and finals; 10 a. m., regulation potato race, preliminaries and finals; 11 a. m., inter-state six-man relay, preliminaries and finals; 11.30 a. m., basketball, Windham County Y. M. C. A. vs. Providence Y. M. C. A.; 12 m, 20-yard swim; 12.15, p. m., fancy diving and life saving; 12.30, swimming for all present; 1.00 p. m., dinner period; 2.00 p. m., The Story of the Indians, by Ray Deegan, student of Indian ore from the Meriden Y. M. C. A. Mr. Deegan will display a large collection of Indian relics and curios; 3.00 p. m., demonstration of Friendly Indian work by members of the Moosup Tribe of Friendly Indians; 3.15, motion pictures; 4.00, adjournment.

This afternoon at the home at Pleasant Valley farm on the River road to Goodyear funeral services for Mrs. Bernice Myra Danielson, wife of James Danielson, were conducted by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church in the presence of numbers of relatives and friends. Burial was at Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Frank J. Lamb of Attleboro, William R. Pond of New Britain, Attorney Bradford W. Danielson of Moosup and Harold Hall of Taunton. There were beautiful floral tributes. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Judge James N. Tucker, East Killingly, careful recorder for years of facts pertaining to the weather, said this afternoon that the February closing today has been a normal, one in respect to temperature. The daily sunrise temperature average for the month was 22.75 degrees. All of the Februarys from 1920 to 1928 inclusive have shown, jointly, an average sunrise temperature of 22.61 degrees, only a small fraction under a degree from the average of this February. Compared with January of this year, February was just slightly colder, the past month having a sunrise average of 22.90 degrees. The coldest February mornings this year high up on the hills of East Killingly at sunrise were the 4th, 5th, 13th, 22nd and 23d, in each instance 8 above. The warmest morning was the 7th, when the mercury stood at 42 at sunrise. The temperature range for the month was only 34 degrees. Here in Danielson, in a valley, temperatures down to 6 below zero have been recorded this month.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Walter Anderson of Broad street will entertain the members of the Roundabout club at her home.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM POLICE GET BOYS RESPONSIBLE FOR BREAKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 28—Putnam police tonight stated that they had apprehended two Danielson youths who, on Wednesday evening, entered the store of Roy F. Shippee on Church street, stealing $12 in cash and change from a cash drawer and later entered the offices of Medbury & Trowbridge, ice dealers on Main street, ransacking desks and files but taking nothing of any value.

The breaks were discovered this morning by the owners at the opening of business hours. Both Mr. Shippee and Mr. Medbury simultaneously reported the incidents to the police. Capt. W. J. Jarvis of the Putnam police, assisted by Lieut. R. V. Urquhart and Officer Donald E. Geddes of Danielson barracks, commenced investigations at both places and with information obtained took into custody the two Danielson youths, who have admitted their guilt. Captain Jarvis requested that the names of both boys be held from the newspapers, owing to their minor ages.

In addition to clearing up the breaks in Putnam business houses, Captain Jarvis believes that the arrest of these two boys will serve to clear up several other burglaries, which have occurred in other Putnam business houses during the past two months. The Putnam police captain was unable to state as to whether or not the boys arrested today could be linked with a similar break in a Danielson retail house discovered on Tuesday evening. The youthful burglars, according to the police, made their way into each store by means of skeleton keys as there were no telltale marks showing that jimmies had been used.

INSANE MAN COMMITTED TO NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 28—Richard Jackson, 28, Negro, of this city, was taken into custody by Captain Jarvis and other police officers today after a complaint had been received informing the police that the man was criminally insane and was in possession of firearms and a goodly amount of ammunition. After a search, Jackson was found at the home of Mrs. Mary Johnson on Maple steet. At the time of his arrest his mind was clear and he submitted to arrest. At the police station he admitted he had stolen a .38-calibre revolver and the ammunition from a relative with whom he had lived, concealing it at the home of a friend last night. The police found the revolver after checking up the story told by the insane man. Jackson was examined by a local physician and his mentality was adjudged as being impaired. He was committed to the Norwich state hospital tonight, being taken there in charge of local police officers. Captain Jarvis said tonight that an investigation into Jackson's past revealed that he was committed to a state institution at Portland, Me., about a year ago, when he entered a home in that city and brutally assaulted the housewife, who had attempted to defend herself.

Arrested for Non-Support

Simon Berthiaume of Mill street was arrested by local police tonight on a charge of non-support. Charges were preferred against Berthiaume by his wife, who alleges that he has failed to provide means of support for his family. Berthiaume, who has been arrested and convicted on charges of liquor selling, was released on bonds of $200, which he promptly furnished for his appearance in police court on next Thursday morning. It is apparent that he intends to contest the charges made against him as he has engaged the legal services of a prominent Putnam lawyer.

The truth and veracity of a story pertaining to an unexpected visit to Putnam by Secretary Andrew Mellon, related by a gasoline station attendant has been attacked by a Washington correspondent of a local newspaper in the following statement: "Mr. Mellon has not been prowling around in Connecticut, in fact, has not been in New England in many moons." This is one side of the story, but despite the Washington angle that the well-known "Andy" has not been touring New England, the gasoline station attendant still sticks to his story, told this writer several days ago.

A short calendar session of Windham county superior court will open at Putnam this Friday morning at 10 o'clock with Judge Arthur F. Ells occupying the bench. There are a number of cases on the short calendar to be heard, in addition to several divorce cases. Judge Ells will also devote a part of the session to assigning the trial list.

Circumstances existing during the holy season of Lent have caused an unusually large number of residents of this city to enjoy the reading material afforded on the shelves of the Free Public library, according to Miss Emma J. Kinney, librarian. Miss Kinney said this afternoon that during the past month the readers of the library have appeared in greatly increased numbers to draw books. The Lenten season has curtailed, for the present, social activities, and for diversion many have turned to the library for books, to pass hours which ordinarily are spent at theatres, dances and other places of amusement. The library is now stocked with the most recent and up-to-date books by the world's best authors, while it continues to constantly replace the tattered volumes of the writers of other days whose works will continue to remain in flower as long as reading itself. The penitential season has not been wholly attributed as the direct cause for the increased circulation of books of the local library, but the major reasons lay in its favor.

Joseph L. Edmonds, a life-long resident of this city, died at his home on Water street late Wednesday evening after a prolonged illness of many months. Mr. Edmonds was in his 90th year. He was born in Canada, but came to the United States with his parents, while in his teens. Later the family settled in Putnam. Mr. Edmonds entered the employ of the New Haven railroad as a gate tender. In this capacity he was assigned to the May street crossing, where he faithfully guarded his post for over a quarter of a century, retiring about three years ago because of his advanced years. Mr. Edmonds is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Henry F. Laflammes, of Water street.

Boys and girls, fellow classmen of Romeo Poulin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Truffle Poulin, of North Grosvenordale, who died Tuesday at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, comprised a delegation of students representing Tourtelotte Memorial high school that attended the funeral service of the youth, held this morning at St. Joseph's church in North Grosvenordale. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Pierre Celestin, assistant dean at Assumption college, Worcester, where the youth was preparing for the priesthood, assisted by Rev. John C. Mathieu, pastor of St. Joseph's church, as deacon and Rev. Ernest Lavallee, curate at St. Joseph's, acted as sub-deacon. The Gregorian chant was rendered by the members of St. Joseph's choir.

The bearers were six fellow classmen who, like him, were preparing for the priesthood. The mass was also attended by scores of friends and relatives of the boy.

Following the mass the body was taken to St. Joseph's cemetery, where committal services at the grave were conducted by Father Celestin and Father Mathieu.

The body of Lewis Bugbee, former resident of this city, arrived here today for burial. Mr. Bugbee was born in Putnam and lived here for many years, before he left for Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to reside. He was the son of the late Chester Bugbee. Funeral arrangements were not completed today.

A unique programme for the benefit of Windham county farmers is now being arranged by the officials of the Windham County Farmers' association of this city. The scheme is one relative to the exterminating of tree pests and will be known as the telephone spraying system. Its inauguration, while endorsed by leading agriculturists throughout the state as a means of killing the pests, depends upon enough farmers subscribing for the service. The work will consist of the gathering of scab sores throughout the county to send them to New Haven to learn their condition; getting in touch with the weather bureau at New Haven, through the New Haven County Farm bureau, and at times when it seems advisable to spray, telephoning the different growers in the county. The messages would be transmitted from the local office at noon of the previous day, so the farmers would have the afternoon to do their spraying before the arrival of the storm. The service is for the control of the apple scab and the apple maggot. It was followed with huge success in New Haven county last year and it is hoped that its adoption in Windham county this year will enable the farmers to produce better grades of apples. Further details regarding the gratis service may be had from County Agent Raymond Wing, of this city.

Monday evening's Elks-Masons indoor card tournament, which resulted in a tie—7 to 7—was conceded to the Elks Wednesday evening when Morse and Geissler of the Masons and Lewis and Milot of the "Brother Bills" fought out the tie, the Masonic representatives being unable to overcome a strong bridge lead polled by the two members of Elkdom.

For years the residents of Orrs island, Me., were puzzled by the prevalence of three-legged rats. It remained for Jack Woodle, a New Meadow clamdigger, to solve the mystery. Clamdiggers often in gathering up their spoils leave a few live clams or quahogs scattered about the flats. The rats while scampering about in search of food frequently put a foot into an open shell. The shell closes instantly with a vselike grip. Woodle came across several rats so held. Watching he saw the frightened rats drag the shellfish along for a few minutes, but the rough nature of the flats soon tired them. Rather than be drowned by the incoming tide, these rats deliberately gnawed away the member imprisoned and freed themselves.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy; meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children too; read the book that comes with it.

CONNECTICUT AUTO ACCIDENTS.

When we are told by the motor vehicle commissioner that fatal accidents are increasing about five times as fast as any other kind of motor vehicle accidents, according to figures available for 1928, there is something to think about.

In the first place there ought to be a decrease instead of an increase, and secondly there should be no such gain in the worst of the accidents. It is easy to point to the fact that there are more vehicles on the highways with each succeeding year, but that simply calls for more caution. It calls for more caution on the part of the old time drivers as well as those who are just learning or have driven for a year or two. This will be fully appreciated when it is realized in the report made by the motor vehicle department that in 71 cases the drivers had had more than 10 years experience, while there were only 19 with less than six months experience. One gets the impression that experience encourages chance taking when 55 had had five to ten years of driving.

It is an unhappy outlook when from past experience we must anticipate that there will be more accidents, fatal and otherwise during the present year than there were last. It is all the more distressing when it is realized that for the most part they are unnecessary. The department shows that of the 419 accidents there were 252 where the road surfaces were considered "good," 174 on straightaways or clear courses, 283 in clear weather and 292 during daylight hours.

The lack of care is emphasized from the fact that there were 119 fatalities resulting from collisions at intersections and 16 at railroad crossings. In both cases this discloses the unwillingness to take sufficient time to insure proper protection for self and it becomes apparent that corners are much more dangerous than the railroad crossings.

The great desire is for a reduction in highway accidents of all kinds. Humanity is being swept into eternity fast enough without having it speeded up by automobile fatalities, but there seems to be little relief in sight until there is a greater volume of care.

GETTING THE HEADS TOGETHER.

With Elihu Root in Europe and with the leaders of other nations assembling at Geneva there cannot fail to be interest in the possible outcome of the Root mission. There is no telling how soon some agreement may be reached or just what the proposition to be advanced will be. The aim is, of course, to have the other countries better informed concerning the reservations made by the United States relative to adhesion to the international court of justice.

Dependence is placed upon Mr. Root to so present the matter that there will be no misunderstanding, to clear up questions that may exist in the minds of others and to devise a method whereby the desired end may be reached. If the membership of the United States in the court is desired by the other nations this is an opportunity which they should make the most of. The object must be to overcome objections. The need is to get the leading nations to either approve the reservations which this country has made or to bring about the elimination of conditions which prompted the reservations.

The suggestion has been made that the court might be relieved of the duty of giving advisory opinions. That is the big point on which this country has based its reservations. If it should be possible to eliminate that the chief trouble would disappear. It is not a new suggestion for there have been those who have voiced their opposition to the danger of advisory opinions from the time this was suggested as part of the court's work.

There's the difficulty to be faced of having it considered that the court is yielding to the dictates of this country. That must of necessity be overcome by the demonstration of the real significance of the plan to get advisory opinions from the court. If it can be shown and is shown that such a requirement is of questionable benefit the situation faces the possibility of taking on a different outlook. Mr. Root is thoroughly equipped to send home the facts and to present the position of this country. Perhaps it is too much to expect anyone to accomplish what he has set out to do in a short space of time. Time must be allowed for due thought and study.

A WISE CHANGE.

Slowly but surely the efforts which are being made by this country to have the visa charges for tourists abandoned are bearing fruit. Italy is the latest of the nations to announce that it will abandon the practice, that Americans in the future will be admitted without paying the $10 fee for the approval given to the passport.

Whatever may have been the merits of the plan in the past the time is at hand when it works hardships upon those who go to Europe for a visit from this country. The result is that pleas have been made to other countries for the purpose of abolishing such charges and it has been easy to convince some of the European countries that it means more dollars to them to drop such a fee than it does to insist upon its collection. Of course it is obligatory upon this country as part of the arrangement that similar fees from visitors from the other countries are eliminated.

While there are many Europeans who come here as tourists there are more Americans who go to Europe. When the visa fee was in full force it meant that every time a boundary line was crossed it was necessary to come forward with the visa charges. This meant much for the person who was touring Europe. It also meant that many who might otherwise have spent more time on the continent restricted their stay abroad to the countries where they were chiefly interested and abandoned the opportunity of going into the others because of the expense involved in satisfying the visa fee every time they moved. This blocked, of course, the spending of money which would otherwise have been left in the countries that were passed.

It was inevitable that Americans should raise an objection to the fee. Even though this country may have started it, its present day attitude is displayed by the efforts which it has made to end it. Besides Italy, there are Germany, Belgium and Switzerland which have joined hands with the United States in abolishing the fee and it would be well if the others would. The removal of such a charge by this country does not apply to the immigrants, but Europe is gradually being convinced of the wisdom of the change.

PLANTING TREES.

"There are thousands of acres of non-productive forest lands in Rhode Island. These areas should be put in a state of productiveness through the planting of desirable forest tree species. Reforestation will increase land values as well as produce a future crop. A forest plantation fills in the waste places and helps out as part of the regular farm income. A stand of trees with continuous new growth is an accumulation of wealth. Forest planting is also desirable to increase our recreational forests, watersheds and game coverage."

This is an expression by the state board of agriculture in Rhode Island which is planning to continue this year the good work of reforestation which has already been gotten underway. It is in accord with good work which is being done in other states where there are areas which ought to be accumulating wealth for the owners, and it is quite apparent that Rhode Island is as much entitled to increased production in that direction as any other state.

There are various ways in which waste land can be employed. Probably there is none involving less expense and bringing in better monetary returns than by planting trees of a character that will produce a paying crop.

It is well that all possible interest should be stimulated in this direction. What has been done in other states has inspired Rhode Island. That state is not satisfied with what has been started but recognizing the benefits it is out to get them in larger measure. The good example being set by the neighbor to the east cannot fail to have influence without as well as within its borders.

PENSIONS.

There are good reasons for believing that the action of congress in voting pensions for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Leonard Wood will meet with general approval.

It is the customary thing to do in the case of the widows of presidents, regardless of what their financial condition may be. There is no reason for favoring one and denying another. In order that there may be impartiality they must all be treated alike. When congress takes that view it is on good ground.

In regard to the pension for Mrs. Wood the situation is a bit different, but certainly if there was reason for any pension at all there was ground for voting the $5,000 that was proposed. It is impossible to overlook the magnificent service that was rendered by General Wood to this country. No matter where he was placed he was an efficient and conscientious official. Look through his career and one cannot fail to admit that there was justification for giving recognition for his service to the extent of providing a pension for his widow.

Perhaps this country need look no further than Cuba to recognize its duty. Cuba came closely under the influence of General Wood who was the administrator there during the fight against yellow fever. It recognized his services and provided a pension of $6,000 for Mrs. Wood. It was an expression of its gratitude. When we stop to realize that demonstration, it was certainly impossible for this country, in view of General Wood's service wherever placed, to do less than grant the recommended pension. It would have been a sorry move to have made any such cut as attempted.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

March, thus goes another sheet on the calendar pad.

These are the days when unpleasant things are said about the income tax blanks.

The man on the corner says: What has become of the boastful groundhog?

The all important question now is whether there is a lion or either end of March.

Weatherwise there's been nothing about February to cause any regrets or to force anyone to southern climes. A few more days and the robins should be with us.

The surprise is not that Lindbergh has had an accident, for which he was not responsible, but that he has done all the flying he has without having had a more serious one.

VALIANT VOYAGERS.

The June sunshine seemed brighter than ever as Sue turned the little green car into the drive. On the seat beside her was a perky hatbox containing the last touch to her wardrobe—the very hat to wear on shipboard.

Sue counted the days again. Only a fortnight now till she and Tom would leave on their dream trip! For, and she smillingly mimicked the conversation of the village, "haven't you heard? The Blakes are going to Europe. Tom must be doing better than I thought."

Not every one knew that the trip was to be the realization of two years of dreaming and saving. They had long ago planned this trip—to be their second honeymoon. And it was almost here! Sue stopped by the terrace porch of their little home.

Suddenly she heard voices. Who could have come while she was gone? Jane? Flo and Elizabeth? But—a man's voice—a flash of white uniform—and then, with a terrified sinking heart, Sue knew.

Upstairs in the once cheery room lay Tom. She sped softly into the room and dropped beside the bed. Then a hand reached down and a voice called, "Sue?" She soon heard the story. A small boy, chasing a red ball in front of an onrushing car; Tom, unheeding his own danger as always, snatching the lad to safety, only to be struck himself by another automobile.

An immediate operation was necessary if Tom should ever walk again. So, weary days at the hospital followed, and Tom was home again, the operation over, before one mention was made of their trip, though their eyes had spoken silently and bravely many times. Finally Tom spoke.

"Pretty mean deal I pulled, throwing our little jaunt way like that, because I guess it's gone — here," pointing to his braced leg. "I'm afraid there's no Europe for us this year, Sue."

"Never mind, Tom. Nothing matters except your getting well. We won't even think about the trip."

But with Tom's danger over, the realization that their precious savings were already eaten up and that their dream trip was now only a dream, came upon Sue with overwhelming disappointment. But she knew that never for an instant would she let Tom glimpse that disappointment. Poor boy—he felt it perhaps more keenly than she.

June 21 dawned like any other day for the Blakes. Fifteen days ago it was still marked with a red ring as their sailing day. And now — At lunchtime Sue herself carried Tom's tray into the room. As she came down the hall he heard her calling.

"Oh, Tom, have you both bags? Do hurry, we must not miss the boat."

Tom looked up at his wife in amazement. Had the strain been too much for her? On his tray was a toy ship, gaily flagged, and Sue herself was clad in traveling togs, the new hat topping the picture. Short sobs rose in their throats, but Sue again saved the day with her smile.

And so they played. Day by day they followed the course so eagerly planned months before. London, Brussels, Paris—how real they became with pictures and music and costumes modeled by Sue! The cheery bedroom became Ann Hathaway's cottage, a Paris theatre, the Lido. They breakfasted in Nice; sang songs beneath Venetian skies.

Late in August Sue was planning a special party, for Tom was beginning to walk, and, too, it was time for them to start home on their play trip. Armed with souvenirs, and with homemade labels on their bags, she dashed into the room.

Tom was seated by the big window. Without a word he handed Sue a long slip of paper. It was a check, signed by the father of the small boy.

"He made me take it, Sue. And I'm turning it over to the one who's really earned it." Sue dropped the bags and turned to her husband, tears and smiles mingled in her gaze.

"Oh, Tom, not really—why—"

"So, now, Susie, though it can't be as much fun as the trip we've just taken, what do you say to a third honeymoon, in September?"—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—In the death of Melville E. Stone a great reporter is lost to American journalism. More than any man in his generation, this organizer and long time active head of The Associated Press contributed to the mechanisms that bring each day's grist of world events to the eyes of far scattered readers, fresh minted from the mills of time.

Into that service Mr. Stone carried an idealism which viewed the news as an almost sacred commodity. He built into the vast and complicated news reporting organization a reputation for accuracy and for unbiased narration of the essential facts, and that accomplishment survives him as a monument more majestic and enduring than any triumph of sculptured stone.

And he contributed, too, to the far-flung army of reporters under his immediate command something of his own undying news enthusiasm, the inner urge that more than any other consideration makes for good reporting.

The Test.

Twenty years of Associated Press reporting, most of that time with Melville Stone as the active chief of the service, give the Bystander reasonable ground to know of what he speaks.

He has seen that theory of news integrity tested supremely time and again: seen it hold fast in Mr. Stone's firm grip against every strain of seeming competitor achievement, seen it emerge unscathed from political battles. It was the pivot of all "the chief" of the AP did or said in any emergency.

And the Bystander recalls, too, a time many years ago when Mr. Stone stood quite unexpectedly on the actual reportorial firing line and was roundly scored by a staff cub for lack of detail in his "story."

It happened as "the chief" was homeward bound from the Orient via San Francisco, where he boarded a night train eastward that was held up an hour or two later by mail bandits.

"The Chief" Phones It.

When marooned passenger cars finally were shifted back to a way station, Mr. Stone dug up a telephone and called the Associated Press in San Francisco. He thought the story was the main thing and failed to say who he was to the desk youngster at the other end. That was the first word of the holdup and it caused excitement in the office.

Who were the engineer and conductor of the train?" the youngster finally demanded, thinking he had a local "string" reporter on the wire.

"I don't know," Mr. Stone replied.

"You're a —— of a reporter; go and get 'em," the youngster shouted, and hung up.

Not until next day did it develop that Mr. Stone had "covered" the story. And neither then or at any time did Mr. Stone have a word of censure for the cub who "bawled him out."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Two Reports

Mr. Editor: It was with great interest that I read the article as published in your issue of Feb. 28, 1929, entitled a loss of from $65,000 to $70,000 annually. I would like to ask, who would lose that amount? Would it be the taxpayers or Charles W. Taggart's family and others such as the New Britain police pension fund, and other needless expenses? I assume the above article was obtained from a pamphlet distributed at the last special city meeting, entitled A report by the board of gas and electrical commissioners on the findings of the fact finding committee, a copy of which I have received. It has shown me it is not their report as their names do not appear anywhere in it, but I do find on page 14 of said report that it was signed by Charles W. Taggart, general manager, and then I find six more pages not signed by anybody.

Now let's compare the two, the fact finding committee's report in sheet form, which was paid for by the taxpayers, and the report of Charles W. Taggart printed in pamphlet form, was paid for from the funds of the gas and electric department, and cost much more and contained less information to the owners of the plant than the fact finding committee report. So I would like to ask, how many of the citizens of Norwich consider the gas and electric department to be run in a business-like manner, after comparing the two reports mentioned above and looking to their vouchers carefully?

GEO. E. PITCHER.
Norwich, Feb. 28, 1929.

Raymond Hill Road, Montville

Mr. Editor: It may be of interest to the citizens of Montville to know what is the financial standing of the so called Raymond Hill road leading from Oakdale to the Salem turnpike, built under the anticipated appropriations act under supervision of the state highway department and completed Aug. 2, 1926. I have never observed any item of the amount due the town in our annual account. In April, 1927, we not having received any refund from the state for the amount expended by the town, as their representative I took the matter up with the highway commissioner, as the result of which I received the following letter:

Hartford, April 12, 1927.

Mr. F. R. Perkins,
Representative Town of Montville,
Montville, Conn.

Dear Sir: Replying to your inquiry concerning the financial status of the town of Montville with regards to the Arrigoni contract on Raymond Hill please note the following:

Under the anticipated appropriation the town paid D. Arrigoni a total of $87,220.91. The town refunded state of Connecticut together with small payments aside from the Arrigoni contract, $1,311.60, making a total cost of the contract under anticipated, $88,532.51. Eventually your town will receive three-quarters of $88,532.51, or $66,399.39.

Now with reference to the two items on the report on page 17 please note that the sum of $2,500 was paid to the state of Connecticut, representing the town's one-quarter of an allotment of $10,000, made to the town of Montville for the years 1923-25. This amount has been paid in full. The item of $1,261.60, represents two distinct payments. One in the amount of $1,064.54, representing various items paid by the state of Connecticut on the Arrigoni contract and later refunded by the town to the state.

This particular amount of $1,064.54 is included in the item of $1,311.60, which appears on the final certificate, a copy of which is in your files in the town of Montville. Subtracting the amount of $1,064.54 from $1,311.60 leaves an amount of $197.06. This covers repairs to road and wash outs, which your town has refunded. If you care for these in detail, we will secure them from Mr. Gorman, our supervisor of repairs in Norwich.

Now with reference to an appropriation for 1925-27 under special action taken by the commissioner, there is an amount of $10,000 set apart from a special appropriation which can be applied on your contract. That is, $7,500 can be drawn to the order of your town at once; $2,500 will be drawn and returned to the state treasurer. This representing the town's one-quarter of a total allotment of $10,000, which under the regular plan would be paid by your town, but under the anticipated appropriations plan is restored to the state treasurer.

If there is any other information you may need please let us know and we will supply everything possible.

Yours truly,
J. A. MACDONALD,
State Highway Commissioner.
Per C. G. Nichols.

From this letter it appears that the state of Connecticut will eventually refund to the town of Montville $66,399.39. Quoting from the 1928 town report, page 19: Notes on National Bank of Commerce for account on Raymond Hill road, $89,770.91. Subtracting the amount $66,399.39 from $89,770.91, leaves an amount of $23,370.52, for the town of Montville to pay plus interest charges, as the state pays no interest on anticipated appropriations. Soon after the receipt of the above letter the town of Montville received a refund of $7,500 from the state of Connecticut, Dec. 10, 1927 a refund of $5,250, making a total refund of $12,750.

YOUR INCOME TAX

The value to be cared for by depreciation is the cost of the property, if acquired by purchase after Feb. 28, 1913. If acquired by purchase prior to that date, the value basis is the cost of the property or its fair market value as of March 1, 1913, whichever is greater.

Depreciation of a home or property used for pleasure or convenience, such as an automobile, cannot be claimed.

Depreciation due to changes in the social or business conditions of a neighborhood, or changes in the street grade, or fluctuations of market value, cannot be claimed.

Depreciation of land, whether improved or unimproved, cannot be claimed.

When in the course of years the owner of property has claimed its cost as depreciation, no further claim can be allowed.

YOUR HEALTH

SERIOUS MENTAL DISEASES YIELDING TO CURE

By Walter Freeman, M. D., St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Paresis, or general paralysis of the insane, develops when the spirochete of syphilis attacks the brain. This may occur at any time from one to over thirty years after the initial infection, sometimes in spite of intensive anti-syphilis treatment. The tragedy of it is that the disease attacks people in the prime of life, people without any inborn tendency to insanity, who normally could look forward to many years of useful existence. Moreover, the erratic acts committed during the early stages render this the most treacherous disease known to the alienist.

The onset is insidious. The highest mental functions such as memory, self-control, judgment are lost first. Men forget or disregard obligations, speculate wildly, betray trusts. Far from realizing their shortcomings, they may even believe themselves extraordinarily clever and powerful. Men in responsible positions have wrecked solid companies, others, controlling locomotives, ships, switching operations, have endangered the lives of hundreds. Crimes of the grossest character have been perpetrated by respected citizens, their mental disease having gone unrecognized. The terminal stage of dementia may best be imagined.

Formerly a diagnosis of paresis spelled almost certain death, usually within two years. Although partial recovery sometimes took place under treatment, relapses were almost inevitable. Nearly 20 per cent of the deaths in mental hospitals are due to paresis.

Psychiatry's greatest advance in a century is the development by Prof. Wagner von Jauregg of a satisfactory treatment for paresis. In recognition of this he was recently awarded the Nobel prize in medicine. He was struck by the mental improvement in certain paretics who recovered from erysipelas or pneumonia. Believing that fever in some way killed the germs of syphilis, he inoculated patients with the germs of malaria, a disease that causes high fever, yet may be stopped at will with quinine. The results were so good that the malaria treatment was quickly adopted throughout the world.

St. Elizabeth's hospital was the first in this country to use malaria and has now treated over 400 patients. Many of those treated three, four and five years ago have been discharged from the hospital. A few resumed their previous occupations, others took up simpler work, some were already too demented to get along outside the hospital. Of the cases treated five years ago, 35 per cent are listed as social recoveries, and another 45 per cent as improved. These results are nothing short of amazing when compared with those obtained before malaria was used.

The brains in treated cases often show no active infection, but only the scars of previous inflammation. Thus the outlook on this previously incurable disease has been changed to one of hope and enthusiasm. Even better results are expected when treatment is begun earlier in the course of the disease before hospitalization becomes necessary.

"LENT AND MY HOME"

Memory Verse for Friday

"Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." (Galatians 6:2). (Read: Galatians 6:1 to 10).

MEDITATION: After all, the final testimony is the life. Whatever my words, my conduct reveals my mind and heart.

"The blessed gospel none can doubt, Revealed in holy lives."

What does my life say to the other members of my family? Am I constant in my effort to make life easier and sweeter for them? If I am impatient, ill-tempered, exacting in the service required of the others, censorious, resentful, uncharitable in my judgments, then I am unfaithful both to the laws of the home and to the law of Christ. For the sake of those I love and in obedience to the Master whom I serve, I must keep sweet and be unfailing in kindness.

PRAYER: Sanctify the ties that bind us to friends and kindred; and so fill us with love, gentleness and forbearance that we may live together in peace and joy. May we love Thee supremely and abide in Thy love, that we may be comforters and helpers one of another unto the end. Amen.

How The World Is Governed

By BATES RANEY
(Associated Press Feature Editor)

Prime Minister Heads Italy's Fascist Regime.

Italy today is ruled by a new government known as the Fascist Regime. It is a mixture of a parliamentary system somewhat different from the ones existing in other countries, and of a dictatorship of which Mussolini is now the dominant figure.

The prime minister of Italy today has far greater power than President-elect Hoover with assume in March, in spite of the fact that the fact that the American president is one of the most powerful heads of states in the world. But whereas the United States congress and the United State supreme court act as checks on the American president, the Italian prime minister—who is in fact a dictator—has virtually no check upon his official conduct, although theoretically parliament can vote against him and the king has the right of vetoing any bill of which he does not approve.

The whole structure planned by the Duce—as Mussolini is called—is based on 13 national confederations of Fascist trade unions and a certain number of associations recognized by the government, into which all the "producers" in the country have been organized. Through these bodies, which equally represent both capital and labor, the state controls the whole life of the nation.

The Fascist unions participate directly in the government of the country by selecting 800 candidates for the house of deputies to be submitted to the Fascist grand council, the supreme organ of the Fascist party to which parliament gave lately a legal and constitutional status. From this list of candidates and, if considered necessary, even outside of it, the grand council, which is already in full action, chooses 400 names which will form the Fascist ticket for the next general election, the first to be made under the new electoral law.

Otherwise the Fascist grand council, which comprises an average of 50 members, is the supreme advisory organ of the government and must be consulted on all questions of constitutional character, including some special problems which may arise in connection with the succession to the throne, the powers of the king and the royal prerogative, the composition and working of the grand council, of the senate and chamber of deputies. Also the powers and prerogatives of the prime minister, the rights of the executive authority to issues rules of law, the guild and corporative institutions, the relations between the state and the Roman Catholic church, and international treaties involving change in the territory of the state and the colonies, or the renunciation of the acquisition of territory.

The grand council is summoned to meet and its agenda is controlled by Prime Minister Mussolini. Members are not subject to arrest or imprisonment without permission of the council itself. No member of the council receives pay as such. All decisions of the council must be unanimous.

The Fascist grand council must draw up a list of names to be presented to the king to aid him in nominating the head of the government, that is to say, the prime minister, should that office become vacant.

The Fascist grand council has been in existence ever since immediately after the revolution of 1922, but only recently has it become an integral part of the government by law. This change, broadly speaking, reduces the unlimited and undivided power formerly held by the prime minister in that his dictatorship is no longer of semi-individual a character, because he will now share his responsibilities with a constitutional body. The government, however, does not depend in practice upon the grand council any more than it depends upon parliament," according to an official interpretation.

As a matter of fact, Italian governmental organization today is still in a state of flux. The legal basis of the Italian state is the constitutional monarchy of 1848 first set up for the Kingdom of Sardinia, which included Piedmont, but extended to all of Italy as unification was realized. Fascism has not been directed against this fabric, but rather has sought to create "a new directing intelligence."

The king of Italy today occupies much the same position in governmental affairs as the king of England, with the exception that in England the spotlight is on King George, whereas in Italy the prime minister occupies the spotlight.

Seville, City of Mantillas, Bullfights and Mellow Traditions

A Spanish city where shawls and mantillas are current fashions will greet Americans attending the International Exposition in March at Seville, Spain.

According to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society, "Seville, on the banks of the Guadalquivir river in southwestern Spain is the last large city in Spain to defy modernism by retaining the old customs and modes of living.

"During the day life in Seville centers in the main shopping streets, the Calle de Los Sierpes, or Street of Serpents," the bulletin continues. "Shops dispense fans, cigarettes and laces as well as practical necessaries. Cafes, lining the istreets, are filled with Sevillanos sipping chocolate, coffee or liquers and absorbed in dominoes. Occasional bronze skins, coupled with hawk noses and flashing eyes, betray citizens of Moorish descent.

"Seville of a Sunday or a feast day is particularly the Spanish city of tradition. Peasants from the countryside come into town in all their rustic finery. Brilliant silks vie with just as brilliant embroideries in the costumes of the women. The Sevillanos themselves are more restrained in their costumes. Some of the women display intricate coiffures, others have Parisian shingles, but all of them wear lace mantillas. Tourists discover that the women of Seville have not lost the art of wielding a fan provocatively.

"The most popular spot in Seville on such days is the arena, the Plaza de Toros. It is recorded that the first bullfight ever staged took place in Seville in 1405 in the Plaza del Triunfo, to celebrate the birth of a son to Henry II of Castile. Although bullfighting spread through Spain and parts of other European countries, Seville remains its home. The Sevillanos are its most ardent devotees. The toreadors are not the least colorful features of the spectacle. In their gay knickered and bolero costumes, with scarlet sashes, they make vivid figures in the arena.

"Triana, a suburb of Seville, across the Guadalquivir, is renowned for its potteries which show a decided Moorish influence. Baskets are made of reed and grass. The people of Triana are Gitanos, or gypsies, and their liverly suburb echoes as often to castanets as to the potter's wheel.

"While Seville, in common with other Continental cities has electricity, tramways, and automobiles, it is not so modernized as Madrid. English is practically confined to the hotel keepers and French is seldom heard.

"Among Seville's architectural attractions are the Cathedral, the Alcazar and the Giralda. The Cathedral, which is a huge example of modified Gothic, houses some of Murillo's paintings. The house of Al-Kasr, the Alcazar, a Moorish palace, suffers by comparison with the Alhambra at Granada. The Girralda, a bell tower of Moorish orgin, is Seville's most beautiful monument. At its base lies the Court of Oranges, where orange blossoms perfume the air and a fountain, erected by the Moors, still plays.

"Church festivals in Seville culminate at Easter, following the usual Holy Week observance. Visitors to the International Exposition will this year see this ancient festival, which dates from 1570. Beginning Palm Sunday there are processions every day until Good Friday. Holy Thursday night the procession passes during the entire night. From twenty-five to thirty brotherhoods participate. The members wear distinctive uniforms, many of them monklike habits designed in medieval times.

"Holy Week ends with solemn ceremonies in the Cathedral, Easter morning. Easter afternoon the Sevillanos top off the festival with a gala bullfight which is the classic of the season.

"How did it work?" the teacher asked.

"Good," was the reply.

License Numbers.

Bobbie was taken to church for the first time when the bishop was officiating. The child was greatly impressed by the dignitary's robes and in a loud whisper asked who that man was. He sat back and looked about the church. Presently his gaze was fastened on the hymn board. Again he leaned toward his mother and asked: "Are those the bishop's automobile license numbers?"

Sets Style

This lovely New York girl, now appearing in George White's famous "Scandals," has plenty of personality. Not only has she won Broadway's admiration by the cleverness of her acting and dancing, but she has literally "set the style" for Fifth Avenue by the way she dresses her hair.

"Girls in my position must do everything to keep their appearance pleasing," says Miss Manners. "But I lead such a busy life that I can only use the simplest methods. I know I have discovered the easiest way of doing my hair. It's so popular now here in New York. It keeps my hair so easily manageable that I can dress it any way I want and it stays in place wonderfully. All I do is put a little Danderine on my brush every time I use it. Mr hair was dull and wiry before I started using Danderine. Now it's so bright and sparkling and so soft and fluffy that everyone compliments me. Danderine soothes my scalp and keeps away all traces of dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so clean, I don't need to shampoo half as often as I used to."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from the hair; brings out its natural color; makes it fairly sparkle. It keeps your hair soft and easily manageable while you're letting it grow to the new length. It helps stop dandruff. It is delightfully fragranced; isn't oily; doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles. Over five million used a year.

DOMINOES INTRIGUE TEXAS LEGISLATORS

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Bridge may have its devotees, but to Texas legislators dominoes have more fascination than cards.

The click of domino "bones" always may be heard between meeting hours as veteran players gather in competition.

Many legislators would prefer to pitch horseshoes, but the state has made no provision or this game on the capitol grounds.

UNIFORM AVIATION LAW IS PROPOSED IN MAINE

AUGUSTA (AP)—With the prospect that aviation may be developed rapidly in Maine within the next few years, the legislature is considering a bill designed to provide for the licensing of aircraft and pilots.

The bill is drawn on lines approved by the American Bar association and the department of commerce.

Its purpose, proponents set forth, is to safeguard all who use the air for travel or pleasure and to avoid the confusion that has attended conflicting laws regulating automobile traffic in different states and communities.

Await U. S. Financing.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Wall street is expectantly awaiting the government's new short term financing for March 15, when about $57,000,000 in treasury certificates fall due. The government now is paying an average of about 4 per cent on its outstanding certificates. With bankers acceptances now quoted at 5 1-4 to 5 3-8 per cent, Wall street bankers fail to see how the government will be able to float its next short term loan at less than 5 per cent. Nearly $1,900,000,000 in certificates will mature during the year.

Colchester House Gutted By Fire This Morning

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, March 1—The J. J. Horwitz residence on South Main street, was badly gutted by fire early this morning. Louis T. Maples of Norwich discovered the fire while driving through here. The local fire department and Fire Chief Gilbert J. Murray responded to a call. On their arrival the flames had gained such headway that the interior was badly gutted and the north ell was burned to the ground. The firemen succeeded in saving the south ell and an adjoining house. Both buildings are owned by Isaac Horwitz. The loss is estimated at $4,000.

The burned building was a two family residence occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Horwitz and Mr. and Mrs. Max Glass. Mr. Horwitz's furniture was completely destroyed and the furniture in the Glass apartment was damaged by smoke and water.

BILL EXTENDS TO MARCH 9 TIME LIMIT FOR BOARD OF RELIEF

A bill extending to March 9th, the time limit for the board of relief to investigate the many appeals from the assessments made by the board of assessors and to prepare the abstract of taxable property will probably be passed by the state legislature either today (Friday) or next Tuesday under suspension of the rules.

Because of the numerous appeals before them the members of the board were unable to complete their work Thursday, which was the final day of the time limit allowed by state law.

The recent revaluation, in which the grand list was doubled, is the cause of the large number of appeals taken to the board of relief. The unusual situation confronting the board resulted in a trip to Hartford, Thursday by the board chairman, James C Fitzpatrick and Selectman William S. Murray for a conference with State Tax Commissioner William Blodgett.

An act extending the time within which the Board of Relief of Norwich may complete its duties.

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives in general assembly convened:

Section 1. The time within which the board of relief of the Town of Norwich may complete its duties and file in the office of the town clerk the abstract of said town is hereby extended to March 9, 1929, and the period within which any taxpayer may appeal from the doings of the board of relief on the list of October 1, 1928, is extended to a date not later than May 9, 1929.

Section 2. The provisions of this act shall apply only to the assessment of October 1, 1929.

Several members of the Manufacturers Appraisal Co. are busily engaged in aiding the board of relief in straightening out the appeals relative to re-checking, etc. It was said that the board of relief with the representatives of the appraisal company would continue working through Saturday and Sunday in an effort to have the rectified grand list of the town ready for Monday evening at which time an adjourned town meeting is scheduled for the purpose of laying the tax rate.

Mr. Donohue, one of the auditors employed by the tax commissioner, has been here the past several days and has examined the doings of the board of assessors and has persued the number of appeals taken, now on file in the board of relief office.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENTS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Fatal accidents are increasing about five times as fast as all other types of motor vehicle accidents, state motor vehicle department records show. Automobile collisions of all kinds increased less than 8 per cent. in the calendar year 1928, while fatalities advanced more than 17 per cent.

Both pedestrians and car occupants suffered heavy casualties. Although more pedestrians were killed, the rate of increase for the year was about the same for the two groups. There were 254 pedestrians killed, or 60 more than in 1927, and 212 car occupants, an increase of 51, representing an approximate 30 per cent. increase for each type.

There was a slightly lower increase in the number of child pedestrians killed last year than for several years past. As an offset, however, there was a 34 per cent. increase in the number of adult pedestrians killed, a rate greater than at any time for five years. The children killed included 30 girls and 74 boys.

Besides the loss of life the result of these fatal accidents was injury to 11 pedestrians and 183 occupants and property damage of more than $43,000. There were 92 accidents which resulted in damage of more than $100, and the others caused property loss of from $10 to $100.

Of the 419 accidents, 252 occurred when road surfaces were considered "good," 174 were on straight-aways or clear courses, 253 were in clear weather and 192 during the daylight hours. Collisions at intersections resulted in 118 fatalities. Fourty-four accidents were on hills, 29 at curves and 10 at railroad grade crossings.

It has been determined by the department that the drivers of 184 cars involved were on pleasure trips when the fatalities occurred. About 150 cars were being used for business purposes. Descriptions of all cars involved reveal that 355 were private passenger vehicles, 34 were commercial types, five were jitneys, six taxicabs and three being used by dealers. There were 21 motorcycles involved. Approximately one-third, or 191, were owned in the towns where the accidents occurred; 215 were out of town cars, and 59 were from other states.

There were 97 of these accodents when road surfaces were described as wet, icy, oily, rough, muddy or sandy. Sixty-seven occurred in stormy weather and 210 happened at night.

Men were involved much more frequently, as drivers, than women. Of the 468 operators, 410 were men. There were 212 car owners involved, three part owners, 113 friends of owners, 67 employes and two lessees. Responsibility for fatalities according to the ages of drivers was about equally divided among the various age groups considering the number in each classification licensed to drive. Twelve drivers were from 16 to 18 years old; 41 from 18 to 20; 166 from 20 to 30; 108 from 30 to 40; 57 from 40 to 50; 32 from 50 to 60; and 12 over 60. There were two drivers more than 70 years old.

Experience, apparently, had little to do with the results. There were ten drivers with less than six months' experience; 14 with less than a year; 127 with from one to five years; 56 with from 5 to 10 years, and 71 with more than 10 years.

Liability insurance was carried by the owners of 215 cars and there was no insurance on 107 cars. There were 108 cars with four-wheel brakes involved and 183 with two-wheel brakes. Parked cars contributed to 28 accidents. The records show that in 65 cases it was auto against auto; 240 auto against pedestrian; 30 auto against trolley or train; nine auto against bicycle; three auto against team or animal; 39 auto against stationary object. Thirty-two accidents were described as no collision accidents.

A wealth of "causes" of these accidents are given in reports to the department. So far as operators were concerned 12 were intoxicated; 45 were driving too fast for conditions; seven passed standing trolleys; one passed on a curve; one passed on the wrong side; two improperly parked their cars; four failed to grant right of way; 95 were inattentive; one became confused; 14 allowed their cars to skid; three were inexperienced; and five operated on the wrong side of the road.

Regarding pedestrians: Thirteen were intoxicated; 16 were confused; 94 crossed street inattentively; 23 stepped from behind objects before looking; seven children were playing in the street, two were coasting and one tried to steal a ride.

A long list of contributing causes included: Trolleys, bicyclists, teams, flagmen, glaring headlights, insufficient lights, poor brakes, ineffective steering gears, blowouts, obscured visions, weather conditions and unprotected railroad crossings.

WOULD REDUCE MINIMUM FINE FOR DRY LAW CRIMES

MONTPELIER, Vt., Feb. 28—(AP)—A bill reducing the minimum fine for a violation of the liquor law to $50 instead of $300 was reported into the senate today by the committee on temperance.

Another bill, reported by the committee on highways and bridges, would authorize the state highway board to take over all state aid highways and establish a state-owned highway system. The bill provides that towns shall be assessed an amount to be determined by multiplying the grand list by the mileage of the highways of the town taken over, but in no case must the assessment exceed $800 a mile. The money shall go to the highway funds.

DISTRICT GOVERNOR HEWLETT VISITS LOCAL LIONS CLUB

The Norwich Lions club entertained the club members in the 23rd district, comprising Connecticut and Rhode Island, at the weekly luncheon meeting Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel with the president, Kopland K. Markoff presiding. Besides the delegates from the district clubs there were representatives from White Plains, N. Y., and New York city. The meeting was opened with the singing of America and the blessing was asked by Louis M. Crandall, who also acted as song leader. The music during the dinner hour was furnished by the Colonial orchestra, Herbert E. Rich, directing.

President Markoff welcomed the gathering and then turned the meeting over to District Governor William Hewlett, who, after greeting the local Lions, gave a brief report of the achievements and activities of the 23rd district. In his remarks he announced that six new clubs are being formed, after which he introduced Nelson Alexander, past district governor, as the first speaker. Mr. Alexander congratulated the Lions upon the interest shown in civic and patriotic activities in the district and commended the activities of the present governor. Other speakers included Philip Jacobs of Norwalk, past district governor, and Frank Martin and honored guests comprised Andrew Comstock of Providence, district secretary and treasurer, G. Loring Burwell of Waterbury, deputy governor of the district, and Frank Martin of White Plains.

The main speaker was Earl Hodges of New York, vice president of the Lions International who was introduced as one of the men responsible for the enthusiasm in Lionism. Mr. Hodges began his speech by saying that he came to Norwich against the advice of his physician but that he considered his promise to be present at a convention held in this city of such a prominent nature that he came here at risk and sacrifice. Mr. Hodges in a very eloquent address began by giving high praise to the enthusiasm and achievements of the 23rd Lions district. The speaker stressed that although this particular district was somewhat away from the central stronghold of Lionism in the United States, nevertheless Connecticut and Rhode Island had made a great contribution to the spirit of Lionism which means an interest in the betterment of the citizens of the communities where such clubs are located.

The Lions gave the speaker a tremendous ovation and on motion made by Lion Rogers of Hartford, seconded by Director W. D. Canfield of New Haven, Vice President Hodges was invited to be the main speaker at the New Haven convention to be held on May 21-26. The motion was carried by a rising vote. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

SCOUT CAMPAIGN WORKERS HAVE RAISED $1,800 TO DATE

The drive of the Norwich council of Boy Scouts to raise $6,575, as the minimum sum needed to carry on the activities of the Boy Scouts in Norwich during the current year was launched this week. The amount raised to date is about $1,800, and the organization hopes that the citizens of Norwich and vicinity will make generous contributions to raise the fund. Charles Coit, president of the Boy Scout council, said Thursday: "The people of Norwich, after many years of strenuous effort, have built up a very commendable scout organization and now the Norwich council of Boy Scouts looks to the public enthusiasm and interest for the continuation of its further support in order to maintain the scout activities in Norwich. All people who are acquainted with the scope of scouting in the United States have a vivid idea of the character building which the organization does to the boys of America. They also know that no other organization does or can prepare the boy for his future responsibilities to his relatives, to his community and to his nation as the Boy Scout movement does.

"Scouting gives the boy a training which brings out the best that is in him and makes him more efficient in any and all of his future endeavors. It implants in him a foundation of self-reliance and an unselfish desire for cooperation with his fellow citizens and an inclination to render a good turn every day. Scouting is the hope of the American citizen of tomorrow. Time goes fast and these young boys will very soon be the ones on whom America will have to rely for its future glory.

"Upon such achievement the scout organization comes with a just and deserving plea before the people of our city irrespective of their interests, to contribute something for the character building of our local boys. Every man and woman interested in the future character of the boys of Norwich has the privilege of helping this fine communal effort.

"With the many local drives falling upon the shoulders of a small number of civic workers in Norwich who are ever bent heart and soul to maintain the great values which make our city a place worth while to live in, the scout organization finds great difficulty in securing a large organization to put the Boy Scout claim for support to a considerable number of our people. However, if scouting is to be continued in Norwich and no doubt our citizens desire that it be continued, the scout organization very urgently puts its plea before the citizens and asks them to send in their contribution, no matter how small, to the scout office, Shannon building—even though they are not seen by a personal solicitor. It is the small contributions by the largest number of people interested in this worthy local organization that will make possible the continuation of the scout activities in Norwich.

"To the citizen who knows what Norwich is doing for the boys of our city through the medium of the scout organization, the Boy Scouts need not be commended for efficiency and service. As president of the scout organization, I am proud of our Boy Scouts. They are in evidence in every civic, patriotic and communal activity in Norwich and they always acquit themselves with a credit and dignity which we are proud of. Our Boy Scouts always receive generous recognition from our local press, which is alive to the character building part of scouting in behalf of Norwich boys, and the manner in which our boys do credit to the scout oath and reciprocate the kind public support. I am sure that there are a great number of people in our city who feel likewise towards the scout organization and that a majority of our people are in favor of its propagation as one of the great values which Norwich is always glad to support."

The campaign has been endorsed by a number of prominent citizens of the city. Among those who have endorsed the Boy Scout movement are:

Hon. Allyn L. Brown, judge of the superior court—My general knowledge of the work of the organization and my personal contact with individual Boy Scouts, on numerous occasions makes it a very pleasant "good turn" to commend them highly as deserving the generous support of the people of Norwich.

Nathan A. Gibbs, vice president and cashier, Thames National Bank—Scouting is a kind of education that develops the boy's habits of observation; sharpens his reasoning powers and increases his resourcefulness. It makes him thoughtful of others. It is considered by educators as the finest supplement to the school training that has ever been found.

Joseph C. Worth, president, Norwich chamber of commerce—No national movement was ever started which has been of greater importance than the Boy Scout movement. This organization should receive the support of every man and woman interested in the welfare of our nation.

Alexander H. Abbott, pastor, United Congregational church—It is a pleasure to express my approval of the Boy Scout organization. One needs only to read the Boy Scout oath to know that the organization is performing a great service for our country. If all us grown-ups could live up to the pledge of the Boy Scouts doing at least one kind deed every day, this world would be full of sunshine. It should be a pleasure for the community to supply the Boy Scouts of Norwich with everything needful.

Arthur M. Brown, state's attorney, New London county—Scouting teaches the boy of today, who will be the man of tomorrow, not only to be good, which is comparatively easy, but to do good, which is comparatively difficult. Hence, its irresistible appeal to all right-minded citizens.

Walter F. Lester, chairman town school board—The Boy Scout training supplements the training the boy receives in the home, the church and the school, and provides a leisure time program for the boy which I regard as an ideal mode of citizenship development and character construction.

E. W. Jewett, president Norwich Rotary club—The American boy is this nation's greatest asset. Regardless of race, creed or station in life, the Boy Scout program appeals to the boy and deserves the generous support of all patriotic citizens.

Marion Lee Bishop, president Women's City club—If every boy in the United States were a Scout there would be few, if any, gangsters or gunmen twenty years from now. I wish the movement Godspeed and trust that it may spread according to its deserts, which are manifold.

NORWICH AUTOMOBILE SHOW OPENED THURSDAY EVENING

With a splendid display of the latest models, the Norwich Automobile show opened Thursday evening at the Norwich armory. The attendance was close to 400, despite the unfavorable weather. In addition to the automobiles there is a display of automobile accessories, radios, electrical appliances for the home and other worth-while exhibits.

The show, which is being held under the auspices of Battery B, 192nd Field Artillery, and First Battalion Headquarters battery, is among the best ever held in Norwich. Ten dealers are showing 30 automobiles representing 12 makes, with the latest features in the automotive world. The exhibition of electrical appliances, radios, automobile accessories, etc., is the las word in that line. There is also a sea sled and machine gun on display.

The arrangement of the exhibits in the drill shed and the decorations about the hall is artistically and gracefully carried out. In the center and south side are the latest in automobiles, while the north side is devoted to the other exhibits, all of which are set up amid decorations of palms, and trimmings, settees, sofas, etc. Two large aisles run the length of the armory and are beautified by a lattice arrangement. The overhead decorations include a large basket of flowers suspended from the ceiling to which is attached vari-colored streamers running to the sides of the hall, making a very pretty effect. The lighting effects are most attractive.

As the opening night was designated as military night, the musical programme was presented by the regimental band of the 192nd Field Artillery of New London. Among the officers from the 192nd Field Artillery staff present were Maj. Otto H. Schroeter, Lieut. William B. Rogers, Lieut. William E. Babcock, Lieut. Ralph E. Wadleigh, all of New London.

T. N. M. Lathrop of Norwich and New London is showing the Studebakers, having on exhibit four models, including the President 8-cylinder brougham, the Commander 8-cylinder brougham, Commander 8-cylinder sedan, regular, and the Commander 6-cylinder sedan, regular. The booth is in charge of C. D. McKinnon, J. V. Bush and F. A. Rogers.

The A. C. Swan Co. has on exhibition three machines, representing two makes, Cadillac and LaSalle. They are the Cadillac two-passenger coupe, LaSalle convertible coupe and the Cadillac five-passenger sedan. Ellsworth Williams and A. C. Heber are in charge of the booth.

The Chevrolet is being displayed by the Dix Chevrolet Co., having two machines, the convertible landau and the coach. L. E. Dix, Alfred Heneault and Gerald Brassil are at this booth.

Three Packards are shown by E. B. Patterson, Inc., these being the 633 roadster 626 sedan and 640 sedan. Those in charge at this display are E. B. Patterson and Miss Mary E. Jerman.

The exhibit of Fords is by O. C. Wolfe, Inc., the models being the sedan, roadster, touring and coupe. The machine is explained by Floyd Monroe and E. J. Tefft, Jr.

An especially interesting exhibit is that of the Eastern Connecticut Motor Sales, Inc., which is showing four machines of two makes. These are the Pontiac sport cabriolet coupe, Pontiac four-door sedan, the special Oakland All-American four-door sedan and the Oakland sedan with wire wheels. The cabriolet is mounted on an electric turntable, which enables the prospective customer to view its exterior features without moving. This exhibit is in charge of Robert Pelerin, manager; Jack Sadinsky, Herbert Campbell and Francis Sullivan.

The Jordan Auto Co. of Norwich and Willimantic is displaying the Dodge, the models being the senior six sport model and the 6-cylinder sport model. The booth is in charge of Arthur B. Small.

A New London dealer, C. E. Beach, has on display the Marmon coupe and the Marmon sedan, with L. F. Tourtelotte in charge of the exhibit.

Two Huppmobile machines are being shown by Joe Moore's garage, the models being the 8-cylinder two-passenger cabriolet with rumble seat and the sport roadster, 8-cylinder, with wire wheels and custom built. Otho Chase and C. G. Cobb are in charge of this display.

Other exhibits include the following:

The Goldberg Rubber Tire Co. has on display Firestone tires and National batteries. Dave Goldberg is in charge of this exhibit.

Carl W. Brown, Inc., shows the new small Frigidaire, the complete porcelain Frigidaire, both equipped with new cold control, and the water cooler Frigidaire, all in operation. This booth is in charge of Jacob Gallup, Jr., Thomas McVeigh and Carl W. Brown.

At another booth, the Radio Salon, Inc., John H. Ferguson, the jeweler, has on exhibition the Philco, Bosch and Sonora radios. Henry iRecoit is in charge of the display.

An exhibit, which is attracting considerable attention, is that of E. D. Steele, Inc., of New London, which is showing the Sea Sled, 1929 model, model 13, fully equipped. There are also screen pictures showing the actual operation of the sled. The booth is in charge of A. H. Gebrath, J. L. Chapman, W. R. Greene and William E. Mitchell.

The General Electric refrigerator and Ruud water heaters are being displayed by the Norwich Gas and Electric department. The interior of the refrigerator contains a neat display of food. Earl Taggart of this city and W. S. Downes of the Ruud Manufacturing Co., Pittsburgh, are in charge of the booth.

W. H. Nelson has on exhibition the Bosch, Philco, Balkite and Steinite radios featuring the dynamic speakers. Those in charge of the display are Mr. Nelson and George Madden.

Two vacuum cleaners are being displayed by G. H. Harris. The cleaner is equipped with a sanitary bag, waxes and polishes floors and eliminates moths from the home. Mr. Harris is in charge of the display.

The Maytag store, C. M. Sharpe, prop., is showing Maytag washing machines and the booth is in charge of George Finley and Harold Randall. He is displaying a new model with the latest style wringer.

A display of automobile accessories is being exhibited by the Williams Tire & Supply Co. and includes Simplex rings, Overman tires, cushions and pneumatics, Steel Coat paint and Rusco brake lining. The exhibit is in charge of C. B. Gilbert and Neil McGibney.

A Browning machine gun of the heavy type, model of 1917, is on exhibition and its operation is being explained by Sergt. Edward L. Bonin.

The show is to be continued tonight (Friday) and Saturday afternoon and evening. Friday is designated as civic organization night, when the Duwell club will be guests of the Battery and First Battalion, this invitation having been extended to the club in appreciation of their many services. The directors and campaign committee of the Norwich chamber of commerce have also been invited to attend. The music will be by the Colonial orchestra, Herbert E. Rich, formerly with the Baltimore Symphony orchestra.

Saturday has been designated Suburban Day night and a large gathering from the surrounding towns is expected to attend the closing night of the show.

SAYS EDUCATION IS STATE RESPONSIBILITY

Education is fundamentally a responsibility of the state and not the municipality, but it would be most unfortunate if schools were to be supported to any large extent by the state treasury, declared Dr. Albert B. Meredith, state commissioner of education, in addressing the legislature's farmers' organization at the capitol recently.

He was explaining the state board of education's plan for redistribution of state aid for schools, urging towns to expend 34 per cent. of their tax rate to increase its financial aid to the extent that it would meet 27 per cent. of the educational burden. The board's plan, as provided for in a bill before the legislature, would afford for every child in the state a minimum educational opportunity as represented by an expenditure of $70 per year per each pupil in average daily attendance.

Various legislators at the meeting expressed the opinion that seldom has there been presented to the general assembly a bill drawn after so much careful study and that few bills have more far-reaching effect upon the towns of Connecticut and the welfare of the state.

Discussing the transportation of high school children, Dr. Meredith said he believed a town was not necessarily compelled to furnish doorstep service to its children in taking them to and from school.

There should be some state aid for transportation of school children in the small towns, said the commissioner, but how this should be apportioned demands a careful study.

In speaking of education in rural communities, Dr. Meredith stood behind the one-teacher school. There is no reason, he said, why the one-teacher school should not be an admirable school, "provided you can get a trained teacher, keep her long enough to make her known and influential in the community, and provide proper teaching materials."

In regard to the high school situation in the state, he believed the whole scheme of secondary education must be worked out in the state as a whole, on a state-wide plan, regardless of tradition and prejudices, to provide a more economic and equitable high school system of education.

DANIELSON TOWNERS FACE TOUGH BATTLE WITH MARLBORO BEARS TONIGHT

The Probable Lineups

Marlboro Bears		Danielson Town Team
Kasper	rf	Armington
Brusso	lf	Kiley
Bernot	c	Williams
Tisdell	rg	Morley
Benoit	lg	Godreau

Followers of the Danielson Town team and lovers of fast basketball will fill the Danielson town hall tonight when the Danielson Towners clash with the fast Marlboro Bears, of Marlboro, Mass. A glance at the lineup for the Bears will convince one that the game is practically one with the Plainfield Pros with the exception of Dissinger. Kasper, Brusso, Benot and Tisdell are all members of the Plainfield Pros and a victory over this outfit for Danielson will give the fans some inkling as to the relative strength of Plainfield and the Towners. A series between Danielson and Plainfield is in the works and this game is a warm-up for Danielson.

Last week Danielson polished off the Norton A. C., of Worcester, which included three of the Plainfield Pros, Kasper, Brusso and Bernot. The Towners are going along at a great clip and it takes a very fast team to set them down. Tonight's game is bound to create plenty of interest in the eastern part of the state and a capacity audience is expected.

Danielson, not to be caught napping, has secured the services of Kiley and Fiddle Morley, of the Boston Whirlwinds, which will add great strength to the Towners' combination. Gallun, who has starred all season for the Towners, is out of the game with an injury and Kiley will take his place at forward. Adams, the youthful sensation, will be held in reserve as will Poirier, who is a very dependable guard. It is expected that both will see action tonight.

The Towners have been hard at work developing their game for this tilt. With the plays being centered about Pop Williams, the Towners are functioning smoothly and have developed a fast attack. Attention has been paid to guard work as it is realized that the forward line of the Bears is exceptionally fast and must be carefully watched. The Towners are confident of giving the Marlboro Bears one of the stiffest games of their schedule.

The Bears come to Danielson with a glowing record of wins over Plymouth and the Boston Whirlwinds and have played all the strong teams in New England.

The game starts at 8:30 and a fast preliminary is scheduled as an opening attraction.

GARDEN CORP. TO PUT ON BOUT AT MIAMI EACH YEAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—William F. Carey late today signed a contract with the Miami city commissioners to hold one major prize fight here each year for a period of five years.

Carey gave Miami the wooden bowl that houses last night's Stribling-Sharkey fight in Flamingo park, Miami Beach, on the condition that the City of Miami pay for moving the wooden structure to Miami before next winter.

The arena will be moved within a short time at a cost of approximately $10,000 and will be stored in sections until fall, when it will be re-erected in time to hold football games within its area.

William F. Carey announced today that Jack Dempsey will receive approximately $25,000 for his promotion of the battle last night. Dempsey's contract with Madison Square Garden called for a 25 per cent cut of the net profit, which ran in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Dempsey's connection with the Garden ceases for the time being at least, upon his receipt of the check for his share of the profit, Carey said, since the Garden has no further arrangements with him.

Although Dempsey said he had no plans for the future as yet Carey was assured that if the former champion ever fights again it will be under the auspices of the Garden.

Carey also announced that the Garden has Sharkey under contract for only one more fight this, it was indicated today, may be a conflict with Paulino Uzcudun in New York in June.

WEISMAN PAYS TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF TOOLE

WATERBURY, Feb. 28—(AP)—President Herman J. Weisman, of the Eastern league was grieved to learn today of the death of John Conway Toole, president of the International Baseball league. President Weisman said:

"The death of John Conway Toole comes as a great shock to me. On account of the proximity of our residences, I have been constantly in contact with him on baseball matters and I have found him a most sagacious and brilliant exponent on baseball problems. He has been largely instrumental in shaping the course and destiny of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. He was a brilliant and learned lawyer and held a very high position at the bar in New York city where he actively practiced."

BARBUTI IS SUSPENDED FOR CRITICIZING A. A. U.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400 metre champion, was suspended indefinitely today by the registration committee of the Metropolitan association of the amateur athletic union. The action was taken as a result of published statements credited to Barbuti, criticizing the A. A. U. and its policies.

The committee's announcement said simply that Barbuti was declared "suspended from further amateur competition until such time as he proves or retracts the statements credited to him."

Since the burly sprinter, developed at Syracuse university, announced yesterday that his running career was over the chances are that the suspension will be the first and last acts of this latest controversy.

Along with other star track and field performers, Barbuti had been called on the carpet by the registration committee last night to explain why he failed to start in the Buermeyer 500-yards at the New York A. C. games.

It was while Barbuti was cooling his heels in an outer office at A. A. U. headquarters while the committee was in session that he is supposed to have delivered the outburst that led to his suspension.

According to published reports, Barbuti, angry over being summoned to explain his failure to run at the New York A. C. games, launched into what appeared to be an extemporaneous attack on A. A. U. policies while he was waiting for the committee's verdict on his own particular case, last night.

After saying he thought the organization "nervy" to call him to the mat, Barbuti was quoted as saying that he and other athletes had been lining the pockets of the A. A. U. and its affiliated clubs for years and that the organization expects athletes to sacrifice their business for the $200 or $300 in expenses the performers receive. He was quoted as declaring that the term "amateur" as applied to track and field athletics was a misnomer.

"I'm through with that gang of four flushers for ever," he was quoted by one newsmaker. "I inquired of the leading athletic stars of today and not one of them is making a decent living in business. The A. A. U. and the clubs do not sell insurance for me. I don't owe them anything and I can't afford to sacrifice my future for what they wou'd pay me. I'm done with them. I never shall pull on a running shoe again, either in indoor or outdoor competition."

Subsequently the committee unaware of this blast, came out of their huddle and cleared Barbuti of any violation of A. A. U. regulations in neglecting to appear at the New York A. C. games. Other star athletes, such as Nurmi, Cuhel, Quinn, Baskin, Luttman, Tierney and Hussey were not so lucky.

MCLARNIN HAVING TOUGH TIME MAKING 138 LBS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, Pacific coast slugger who meets Joe Glick in a ten round match in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, is worrying more about his weight that he is about Glick.

McLarnin, having outgrown the lightweight division, signed to meet Glick at 138 pounds but he is finding more than a little difficulty even in making that figure.

Jimmy had to get back to work today because he found he was two pounds over the stipulated weight. He won't have any trouble making 138 pounds by weighing in time tomorrow afternoon but this constant battle with Old Man Avoirdupois has had its effect on his temper.

The chances are that after this bout McLarnin will campaign exclusively among the welterweights.

Glick, a legitimate lightweight, has had no troubles with regard to the weight question, his cares won't start until he clambers into the ring tomorrow night. The Williamsburg Panis Presser, who dropped a close decision to McLarnin in a recent Garden battle, was on the short end of considerable 8 to 5 and 2 to 1 betting tonight.

Two other tens are on the card. In the semi-final Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, tackles Jackie Pilkington, of New York. Lope Tenorio, of the Philippines, and Stanislaus Loayza, of Chile, meet in the first ten-rounder.

AMERICAN GOLFERS WIN TROPHY FOR HAMILTON

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 28—(AP)—Six American golfers representing the Hamilton hotel won the Hiram Walker Gooderham and Wortz team trophy at the Belmont Manor club today. They scored a low total for the 36 holes of 940. The Riddells Bay team was second with a 944 total. Invernurie, Belmont Manor and Bermudiana took the three other places in order with totals of 954, 965, and 966.

William Tierney of the Troy Country club, Troy, N. Y., had the low total of 146 and the best round of 70. The other members of the winning team were P. C. Ford, Toy, Rodney Stinchcliffe, Providence, R. I., James Alexander, Short Hills, N. J., and Joseph Rustle and Glenwood Sherrard, Boston.

AGGIES HAVE REST BEFORE PREPARING FOR R. I. AGGIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 28—Coach Alexander gave his squad a day of rest here today after the fast game with Springfield on Wednesday. The absence of Ryan from the lineup, and with Schildgen in poor shape, the Aggies were at a handicap from the start. Darrow continued his good work at the forward position, and was easily the star of the Aggies offensive attack.

The last game of the year will be played on Saturday with Rhode Island. In the last game between the two teams, the Rhody team was victorious by the slim margin of five points, the game being played at Kingston. The Rhode Island and Connecticut teams have yet to be beaten by any of the New England Conference teams. Connecticut has defeated the University of New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, Mass. Aggies, and a defeat handed to the Clam staters would give them the Conference championship. The Rhody aggregation has yet to lose a contest this season, having a ecord of twelve straight wins at the hands of teams which include Northeastern, twice, Coast Guard, and Lowell textile. The Keaneymen have four veterans as the nucleus of the starting five and these men have played together for four years.

Ryan, the star Aggie forward was released from the infirmary here today. As the Rhody game is the objective game of the season, Alexander thought it would be best to let him remain at ease without taking any chances on his being out of the Saturday game.

The Frosh tackle the Rhody yearlings in the first contest of the evening. The Connecticut boys easily defeated them on the strange floor and should repeat here. Bitgood will start workouts with the varsity on Friday for the last engagement of the indoor season.

AGGIE MARKSMEN ARE HAVING GOOD SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 28—The Connecticut Aggie rifle team, one of the major sports at the college is enjoying one of the most successful years it has had since its inauguration at Storrs. The team this year has made an exceptional record firing telegraphic matches with most of the large universities in the United States. Last week five matches were fired, the Aggie team defeating the University of Alabama, University of Nevada and DePaw university, firing a score of 1794 out of a possible 2,000. The team lost to the University of Texas and tied with Gettysburg.

Friday night the team will meet the 169th infantry, Connecticut National Guard in a shoulder-to-shoulder match in Hawley armory at Storrs. This will be the second shoulder-to-shoulder match of the season, as last Saturday the team placed fourteenth out of twenty-eighth in the statewide shoot held in Hartford last Saturday.

RYAN HAS UNIQUE RECORD WITH AGGIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Feb. 28—The commencement of Ray Ryan to his bed during the annual Springfield game, broke a unique record for the Connecticut Aggie all around athlete, who has participated in the three major sports since entering the institution. Up to the game with the Physical Directors, Ryan had missed but two games as an Aggie athlete. These two were in the fall of his freshman year when he received a temporary injury, missing his chance in the starting lineup. Throughout the next two seasons, of varsity competition he had not missed being in the team that started for the Aggies.

The record of Ryan's includes sixty consecutive contests stretched out over the years 1926-1929. In the winter of 1927 Ryan participated in ten basketball games.

OYSTER EATING BOUT RESULTS IN A DRAW

Whether oyster-eating contests come under the classification of sports or not is a question for debate but as it was our privilege to witness one last night we will record it on this page. The contest took place in a local restaurant and was between two Jewett City young men with a third member of that community acting in the capacity of referee. Discussion as to the merits of oysters on the half-shell compared to little neck clams led to K. O. Rainey and Slim Dewire laying wagers that one could out-eat the other. George Tormey, the third member of the trio was named referee.

Two orders of half a dozen oysters each were brought on and soon disappeared. The order was repeated and then the third order placed. The contestants were going strong, neither weakening in the least. Three more orders were brought before the contestants and these disappeared the same way as the others. Each at this time had consumed 36 oysters each and were still clamoring for more when the bout suddenly terminated with the announcement that the restaurant had no more oysters. There was absolutely nothing for Referee Tormey to do but to declare the bout a draw. A return engagement is scheduled for Jewett City within the next few weeks if the contestants survive.

O'BRIEN KAYOES AEGERS IN THE THIRD ROUND

HARTFORD, Feb. 28—(AP)—The Hartford middleweight, Frankie O'Brien, won on a technical knockout in the third round over Billy Algers, of Phoenix, Ariz., in the feature bout scheduled for ten rounds at Foot Guard hall tonight.

In the semi-final bout Nick Christy, Bristol, 128 1-, won a six round decision over Johnny Andrews, New Haven, 131.

Results of other bouts:

Mike Cavilier, Bristol, 125 1-2, knocked out Pete Orsillino, Springfield, 123 1-2, in the second round of a four round bout.

Mickey Flahave, Atlanta, Ga., 135, won a six round decision over Mickey Williams, Montpelier, Vt., 142.

Ray Sonborn, Hartford, 169 1-2, knocked out Jimmy Burton, New Haven, 175, in the first round of a scheduled six round bout.

HALL REACHES SEMI-FINALS IN BERMUDA TOURNEY

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 28—(AP)—J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., holder of the Canadian tennis championship, gave a brilliant display of tennis today to reach the semi-final round of the Bermuda tennis championship today. Playing an almost flawless game, he defeated Henry F. Guild of Boston, 6-1, 6-1.

Dean Mathey of New York and Dr. Jack Wright of Montreal and Herbert L. Bowman of New York, also reached the semi-final round. May they defeated W. Warland of Boston, 6-4, 6-2; Wright defeated Fillmore K. Hyde of New York, 6-3, 6-2, and Bowman defeated Edgar Dawson of New York, 6-1, 6-2.

In the semi-finals of the ladies' singles, Penelope Anderson of Richmond, doubles partner of Helen Wills, defeated Margaret Blake of Boston, 6-4, 7-5, and Miss M. J. Harland, of Yorkshire, England, defeated Gladys Hutchins of Bermuda, 6-2, 11-9.

ACADEMY WINS FROM MENTORS FIVE IN OVERTIME ENCOUNTER

Playing heads-up basketball, the Academy gained the decision over the Eastern Connecticut Coaches five, Thursday night at the Y gym by 50 to 48 after two overtime periods of scintillating work. It was one of the most interesting games of the year with the Wildcats displaying a marked improvement over previous starts this year. This victory served to raise the stock of the schoolboys somewhat for the opening game of their city title series tomorrow night with the Y Seniors at the Y.

Berghinzo Again Leader.

The entire Academy squad saw action during the contest, and all but two broke into the scoring column. Chet Berghinzo, at center, again led the Red and White in scoring, this time with 15 points. Henschel and Stevens, first string forwards, each had 12 points. Demarest was high scorer for the losers with 18 points and all five players on the Coaches contributed to their total score.

Wildcats Lead at Half Time.

The Academy was in the lead by 20 to 29 at half time but the mentors rallied after intermission and had the lead late in the final period only to go behind and then tie it up and have to battle through the two extra periods.

There was but a small crowd on hand for one of the best games of the season. Saturday night, for the big game, however, a packed gallery is expected. Summary:

BOUT AT MIAMI FAR EXCEEDED THE EXPECTATIONS OF DEMPSEY AND CARY

By Edward J. Neil
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28—(AP)—The fistic cavalcade is moving northward again after its successful sojurn in the southern sunshine, with spoils beyond the fondest expectations for all the principals involved.

Of the total gate receipts of $405,940 garnered from Jack Sharkey's conquest of Young Stribling, the Madison Square Garden corporation had a net profit of about $80,000. The Boston tar carried away a check for $100,000. Jack Dempsey, the promoter, was approximately $25,000 richer and the loser, Stribling, had $63,549.31 worth of balm for his minor hurts. It was the Georgian's biggest purse. Even the American Legion post here netted $5,000 for its part in making the battle a success.

These figures surpassed the hopes of Dempsey and William F. Carey, vice president of the Garden and head man in this picture of fisticuffs blended into a background of palms, sea breezes, luxury and high society. The traveling fistic circus from the north came south a month ago to pick up the task Tex Rickard left in death with little hope of less than a $100,000 loss on the venture. Now it seems that the Garden will recurn each winter for five years to stage a spectacle in Miami, rival city across Biscayane bay. Carey signed a contract with the city fathers today.

Sharkey without a scratch to show for his close victory, was on his way back to Boston with his party while Dempsey and Carey jubilantly made their plans for the future and Stribling, with greatly increased prestige, prepared a campaign to climb the heavyweight ladder all over again.

While the actual fight picture saw Sharkey one full step farther along the road to the heavyweight crown Gene Tunney tossed aside, it also left a prominent place for the southern youth who never before had clashed with a top notch contended in amassing a string of 105 knockouts. The Striblings, "Pa", "Ma" and "W. L" plan a trip to Europe on another barnstorming tour with a return "shot" at Sharkey the goal of the late summer.

The New England sailor probably will make his next stage against Paulina Uzcudun, the rugged oak from the Spanish Basque country, in New York in June. Under his contract with Madison Square Garden, Sharkey must battle once more against any opponent Carey may name. There is a possibility that Max Schmelling, the hefty hitting German, may accept the nomination if he returns from a trip home in time to settle his contractual difficulties with his managers.

But with all these arrangements, the climax battle of the heavyweights this year was still a matter of speculation. The plans of Jack Dempsey are still in doubt. With the betting about even that the old Manassa mauler would decide to seek future success as "a big leaguq" promoter rather than a fighter, it seemed possible Schmelling would be saved for the winner of the Paulino-Sharkey match late in the summer. Dempsey has assured Carey that if he ever does battle again it will be under the colors of the Garden. The former champion's connections with the corporation ceased at the end of the match last night.

Stribling was under the care today of Dr. Cecil B. Ferguson, former pitcher for the New York Giants, who treated him twice for traumatic neuritis in the left arm, aftermath of a rib injury the Georgian suffered in training. Both Dr. Ferguson and the Striblings believed the ailment caused the youngster's left arm to go "dead" in the second round.

Once the heat of the battle died, "Pa" Stribling sportingly declared that he thought the decision against his boy was just, although "Ma," who kept time in the Georgian's corner, insisted her son was robbed of the verdict. "Pa" thought "W. L" had an even chance of winning going in the tenth round but said a right hand punch to the body slowed him abruptly and won Sharkey the fight.

SHARKEY-STRIBLING GATE SET RECORD IN BOXING

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28—(AP)—Statisticians today revealed that the Battle of the Everglades, featuring Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling, produced the largest "gate" for the size of the crowd in the history of boxing.

Total receipts were $405,940 collected from the 29,641 seats sold. Federal taxes amounted to $76,322.44. After other deductions the net return was $313,840.56.

Ticket prices and sales were as follows: $5 seats, 9,646; $10 seats, 7,998; $15 seats, 2,718; $20 seats, 1,787; $25 seats, 7,474.

From the total gate of $405,940 Sharkey received a flat guarantee of $100,000 while Stribling, on a 20 per cent basis, was paid $63,549.31. Referee Lou Magnolia, who was called from New York to handle the fighters, received $800.

MALONEY 10 TO 8 FAVORITE TO WIN FROM HEENEY

BOSTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—Installed as a 10 to 8 favorite in the betting, Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, today ended his training for what he considers the most important bout of his erratic career, the 10 round clash with Tom Heeney, of New Zealand, tomorrow night in the Boston Garden.

Maloney appeared in remarkable shape and was confident that he would dispose of Heeney in easy fashion, thereby gaining revenge for the one round knockout the New Zealander scored on him in their first meeting 18 months ago.

Heeney, who has been idle since he fought and was defeated by Gene Tunney in last July's title bout, was unable to match his opponent's confidence. Though he appeared fit for the contest, Charlie Harvey, his manager, admitted that he preferred to have the "hard rock" tackle Maloney at a later date, after Tom had polished up his technique at the expense of two or three "soft ones."

Harvey said the battle was an extremely important one for Heeney, as at least two profitable bouts, one in Chicago and the other in New York, would be cancelled if he bowed to the Boston heavyweight. Maloney also viewed the contest with equal concern. He has championship ambitions and believes that a victory over the rugged Heeney would put him in position to demand higher prices for his services.

MARA TO SUE TUNNEY FOR $405,000 WITH INTEREST

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—Timothy J. Mara asked permission in supreme court today to file a supplemental complaint in his action against Gene Tunney and his former manager, Billy Gibson, to collect 25 per cent from Tunney's earnings as heavyweight champion.

Two years ago Mara asked $26,250 but he now wants $405,000 with interest. The motion will be argued later.

MISS COTTMAN TO MEET MISS GOSS IN FINALS

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28—(AP)—Miss Eleanor Cottman, Baltimore, today earned the right to meet Miss Eleanor Goss, New York, defending champion for the Florida's woman's tennis title by defeating Mrs. Bernard F. Stenz, New York, in her semi-final match, 6-3, 7-5.

Miss Goss this morning advanced to the finals by disposing of Miss Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia, 6-4, 10-8.

The final will be played tomorrow.

Hide Exchange Rushed.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The date for the opening of the New York hide and skin exchange, latest addition to the commodity exchanges, has been advanced to May, a month earlier than was planned, in order to provide tanners earlier protection against further sharp fluctuations in hide prices.

J. C. TOOLE, PRES. OF INT. LEAGUE DEAD

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—John Conway Toole, for nearly 30 years a leading figure in the legal side of baseball and for the past eight years president of the International league died today of influenza after an illness of only ten days. He suffered a relapse last night after he had seemed on the road to recovery, his death occurred at his home at 39 Fifth avenue. He was 59

Mr. Toole's death was an unexpected blow to his associates in the legal and sports worlds. At the league schedule meeting February 15 he appeared in good health. A few days later he was stricken with influenza but it was reported that his condition was not serious. He took a sudden change for the worse yesterday and succumbed this morning when toxic influenza poison reached his heart.

Mr. Toole is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emilie Hamilton Toole. They had no children.

Since he began playing the game as a boy in Genesco, his birthplace, baseball always had played a large part in Mr. Toole's life. While reading law in the office of Judge Hamilton in Genesco, he found time to become one of the leading players of that part of the state. He also served as an umpire in the old New York State league before he took up the legal side of the game.

After moving to New York in 1906 Mr. Toole combined baseball with his profession by becoming an attorney for James E. Gaffney, owner of the Boston Braves. Later he represented the National league and the national commission of organized baseball.

Playing a leading role in the litigation concerning the Federal league. At one time he was mentioned for the office of president of the National league.

In 1920 he became president of the international circuit, his most important work in recent years was concerned with the controversy over the "draft rule" in which he headed the minor league opposition to the rules proposed by the big circuits.

Forward-Looking People will Investigate these 10 Points which reveal

OAKLAND-PONTIAC Superiority

In Oakland-Pontiac showrooms all over the United States, forward-looking people are being invited to investigate the New Oakland All-American Six, the New Pontiac Big Six and Oakland-Pontiac dealers on ten points vital to complete motoring satisfaction.

The ten points cover every element embodied in an automobile. But the ten points go even further. They include service facilities. They include finance plans and terms—because only fair and convenient finance plans and terms are acceptable to experienced buyers. They include an analysis of delivered prices—because careful buyers insist on knowing what they pay for in addition to the list prices of their cars. And they include an appraisal of your present car—to show you how little it will cost to enjoy the new style and the thrilling performance of a New All-American Six or a New Pontiac Big Six.

We want you to make such an investigation. Come in and learn how Oakland-Pontiac ownership assures complete satisfaction on every one of these ten points!

The New Oakland All-American Six, $1145 to $1375. The New Pontiac Big Six, $745 to $895, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN EASTERN CONN.

During the present month there have been eleven permits granted by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft for new construction work, and alterations to frame and brick buildings. The work as described in the permits calls for an expenditure of $14,835, over half being spent on two new dwelling houses, a brick building on Shipping street for the United Metal Co., and alterations to the building at 138 Main street owned by the Plaut-Cadden Co. February has run ahead of January and with three weeks gone is a little ahead of the normal building average for the month.

Although the snow of the past week or more has materially held up building operations much work has been done. The work on the remodeling the store at the corner of Broadway and Main street has been completed. Other work has been brought along as well as could be expected.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney to erect a one story brick building, 5x17, to be used as a pattern vault. The space between two present buildings will be roofed over and a concrete floor will be laid between the buildings. The space is 15x32 feet. The estimated cost is $2,000.

To Contractor P. F. Sweeney to alter the present building at 138 Main street for the Plaut-Cadden Co. The present front of the store occupied by the Model Booterie is to be removed and another front and entrance installed. The estimated cost is $2,500.

To George F. Bissell, Sunflower addition to his present garage at the rear of his home on Lafayette street. The addition is to be 8x14 feet. The estimated cost of the work is $[illegible].

To Contractor W. S. Sweeney to build a 5-car garage for Rudolph Hemschel at 330-332 Main street. The garage will be located about 80 feet from the street and will be 20x44 feet. The garage will have a stone foundation, concrete floor, brick walls and wood roof covered with asphalt shingles. The estimated cost is $1800.

To George Lambert to erect a frame cottage on Fanning avenue for himself. The cottage will have six rooms and bath and will be 26x28 feet. The foundation will be of stone with brick underpinning. The exterior finish will be in clapboards with composition shingles on the roof. The estimated cost is $4,000.

To George Lambert to erect a frame cottage on Lambert Parkway for himself. The cottage will be 26x26 feet and will have six rooms and bath. The exterior and interest finishes will be the same as for the house that is being built on Fanning avenue by Mr. Lambert. The estimated cost is $4,000.

To George Lambert to erect a frame garage 12x20 feet for Mary A. Burke on Fanning avenue. The garage will cost about $200.

To Louis Pawloski to extend and alter the present frame house on Garfield avenue for himself. The alterations include the building of a dormer window. The estimated cost is $250.

To Anthony J. Greyenkewski to build a 2 car garage on Maple stret, 20x20 feet for himself. The garage will have three cement walls and concrete floor and foundation. The roof will be covered in composition roofing. The estimated cost is $185.

To Christina Simonelli to erect a frame garage at 38 Happy street for herself. The garage will be 18x10 feet The estimated cost is $150.

To Mrs. Francis Vars to alter the present frame veranda on the house at 12 Yantic street. The veranda will be enclosed. The estimated cost is $10.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were eight sales of real estate in Norwich as compared to one sale for the corresponding week in 1928. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $21,242 and $20,750.

In New London during the past week there were seven sales of real estate, one less than during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $57,500 and $45,100.

New London

Tentative plans for 18 buildings proposed to be erected here on the new Thames river site for the United States Coast Guard academy have been announced by Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard. The largest of these structures will range in cost from $110,000 to $320,000 each. These include barracks for the cadets, a main academic building, a barracks for enlisted men and a gymnasium and drill hall. Other projected buildings planned for erection on the Allyn estate tract located off Mohegan avenue include the following: Five sets of double quarters for commissioned and warrant officers, a hospital and dispensary, machine shop, athletic field building with lockers and showers, observatory building, quarters for the superintendent, power plant, storehouse, guardhouse, wharf, garages and a bridge over the Central Vermont railroad tracks to connect with the wharf. It is expected that steps will be taken in the early summer looking to the actual commencement of operations.

Plans are being considered for the remodeling of the rectory on Fort street of the Bishop Seabury Memorial Episcopal church. It has been suggested that the first floor be altered for use as a parish house and that the second floor be arranged for an apartment for the rector.

The contract has been awarded for a house to be erected on Ledyard street for Irwin R. Mitchell, 266 Broad street. From private plans, the house will be 30x25 feet, with a sun porch 7x16 feet. It will be of frame construction and will cost about $7,000.

Edward I. Raymond, 108 Thames street, has plans for a frame dwelling which he will build at 28 Thames street. The owner's plans call for a six-room house, with a sun porch 16x8 feet. It will be arranged for one family. The estimated cost is $6,000.

Building Permits

E. I. Raymond, dwelling, 28 Thames street, $6,000.

I. R. Mitchell, frame dwelling, Ledyard street, $7,000.

Kath. Gray, alterations, 311 Broad street, $200.

Number of permits for the week, 5; estimated cost of buildings, $29,350.

Westerly

For the second week in February, Westerly Building Inspector Thomas and Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi have issued the following building and zoning permits:

Feb. 14—Joseph Ulysses McFarland, 20 Courtland street, Pawcatuck, dwelling house 28x36 feet on Courtland street with sun porch 8 1-2x16 feet. Thomas Wills is the architect for the above permit granted by the Pawcatuck zoning board.

Feb. 13—Harry Brooks, Boston, brick, tile, plate glass and terra cotta two-story business block with stores, offices and two large halls, 242.7x60.7, 51-55 High street, at present time occupied partly by the Colonial club at 59 High street. Edward T. Chapin, Worcester, Mass., architect. Cost $200,000, with day work by the owners. (Final permit for this block was held up until a decision by the Rhode Island supreme court last week permitted the owners to construct building on original street building line and not on the average 9-foot-set-back building line voted by Westerly town council, hearing on which had not been advertised the legal number of times.)

Feb. 14—John H. Farnsworth, 98 High street, summer camp 16x22 feet with porch 10x14 feet, near Meeting House bridge, on Pawcatuck river. Howard D. Palmer, contractor.

Feb. 14—James J. Casey, Babcock road, off East avenue, garage, 16x12 feet, on Babcock road; by owner.

Feb. 15—Mrs. Alice M. Johns, 24 John street, one-story addition, 5x6 feet, and interior alterations, on house at 34 John street, for bathroom. Arthur Park, contractor.

Feb. 15—Michael Brown, East avenue, chicken house, 10x15 feet; by owner.

Tomorrow.

"Is today, tomorrow, mother?" asked my little girl of three.
As she stopped in pensive sweetness, resting there beside my knee;
And her blue eyes were so eager in the question they would learn,
Thinking of a promised pleasure, that she might tomorrow earn.

Thus she sent my mind aroving to the days of long ago,
When I used to count the moments till "tomorrow" I might know.
Then, each day, as I awakened, I would hear my mother say,
"Come, my dear, the night is over and you must get up today."

Ah, that dear, illusive something which we cling so firmly to,
Waiting for tomorrow's coming and the thing we hope to do!
What was yesterday so rosy seems today so pale and flat—
But 'tis yesterday's tomorrow—let us be content with that.

Let us keep tomorrow's rainbow, though the clouds gloom in the sky,
Let us build tomorrow's castles as today rolls swiftly by;
So I told my little girlie as I sent her out to play,
"It is yesterday's tomorrow, and tomorrow's yesterday."

—Ethel Knapp Behrman, in Cincinnati Enquirer.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Met With Mrs. Foote

The local branch of the W. C. T. U. met Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Charles W. Foote, the president, Mrs. W. H. Lamb, presiding. The meeting opened with the members singing "America The Beautiful." The president read the 44th psalm and prayer was offered by Mrs. Charles J. Gremley. After singing "Some Glad Day," the following program was given: Union Signal Day in Our Local Unions, Mrs. Lamb, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Parks and Miss Murphy; They Had Forgotten, Mrs. Jennie Woodbury; The Long View Needed, Mrs. Martha Stinson; A New Day Dawns, Mrs. W. L. Rollinson; Obedience by Request, Miss Logee; poes, Work for Your Quota, Miss Clara Chipman Murphy. The meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction.

Miss Doris Bindloss was in New London, Thursday.

Every person owning a radio listened in Wednesday evening to the Sharkey-Stribling battle. The reception was good in most places, even though the fight was not as exciting as it might have been.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church served the February supper in the vestry, Thursday at 6 o'clock. Owing to unfavorable weather, there was not as large an attendance as usual.

Degree Team Rehearsal

Stonington lodge, No. 26, I. O. O. F., met in Odd Fellows' hall, Wednesday evening. Following the meeting, a rehearsal of the royal purple degree team of Mystic encampment, No. 17, was held in preparation for the first in a series of inter-encampment meetings to be opened soon, in which New London, Norwich and Mystic encampments will take part. Westerly encampment will be invited to each of the meetings.

Miss Alice Burdick and a friend from Norwich, visited relatives here, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Taylor have moved into their new home on Ocean View heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gremley and small daughter have moved from High street to a house on the New London road.

UNION

Donald C. Gaylord, club agent for Tolland county, held a meeting in the Rock Meadow schoolhouse Monday evening. A poultry club of seven members in this school district was organized. The following officers were chosen: President, Raymond Skopek; vice-president, Ruth Agard; secretary and treasurer, Irma Skopek. The local leader of the club will be Edwin Heck. The club arranged to meet the first Thursday evening of each month. The next meeting will be held at the schoolhouse Thursday, March 7, at 7:30 p. m.

The snow which began to fall Tuesday morning, Feb. 26, changed to an ice storm. Wednesday morning, the trees were heavily loaded but, with temperature rising and little wind, it is hoped that no great damage will result.

This is a time when winter birds appreciate crumbs and fine cracked corn. It is a pleasure to tame chickadees and sparrows by feeding them daily through the winter months. Even nuthatches will learn to eat on the window sills.

The pupils in Stafford high school and in Southbridge high school are having a week of vacation. Miss Emma Gaudette and Miss Evangeline Horton, who usually come home from Stafford only on week-ends, are at home this week. Miss Gaudette had a junior from Southbridge high school, Miss Beatrice Vinton, as her week-end guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peck, of South Lyme, motored to town Sunday morning to see Mrs. Peck's mother, Mrs. Eva A. Proulx.

Rev. H. A. Coolidge, accompanied by his nephew, W. C. Duncan, went to Boston Saturday to visit Mrs. Coolidge, who is receiving treatment in a Brookline hospital. He found her improving and hoping to be able to return in a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robertson and daughter, Miss Helen, of Monson, Mass., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Horton, Sunday.

LIBERTY HILL

Mrs. W. S. Sheldon, of South Salem, N. Y., is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Kinnaird.

The local teacher, Miss Muriel Orcutt visited her parents in Fall River Sunday.

The heaviest snowstorm of the winter came Thursday amounting to about 8 inches. Monday was fine and spring-like with the mercury 45 or higher, making the snow diminish quite fast. Tuesday morning there was hail, snow and rain with ice gathering on all things outside. The wind was east.

Mrs. F. A. Davoll passed her 70th birthday the 11th, and was happily remembered by friends with gifts, a birthday cake and a shower of cards.

W. D. Davoll has set 2,000 R. I. Red eggs in incubator.

Communion will be observed at Exeter Liberty Hill church next Sunday.

Rev. John H. Knott preached from 2nd Chronicles, 33:12-13 "And when he was in affliction he besought the Lord God of his fathers. And prayed unto him and he was entreated of him and heard his supplication and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manasseh knew that the Lord he was God."

Friday Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spafford and their son Leroy Spafford and wife of Glastonbury visited Mr. and Mrs. Horace Foote.

ESSENTIALS OF FARMING.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

Dispatches from Detroit announce that Henry Ford has retired from farming.

Like most other men who have made money at some other business, Mr Ford became convinced, some dozen or 20 years ago, that he could make farming a success.

This seems to be a pet hallucination of successful business men—particularly those who know absolutely nothing about farming from experience. To a man who has lived through the mazes of merchandising or the complications of banking or the eternal puzzles of manufacturing or the tangles of transportation—who has not only lived through them but made them serve him with riches, the next-to-the-earth work of the dirt farmer seems simplicity itself. Such men reason to themselves that, if they have been able to get ahead of the game in their regular vocations by keeping on the gallop, they can easily keep ahead of the farming game at an easy lope. They somewhat condescendingly invite the mudsills and clodhoppers and slowpokes of the farms to watch them do things "as they should be done."

It is also clearly evident that those of them who have made money enough at other jobs to pay the deficits due to their farming experiments often have heaps of fun in showing off. The man who isn't dependent on his crops for his living, and who doesn't care how much the raising costs him, can occasionally beat the regular farmer all hollow in crop production or crop quality.

I well remember, when I was actively engaged in raising truck crops for the market, that I was pestered almost to death by fertilizer agents who wanted me to buy their mixtures on the ground that they would increase my yields. Nor could I deny that they were likely to do just that thing. Nor that I ardently desired bigger yields. But, you see, I was trucking for profit, first. The bigger the yield of any crop—with the same initial expenditure—the better paid I was. But that initial expenditure had to be taken into very serious consideration. If a certain piece of land, normally treated, produced 10 bushels of potatoes which I could sell for a dollar more than they cost me to raise, and the same piece of land, fertilizer-treated, produced 12 bushels, it might be thought, off-hand, that I was two bushels better off than I would have been without the fertilizer. And so, indeed, I would have been, in bushels. But, whether I would have been any better off in money depends upon how much the fertilizer cost to buy and to apply.

If the fertilizer cost more in outgo than the increased crop brought in income, then the bigger yield wasn't worth as much to my pockets as the smaller yield. Ten bushels of potatoes, which cost nine dollars to grow, were worth more to me than 12 bushels which cost 12 dollars to grow. In the one case I got a dollar out of it; in the other not a cent.

And, of course, this single item of fertilizer cost is only one of a score which the working farmer must keep forever in mind. There is no doubt that, with the latest and best tools, the highest grade fertilizer, the most experienced help, etc., he can raise much better crops than he can with old tools and barnyard manure and cheap help. But where's he going to get the money wherewith to secure such tools and such fertilizer and such help? They all come high. He rarely has a bank balance, derived from some other business, from which to supply himself. His farming must furnish the money before he can spend it to better his farming methods.

There probably isn't a town in all the eastern states where some fairly rich man hasn't bought up an old farm and set out to show the wondering natives how a chap who has made his pile in town can find another pile on the very land they can barely make pay its taxes.

There used to be a saying which went: "Every man to his trade." It is universally admitted that a first-class blacksmith isn't, necessarily and therefore, a good watchmaker; that an expert watchmaker isn't, necessarily and therefore, a competent bank cashier. Yet pretty nearly every man who has succeeded in the hardware or the drygoods or the grocery or the banking business thinks he is thereby fitted to become a money-making farmer. His theory seems to be that the adaptation of "business principles" and "modern methods" to farming problems is all that is needed to solve them in the flicker of a lamb's tail.

Our mutual friend, Henry Ford, has admittedly been highly successful in his specialty, that of making popular automobiles at a popular price. Nor has he been an exception to the rule about farming. Henry has a good heart. He is, at bottom, a kindly chap with a good deal of human sympathy in his makeup. No sooner did he find himself on the traditional Easy street than his sympathy began to flow out towards the struggling farmers he knew who were living on Hand-to-Mouth lane. So he bought up a couple of thousand acres of good land, and proceeded to show 'em how to manage it right.

That was 20 or so years ago. Now he is selling all but 200 acres of the land and all the farming tools. The latter are being disposed of at auction and it is not surprising. In view of Mr Ford's theories and antecedents, to learn that there isn't a hand tool among them. The plows are all gang-plows; the reapers are all tractor-drawn; the separators, etc., all power-driven. It is no kind of a sale for one to go to, hoping to pick up a scythe or a pitchfork at second-hand price. Such relics of the past had no part in Mr. Ford's farming scheme. Machinery machinery, machinery. That word bounded his experience and limited his ideas. It had made him untold millions in the automobile field; why shouldn't it work as successfully on farm fields?

We are not told, in so many words, that he is admitting failure. That isn't his style. His ostensible and published reason is that the towns of Dearborn, River Rouge, etc., wherein much of his auto manufacturing is done, are growing so fast and demanding so many new building sites that the farm is needed for their expansion.

Which is, if one may be pardoned for so commonplace a phrasing, simply saying that the shoemaker has decided to stick to his last, and the auto maker to his auto shops. Under the circumstances, I suspect a good many of you will agree with me that it is the wisest thing for him to do.

We were speaking a few paragraphs back about the profits of farming depending on the costs of production. The University of Missouri has been gathering a lot of information in that state about this one factor. It has found that in the 29 counties its census has covered, thus far, that the cost of growing a bushel of potatoes varies from 29 cents to a dollar and a half.

It is scarcely needful for me to draw any lesson from that fact. Every working farmer knows that he is likely to lose money if his potatoes cost him a dollar and a half a bushel to raise, and that he has a good chance to make some money if he can raise them for 29 cents.

It isn't the market price, in such a case, which makes the difference between profit and loss; it is the production cost. And that same difference rules in scores of other crops. What the working farmer needs to strive for most sedulously just at present is not so much higher market prices as lower production-costs. For he has some slight measure of control over the latter factor, while he has, at present, none whatever over market rates.

Give any experienced old farmer the good land which made up Mr. Ford's Michigan farm; give him the costly tools which were used on it; give him several hundred millions working capital in the bank; relieve him of all need of showing a profit, and I'd bet a good doughnut against a specked apple that he could produce crops whose size and quality would make even the judicious sit up and take notice.

But that isn't farming, as real farmers do it and must do it to the end of time. It's just an amusement for rich men, and has about as much connection with real farming as following a golf ball over an old pasture has.

For one of the two or three prime essentials of farming is to get fair pay and reasonable profit out of it. Such pay and such profit the farm must furnish. If the market prices are too low to ensure pay and profit, then production costs must be kept down. Every farmer likes to raise huge pumpkins and mammoth cabbages and tall corn and two-pound potatoes—to show at the county fair and brag over. But he depends for his living and his possible wages on raising stuff to sell for something more than the raising has cost. If he can't do that, he's not succeeding at his job.

If he can't force the market to pay him that difference—and any farmer who has tried it knows how powerless he is, alone, to do that—then he must shave down at the other end enough to secure it.

We are all allowed to cherish hopes for a future wherein farmers, co-operating in both sales and purchases, shall have at least as much to say about fixing prices as those with whom they deal. But, till we arrive at that happy future, we must take things as they are. We must do that which is at least possible, without vainly attempting that which is manifestly impossible, just now.

Tomorrow may be, we all hope will be, a better day. But we've got to live through today to reach any tomorrow.

Utopia would clearly be an improvement on New England. But we're living in New England, and Utopia is as yet only a hope; no even a promise.

We might as well put that in our pipes and smoke it.

THE FARMER.

De Soto Six is comparable only with costlier cars. It is the kind of car that can be proudly owned in any company.

De Soto Six is so unmistakably different from anything that is expected in a low-priced six. It offers so much more in beauty, in smartness and in gracious harmonies of line and color. Even at rest it has an air of alert and vigorous daring that tells you it will bear you gallantly anywhere—safely, comfortably, thrillingly.

And, De Soto's looks do not belie their promise. Nowhere at anything like the price is there such amazingly restful riding—such prompt acceleration—such supple response—such ample power—such roomy comfort.

Compare De Soto Six, feature for feature, with any car in its price field. Ask those who own a De Soto their candid opinion of its merits.

Make their experience yours. Sit behind the wheel and submit De Soto to any test that you please. You will be amazed that so high a value is obtainable at so low a price. A trial entails no obligation. Phone us today for a demonstration and we will put any model you prefer at your disposal.

WESTERLY

HOPE VALLEY MAN SUES FOR $2,000 FOR SLANDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Feb. 28—When the slander case between Polish residents of Hope Valley was called in the superior court here Friday, Steve Kowalik was sworn in as interpreter. With Robert T. Downs, assistant trust officer of North Kingstown, foreman, the following jury was empaneled to hear the case: Patrick Leslie, South Kingstown; Fred W. Bray, North Kingstown; William F. Donovan, Westerly; Robert E. Loomis, Westerly; George E. Eccleston, Richmond; Lewis Lillibridge, South Kingstown; James M. Conway, Westerly; John T. Whitford, South Kingstown; John M. Patton, Westerly; Benjamin C. Allen, North Kingstown; Erlo N. G. Barber, Hopkinton.

The jury was informed that Stanislaw Zegarzewski, the plaintiff, is an operative in the Bailey Mill in Hope Valley, and the respondent, Walter Cekala, is proprietor of a store. The action in slander was brought for words spoken wantonly and maliciously, which reflected upon plaintiff's moral character. With the filling of the jury box at 11:15 and the case declared one that would take Thursday and Friday, Judge Carpenter excused the spare jurors until Monday next at 10:45 to report at the Westerly courthouse. Damages were asked in the sum of $2,000 as the plaintiff had four children, the eldest about 19. He was alleged to have been seen in Hope Valley, back of the storehouse in the Bailey Mill, with a married woman, Mary Puccis, committing an immoral act. As a result of the stories told, his attorney declared his home life was unhappy, his children ashamed and he was looked upon as a moral leper. Mary Biuntek, residing near the Bailey Mill in Hope Valley, testified that she knew both parties to the suit and in a conversation last September defendant had remarked that as he was peddling meat from a cart that they "had a dog in the yard," referring to the plaintiff being with Mary Puccis. In cross-examination by Attorney Flynn the remark was brought out by the question, "What's going on here, what's the news?"

CALENDAR ASSIGNMENTS MADE ON THURSDAY

Although the slander case of the Hope Valley parties, Stanislaw Zegarzewski vs. Walter Cekala, alias John Doe, had been marked for jury hearing in the superior court here Thursday, Judge Herbert L. Carpenter directed Clerk W. Herbert Caswell to have the Westerly calendar called and it was disposed of as follows:

Actions at law, Edwin D. Vennard vs. Harold Lihme. For the plaintiff, Attorney Ferguson asked to have the case set down for trial first after the criminal docket of next week. For the respondent, Judge Rathbun stated that he had been advised that Dr. Frye, who had examined the plaintiff after injuries in an auto accident, an important witness, would be unable to be present for some time. The case was marked ready when reached.

J. G. Phelps Stokes vs. J. R. Champlin and J. R. Champlin vs. J. G. Phelps Stokes were marked for trial following the criminal docket.

Sarah Dickie vs. John Howard, alias. Declared to be in process of settlement by Attorney Gallagher; stipulation to be filed with court.

Fulton Factories, Inc., vs. The P. H. Ople Co., marked ready for the foot of the calendar to be tried to court without jury. For the respondent, Judge Rathbun stated that Frederick R. Ople of the company, an important witness, was in Florida, but Judge Carpenter had the case marked as above, the claim being made that Mr. Ople was but one member of the firm.

Gewitt Furniture Co. vs. Walter R. Clarke. Marked ready.

Phoebe M. Ward vs. Alfred B. Cameron. Appearance was entered by Attorney Dunn for respondent and the case was marked ready.

Frank Ward vs. Alfred B. Cameron, marked ready; John Gabrielle vs. Frank Brocato, demurrer overruled and ten days given for filing; Mariette Rose, admx., vs. Morris Weiner, marked ready, although doubtful of trial; Citrus Products Co. vs. J. H. Blackler Co., Merchants Box & Cooperage Co. vs. J. H. Blackler Co., L. Murdet Son, Inc., vs. J. H. Blackler Co., International Cork Co. vs. J. H. Blackler Co., all marked foot of calendar; George E. Money, admr., vs. Thomas H. Barber, exr., ready for trial after Monday next; Robert Rodman vs. George W. Tucker, a probable settlement pending, marked ready; Bradford Dyeing association vs. Frederick Brown, ready, with jury trial waived; Antonio Spera vs. Benedicitto Cerra, Joseph Ferraro vs. Louis Weisinger, alias, Fred T. Baker vs. J. Armstrong, all marked ready; Salvatore Paldino, et al., vs. Andrew S. Low, passed.

Drug Store Fire.

An alarm was sent in about 3.30 Wednesday morning for a fire at the drug store owned by Dr. W. M. Hill. The fire threatened to be very dangerous on account of the storage of inflammable material packed in the rear room near where the blaze started. The cause of the fire was an oil stove exploding, the flames setting the side walls on fire and rushing up the side of the building. Due to quick work the fire was extinguished, the blaze doing very little damage.

Mrs. Albany Smith who has been confined to her home by illness, is now able to be out.

Miss Aileen Bentley is spending a few days with Brooklyn, N. Y., relatives.

N. L. Kimball of New London was a business caller in Noank Wednesday.

HARRY ERDON DIES— .... SEARCH FOR HIS RELATIVES

Harry Erdon, 30, died at the home of Allen Moody Sunday. The man was found very ill and alone in his home two weeks ago and the selectmen were notified. Following an investigation a physician was summoned and the man was removed and placed in the care of Mr. and Mrs. Moody. His condition remained serious. Most of the time he was in a semi-conscious state until Sunday when he seemed to rally. But a few hours later he lapsed into a coma and died without regaining consciousness. The aged man has been ailing for weeks and narrowly escaped being burned alive. A neighbor knocked on his door, receiving no response, and smelling smoke, pushed the door open. The floor near the stove was blazing and the room filled with smoke. The old man bewildered and partly overcome by smoke, cowered in a corner of the room. Little is known of the man who lived alone on a small farm in the North Society section of the town. He kept a team of horses and a few hens, also a dog of which he was very fond. In his conscious moments he asked about his stock and remembered that he must return to care for them. When told that they were being cared for by a neighbor he seemed satisfied. No one seems to know whether he has any relatives, but one acquaintance said he spoke of a brother on the police force in Pawtucket, R. I. The selectmen are making an effort to locate relatives. The body was removed to undertaking rooms in Plainfield.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

COPPERS AND INDUSTRIALS WERE FEATURES OF MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 28—(AP)—With no fear of an increase in the federal reserve rediscount rate after the close, and with call money in unexpectedly ample supply despite a rate of 10 per cent, bulls staged the most vigorous demonstration in more than a fortnight on the stock market today, taking their cut from several favorable news developments.

About a dozen coppers and more than a score of miscellaneous industrials and specialties were rushed up to record prices for the year or longer, and total sales mounted to 4,971,250 shares, the largest days business since the sharp break three weeks ago. The Associated Press price indices made the best gains since the rally of Feb. 11. Both the 50 industrials and 20 utilities mounted more than 3 points, the utilities getting within less than a point of their high record.

Although banks called about $40,000,000 in loans, making total loans called this week to meet March 1 requirements, about $100,000,000, large sums of money were reported to have been poured into the market late in the session, attracted from private and foreign sources by the high rates. With money coming in from sources outside of federal reserve control, and the reserve bank unable to raise its rediscount rate without embarrassing the treasury in its $500,000,000 refinancing due March 15, the bull party felt itself master of the situation.

Even the expectation of an increase in brokers loans caused no qualms. The figures as published after the close showed a gain of $30,000,000, undoing bl part the reduction of $192,000,000 in the previous two weeks. Despite the admonitions of the federal reserve, the New York banks put $67,000,000 millions into the market. Out of town banks, however, withdrew $25,000,000. The account of others gained nearly $56,000,000.

The days news included another sharp rise in copper prices, higher dividend rates by Greene Cananea and Inspiration Copper companies, declaration of initial dividends, on a $5 annual basis, on Kansas City Southern common, and another assortment of excellent earnings statements for 1928.

The market faltered somewhat when call money mounted from 8 to 10 per cent, around midday, but surged forward in the last hour. Radio dropped 12 points, then shot up 15. With the sale of the countries express business to the railways to take effect overnight, express shares went skyrocketing. Adams jumping 40 1-2 points, American 10 and American Railway 15. National Tea responded to reports of excellent earnings with a 16 point jump.

The bullish operations were characterized in some quarters as a pre-inaugural demonstration, as great expectations of commercial and industrial expansion under the new administration are being widely expressed in Wall street.

Anaconda led the upturn in the coppers with a gain of 7 points. U. S. Steel, selling exthe $1.75 dividend, mounted nearly 3 points to 192 1-4, within 1-2 of a point of its record, and Bethlehem again made new high ground. Utilities made marked gains. Commonwealth Power and Laclede Gas mounting about 7 and 5 points, Brooklyn Union Gas, however, lost 10 1-2 points. American and Continental Can again achieved new highs. Motors and rails were quiet.

Mathiesson Alkali was a soft spot, dropping 8 points. Allis Chalmers, Atlantic Coast Line, and Pere Marquette sagged 3 points. Warner Brothers Pictures lost about 2 points on denial of merger rumors.

The commodity markets were steady to firm. Wheat improved on better prices at Liverpool, cotton was higher most of the day, but encountered profit taking toward the close.

Foreign exchanges were generally steady, sterling sagging slightly as funds were drawn to New York by the high credit rates.

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

February seems such a little insignificant month, wedged in between two bigger ones, that it is inspiring to find out how much has actually been accomplished by the Women's auxiliary of Backus hospital; the usual steady, even flow of small activities amounts to a good deal when summed up for the month's resume.

In the first place, although February is short on days, it is long on holidays, and Lincoln's birthday, Valentine day and Washington's birthday were pleasantly celebrated in a quiet way by the ward patients. On Lincoln's birthday, the bed trays all boasted picture postal cards with Lincoln's likeness and one of his historic quotations. Everybody, young and old, not omitting the middle-aged, was made happy on February 14th with a valentine; each adult patient also received a charming little bouquet of colored candies, set in an old-fashioned frilled paper holder, while the children had special favors and paper caps to celebrate the good Saint's natal day. Tri-colored cases filled with colored candies, made the trays attractive, and served to remind the shut-ins that the twenty second was the birthday of the one and only George Washington, "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen!" The patients all enjoyed themselves, and showed genuine appreciation of the efforts of the holiday committee to make these three days stand out so happily, in the hospital calendar.

Mrs. Roy Judd is chairman of this committee.

The flower committee report through their chairman, Mrs. David Sussler, an endeavor to provide flowers or a plant for each ward at the week end. Especially, during this season of the year, when winter still lingers and the out-door world is so drab and gray, a few flowers or a pretty growing plant diffuses cheer, and serves as an effectual little gloom chaser. Flowers in the wards lend their own incentive towards a desire to get well, and are always desirable.

The linen committee, Mrs. Charles Saxton chairman, sends out at this time, a clarion S. O. S. call for more supplies of old sheets and towels, etc. These useful commodities have been running short ever since Christmas, and the shelves are getting as bare as old Mother Hubbard's. It therefore, behooves every woman interested in the hospital, to look over her chests and closets, and help out this always crying need. Likewise, this committee wishes it distinctly understood that "old linen" does not mean that old cotton sheets and pieces are not just as welcome—for they are. Strips of soft cotton cloth, sheets and towels, are just as necessary as the same linen articles. Spring housecleaning is near, and that is a splendid opportunity to gather together and contribute all the old soft cloth one can spare, to the hospital where so much is needed and used. Housewives, please take notice!

The literature committee, Mrs. John Rogers, chairman, is carrying on its usual routine work methodically. Every Friday those magazines donated by friends are collected and carried to the hospital, where they are eagerly enjoyed by the patients able to read. And those who can not read, find in the illustrations and brightly tinted advertisements, some solace for the tedium of sickness, and while away an interesting hour or two. While magazine subscriptions are never solicited by this committee, the voluntary gift of a year's subscription of some periodical to the hospital is one which commends itself at all times.

The suburban committee reports 6 new memberships received during February, which is most encouraging, there are fourteen nearby towns included in this suburban list, with membership of one hundred women. These out of town women are showing much interest in the series of bridge parties (to take place in March) as a means towards increasing the auxiliary's finances, and hope to do a considerable bit towards helping out that way. Forty-two of this month's new members are residents of Jewett City, and Mrs. C. E. Carpenter, chairman, reports that there are several new names yet to be received.

Believing that "all work and no play maketh Jill a dull girl," the recreation committee, Mrs. J. J. Donohue, chairman, has been busy, and several pleasant outings for the nurses were planned. A theater party to New London, the trip made possible by the Women's Motor corps, was greatly appreciated. And February, with its ice and snow has also offered its winter sports as compensation. Skating has been a most enjoyable and beneficial recreation for different groups of student nurses nearly every day. The pond, covering over an acre in the rear of the residence of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Donohue, has been kept free of snow, and a long settee with boxes underneath for storing shoes, etc., has been provided for the students' use. In the evenings, a flood of electric light has added to the pleasure of the expert skaters. Likewise, has it been a source of security to those not so sure footed on the ice.

Early in the month Dr. and Mrs. Donohue were hosts to an evening skating party, followed by a delicious fireside lunch served indoors. This was easily the outstanding social event of the month, and meant a glorious good time for all those participating in it.

The membership committee, Mrs. Anrie Payson, chairman, reports growth during the month, of forty-six new members. The auxiliary now has a membership of 1,272. Thirteen hundred and fifty-six dollars and twenty-five cents has been received showing a good financial standing.

The production committee, always one of the busiest in the auxiliary, is trying out a new venture. Beginning last week and from now on, an all-day meeting will be held every Thursday of each week for making surgical dressings, etc. Previously all sessions of this committee were convened at the hospital, but, due to the kindness of the Central Baptist church a room in their commodious, newly renovated parish house on Union square will now be used. This is a much more convenient location, and it is hoped that the idea of interesting all the women in all the local churches (each church to take its consecutive two weeks during the year) will prove a successful one. The women of the German Lutheran church assembled last Thursday, and will also meet on Thursday of this present week. A nurse from the hospital was present to start the work of surgical dressings, and at the close of a busy day, there was a splendid showing of work completed, while 79 towels were taken home to be hemmed. The finished work, ready for delivery to the hospital included 32 completes, 37 surgical handkerchiefs, 24 packages of gauze pads, ten in each package. In all, 500 gauze pads were handled, and the busy day started this new venture. These good workers from the German Lutheran church have set a precedent which the women of all the other parishes in town will want to attain. This idea of two all-day sessions at work, is sure to promote a greater and more personal interest in the hospital, as well as a steady increase in the surgical dressings, which the production committee sponsors. Miss Mary Paddock, chairman of the committee, extends a general invitation to all Norwich women to sign up for the special Thursdays in which church they attend is particularly interested.

The finance committee, Mrs. Rollin C. Jones, chairman, Mrs. Witter K. Tingley, co-chairman, report a most interesting plan for earning the large sum of money, which is contributed by the auxiliary, now and then, to buy whatever the hospital most needs in the way of equipment. This committee have invited the women of Norwich and vicinity to be hostesses during the afternoons nad evenings of March 11-16, inclusive, for a week of parties, for the benefit of the hospital. This period of subscription festivities is to be called, "The W. W. Backus Hospital Week," and the response of all who have been asked, is most gratifying. The success of this big scheme is more than assured this early, for, up to date, 135 women have notified their willingness to assume the responsibility of hostesses, to a given number of friends. They are: Mrs. Alexander H. Abbott, Miss Lucy Abbott, Mrs. Wilbur Alling, Mrs. W. S. Allis, Mrs. Robert Agnew, Mrs. Clinton Atterbury, Mrs. Willis P. Austin, Mrs. James Bidwell, Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Miss Marian Bishop, Mrs. Allyn Brand, Mrs. Albert Bailey, Mrs. Bert Bent, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, Mrs. Flint Brayton, Mrs. C. Royce Boss, Mrs. C. R. Butts, Mrs. Allyn Brown, Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, Mrs. F. Donald Brigham, Miss Jane Bill, Mrs. Leslie Brewer, Mrs. William Buckingham, Mrs. P. J. Battersby, Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings, Mrs. Charles Coit, Mrs. Patrick T. Connall, Mrs. Albert Comstock, Mrs. Walter Camp, Miss Mary E. Callahan, Mrs. Howarth Collins, Mrs. Frederick Crowell, Mrs. James J. Donohue, Mrs. William Driscoll, Mrs. William Douglass, Mrs. W. H. Dawley, Miss Beatrice Eastwood, Mrs. Elliot, Mrs. Manley Eastwood, Jr., Mrs. Lyle Fillmore, Mrs. George Fellows, Mrs. Harold Foote, Mrs. Emil Fox, Mrs. Charles Frink, Mrs. Herbert Ferguson, Miss Audrey Gernon, Miss Sue Gallup, Mrs. Harrison Gray, Mrs. Gardiner Greene, Mrs. E. As previously stated, the object of this series of subscription parties is, to earn money for the auxiliary to use in buying some valuable addition to the hospital equipment. Interest centers at present, on the purchase of a diathermy apparatus, which is a little short of marvelous in dealing with pneumonia cases, to say nothing of its curative effect on rickets, malnutrition and many other ailments, to which both grown-ups and children are prone. This will be a great asset to the hospital fittings, and it has been the pet project of the Women's auxiliary for some time, to donate this wonder-working apparatus as their next gift. The "Backus Hospital Week" is going to make this present a certainty in the near future, and we can all lend a hand towards the purchase of it, by cooperating with this "week of parties," planned for that purpose.

The Alpine lamp recently given to the hospital by the auxiliary, has been doing fine service. Many of the adult patients have benefited by its treatment, and all the children in the ward are daily enjoying its stimulating rays.

In connection with this subject it is of interest to state that Miss Abbott, superintendent of the hospital, has offered free use of this Alpine lamp whenever necessary, to the children's clinic at 9 Washington street. On Thursday of this week, four youngsters from that clinic are to receive the lamp treatment at the hospital; these children will be treated for bronchial trouble, malnutrition, eczema and anemia, and it will be interesting to those attending these little patients, to watch for results in their several serious conditions, as the healing rays begin their work. To be the means of offering such a cure to the free clinic children, is a very great joy to the auxiliary. The spirit of cooperation is always a blessed thing, and it is gratifying to feel that the women's organization has made this courtesy to the sick and ailing possible.

Backus hospital wishes to acknowledge the following donations during February: magazines, flowers for children's ward, books for nurses' library, picture book and other books for children's ward, Washington's birthday favors, Valentine favors for trays papers, old linen, nine jars of jelly, Hanovia Alpine lamp. These were given by Francis Gilman, Miss Cadden, Mrs. C. Edward Smith, Mrs. Saunders, Miss Ina Ufford, Mrs. Charles Davis (president Franklin Ladies' Aid), C. I. Dyer, Miss Hemmings, Ladies' auxiliary, William Park, Literature committee (Mrs. John Rogers).

The Women's guild of the United Congregational church, also donated a substantial sum of money to buy blankets and linen for the room maintained by that parish.

And so—February, in the annals of the Women's auxiliary to the Backus hospital ends—but, for the shortest month in the year, it has surely been a prolific one, full of good works!

Burgess Bedtime Story

Danny Has a Fight.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

A coward he who will not fight
Though confident that he is right.
Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse was enjoying life in the Old Orchard. He and Nanny had pushed their tunnels under the snow in several directions. It was fun to dig tunnels in light snow. They could dig them surprisingly fast. For a while Danny thought they had the Old Orchard to themselves, so far as other Meadow Mice were concerned. But one day he met face to face a stranger—another Meadow Mouse as big as himself.

"What are you doing here?" demanded Danny.

"I might ask you the same question," replied the stranger.

"This is my tunnel," said Danny.

"It isn't much of a tunnel," said the stranger provokingly.

"Whether it is or not, it is mine," retorted Danny, "and the sooner you get out of it the better it will be for you."

"Supposing I don't get out of it," said the stranger.

"I'll make you," said Danny, showing all his sharp teeth.

"I wish you would," replied the stranger, in his turn showing all his sharp teeth.

"I will" said Danny.

"You won't," said the stranger.

All this time their voices had grown squeakier and squeakier. Danny didn't see Nanny Meadow Mouse peeping out of the branch tunnel, but the stranger saw her, and that made him all the bolder. He didn't wait for Danny to start the fight. He suddenly rushed at Danny. It almost caught Danny off his guard. And then the fight was on! The teeth of Meadow Mice are sharp. Danny knew how to use his teeth. So did the stranger. But each was protected by rather thick fur coats and it wasn't easy to hurt each other very much. Down there under the snow was a difficult place in which to fight, but they were both so angry that they didn't mind the snow. Locked together, they

"My, my, hy, how Danny did fight then" rolled over and over and twisted and turned and kicked and bit.

For a time Danny thought he had met his match. This stranger was no coward. He was an old fighter. He was no quitter. Danny began to wonder what he should do if this stranger should whip him. And then, as they rolled over and over, he just happened to catch a glimpse of Nanny Meadow Mouse looking on. How Danny did fight then! My, my, my, how Danny did fight then! It wasn't long before he realized that the stranger was not fighting as he had fought. The stranger was trying to get away. At last he succeeded in doing this and started to run. Danny started after him. Along one of Danny's little tunnels they raced. Then the stranger scrambled up to the surface of the snow. Danny was so close behind that he almost closed his teeth on the short little tail of the stranger. Danny wanted to pull him back.

But the stranger was just a little bit too quick for him. Up he went and out of sight. Danny wasted no time in following. When he poked his head out at the surface and looked this way and that way, he saw the stranger scurrying across the snow as fast as his legs could take him. Danny started to follow him. Then he changed his mind. He changed it with great suddenness. Instead of following the stranger he dived down into the hole from which he had just come up. Then he turned and climbed up again. When he reached the surface he poked only his nose and the top of his head out, just enough for him to see.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"I wonder why he's a bachelor."

"Oh, poor fellow, he didn't have a car when he was young."—Motor Age.

"Maud has a habit, when thinking, of holding her chin."

"Probably to keep from interrupting herself."—Boston Transcript.

'Arriet—Wot, goin' to marry Bert, and 'im done five years in quod."

Hoaxer—My uncle is feeling pretty sore.

Coaxer—Which uncle?

Hoaxer—Carbuncle.—The Pathfinder

From a story: "There were two sharp reports and Palmer lurched and staggered."

Those reports must have been the popping of champagne corks.—Boston Transcript.

She—I suppose you know Alice married money?

He—Oh, yes. They're separated now, aren't they?

"What's the idea of that set of traffic lights over the mantel?" inquired the young man calling on the daughter.

"It's father's idea," she explained. "The green stays on until 11.30, then he flashes on the amber, and at 12 the red. And you know," she added, "father is a traffic cop."—The Motorist.

The principal speaker at the dinner was a bore. One of the guests fell asleep. The chairman tapped him lightly on the head, but he dozed off again.

At last the snoring became audible and the chairman applied the hammer more heavily.

"Go on," was the sleepy remark, "hit me harder. I can still hear him."—Boston Post.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Of the 38,000,000,000 board feet of lumber used each year in the United States, 80 per cent is soft wood.

The highest American mountain is Mt. Aconcagua, in the Andes, which has an altitude of about 22,800 feet.

On foggy days 4,000 more automobiles travel through the Holland tubes into New York than on sunny days.

An improved type of earth inductor compass, for use in airplanes, has been designed at the United States bureau of standards.

Beavers in Norway dwindled to about 100 specimens in the '80s, but since then protection has been given them and they have increased to 14,000.

The United States has almost a monopoly of the high type road surfaces in the world; 97 per cent of the bituminous-macadam, 94 per cent of the bituminous-concrete, and 96 per cent of the cement-concrete.

George Hellar, a Providence (R. I.) trolley car operator, was assigned to a new run one night. He was surprised when the car stopped suddenly after having bumped along for several feet. He got out and discovered that he had driven the car more than 75 feet beyond the end of the line.

Mrs. M. A. Hicks of Brownington, Mo., could tell how to occupy spare time. In the last ten years she has quilted more than 800 quilts, pieced 809; tacked 123 comforts; knitted 196 yards of lace, made 30 centerpieces and 59 rag rugs. In addition she has reared her family, does her washing and ironing and regularly attends church and Sunday school. Mrs. Hicks is 66 years old.

Annual Neighborly Gathering

Sunday afternoon, the G. H. S. hold their annual neighborly gathering in the Guild room of St. Andrew's church to which the members of adjoining parishes have been invited. The meeting will open at 4 o'clock and will be followed by a supper at 5:45 o'clock.

HELPED AT CHANGE OF LIFE

MRS. CORA CALAHAN
216 E. Ashton Ave., Grand Island, Nebr.

"I am going through the Change of Life. At times I would cry for hours. I got tired of going to the doctor so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken the first bottle I began to get better. I have taken eight bottles now. I feel that it has saved my life, also doctor's bills. I work for a family of six, washing, cooking and do all my own work. People say I look like 25."—Mrs. Cora Calahan.

MRS. F. C. HELMING
822 E. Harrison St., Portland, Ore.

"Lydia E. Pinkham did for me what doctors failed to do. When the Change of Life began I was very poorly. Now at 55 I do all my own work, attend two dances a week and it is hard to make people believe I am over 40. I never see a woman in ill health but I advocate your medicine because I know its value. Every woman should take it, not just for a month or two but until they have passed the critical period."—Mrs. F. C. Helming.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

St. Mary's Players

The play chosen by this organization this year has already seen success on the professional stage, and a stiff royalty is being paid to get it. This year is not the first time that St. Mary's Players have undertaken to put on a professional play. Its last three all had successful runs on Broadway. All who saw them admit that St. Mary's Players did justice to them all. In fact their performances were far above the amateur, so much so that many—until they looked at their program—thought that they were looking at a professional troupe. This is not bragging. St. Mary's plays are good because time and effort are spent on them, and this under the supervision of a competent director. Do not fail to see this year's play.

EAGLES ARE JEALOUS, SAYS CANADIAN FLIER

TORONTO, Ont., (AP) — Carter Guest, chief pilot instructor of the Toronto flying club, thinks eagles may be jealous of airmen.

Guest says that when an aircraft soars aloft from Leaside two eagles may be seen flying swiftly from the east, from the direction of Scarboro beach, and they follow and circle around the airplane while it is in the air.

Those eagles have not attempted to attack pilots as yet, but, Guest says, they act as if they resented the intrusion of men upon the domain in which they have ruled and as if they would like to discourage them.

When flying for the Ontario forest patrol in the lake Nipigon district, however, Mr. Guest was attacked by eagles, and on one occasion he was forced down because of their evident antagonism. The eagles did no damage but appeared determined to get at the pilot and since there seemed to be danger of an accident, the birdman descended.

"One time when one of our boys was flying to Sioux Lookout, in the Port Arthur-Thunder Bay district," Guest asserts, "two eagles followed him for a distance of 120 miles. Fortunately they did not do him any injury."

BLIND TEXAS LAWMAKER KNOWS WAY ABOUT HOUSE

AUSTIN, Tex.—(AP)—Although blind, Representative O. R. Van Zandt finds little use for the special page appointed to lead him about the state house.

So unerring has become the "sixth sense" of the Texas legislator that he is able to recognize the voice of any member of the house, and faces his questioner as if he could see him.

By active participation in arguments, Van Zandt has become a leading figure in the legislature. The blind solon's wife sits at his desk while he finds constitutional defects in proposed bills, or detects whispering lobbyists by his keen sense of hearing.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

An act concerning wild fowl is made to conform to the federal law and reads as follows: (a) The close season and bag limit for wild ducks, geese, brant, woodcock, greater and lesser yellowlegs, Wilson snipe or jack snipe, gallinules, coots or mud-hens and rails shall be the same as the close season and bag limit fixed for such birds by the regulations of the United States bureau of biological survey.

Another bill presented by Mr. Diana of New Haven, fell by the wayside today. It provided that any one who failed to vote at any election should be fined $20. Reverend Mr. Reimer, representative from Durham, made a plea for the passage of the bill that would permit the signing of death certificates by naturopaths. In reporting unfavorably on the bill that would require the licensing of real estate operators, House Leader Johnson said the bill had no merit and seemed designed principally to be for the benefit of the operators and not the public. The judiciary committee hearing on the birth control bill was barely attended, many being unable to gain entrance to the committee room. The bill extending the trout season to July 15, had many advocates before the fish and game committee. The reason given for the rejection of the bill fixing the salaries of the clerk of the superior court of New London county was that the fixing of salaries now rests with the board of finance and control. Look the board of finance and coltrol.

HOUSE.

The house was called to order at 11.17 by the speaker, Samuel A. Eddy. Prayer was offered by the chaplain, Rev. Mr. Hudson.

Communications from the governor contained the nomination of Thos. F. Malloy of Hartford to be judge and Arthur E. Howard to be associate judge of the court of common pleas for Hartfrod county. Albert B. Hamlin to be judge of the court of common pleas for Litchfield county. The nominations were referred to the judiciary committee. The judiciary committee reported favorably on resolutions appointing Frank A. Murphy, judge of the city court of Hartford and Harold E. Drew as judge of the police court of Ansonia. A resolution appointing J. James Floyd judge of the town court of Waterford was also reported unfavorably as previous action had been taken in the matter.

The house took concurrent action on all senate bills. From the unfavorable reports were made on H. B. 830, one of the healing art bills providing for examinations, H. B. 235 an act providing for a daily fee of $10 for deputy sheriffs for attendance at court, H. B. 238, an act concerning the salary of messenger of the court of common pleas in Waterbury, H. B. 408 an act amending the law concerning registration, H. B. 283 an act that would remedicine, H. B. 414 an act concerning the salaries of the clerks in superior courts in New London county, H. B. 579 an act that would allow the administering of certain chemical elements in the practice of naturopathy, H. B. 614 an act that would allow naturopaths to sign death certificates, H. B. 805 an act that would require osteopaths to annually register with the state department of health and pay a fee of two dollars. From the finance unfavorable reports on H. B. 361 an act that provided for a fine of twenty dollars for failure to vote at any election, H. B. 233 an act taht would require the filing with the board of assessors of any contemplated improvements that would cost more than one hundred dollars, H. B. 514 an act that would exempt certain lodge property from taxation, H. B. 557 an act concerning the taxation of lands on country dirt roads, the bill providing for the purchase of the ranch of Fred A. Stone at Lyme was favorably reported and was sent to the appropriations committee as also the bill providing for an armory at West Haven.

Other bills favorably reported were transportation of school children. An act providing for the teaching of the flag code in the public schools and an act providing that the Firemens Insurance may increase its capital stock to fifty million dollars.

Bills from the calendar were passed as follows:

Substitute for H. B. 320. An act providing for biennial elections in the town of Hebron; H. B. 371 an act amending an act concerning wild fowl and shore birds; H. B. 622 an act amending an act establishing the town court of Winchester; H. B. 639 an act concerning the restoration of Francis P. Horan to the retired list of officers of the Connecticut national guard with the rank of captain; substitute for H. B. 851 an act amending an act concerning the militia.

At 12.11 the house adjourned till Friday at 11.15 a. m.

SENATE

The senate was called to order at 11.20 by Lieutenant Governor Rogers. Prayer was offered by the chaplain.

Coroners are instructed to take fingerprints of unidentified dead persons and file the prints in the office of the town registrar, state department of health and state police department, in a bill reported on favorably by the committee on public health and safety. It was tabled for the calendar.

House bill No. 483—Creating a board of park commissioners in the town of Wethersfield, Cities and boroughs.

WIFE WHO DRANK IODINE EXPECTED TO RECOVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 28—Mrs. Ida Nichols Otis, wife of William Otis, a fisherman, becoming despondent over domestic difficulties last night, shortly before 9 o'clock attempted to commit suicide by drinking the contents of a bottle of iodine. As soon as her act was discovered she was rushed to Lawrence-Memorial hospital where today it was stated that she would recover. Mrs. Otis was alone at the time she drank the poison. Immediately afterwards her husband entered and his gave the alarm when he discovered her condition.

Arts and Crafts Exhibit.

The Arts and Craft exhibition held in Mercer hall Wednesday and Thursday under the auspices of Lucretia Shaw chapter, D. A. R., attracted a large attendance. The displays represented many rare and beautiful articles. During the evening a program of entertainment was presented including music and fancy dancing.

HORSE-TRUCK MAIL HAULING ENDED AFTER 61 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 28—After 61 years of hauling the United States mail between the post office and the union station by horse and truck, tonight at midnight marked the end of such transportation for Uncle Sam, for the horse and truck was discarded and a motor-driven truck was put into service. The installation of the truck is by Leroy Stacey, Waterford, and with its beginning service tonight the service of the two drivers of the horse-drawn vehicle automatically was dispensed with. These were Edward Fields and Walter Penhallow, who were employed by the Thomas Transfer company, who held the contract for hauling the mail during these many years. Besides transferring the mail between the union station and the post office, the motor truck will deliver the mail at the Groton post office and at the trolley terminal, State street, which receives mail matter from Montville and Quaker Hill.

The transferring of the mail during the 61 years terminated tonight has been handled by members of the family of the late William B. Thomas. Mr. Thomas for many years was the contracting agent, while his son has contracted for the business since the death of his father. One of the early drivers was the late James Wiley, a familiar figure on the streets many years. The supplanting of the horse-drawn vehicle for the motor truck provides the latest in mail transportation. New London is believed to be the last city in the state to adopt the modern method of transportation in this line.

LIQUOR FOUND IN RAIDS—FOUR ARRESTS THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 28—For the first time in many weeks, the "Flying Squadron" of the New London police department became active again this afternoon, for they obtained information of the conduct of liquor business at five different places as a result of evidence being provided them by U. S. Coast Guard stool pigeons. The information resulted in four arrests, these being Salvatore Pecino, 30 Green street, proprietor of a club room, who besides being charged with violation of the liquor laws is charged with maintaining a gaming machine; Morris Agen, 18 Golden street, proprietor of a rooming house, the patronage of which is largely from sailors; Harry Schuman, employed at the club room, 24 Golden street, and Danuel Lucy, 19 Winthrop street. All furnished sureties on their respective bonds of $1,000 and will be in court tomorrow. A fifth arrest will follow within a few days, for Mrs. Oresti Peccitini, 302 Bank street, will be taken into custody, this action being deferred today because the woman is in a delicate condition. At all of the places evidence of liquor being sold was obtained, beer, gin or whiskey being seized. At the Peccitini place an actual sale has been obtained against the woman.

Coast Guardsmen supplied the police with the necessary information by which warrants were issued for the search of the premises and the arrest of employe or proprietor, whoever was found in charge of the drinking houses. The raiding force first visited the rooming house conducted by Agen. Officers William Corcoran, Clyde Murphy and John Courtney searched the premises, finding a small quantity of booze. About the same time Detective Sergt. John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Elwood Bailey went to the club room conducted by Macrino, where an additional quantity of liquor and the gambling machine was seized. Sergt. Samuel Hick and Patrolmen Cornelius Moriarty, George Cockell and George Perkins went to the club room, 24 Golden street, but it was closed. As the officers were armed with a search warrant, they forced the door and found a quantity of beer and liquor. This was seized, as was a book purporting to be a record of receipts and disbursements of the place. At the home of Lucy, which was searched by Detective Sergt. Nelson Smith and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Yawrence Fardy, a small quantity of liquor was found. Detective Sergt. Nelson Smith and two officers went to the residence of Mrs. Peccitini, but no liquor was found.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 28—Mrs. Blanche Moore, colored, of Ithaca, N. Y., was in the police court today on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. She was fined $15 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the jail sentence was suspended. Mrs. Moore was also ordered to leave the city, but she will be unable to comply with the court edict, for the woman was unable to pay her fine and costs so that she will be at the county jail about 11 weeks. Mrs. Moore, evidently a drug addict, who has been staying at a Federal street rooming house, went to the Crown Tailoring company, on Main street, yesterday forenoon and accused Leonard Watson, also colored, of stealing a small sum of money. A quarrel quickly resulted and during the brawl Bertha Epps, colored, of 55 Hempstead street, became one of the participants. Mrs. Moore's anger soon evidenced itself to the extent that she seized a knife and started to wield the weapon upon the persons of Watson and the Epps woman. During the progress of the fight, the police were informed and Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman George Perkins, who went to the tailoring establishment arrested the knife wielder.

NORWICH MACHINE BUMPED BY SUB BASE AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 28—In an automobile crash early this morning and in which cars owned by Alphonse Dupreuil, 5 Summit avenue, Norwich and George Lewis Russell, submarine base, figured, both cars overturned and Mrs. Dupreuil sustained painful injuries. Mr. and Mrs. Dupreuil were driving to their home and as their car was passing through Huntington street on its way to the New London-Norwich turnpike the auto driven by Russell emerged from Church street at a fast rate of speed. Both drivers applied their brakes in an endeavor to avoid a crash, but the cars came together with a terrific crash, so much so that each machine overturned. Mrs. Dupreuil was thrown from her machine and sustained lacerations and severe contusions. Patrolman Frank Philopena was dispatched to investigate the accident. Neither driver would lodge a complaint against the other for reckless driving, so no arrests were made. Mrs. Dupreuil was taken to police headquarters where her wounds were dressed by a physician, after which she and her husband resumed their trip to Norwich.

The recent edict by Captain Charles A. Pinney ordering the inauguration of the three platoon system in the police department will go into effect tomorrow morning, the return to the system of ten years ago. It is believed that the new system, which will provide patrol duty on all beats by the officers the entire day and night will have a tendency to bring about increased efficiency and a better protection of business houses during the night season. Each patrol will comprise 18 patrolmen and a sergeant. The first patrol will go on duty at 7.30 o'clock and will be in charge of Sergeant Patrick Murphy. The second detail will assume duty at 3.30 o'clock in charge of Acting Sergeant John Courtney. The third shift will go on duty at 11.30 o'clock and will be in charge fo Acting Sergeant Samuel Hick.

New London is to have another practicing physician for today a certificate was received at the office of the city clerk authorizing the practice of medicine by Dr. Joseph Lolacono.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

"The Doctor's Secret," Paramount's latest all-talking picture, was received with boundless enthusiasm last night at the Broadway theatre, where the picture had its initial showing. The cast features Ruth Chatterton, H. B. Warner, and John Loder in the leading roles.

The story has been adapted to the screen from Sir James M. Barrie's famous stage success entitled "Half an Hour," by William de Mille, who also directed the film.

Of outstanding merit is the faithful reproduction afforded by the Paramount Quality Sound method employed to record the human voice. As in the case of "Interference," the sensational film which played here recently, the reproduction is technically and dramatically perfect. Gone are the flaws heretofore associated with other talking pictures. "The Doctor's Secret" could not be improved upon at this stage of the game.

Another feature of the film is the cast itself. Miss Chatterton, it will be recalled, was a former Broadway star, and her dramatic stage experience makes her an ideal actress for talking pictures. H. B. Warner also is a former stage star, and his voice records in a convincing manner. John Loder, the young British actor, who makes his American debut in this picture, is also effective, as is Robert Edeson.

The story is a tense drama of London society. In sharp dramatic contrasts, it shows to the audience the heights of happiness and despair that can come to one woman's life in half an hour. Throughout, the wildest emotions are concealed behind the polite phrases of social intercourse. It is to be highly recommended as excellent audible screen entertainment. The accompanying short feature program was one of the best seen and heard at the Broadway in some time.

Palace Theatre

All persons, regardless of age, who have ever experienced a love affair will find real entertainment in "Tommy", the Cort theatre success, which is to be presented at the Palace theatre Monday matinee and evening, by the Chicago Stock company.

The whole plot of this delightful comedy success revolves around the love affair of Tommy Mills for Marie Thurber. The couple are a typical American pair of youths. Tommy has but one great drawback to his romance. That is a too thorough endorsement of his qualities by Marie's parents. They think so well of Tommy as a prospective son-in-law that they lose no opportunities to praise him to their daughter. She, quite naturally, tires of hearing of his qualifications and turns toward another boy. Then the trouble starts.

Seats for "Tommy" may be reserved now by calling the Palace box office. Watch the advertisements for further announcements.

Palace Theatre

The new program which opened at the Palace theatre yesterday, certainly contains plenty of variety. This bill is headed by a snappy, peppy song and dance revue, "College Days," Will H. Ward and Co., present their comedy skit, "At The Stage Door," and those who remember Mr. Ward know that he cannot miss. Moore and Montez, in their bits of Broadway, is very entertaining. Jimmy Reynold will positively make anybody laugh, and opening this program is George Gallis Trio in a study of stars and stripes.

Rin-Tin-Tin is back in the snow country! We see him first as the slinking, brow-beaten slave of a bad man. Then all the gang shouts—for a newcomer in furs and all the trimmings appears, buys Rinty and beats it off with him to the fur-trading post. The lad has paid for the dog with furs which he meant to sell so that he might get married to a pretty French girl, who forgives him, and takes Rinty in, where he makes the acquaintance of an Indian papoose.

The French girl's guardian wants to marry her himself, and gets Butch Nelson, a killer, to follow the boy and Rinty when they go again with silver fox furs. The killer attacks the boy, but Rinty pounces with such venomous fury that he is glad to get away with his life. It is months before Rinty gets back with his young master, and in the meantime the killer has said that he is dead, and the guardian is about to marry the girl.

Then begin the real fireworks, that include mounted police, fights, fun, blizzards, and general rough house. Its a whoopee, and the fans will rah for Rinty as never before. See him in "Land of the Silver Fox."

Connecticut College Concert

"I want to please the great public," said Josef Lhevinne, the celebrated pianist, who will be heard at Bulkeley auditorium, on March 6. Then he proceeded to give illuminating ideas on the subject, which he has practiced to the delight of thousands in his audiences.

His theory is this. Lhevinne selects a generous part of each program from beautiful things that are well known and loved, and through his ardent thought and study, plays them in such a new way that despite their popularity, they become delightful novelties.

"Not," as this great artist explained it, "by trying to make them uncommon through stupid tricks, but by beautifying them with fresh life. This is a much harder task than playing music which has not been heard before. However, it has brought me the reward of happy hours of appreciation from my audiences.

Gem Theatre, Willimantic.

All roads in eastern Connecticut will lead to the Gem theatre, Willimantic, Saturday, March 2. The occasion will be the opening of the Vitaphone pictures at that cozy little playhouse. Manager John R. Pickett announces everything in readiness for the big event and the picture selected is Pauline Frederick in On Trial. This production has been voted by press and critics as one of the finest talking pictures yet produced.

The doors will open Saturday at 12.30 and the first show will begin at 1 o'clock and continue till 11 p. m. Five full shows will be given, at 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9 o'clock. On Trial will play three days. Admission prices will be matinee 10 and 25 cents and evenings 15, 30 and 40 cents. All-talking pictures will be the policy of this theatre in the future with the exception of Tuesday evenings when a silent picture will be presented in connection with "China Nite"

Breed Theatre

"Annapolis," a new Pathe picture directed by Christy Cabanne, is certainly Annapolis-made for the greater part. The original story was by Royal S. Pease of the English faculty of the U. S. Naval academy, and the continuity was written on the spot by F. McGrew Willis.

In addition to the charm of its love story, "Annapolis," which will be presented at the Breed theatre on Sunday, next, offers much to thrill patriotic pride. Hobart Bosworth, William Bakewell, Byron Munson and Charlotte Walker are important members of an excellent cast.

TAFTVILLE

Letters advertised at the local postoffice this week include mail for John J. Fox, Mr. Porco, Mlle. Emma Belisle, Miss Evon Descaureaux and E. G. Starkweather.

The regular weekly meeting of the members of the Basketry club was held Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Already several "dyed-in-the-wool" trout fishermen have commenced to overhaul their tackle in preparation for the first day of the season, now only a few weeks away. Last year trout fishing in Connecticut was the best it had been in a number of years and the devotees of the sport are anxiously awaiting to see what the prospects of the coming season will be. Already the arguments as to the best kind of bait to use in the brooks has started.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mayor and family of Norwich have moved to the village and have taken a house on North B street.

Mrs. David Lambert of South A street is a patient at the Hartford General hospital.

Miss Charlotte Stevens of Providence street is spending this week in New London.

A rehearsal of the girls of the Taftville Congregational church who are to take part in the annual stunt night of the Interchurch Girls council of Norwich was held Wednesday evening.

Taftville people were saddened to learn of the death in Mystic of Mrs. John Unsworth, formerly of this village.

NORWICH TOWN

COUNTY FAIR CLEARS $80 FOR METHODIST C. E. SOCIETY

The County fair, held by the C. E. society of Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, Washington's birthday, added $80.30 to the treasury of the organization. This sum, with the amount made from the play, "Old Sweethearts," which was given the first day of the month, makes a total of $114.30 earned by the society during February. This makes a new record for the society and is very encouraging to the workers.

Scouts to Hike

The Boy Scouts of troop No. 2, connected with Norwich Town Methodist church, are planning to hold another 14-mile hike Saturday. The Scouts will leave the parsonage at 10 o'clock in the morning in charge of the scoutmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter.

Indian Talk by A. L. Peale

This (Friday) evening the Boy Scouts of troop No. 2, connected with the Norwich Town Methodist church, will have an especially interesting session as Scout Commissioner Arthur L. Peale is to speak on "Indians of Norwich." The Scouts from troop No. 1, of which Mr. Peale is scoutmaster, will be guests of troop No. 2.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT IN FAVOR OF ATTORNEY CHARLES L. STEWART

A verdict for the defendant, Attorney Charles L. Stewart, this city, executor of the will of his uncle, the late William E. Stewart of North Stonington, was returned by the jury, which has been hearing the case in the superior court at New London, at 6:25 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The jury had the case under consideration about three hours.

The plaintiffs, G. Russell Stewart of North Stonington, et. al., took the case, an appeal from probate, to the superior court on grounds that William E. Stewart was insane, and that Attorney Stewart had exercised undue influence on the late Mr. Stewart, who, they claimed, was unable to comprehend the provisions and dispositions contained in the will. The case was on trial in the superior court for six full court days, covering a period of two weeks.

In charging the jury, Judge Christopher L. Avery, removed from their consideration the plaintiff's charge that Attorney Stewart had exercised undue influence over the late Mr. Stewart, stating that there was no evidence to substantiate that claim. The jury's verdict sustains the will.

Attorneys Arthur M. Brown and H. H. Pettis of this city represented the defendant and Attorney George Curtis Morgan of New London was counsel for the plaintiffs.

CAMPAIGN TEAM WORKERS TO MEET THIS EVENING

A meeting of all teams, aces, pilots and workers in the Norwich chamber of commerce, has been called for this (Friday) evening at the Wauregan hotel. The meeting is for the purpose of receiving information and instructions regarding the campaign and to receive campaign supplies.

Announcement was made Thursday evening that William G. Park has accepted the chairmanship of Division 4 in the campaign organization, which is now over 80 per cent perfected.

Commenting on the coming campaign, Shepard E. Palmer has written the chamber headquarters as follows:

I believe that everyone living in the town of Norwich would like to have Norwich stand for something progressive in every line of endeavor, so that whenever the name was mentioned it would be said, "there is an ideal place in which to live."

The chamber of commerce is trying to accomplish this very thing and in the new program the community publicity plank is for that purpose. It doesn't contemplate any wild expenditure either of money or adjectives, but it does propose to present a summer booklet setting forth the attractions of this city and section, the erection of more road signs, printed matter advertising the city's economic advantages, and an intelligent and persistent scheme of publicity.

If more people knew of our natural attractions here, of our favorable economic and industrial situation and the spirit of our community, it is reasonable to believe that more people would come here.

Frank R. Murdy, one of the campaign leaders, comments as follows:

"When I agreed to accept the job of lining up the sales organization for the expansion drive of the chamber of commerce, I was well aware the task was not an easy one, but I was more than pleased to accept, for as a citizen, I wanted to do my part to make it an organization that will be a real force for the advancement of the city, and I firmly believe that every citizen wants a real, live, active chamber of commerce.

"In order to have such an organization that will properly function, it certainly must have funds to carry on the work. I believe an aggressive chamber of commerce will create more business for every business man in the community."

OVER 19,000,000 CIGARETTES SMOKED IN NORWICH

How many cigarettes were smoked in Norwich, during 1928? From the statistics just issued by the internal revenue bureau, many interesting things can be figured out.

For instance:

In the United States, during the last year, 105,915,165,014 cigarettes were smoked—at least they were bought, as the tax returns show. Now, the estimated population of the country is 120,013,000. Of that number 22,304 live here in the city of Norwich. Dividing 120,013,000 by 22,304, the city population, gives 5,381. Then all one has to do to discover how many cigarettes have been smoked here in Norwich is to divide 105,915,165,014 by 5,381. The result is 19,682,175 were smoked in 1928 here in Norwich.

Perhaps Norwich went a little over its quota or a little under, but that is the number which should have been smoked here if it did its exact share in the cigarette consumption of the year.

WILL SEND MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER

It was announced at the Central Baptist church Thursday evening that there will be a special community meeting Sunday evening in view of the inauguration of Mr. Hoover on Monday. The topic of the evening will be, "What May We Reasonably Expect From The Hoover Administration?"

A citizen's committee has been appointed to present a message at the meeting to be sent to Mr. Hoover from the citizens of Norwich. The committee consists of Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, President Joseph C. Worth of the chamber of commerce, Senator Albert Lillibridge, Robert McNeeley, representing the labor unions and Rev. A. N. Foster, president of the Norwich Minister's association. The meeting will be open to the public.

EDWARD WARD HIGH RANKING HONOR STUDENT

Edward Ward, of Norwich, a sophomore at East Greenwich academy, East Greenwich, R. I., is one of the high ranking honor students there for the first semester's work, according to the recent announcement made by Rev. A. Talmadge Schulmaier, principal.

Students at the well-known academy have been interested this week to hear informal readings by Edwin Markham, distinguished American poet. Mr. Markham has been for the past two days a guest at the academy.

SUMMER NORMAL SCHOOL TO OPEN ON JULY 1ST.

The state department of education will open its summer normal school for Connecticut teachers July 1, at Yale university, New Haven. This is the 25th year the school has been conducted. It will close August 9.

This year the school will include new offerings for intermediate and high school teachers in psychology of adolescence, educational guidance, teaching of English, mathematics and social studies. There will be new special courses for critic and demonstration teachers and an added course in character education for all teachers. Courses for trade and vocational teachers have also been added.

As in the past, instruction will be given for teachers in elementary, intermediate and secondary schools, principals of such schools and supervisors of instruction. Those wishing to continue study in the teaching of educationally exceptional children and foreign-born adults will find courses which will include observation classes. Directors of adult education and librarians will be able also to further study their particular lines of work.

No tuition will be charged Connecticut teachers or teachers who make their residence in this state. There were 733 registered at the school last year.

He will appear in city court this (Friday) morning.

NORWICH GIRL SUES FOR DAMAGES OF $25,000

Claiming damages of $25,000, Mary Elizabeth Bates of Norwich, a minor, through Ricardo R. Morgan of New London, has brought suit in the superior court against Wallace Lanier of Groton. The papers in the suit were filed with the clerk of the court in this city, Thursday. The plaintiff claims that on November 14th, last, Lanier requested Mrs. Mary K. Bates of Waterford, and her daughter, Mary Elizabeth, 12 years of age, Herbert Clark and wife, Rose Anna Clark, both of Norwich, to accompany him in his automobile, as his guests, for a trip to Portsmouth, N. H., from Norwich.

On Nov. 15, Lanier, intending to remain in Portsmouth, requested Mary K. Bates, mother of the plaintiff, to take his car together with his guests and drive them back to Norwich and upon her return she was to deposit the car in his garage in Norwich.

The car, it is alleged, had proceeded as far as Hope Valley, R. I., on the way back, about noon on Nov. 15, when the operator, Mrs. Bates, is alleged to have negligently and carelessly run the machine off the highway, at a high and reckless rate of speed, causing the automobile to turn over several times, throwing the 12-year-old plaintiff out of the car, to the ground.

The papers allege that the plaintiff received a fracture of her left leg and ankle, bruises about the body, arms and head, and causing her permanent injuries.

A foreclosure action has been brought by the Chelsea Savings bank, of Norwich against John Knott, Mary Knott, Sam Florman, all of Montville. On Oct. 23, 1924, according to the papers, the defendants, John and Mary Knott, borrowed $2,500 from the bank on a promissory note. This note, it is alleged, was secured by a mortgage of property located on the easterly side of the Gay road in the town of Montville. Florman claims to hold an attachment on the property.

Waldo E. Clarke and Daisy L. Clarke of New London, owners of the property formerly owned by the Pequot Casino association in New London have brought suit against Erna Von R. Owen of New York, formerly of New London, in an effort to clear up a cloud upon the title to their land.

This dispute has prevented the sale of their property, the Clarkes claim, and until clarified will continue to be a source of material damage to them.

Damages of $5,000 are claimed by Rose Lusignan of Norwich in an automobile negligence action brought against Joseph A. Lede of New York city. The plaintiff sues for personal injuries sustained on Oct. 11 last, when the automobile in which she was riding, owned by the defendant, figured in a collision with another machine on the Milford turnpike.

As a result of the celluloid fire in New London on Jan. 28, in which they sustained serious burns, Victor Spinnato and John Spinnato, minors, both of New London have each brought suit for $15,000 damages against The Schwartz Leather Co., of New London.

Rose Lusignan of this city, asks $5,000 damages from Joseph A. Lede of New York city. On Oct. 11, 1928, the plaintiff alleges that she was riding in an automobile owned by the defendant and operated by his wife, Felicite M. Lede, which was then being driven in a northerly direction on the main highway in the town of Milford, when it collided with another machine driven by James I. Hayes.

The plaintiff claims that she was thrown against the windshield, back into the car, suffering severe bruises, contusions, and injuries as follows: Her right knee was fractured, one tooth was broken off, she suffered lacerations and wounds to the hips, arms and nose, suffered a nervous shock to her system, was confined for a period of four weeks and has suffered and will suffer for a long time to come and will be lame and incapacitated.

A divorce and custody of three minor children are sought by Grace (Smith) Spieler of Waterford from William J. Spieler of New York city, on alleged grounds of intolerable cruelty alleged since April 11, 1911, the day they were married.

On the grounds of desertion, alleged since December 15, 1925, Adolph E. Sylvia of New London seeks a divorce from Agnes (Marcoux) Sylvia of Montville. They were married Sept. 1, 1923.

CHILD STUDY GROUP AT WOMAN'S CLUB ROOM

An interesting hour was spent by members of the Child Study group of the Woman's City club in the club room on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Edwin V. Ross presided at the meeting and Mrs. John P. Huntington led in the discussion on questions previously sent in.

The questions dealt with the vital every day problem growing out of the parent child relationship such as obedience, stubbornness, negativism and concentration. Much helpful information was given through individually prepared answers to the questions and in resulting discussion.

Books on child psychology were quoted and recommended for further study. It was announced that the topic for consideration at the March meeting is Fewer and Better Punishments, based on an article in a recent number of Children.

HOOVER IS READY TO TAKE OVER REINS OF GOVERNMENT

President-Elect Has Completed His Inaugural Address and Has Selected His Cabinet—Upwards of a Hundred Airplanes Are Ready to Fly Over the Inaugural Parade and the Dirigible Los Angeles Will Sail Above as the New President Rides Down the Long Avenue Ahead of the Procession.

WASHINGTON, March 1— (AP) — Herbert Hoover sat in the quiet seclusion of his S street home tonight, free from the noise and tumult of the thousands pouring into the city to witness his inauguration on Monday as the 31st president of the United States.

A few blocks away, with the echoes of farewells still in his ears, Calvin Coolidge was spending one of his last nights in surroundings familiar in years which had visited sadness as well as happiness upon him.

At the capitol today Charles G. Dawes rapped occasionally for order in the senate and Charles Curtis, of Kansas, who will succeed him as vice-president, faced him from the floor, Dawes occupying the presiding officer's chair and Curtis remaining until the end of the session as leader of the republican forces.

Mr. Hoover had finished the task of preparing himself to take over the administration of a government of 120,000,000 people. He had selected his cabinet, prepared the address which he will deliver to his countrymen, and was ready to begin a period of service such as even his active life has never afforded.

President Coolidge, with seven years of duty behind him, happy that he had served, but with a feeling of regret over the breaking of old ties, turned his eyes toward his Northampton home, where the career that eventually led to the white house was begun. On Monday there will be a brief ceremony on the capitol plaza. Mr. Hoover will become President Hoover and President Coolidge will become Mr Coolidge and the destinies of the nation will be in new hands.

Drawn by the promise of witnessing this wholly American ceremony, the crowds arrived in constantly increasing numbers tonight to find a city decked with bunting and flags. Long rows of stands stood out along Pennsylvania avenue to seat the tens of thousands who choose to witness the inaugural parade from such points of variage, space in upper windows was converted into box-like affairs from which the spectacle could be viewed.

Around hotel lobbies, on the streets, and at other centers where people gather the scenes were those which only an inauguration period can create. There were delegations on hand from many states. Military uniforms were abundant. The souvenir salesmen were busy everywhere.

There was an unendling stream of visitors. Special trains were en route; automobiles with foreign tags filled the city's garages, and the larger hotels were unable to care for additional guests. Indications were that sleeping room would be at a premium by Sunday night.

The question of the weather for Monday was a main consideration in the minds of those having in hand the task of carrying out the ceremonies. Weather forecasters were unwilling tonight to hazard a prediction since a mistake would inconvenience many thousand persons still planning to be here Monday.

Modern invention will enter into the Hoover inauguration as it never has entered into a like event. Upwards of a hundred airplanes are ready to fly over the inaugural parade and the airship Los Angeles will sail above as the new president rides down the long avenue ahead of the procession.

The ceremonies will be broadcast, and arrangements have been made to have pictures of the scenes sent by wire to all parts of the country.

Mr. Hoover will take over the reins of government. Mr. Howard Taft, as chief justice of the United States, with a few words will bring into being a companion ex-president and he has expressed his happiness over this.

The arrangements for the review of the parade by Mr. Hoover took into account the possibility that there might be rain or snow. The reviewing stand is enclosed.

President Coolidge will not be in this stand to review the parade with his successor in office. He will leave immediately after the ceremonies at the capitol for the union station, where he will board a train for Northampton, where Mrs. Coolidge's mother is ill. John Coolidge, who with his brother Calvin was a youngster when the Coolidges moved into the white house, however, is expected to participate in the ceremonies as a member of the staff of Governor Trumbull, of Connecticut. Calvin, Jr., died during the administration of President Coolidge, and this brought one of the sadnesses of the outgoing occupants of the executive mansion.

Vice-President Dawes will not participate in the parade. After he turns over his gavel to Charles Curtis, vice-president-elect, he will prepare to return to his home at Evanston, Illinois, departing from the capital on the evening of inauguration day.

NAMES OF TWO CABINET MEMBERS WITHHELD

WASHINGTON, March 1—(AP)—President-elect Hoover tonight still held the key to the identities of the two "mystery men" of his official family in spite of what perhaps was one of the greatest guessing contests in all the history of American cabinet making.

Name after name of the great and the near great, the prominent and the obscure were thought up only to be thrown into the discard upon official advice until finally even the most seasoned of the politicians and Washington correspondents were almost ready to give up out of sheer mental exhaustion.

The guessing reached a climax in a rather unusual scene in the Hoover headquarters at the Mayflower hotel. George Akerson, secretary to the next president, sat in a smoke-filled room surrounded by fifty veteran Washington newspapermen who had been told if they guessed right there would be no denial.

Wearing his every-ready smile, the secretary, himself a former newspaperman, answered to each time as dozens of names were fired at him, among them that of Julius Rosenwald, of Chicago, who was a caller during the day at the Hoover home; A. W. Shaw, of Chicago; Claudius Huson, of New York, a former assistant secretary of commerce, and others.

Finally he was asked if the agriculture secretary was from the west and the commerce secretary was from the south.

"I'm giving you the whole country from which to pick," he replied.

Some of the correspondents who thought they had better guesses than others submitted names written on sheets of paper, but each was quickly vetoed and finally the conference dissolved.

REPORT ARTHUS M. HYDE AS SEC'Y OF AGRICULTURE

KANSAS CITY, March 1—(AP)—The Kansas City Star will say in a copyrighted story in its morning edition tomorrow that Arthur M. Hyde, former governor of Missouri, will be secretary of agriculture in the Hoover cabinet.

Mr. Hyde has accepted the appointment tendered him by the president-elect and is en route to Washington to attend the inaugural ceremonies, the newspaper will say. He is due to reach the capital tomorrow morning.

Announcement of the Missourian's appointment settled the guessing contest as to the identity of one of the two "mystery men" chosen by Mr. Hoover to complete his cabinet.

A "surprise" was promised the country in the filling of the posts of secretary of agriculture and secretary of commerce when it became known that President-elect Hoover had rounded out his official family. No inkling had been given prior to tonight that Mr. Hyde was under consideration.

The disposition of one other cabinet post remains to be announced—that of secretary of commerce.

TO REORGANIZE THE CONN. ENFORCEMENT DRY BUREAU

HARTFORD, March 1—(AP)—Complete re-organization of the Connecticut prohibition enforcement bureau will be effected by March 11, when the newly appointed deputy administrator, Robert L. Sengle, takes the reins in charge of prohibition enforcement in the state, it was revealed today in orders from Jonathan L. Lewis, prohibition administrator for New England.

A complete shake-up in the personnel of enforcement agents has been made, to become effective March 9, and practically an entire new staff of agents will be encharged with enforcement work in the state. Only four of the staff of men who have been working under the direction of Deputy Administrator Frank T. Putney, will hold over under the new administration.

Mr. Putney will relinquish his post in charge of enforcement in Connecticut, March 9, it was announced. His successor will commence his new duties Monday, March 11.

In the meantime the balance of the administrative functions of the Connecticut bureau which have been retained in the Hartford office will be transferred to Boston, effecting absolute centralization of administration in the Boston office.

The agents who will remain in the service in Connecticut under Deputy Administrator Sengle were notified today, and were administered the oath of office. They are: Leon Geniot, of Hartford; Stanton L. Briggs, of Willimantic; William S. Congdon, Willimantic, and Harry Avery, of South Windham.

FLOOD WATERS RECEDING IN THE SOUTHERN STATES

ATLANTA, Ga., March 1.—(AP)—As flood waters began to recede in south Georgia, Alabama and northwest Florida, today, Georgia's death list for three days stood at nine known fatalities and two missing and believed dead. No fatalities were reported in other states.

The extensive damage to highways, bridges, lowland farms and manufacturing plants was still unestimated.

Meanwhile about 200 automobiles filled with fight fans en route north from the Sharkey-Stribling bout at Miami Beach, were held up at Perry, Ga., and other nearby towns by washouts in the Dixis Highway. Scores of tourists bound for Florida were detained at Macon. Repairs were expected by tomorrow or Sunday.

WOMAN SENTENCED TO 16 YEARS FOR HOLD-UP

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 1.—(AP)—Declaring that women who go "into the hold-up business must suffer the same consequences as men," Judge Frederick Fosdick, in Middlesex superior court today sentenced Mrs. Bettina Massarelli, 23 year old Dedham woman, to 16 years in the Sherborn reformatory.

Mrs. Massarelli fainted when she heard the sentence and had to be carried from the courtroom by two officers. She was convicted by a jury of holding up William O'Connell, an Everett chain store manager, on December 3, last, at the point of a revolver, while her male companion robbed the store's cash register.

When Mrs. Massarelli was sentenced today, her counsel was trying to obtain a new trial for her on the ground that the verdict convicting her was "against the weight of the evidence."

REPRESENTATIVE WELLER DIED LAST NIGHT, AGED 47

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Romal H. Weller, representative in congress from the twenty-first district, of New York, died tonight in the Post Graduate hospital here of pneumonia. He was 47.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE BIDS CORRESPONDENTS FAREWELL

WASHINGTON, March 1— (AP) — President Coolidge today said farewell to the corps of Washington correspondents with whom he has conferred twice each week throughout his administration.

LONDON, March 1—(AP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, who has been suffering from a slight chill, is better. It is understood he will go to Geneva on Saturday as he previously had arranged to attend the League of Nations meeting on Monday.

PARIS, March 1—(AP)—Physicians said tonight that Marshal Ferdinand Foch was living only on sheer grit. They said his courageous, but apparently hopeless battle for life, might continue for some days.

Tonight the patient's temperature was 101 and his pulse 98.

TO BE EXECUTED FOR THE MURDER OF STELLA POMIKALA

BOSTON, March 1.—(AP)—George H. Taylor, itinerant barber and street dancer, must die in the electric chair next week for the murder of Stella Pomikala, of Lawrence, who was slain at Salisbury Beach, June 5, 1927. Gov. Frank G. Allen today declined to grant his petition for executive clemency.

A statement from the governor's office signed by his secretary, John D. Wright, stated:

"The governor has carefully studied the evidence in the case of the commonwealth versus George E. H. Taylor, has also gravely and sympathetically considered the plea of counsel, and finds no justification for executive intervention."

A report by Frank A. Brooks, chairman of the state board of parole, to the governor, recommending that the sentence of the court be sustained was also made public.

The governor's decision came a few hours after Taylor's brother, Clayton Thompson, an Ohio coal miner had appealed in person to the chief executive in behalf of the doomed man. Thompson said his brother's true name was Elmer J. Thompson.

MAY SETTLE STRIKE OF SHOE WORKERS IN LYNN

LYNN, Mass., March 1—(AP)—The strike of 1,700 shoe workers in almost fifty factories in this city appeared to be near a settlement tonight, 36 hours after it had been called. Representatives of the lasters, cutters and stock fitters independent unions, and William Attwill, secretary of the Manufacturers' bureau, anounced after a conference that a score of employers had agreed to recognize the unions and that 90 per cent. of the workers were expected back at their work next Monday.

The strike was called for the purpose of gaining recognition of the independent unions and reaching an agreement with the manufacturers on wage demands presented two weeks ago. After the conference tonight, labor leaders said that the question of wages would be considered at conferences with the manufacturers tomorrow but that the primary purpose of the strike was to gain recognition of the unions and this had already been obtained in a large measure.

40 FOOT TUNNEL DISCOVERED UNDER SING SING PRISON

OSSINING, N. Y., March 1—(AP)—Sing Sing prison officials today discovered a tunnel four feet square and 40 feet long which had been dug from a steam pipe conduit connecting the prison bath house and mess hall, to within five feet of the outer wall.

The tunnel was discovered by John Shehy, principal keeper at the prison. Mr. Shehy questioned several prisoners but all denied any knowledge of the digging of the tunnel or connection with it.

The tunnel passed under the motor highway inside the prison walls and was well braced and shored. Where the men who dug the tunnel obtained the lumber to brace the walls and how they carried out and disposed of the estimated 650 cubic feet of dirt was a mystery, Shehy said. He estimated that the men had been at work on the tunnel for months.

Prison keepers said they believed the men had intended to slip into the tunnel, lay in wait there until search had quieted down, and then dig their way out to freedom under the walls.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN COTTON INDUSTRY

WAUREGAN, March 1—(AP)—Cotton industry conditions are materially better today than they were a year ago, Lincoln Bayliss, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, tonight declared before a meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Mills' association.

The improved conditions would seem to justify predictions made some time ago that the industry would share to a greater extent in the prosperity of the country during 1929, Bayliss said.

Though he was optimistic with regard to the prospects for a more profitable year, Bayliss at the same time sounded a warning to the cotton manufacturers of the country against overproduction. Nearly 100,000 more bales of cotton were consumed in January of this year as compared to January, 1928 he said. He said the total for January, 1928, was about 636,000 bales and for January, 1929, the total was 668,000.

LINER EXTAVIA REPORTS ALL ON BOARD WELL

CONSTANZA, Rumania, March 1—(AP)—The captain of the American export liner Extavia, which was forced to seek shelter here on February 26, because of damage below the water line, caused by collisions with ice in the Black sea, used radio today to convey information ashore that all were well on board.

His message said, "All hands on board, including George Hough and wife, are well and we are waiting a favorable opportunity to proceed." Temporary repairs to the vessel have been completed but the harbor is so icebocked that the ship has not been able to leave. Meanwhile the passengers have all reasonable comforts during their enforced stay on the liner in the harbor.

NARROWLY ESCAPED INJURY IN AUTOMABILE ACCIDENT

MERIDEN, March 1—(AP)—Two Trinity college alumni and a senior at the same institution, narrowly escaped injury tonight in an automobile accident on the Meriden-Hartford highway. Arthur L. Hubbard, 50, of this city driver of one of the cars, was charged with drunken driving after the collision.

John Linnon, 12 Fairold avenue, Hartford, Trinity college alumnus, was the driver of the second car. He was accompanied by Richard McCurdy, 199 Preston street, and William Dower, 128 South Beacon street, both of Hartford, the former an alumnus and the latter a senior at Trinity.

$2,977,000 Voted For Dry Enforcement

Agreement Reached by Conferees From the Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, March 1—(AP)—Differences between the senate and house over an increase in the prohibition appropriation were settled finally today by their conferees agreeing on a $2,977,000 addition in funds for prohibition enforcement.

The senate had asked $24,000,000 additional and the house after President Coolidge had recommended it, approved $2,727,000.

The agreement largely dissipated fears that the two deficiency appropriation measure might fail of enactment. The two bills carry more than $200,000,000 for various projects throughout the country and leaders tonight believed the way clear for their final adoption.

Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, who sponsored the $24,000,000 item voted by the senate accepted the compromise as a "distinct vindication of our position that additional funds were necessary for proper and adequate enforcement," of the prohibition law.

The total amount agreed upon was exclusive of the proposal of Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, of $250 000 for a dry inquiry by a presidential commission which also was provided.

About to retire from the senate leadership to assume the vice presidency Senator Curtis, of Kansas, joined the conferees today and threw his support to the compromise negotiations which proved successful after four hours more of wrangling. It is the ambition of the veteran Kansan to quit the senate with his work done and there were indications tonight that his hopes would be fulfilled.

The $3,000,000 increase for prohibition enforcement will provide a direct appropriation of $18,000,000 for this work next year, the largest amount since the law was enacted.

The remainder of the $2,977,000 item, together with the $250,000 fund for the proposed prohibition survey commission to be established by the incoming President Hoover, is included in the conference report on the first deficiency bill which the senate was slated to take up first with the house taking final action.

The prohibition funds in the second deficiency bill report were distributed among the department of justice, the customs service and the civil service commission.

Representative Wood of Indiana, ranking republican on the house appropriations committee, in presenting the report to the house, said that the conferees were in agreement on all phases of the prohibition dispute.

WISCONSIN TO VOTE ON DRY ENFORCEMENT LAW

MADISON, Wis., March 1.—(AP)—Wisconsin voters will express their opinion April 2, on whether the Severson law, state prohibition enforcement act, shall be wiped off the statute books.

A referendum on this uestion and another for amendment of the Severson law to grant immunity from arrest or punishment of persons manufacturing, selling, or possessing beer of not more than 2.75 alcohol by weight, was assured today when the assembly of the legislature after a protracted fight between wets and drys concurred in a senate resolution. The vote on the measure of which State Senator Thomas Duncan, Milwaukee, is the author, was 43 to 27. It was passed by the senate 17 to 15 February 6.

A bill to repeal the Severson dry law already has been introduced by Duncan but action has been deferred until the electorate expresses its attitude at the polls. A bill to amend the dry law to permit 2.75 beer had been introduced by another Milwaukee socialist, Senator Walter Polakowski.

2 Chicago Gangsters Are Held For Murder

In Connection With the Slaying of Seven Rivals St. Valentine's Day.

CHICAGO, March 1—(AP)— Jack McGurn and Rocco Fanelli were booked on seven charges of murder late today in connection with the St. Valentine's day gang massacre.

The two men were booked precisely at 5 o'clock, the deadline fixed by a criminal court judge who promised the men's attorney he would issue a writ of habeas corpus at that time if they were not formally charged by the police.

Throughout the day McGurn and Fanelli had been questioned by detectives seeking to link them definitely with the massacre. McGurn, it was said, clung to his original alibi story that he and his blonde sweetheart, Louise "Lulu Lou" Rolfe, were in a room at the Stevens hotel at the time the shooting took place.

The Rolfe woman also spent sometime with the inquisitors, but continued to scoff at the theory that McGurn was in any way implicated.

Police continued to maintain that both McGurn and Fanelli had been identified in connection with the massacre, but refused to specify the connection.

TILSON HAD TALK WITH PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, March 1—Floor Leader John Q. Tilson had a long talk and a long walk with President-elect Hoover yesterday morning when they practically decided on the details of the program for the extra session. Mr Hoover had summoned Tilson to his home, and after talking a while said "Let's take a walk. I need some exercise." They then started out on a long walk, during which they finished their talk on legislation for the extra session.

Colonel Tilson said he had advised Mr Hoover to call it for April 10, as he believed the farm bill would be ready at that time, and could be followed by the tariff bill by the 20th. He feels sure the organization of the house will be without factional trouble.

Colonel Tilson stressed his desire to have a reapportionment bill passed at the earliest possible date, but scoffed as "unthinkable" the proposition that has been underway in the senate, to attach as a rider to the agricultural bill a reapportionment amendment based on the 1920 census. He expects Mr. Hoover to announce the date of the extra session very soon after his inauguration. When asked how long the session might last, Colonel Tilson laughed and countered with the query, "How long is a string?"

ACTRESS ANITA STEWART TO BE MARRIED JUNE 23

Miss Stewart, here for a vaudeville engagement, said she would be married June 23 to George Peabody Converse, member of a prominent Boston family.

"I hope it will be in Hollywood but we cannot tell yet," she said. Mr. Converse is Miss Stewart's manager and is traveling with her on the tour.

COOLIDGE NOMINATIONS FAIL OF CONSIDERATION

WASHINGTON, March 1—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee failed to consider any of a number of nominations sent to the senate by President Coolidge for circuit court judges at its last meeting today and Chairman Norris did not believe confirmation was possible for them before March 4. If not accepted before adjournment the nominations die.

MATTERS OF INTEREST IN LEGISLATURE

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, March 1—The judiciary and public health committees were the only ones holding hearings today.

The bills before the public health were mostly concerning the healing arts, two of the bills, however, concerned the sale or shipment of diseased fish. They also considered a bill that would require speedboats to use a muffler. It is claimed that on the lakes and ponds the unmuffled boats are having a detrimental effect upon the fishing.

There will be no grouse or partridge shooting this fall of the reports of the committee on fish and game is adopted. The bill reported by them makes a closed season until October 19, 1930. The bill also shortens the season in which male pheasants may be hunted. It provides that the closed season on pheasants shall be from November 24 to October 19 inclusive. It also cuts the day limit to two and fifteen for the season.

The bill that was to be introduced as emergency legislation concerning the extension of time in which the Norwich board of relief might complete their work failed to appear. It is understood it will come up on Tuesday next, the judiciary hearing was crowded as the bills concerning prohibition enforcement were up for discussion.

The bill that has evoked so much attention and commonly called "birth control" is short and simple. It calls for the repeal of section 6339 of the general statutes which reads as follows:

"Use of drugs or instruments to pre-

DUTIES DEFINED BY THE FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

In Its Annual Report the Board Says Its Responsibilities Extend to Every Class of Loan or Investment Rested Upon Reserve Bank Credit—Calls Attention to the Large Growth in Volume of Loans Made by Non-Banking Lenders—Recommends Legislation to Broaden the Powers of the Board.

WASHINGTON, March 1— (AP) — Federal Reserve credit was held today in the annual report of the Federal Reserve board to constitute the basis on which the entire credit structure of the nation rests.

The report declared the board's responsibilities were not limited to the control of funds obtained directly from member banks, holding that in the final analysis every class of loan or investment rested upon reserve bank credit.

Contending that too rapid expansion of bank credit in any one field might result in serious financial disorganization, the report said the board felt it was its duty to use its influence against "undue credit expansion" in any direction.

Nine recommendations for legislation to broaden the powers of the board were embodied in the report, as was a request that the Clayton anti-trust act be amended, so as to exempt the joint stock land banks from the prohibition against interlocking directorates.

Legislation in line with the latter request is pending in congress. The board reiterated its warning against use of Federal Reserve credit for speculation and said the reserve system was obligated to employ its lending power in the broadest sense to the best interests of the nation's business.

"The effect may be," the report said, "to cause the borrower to seek accommodation at another bank, member or non-member, that is not inclined to the reserve bank. For the purpose of meeting the demand thus transferred without borrowing at the reserve bank, the bank to which the borrower applies may borrow from a member bank, which in turn, may borrow from the reserve bank. As a result of this series of transactions there would be no reduction in security loans or in borrowings at the reserve bank."

The explanation attracted attention because brokers' loans for the week ending Feb. 27, announced yesterday, showed an increase over the preceding week for the first time since the board adopted its policy of restraining the use of reserve credit for speculation.

In an analysis of the $1,600,000,000 increase in brokers' loans by New York Federal Reserve member banks during 1928, the report pointed out that because $1,330,000,000 of the amount was loaned by non-banking lenders, it had not increased the demand for reserve bank credit from that source.

"The large growth in the volume of loans by non-banking lenders reflected in part the strong cash position of corporations, which had funds available in excess of their current requirements," the report said. "These loans by non-banking lenders do not create deposits and it is for this reason that the growth of brokers' loans during the year has not been accompanied by a growth in bank deposits. A consequence of this development has been the absence of the growth of member bank reserve requirements and of demand for reserve bank credit from that source."

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE EDEL MURDER TRIAL

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP)—City Toxicologist Alexander O. Gettler testified today that he had found blood stains on a steel hammer found in the New Haven hotel room of Frederick W. Edel, who is on trial for the murder of Mrs. Emmeline Harrington, actress.

In the transcript of a verbal statement made by Edel after his arrest, read by a police stenographer, Edel was quoted as saying that the hammer was delivered to him at the Pennsylvania hotel by a chauffeur with various articles of clothing belonging to Mrs. Harrington, the day the actress was killed.

In the statement Edel said that he had arranged to meet Mrs. Harrington in Springfield, Mass., and that preceding her meeting he took the articles to his room at the Hotel Taft in New Haven. He could give no explanation of why he had given the jewels and some of the clothing to other women.

"I don't know why I did that, but I know I did wrong," the statement read.

Edel acknowledged in the statement that he had cleaned bloodstains from his shirt, vest and handkerchief, but said the stains were the result of a nosebleed.

LINDBERGH MOTORS WITH WOMEN OF MORROW FAMILY

MEXICO CITY, March 1—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today took the three women of the Morrow family for a long automobile drive into the mountains west of the capital. Their objective was the ranch of Antonio Rila Cervantes, who at the age of 75 is an enthusiastic over aviation as the colonel or his fiancee. He has even piloted a plane himself and is a great admirer of Lindbergh as well as a friend of Ambassador Morrow.

His ranch, "La Gabia," is near Toluca, the capital of the state of Mexico. The 70-mile drive there lies through spectacular mountain scenery and pleasant valleys. Leaving here this morning the party reached the ranch in time for lunch. They spent most of the afternoon there before heading back for Mexico City.

Besides Miss Anne S. Morrow, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and her eldest daughter, Elizabeth, accompanied the colonel. Before today's outing was planned, the Morrows and Lindbergh had considered journeying today to Cuernavaca where they intend to spend the week-end.

COOLIDGE SEES GOOD POINTS IN JONES BILL

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP)—President Coolidge feels that many reans in viewing the Jones bill to increase penalties for violations of the prohibition law have overlooked the aid the legislation would give custom officials in the deportation of alien violators of the dry statutes.

The president has been told by sponsors of the measure, which yesterday received final congressional approval and was sent to the white house for his consideration, that many violators are foreigners and that as the law stands now it is impossible to deport them.

It was pointed out that while the maximum penalty as increased to five years and a fine of $10,000, there is no increase in the minimum penalty and the court is given discretion in distinguishing between habitual violators and occasional or first offenders.

BILL WOULD LEGALIZE HORSE RACING AND BETTING

STATE CAPITOL, HARTFORD, March 1—(AP)—Senator Durant, of Guilford, fought alone this afternoon for passage of a bill which will, in effect, legalize horse racing and betting in Connecticut, and which would give, by actual provision, a revenue of no less than $270,000 to the state.

Senator Durant was opposed by David Gaines, Waterbury, president of the Federation of Churches, Rev. Watson L. Phillips, of the Connecticut Temperance union; Rev. R. J. Kennedy, of the First Methodist church, New Haven; Miss Mary B. Wilson, of Southington; Mr. Hungerford, of East Haddam, and several others.

STATE DRY ENFORCEMENT ACT WILL NOT BE REPEALED

STATE CAPITOL, HARTFORD, March 1—(AP)—Connecticut's law enforcing the national prohibition act will not be repealed, the general assembly judiciary committee, through House Chairman Johnson, of Manchester, announced publicly this afternoon, after Horace B. Taft, of the Taft school, Watertown, and brother of Chief Justice Howard Taft, and others had appeared in opposition to repeal.

Along with the bill calling for repeal of the entire act, the committee will reject the bill repealing the section which makes liable to arrest and prosecution those who have the "reputation" of possessing, selling, manufacturing or transporting liquor in violation of the state and national provisions.

Following Mr. Taft's speech, Chairman Johnson called a "sentiment" vote among the 400 persons assembled to listen to the arguments both on the prohibition enforcement and the horse racing bills considered by the judiciary. All present voted against repeal, not one dissenting hand being held aloft.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED BY THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP)—A bundle of last minute judicial nominations, including one for Curtis Wilbur, the secretary of the navy, were rushed to the senate today by President Coolidge but tonight it appeared that most of them would die March 4 for lack of action.

Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee called the committee for its last meeting late in the day and only two of 11 judgeship nominations received in the last two days were reported out.

He expressed doubt that any of the others could be considered during the closing hours.

Those receiving the committee's approval were Charles Edgar Woodward of Illinois, to be a judge for the northern district of Iolinis, and Allen Cox to be a judge for the northern district of Mississippi.

Mr. Coolidge named his secretary of the navy for the vacancy in the circuit court of the ninth circuit including his home state of California. But Mr. Wilbur's nomination, along with the others sent to the senate today, appeared doomed. Unless a nomination is confirmed before adjournment it dies and the place must be filled by the incoming president, Herbert Hoover.

NEW ENGLAND INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY AT HIGH LEVEL

BOSTON, March 1.—(AP)—The general level of industrial activity in New England during recent weeks, has been at the highest point since the latter part of 1925, the Federal Reserve bank of Boston, reported today.

"The New England business activity index declined slightly in December from November, 1928," the bank's monthly review says, "but increased sharply in January to a point about 3½ per cent. higher than that which prevailed during the corresponding month a year ago. The preliminary index for January stood at the highest level except the figure for January, 1920, during the history of the composite series, which extends back on a monthly basis to 1919."

SANG SONG OVER TRANS-ATLANTIC PHONE SYSTEM

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 1.—(AP)—Ellen Josten, daughter of Warner Josten, professor of music at Smith college, celebrated her birthday here today by singing a song over the trans-Atlantic telephone system to her grandfather in Eiberefeld, Germany. Arrangement for the connection were made a week ago by Prof. Josten.

ACT EXTENDS LIFE OF THE RADIO COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP)—The house bill extending the life of the radio commission as an administrative body was passed tonight by the senate with a modification that the commission be continued only until December 31 of this year, rather than for a full year.

STATE C. E. CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 1 — The Connecticut Christian Endeavor union will hold its 33rd convention in this city April 5, 6 and 7, it was announced today by Mrs. Merton C. Andrews, chairman of the local committee of arrangements. Invitations were extended by the local union and the chamber of commerce, but it was largely through the efforts of Mrs. Andrews that the state organization decided to stage the convention here. Several hundred young people from various unions of the state will attend. The full membership of the committee to arrange for the reception and entertainment of the convention follows: Mrs. Merton Andrews, chairman; Miss Ethelyn Nichols, representing the First Congregational church; Channing H. Morrill, Methodist Episcopal church; Lloyd Williams, St. Paul's Episcopal church; Miss Elsie Erickson, Swedish Lutheran church; Mrs. Philip Harris, Calvary Baptist church; Rev. T. H. W. Jones, Mansfield and Mansfield Center churches; Rev. E. F. Smiley, Windham Center and South Windham churches; G. Elwin Whitford, First Baptist church, and Mrs. Stokes Watson, A. M. E. Zion church.

The convention will open Friday evening, April 5, with Dr. Daniel A. Poling, international president, of New York city, as the speaker. Dr. Poling is editor-in-chief of The Christian Herald and is pastor of the Marble Collegiate church in New York, also chairman of the J. C. Penney foundation.

Training conferences with well-known leaders for the various groups will be on Saturday's program. Among the special leaders who will assist the state superintendents will be Carroll C. Wright, international secretary in the department of recreation; C. C. Hamilton, international secretary of the society; Prof. A. J. W. Myers, director of religious education at the Hartford School of Religious Education; Prof. C. Robert Fraser of Boston, Mass., musical conductor, and Russell J. Blair, New England field secretary.

Rev. A. C. Purdy of the Hartford seminary will address the closing session Sunday. Several of the sessions will be open to the public, including the opening meeting at the First Congregational church on the evening of April 5.

The state union committee in charge of the convention is composed of the following: Harold Muttart of Norwich, chairman; Rev. Russell O'Brien of the Andover Congregational church and president of the Willimantic union; Rev. C. S. Applegath, pastor of the Federated church in Middlefield and superintendent of the department of evangelism for the state union; Charles R. Brome of Suffield, state vice-president; Fred C. Pidwell of Hartford, state director; Mrs. Emily L. Pierce of Winsted, member of the state finance committee; Russell J. Blair, state field secretary, and Mrs. Merton C. Andrews, state director.

The state police from the Stafford Springs barracks were busy today seeking the identity of a truck driver who broke the lock off the gasoline pump at Bugbee's garage in West Willington about 4:30 o'clock this morning and helped himself to 15 gallons of gasoline. A young man who works in the garage and sleeps in the establishment nights was awakened by a noise in the yard and he saw a man pumping gasoline into the tank of a truck. Not feeling certain that his suspicions were correct, the young man telephoned the owner of the garage, Harold Bugbee, to tell him of the circumstances. Before Bugbee arrived, however, the truck had been driven away in the direction of South Willington. State Officers Wood and Zikas were detailed to the investigation.

FUNERAL

John W. Culver

Funeral services for John W. Culver were held at 62 North street this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. F. C. Williams of St. Paul's Episcopal church officiated. Burial was in the Willimantic cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of Avery & Van-Zandt.

A gray mare, weighing 1,700 pounds and owned by L. A. Girouard, ice dealer, was drowned at the Eaton pond in Mansfield Thursday afternoon when the wagon load of ice the horse was drawing across the pond crashed through the surface and immersed itself in the bottom of the pond. The animal was cut loose and removed from the water within a short time but could not be revived. The wagon was still at the bottom of the pond today.

A concert and lectures are being planned for Sunday evening at the synagogue by the Congregation of the Sons of Israel, the Hebrew Ladies' society and officers of the Hebrew children's school. Rabbi A. Greenberg and Hon. Samuel Silverman of New Haven will deliver the lectures and Charles Zudack, also of New Haven and a well-known Hebrew cantor, will sing several Jewish folk songs.

COLCHESTER

FIRE COMPANY PRAISED FOR EFFICIENT SERVICE

Praise was given the members of the Colchester fire company Friday for the fine work done at the fire which gutted the J. J. Horwitz residence on South Main street early Friday morning. By immediately laying a line of hose to the nearby brook a steady stream of water was played on the burning house with such good result that the south ell as well as the adjoining house was saved. The firemen were handicapped by the several blind attics in the main part of the house. The fire engine worked to perfection and the townspeople are convinced that the borough made a wise move in purchasing the engine. It has more than proved its worth several times during the past few years in checking serious fires. Friday morning's fire was the most serious in the borough for the last three years. During 1928 there was only a borough fire loss of ten dollars and during the past three years there was only a total fire loss in the village of $1300. Although the Horwitz house loss will amount to a higher figure than the past three years total, the Friday morning fire would have resulted in much greater damage if the local company had not been so well trained and well equipped for fire fighting.

Miss Elysse Beebe of West Hartford, a former local teacher is making a few days visit at the home of Miss Alice B. Condren.

The pupils of Bacon academy are planning to present a motion picture in the local theatre, a part of the proceeds to go for the benefit of the Academy Athletic association.

The second in the series of demonstrations of Square Meals for Health, as arranged by Mrs. Marion Evans Dakin, nutrition specialist of the State Agricultural college extension service, was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, leader of the local Farm bureau group. Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, one of the leaders attending a recent class for instruction by Mrs. Dakin, gave the demonstration on protein cookery, under the direction of Miss Ruth Russell, county home demonstration agent. The cooking of puffy omelette, cheese fondue, fricandeau of liver, mock lobster bisque and salmon loaf was demonstrated and these were enjoyed at the luncheon following. There were 16 in attendance at the class.

Courtland E. Colver, Jr., president of the local Epworth league, with Misses Helen and Margaret Colver, Lillian and Velma Atkins Margaret Parker and Doris Wightman, represented the local chapter at the Circuit league banquet in New London Methodist church, on Washington's birthday.

An entertainment was given under the auspices of the Epworth league at the vestry of the M. E. church Wednesday evening. Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt and Mrs. Jerome Greer were the committee in charge. Children of the parish, under direction of Mrs. Hurlbutt, were heard in the first part of the program and musical selections and readings followed. The numbers of the enjoyable program given were: Part I—Song, school chorus, The U. S. A. Forever; recitation, Seen and Not Heard, Madeline Schaeffer; solo, The Swing and the Lightningbug, Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham; recitations, A Mothers' Meeting, Carol Norman, Janice Wightman, Blanch Holdridge, Christine Maynard; songs by little people, My Pigeons and The Snow Man; recitations, When Tommy Goes to School, Thomas Maynard; Convalescence, Enid Latimer; Santa's Cake, Doris Coman; song, Piddle and I, Ruth Hurlbutt; recitations, The Little Round Thought, Francis Maynard; What Do You Think, Bernice Coman.

Part II—Piano solo, Valse Triste (Sibelius), Miss Doris Wightman; songs, Two Little Magpies and The Mystery, Mrs. Buckingham; readings, Mrs. Courtland E. Colver; violin solo, La Cinquantieme (Gabriel-Marie), Miss Velma Atkins; piano solo, Rainy Day Prelude (Chopin), Miss Wightman; readings, Mrs. Colver; song, Santa Lucia, by the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hull attended the funeral of Mr. Hull's cousin, George Fillmore, in Norwich Wednesday.

The Hyde School

The Nelson farm, recently owned by Edward Lee, has been sold to L. Seidman, of Jewett City. The purchase includes the little schoolhouse of District No. 4, known as the Hyde school, which was built on land belonging to the Nelson farm. The present school building was built to replace one destroyed by fire in 1882. In the meantime a room in J. B. Palmer's house was used as a school room. There has been no school in the district since 1915 because of scarcity of pupils. Miss Laura Chase, of Elmville, now Mrs. Willard Danielson, was the last teacher.

Much interest is being manifested in the organization of a local grange. About half of the more than 40 patrons of Pachaug grange living in this town have taken demits, to join the local grange.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Tuesday it snowed again. Doesn't look much like spring yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dawley and grandson and Herbert August were in Norwich Saturday trading.

George Green called at Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood's Monday.

Georgie Remington of Oneco, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood, made them a short visit Saturday.

The lady that was with Mrs. Lee Remington has gone to Sterling to work for a lady for a while. She is a good old lady. Everybody likes her.

William Bitgood has two flocks of birds he feeds every day. One flock is blue jays and the other is little birds. He says the blue jays will eat a little, then fly up on something and say tickle me, tickle me.

Mrs. William Bitgood is nearly over her cough. She is feeling better but can't do anything yet. She went to the sink Tuesday morning and washed up. She says she guesses when the warm weather comes she will come with it. She says she never wants the flu again.

Mrs. Mason Gray's little girl, the baby not quite two years old, burned her arm quite badly so they had to take her to the doctor's. Haven't heard how she is getting along for a few days. The rest of the family are some better of their colds and boils.

William Bitgood is feeling better. He says he feels so rugged some times that he could chop a cord of wood. I guess it would make him wheeze.

Herbert August and Maurice Harenton called at the Pine Grove farm Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Congdon are better. Glad to hear the news.

Warren Tanner and family are better so Mr. Tanner has been to Voluntown and two of his children went to school a few days.

Winfield Morgan went away Saturday and returned Monday. Mr. Barber is better of his cold so he did the chores while Winfield was gone.

WESTERLY

JURY FINDS CEKALA NOT GUILTY OF SLANDER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 1—On the second day of the superior court of Washington county, before Associate Justice Herbert L. Carpenter, at 11:15 Friday, in the resumption of the $2,000 slander case of Stanislaw Zegarzewski against Walter Cekala, both of Hope Valley, Attorney Flynn, for the respondent, stated that he had several more witnesses, but they had failed to appear, and he therefore rested his case. The plaintiffs Attorney G. R. McKenna called Tony Plasecik, 45, of Wyoming, employed at the Regina Spinning mill, who testified to having been on a fishing trip and overhearing voices from near the Bailey mill storehouse, recognizing Stanislaw Zegarzewski and knowing that he had a woman companion. He admitted being drunk on numerous occasions and to have been arrested at his former home in Worcester, Mass., several times for intoxication. It was a year ago Labor Day, he insisted, that he had first talked of illicit and unnatural relations between Zegarzewski and Mary Puccas.

Mary Puccas, 37, when called upon the stand, denied having had alleged immoral and sinful relations. She stated that she had been married 17 years and is the mother of eight children. Following the last witness the attorneys took twenty minutes for their pleas and court recessed until 2 p. m. Upon the resumption of court Junge Carpenter charged the jury and they retired to the jury-room where they remained ten minutes. Upon their return to the courtroom Foreman Robert T. Downs announced that the jury had found the respondent not guilty.

The first in an annual series of three inspections of Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C. (H. D.) Capt. Elvin J. Andrews, commanding, was featured by the annual prize drill and first prize was won by First Sergt. Henry A. Kingsley, salesman for the South County Public Service Co. He will act as orderly for Governor Case and staff, who left Friday night for Washington, D. C., and the thirty-sixth inauguration of Herbert Hoover, as the twenty-seventh president of the United States. The prize was a gold medal offered by the Westerly town council for the best drilled private or non-commissioned officer in the manual of arms.

The drill was held at Westerly armory before a crowded house. Members of the Westerly town court and other local officials and members of the Westerly Lions club occupied reserve sections in the auditorium. The drill was conducted by Lieut. Francis N. Spry, of Battery E. It was the first competitive drill since the battery has been under the command of Capt. Andrews, and brought forth rounds of applause from the onlookers. Second prize for the best drilled individual was third prize by First Class Private Raywon by Sergt. John C. Harvey and the Lions club for the best drilled mond A. Curtiss. The prize offered by squad was awarded to that command by Corporal John Cross of Ashaway. The squad members were Corporal Cross, Corporal Everett C. Lawton, Jr., Privates Clarence D. Stenhouse, Alfred Bolton, Roger Searle, Edward Cavanough and Baynard Bailey, all of Westerly, and Private Joseph Ulbin.

The judges were Major J. J. Collins and Captain John Daneker, of Providence, and Major John F. Datson, of Westerly. Major Datson formerly commanded Battery E.

Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, V. S., of Westerly, had a narrow escape from being struck by a freight train at Wickford Junction Thursday evening and had to dive his car and run to escape flying debris. At the same time Percy Dickinson, station agent at Wickford Junction, narrowly escaped injury when a baggage truck was jammed between two trains at the station. Dickinson was loading mail from the truck to the Gift Edge, a Boston-New York express, when a west-bound train crashed into the truck, splintering it to bits and hurling letters and parcel post packages into the air.

Dickinson, who was on the truck, saw the freight train approaching in time to jump clear. Dr. Robinson reported seeing the wheels of the mail truck lying smashed by the roadbed and packages of silk goods and other mail matter spread about and damaged.

Judge Oliver H. Williams held but an hour's session of the third district court, Friday morning, when Joseph Burgess, of Bradford, was arraigned on a charge of being a lewd, wanton and lascivious person. He pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Providence county jail. Burgess was before the court on a bastardy charge to which he also pleaded guilty. An order was entered for $50 lying in expenses and $2.50 per week toward the support of the child.

Rioly Parks, of Stonington, was discharged on a complaint charging him with operating an automobile at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper on the shore and post roads Feb. 16.

FORMER LYME MILLMAN DIES AT SAUGUS, MASS.

WESTERLY, R. I., March 1—Alexander M. Smith, 83, a former well-known Westerly textile man, died Friday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas McCarrier, 50 Main street, Saugus, Mass. Mr. Smith was superintendent of the Arnold woolen mills in Westerly for 15 years, leaving to become superintendent of the Niantic mills in Lyme, Conn., from which he retired about five years ago. He was a member of the Christian church and Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. & A. M. Besides his daughter, Mrs. McCarrier, Mr. Smith is survived by five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

EASTERN CONN. MILL MEN HOLD ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 1—Representatives of mills covering a wide area in eastern Connecticut and sections of Rhode Island to the number of more than a hundred, assembled at Waurekan, this evening, for the March meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association. The committee in charge, assisted by a corps of Waurekan workers, did their utmost to make the meeting a success, and did that very thing in complete degree.

The early evening period was featured by a supper, an important feature of which was a luscious oyster stew, served at the quarters of the Atwood Hose company. Later there was a motion picture and vaudeville entertainment for the visitors. A distinguished guest of the evening, and a speaker, was Lincoln Bayliss, Boston, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. Another notable guest was Frederick L. Babcock, Boston editor of Fibre and Fabric, and "father of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association." Mr. Babcock also addressed the mill men and lived up to his never failing reputation of having something of valuable interest to say.

Secretary Prentice W. Chase, of the association, said this evening, that June 13, 14 and 15, have been tentatively selected as the dates for holding the third biennial textile exhibit of the association at the state armory in Danielson. Secretary Chase expressed himself as particularly well pleased over the fact that two applications for space at the exhibition already have been received from firms that have never been represented by exhibits at textile shows here. Mr. Chase is now engaged with the preliminary work that will lead, it may be confidentially forecasted, to the same splendid successes achieved in 1925 and 1927.

FIVE MORE DOGS INFECTED WITH RABIES OR KILLED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 1—The battle against rabies goes grimly on in Killingly. Five additional dogs were killed today by Special Deputy Chauncey Genung, Hartford, of the commissioner of domestic animals. All of these dogs were owned in Goodyear, and this afternoon, they occupied a common grave, dug through the frozen ground. Incidentally, Deputy Genung is going to take the Pasteur treatment for protection against rabies, for he discovered, this afternoon after mingling with at least one rabid dog and four others suspected of being sufferers, that he had a scratch on one hand, and he will take no chance of being infected.

The first dog killed at Goodyear today, had been in close confinement for a considerable time by reason of the fact that he was known to have been in contact with the dog that was first killed in Goodyear nearly a month ago and afterwards established as a sufferer from rabies. Two of three days since the rabid dog became ill and grew steadily worse. He was confined in the cellar of the home where he is owned when Deputy Genung went after him this morning. During the course of the deputy's visit the dog ran from the cellar up into the kitchen, but was captured before biting anyone, something he did not attempt to do, by the way, taken out and shot. The four other dogs suspected of having been bitten and liable at any time to develop rabies, were killed shortly thereafter. Mr. Genung also killed another dog owned in Attawaugan, and this morning, forwarded from Putnam to Hartford, for examination, the head of another dog killed under suspicion of being afflicted with rabies.

Deputy Genung expressed himself as well pleased with the manner in which the quarantine generally is being observed, though he has reports of a few roaming dogs, especially in the East Killingly section, and this matter will be carefully checked by him during the coming week.

The two boys who were in the town court here yesterday, and admitted making or attempting to make, five breaks in Danielson within the past fortnight, have made additional admissions as to their activities. They have told officers who questioned them that they made two other breaks in Putnam. The particular puzzle to officials who have been in touch with this case is ever how these boys, one 11 and the other 12 years of age, have been allowed out much of various nights and on one occasion, until at least 6 o'clock in the morning, nor have they been able to get any adequate answer to this question.

No one needs two guesses as to where they got the ideas for the illegal stunts in which they have been engaging. Each owns a bowie knife, carried in a leather sheath, and used more or less successful in their thieving operations to open doors and windows and to work on cash registers they wanted to open. The older was elected captain, and shared a larger portion of the spoils than his younger "lieutenant." They rode about in taxi cabs, ate at public eating places, spent some of the spoils for a watch and even accosted a police officer in Putnam, at 3 o'clock in the morning, and gave him "a game of talk." They were living on a basis they considered high. These boys are now under suspended reformatory sentence. One false step by either of them, in the face of all that has been revealed, means a trip to the State School for Boys at Meriden. They have been proven too wise and too reckless for their years.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jessie Marshall Tracy

(Controbuted

Waurekan lost one of its oldest inhabitants recently in the death of Mrs. Jessie Marshall Tracy, widow of E. Milton Tracy.

The late Mrs. Tracy was born in Glasgow, Scotland, Feb. 23, 1851. She first came to the country at the age of sixteen, carrying samples of ginghams from the famous Aberdeen mills, of Glasgow, to the Amoskeag mills, Manchester, N. H., returning shortly after to Glasgow.

In 1870, she set out from Glasgow, to settle in Taftville, but during the voyage decided to settle in Waurekan, which has been her home ever since.

For fifty-one years she has been a member of the local Congregational church, serving for many years, as a Sunday school teacher. During these years hundreds of children received their first Biblical instructions at her hands. A note accompanying a floral piece, sent by thirty-seven of her former pupils, reads, "She opened the Bible for us, and taught us by her life how we should live."

After many months of failing health she had the misfortune to fracture her thigh on Feb. 15th., and on Saturday, Feb. 23rd., died.

Funeral services were held at the Congregational church, Waurekan on Tuesday, Feb. 26th., the Rev. W. Williams officiating, assisted by the Rev. C. J. Armstrong, Danielson. The bearers were: Messrs. E. E. Avery, Ed. Leonard, Henry Leach, Arthur Leach. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery, Central Village. She leaves to mourn her loss, two sons, Addison M. Tracy, Waurekan, Harry Tracy, Providence, and one grandson, Frederick Erwin Tracy, Yale university.

She was a woman of untiring service, deep love, great faith and high ideals.

Of interest to dairymen throughout Windham county is a meeting to be held in Grange hall, at Canterbury, next Tuesday evening. Feeding Dairy Cattle will be the subject of a talk by Extension Dairy Specialist Merrill, of the Connecticut Agricultural college, at Storrs. County Agent Raymond E. Wing will also give a talk, his subject being Some Herd Management Problems. It is stated that if a sufficient degree of interest is shown in this meeting, a series of such dairy meetings will be arranged to be held in Canterbury under the auspices of the extension service and the Windham County Farmers' association.

PUTNAM

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED IN SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 1—Judge Arthur F. Ells, of Middletown, superior court judge, appeared in Windham county today for the first time in his career as a judiciary official of the state, to preside at a session of superior court. The short calendar, civil session, opened promptly at 11 o'clock. Judge Ells assigned, the cases listed on the short calendar for trial and then took up two divorce cases appearing on the docket.

The first marital problem brought to the attention of the court was an uncontested divorce suit brought against his wife Philomene F. Ledger, by Wilfred Ledger of Ballouville, who applied for the legal separation of the marriage on charges of desertion. Ledger testified that his wife deserted his home in Ballouville four years ago. When asked for reasons as to why his wife departed he stated that she became infatuated with another man. Ledger testified that the second romance of Mrs. Ledger was severed when she returned to his home in Ballouville, only to remain but a few months.

The testimony of the plaintiff was substantiated by several witnesses who appeared in his behalf. Following careful consideration of the case Judge Ells granted the decree in favor of the plaintiff on the grounds of desertion. Ledger was represented by Attorney A. G. Bill of Danielson.

Raymond E. Baker of Hampton was granted a divorce from Mrs. Nellie May Baker of Phoenixville on grounds of desertion. Baker testified that he was married on November 27, 1904 and that he and his wife took up their residence in Hampton, living there until she left him on May 12, 1925 to go to Phoenixville to make her home with Arnold C. Kent of that village. Mr Baker in his testimony alleged that Kent has made his home with him for several years. Continued relations between Kent and Mrs. Baker, caused the husband to object and order his boarder out of the house. At this, Baker testified that his wife signified her intentions of leaving if he carried out his threat. Mrs. Baker, according to her husband remained faithful to her statement and upon the departure of Kent, she accompanied him to Phoenixville and has never returned. Baker stated to the court that he sold his house furnishings at public auction and went to make his home with relatives after the separation.

Deputy Sheriff Caro P. Lathrop of Eastford appeared in behalf of the Plaintiff and testified that to the best of his knowledge he could recollect no time when Mrs. Baker has returned to live with her husband. Judge Ells immediately granted the decree on grounds mentioned in the court petition.

The Baker divorce case when completed constituted the day's court activities. Judge Ells adjourning the session until Tuesday morning March 12, at Putnam.

Continuing their work in checking up dogs alleged to be afflicted with rabies, Special Deputy Chauncey E. Genung and Dr. F. T. Baldwin of the state bureau of domestic animals said today that they had taken into custody a small dog from the Wilkinson street section of the city which was bitten by the dog responsible for the creation of the "mad dog" scare of the few weeks ago. The owner of the animal being aware of the strange actions of his pet informed the officials of the nature of the dog's actions, requesting that they take it in charge for observation purposes. The owner said that he saw his dog tussling with a larger breed, about the time the mad dog was said to have roamed about Putnam, and while fighting the dog was bitten. Officer Genung told the Bulletin today that the Wilkinson street dog has not as yet showed symptoms of rabies, but will be kept but will be kept under observation for further developments in its condition. Officer Genung continued his investigations in Putnam this afternoon but said tonight he had discovered none. He will return to this section of the county on Monday of next week in the continuation of his work.

Funeral services for Lewis Bugbee, who died Monday in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and whose body was sent on to Putnam for burial, were held this afternoon in the chapel parlors of the Congregational church on Main street. The service was in charge of Rev. James F. English, pastor of the church, who also officiated at the committal services at the grave in Grove street cemetery. Mr. Bugbee is the son of Chester Bugbee, an old Putnam resident.

No further information regarding the federal action upon the proposed three million dollar veterans hospital for Southern New England, was to be had today by the local delegation working in the interests of securing the institution for Putnam. The local committees have been anxiously waiting for word from Washington regarding a decision as to sites and President Walter N. King of the chamber of commerce said this afternoon that he has not been informed as to when to when to expect any decision to be made by the federal hospitalization board.

Cable experts of the Southern New England Telephone company are now about to make a number of wiring changes within the Putnam district. According to plans as are now being placed into effect, the cablemen will at a near date connect all lines now openly exposed to the elements into newly strung cables upon which they are now working. The move on the part of the telephone company is being done with a view of bringing about improved service conditions.

Ruth Bryden, a student at the Willimantic Normal school, is spending a week's vacation at the home of her parents in Pomfret. Miss Bryden is a graduate of Putnam high school class of 1928.

Flora Mandville and Ruth Dennis, both of North Grosvenordale were operated upon at the Day Kimball hospital Thursday for appendicitis.

THOMPSON VOTES 26 MILLS TAX RATE FOR THE YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 1—At a very enthusiastic town meeting held in the town of Thompson Thursday afternoon the voters of the community assembled approved the motion that no increase in town tax rate be made this year. According to a vote taken yesterday the rate will be 26 mills. The 26 mills on the dollar has been the current rate in the neighboring town of Thompson for several years and was re-adopted for the coming year following a report of the town officials indicating that no increase in town funds was needed to defray expenses.

In addition to affixing the town tax rate the voters also appropriated the sum of $2,000 to be spent in the care of outside poor. This article in the town call remained at the same figure as in the past year.

Richard Jackson, insane Negro is now at the state hospital where he was committed Thursday after his apprehension by Capt. W. J. Jarvis and members of the Putnam police. But for the timely appearance of the police a tragedy might have resulted, as the man's mind was fixed upon weapons and their use, when he was taken into custody. At the state hospital the man was adjudged to be suffering from a stroke of criminal insanity and is to be held for observation and treatment. What could have been a death dealing weapon, a 38 calibre revolver, had Jackson chosen, was found by Capt. Jarvis yesterday and is being held at the police station.

"If it enters like a lamb, it goes out in the form of a raging lion," so goes the old proverb pertaining to the third calendar month of the year, March, which made its bow today. If the old saying holds true Putnam will experience a late spring, for March entered like a lamb amid a temperature reading in Putnam today of 56 degrees. It is believed that local anglers are banking on a continuation of the warm weather spell and are placing now faith in the type of weather being held in store, according to the proverb, since the word "trout" seemed to be on every ardent fisherman's lips today. The brooks in this vicinity that are abounding with good sized trout were the subjects of discussion in every nook where outdoor sports gather indoors, until the dawn of the angling season.

Through an oversight the name of Marion Hayden, a junior, was omitted from the second honor roll for the period ending Dec. 19, 1928 at Putnam high school.

JEWETT CITY

PROVIDENCE TRUCK CAUSES DAMAGE EARLY FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 1—Shortly before 7 a. m., Friday, a big trucking van from Providence went on the war path proper, when, after an early lunch, the driver, Angelo Launette of Thornton (Providence), started down the state road. The truck is owned by Tobin & Garceau, Inc., 987 Center street, Providence, and was loaded with raw tallow. Immediately after starting, from some cause not yet determined, the heavy vehicle crossed the street diagonally and banged the curb on the up-street side. Then, bounding back into the street, it made another dive, mounted the sidewalk and collided squarely with the fire hydrant at the Dearnley property, breaking it off at the coupling with the big main. Thousands of gallons of water spurted into the street as the entire 125 pounds pressure at this point was released.

C. E. Spicer, who takes charge of the piping and service department for the Jewett City Water company, had the one-time Slater main that supplies this hydrant shut off in 45 minutes. His men with drills and picks were obliged to open several feet of frozen rock ballast to reach the gate valves. During the day while a new hydrant was being coupled to the main, the city water and hydrant supply was off for the Factory Hill section. A. A. Young, Jr., superintendent of the water company, said that the truck owners were liable for all damage. There was considerable talk of a reckless driving charge. The big rubber tires on the rear wheels were worn smooth, with no chains. There was a light dusting of snow on the road which demanded at least reasonable care by the driver. The big truck was entirely out of control close to 25 yards. During its rampage two heavy poles of the Southern N. E. Tel. company were missed by a hair. These poles carry 200 pairs of telephone lines, as well as the high tension service of the community light and power service.

CASE OF JOHN HOLLIS, JR., CONTINUED TO MARCH 8

Much interest has been aroused locally by the auto truck mix-up which occurred Thursday morning on the Liston end of the state highway Bridge over the Quinebaug. This morning, in Judge John T. Barry's Griswold town court, John Hollis, Jr., driver of the Reo truck from Pawtucket, had no idea of taking the responsibility for the wrecking of the two big trucks, although the charge against him is failure to grant right of way. Judge Barry continued the case until March 8 at 9 a. m. The Reo driven by Hollis is owned by the J S White company of Pawtucket.

ARTIST-STUDENTS PLAY WITH MARVELLOUS SKILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 1—One hundred interested friends attended the recital given by artist-students of Prof. Frank Farrell of New Haven and Norwich, at the home studio of James Olson Friday evening. The splendidly rendered program numbers were: Impromptu, Op. 142 (Schubert), The Chase, Op. 5, No. 1 (Rheinberger), Miss Elizabeth Lyman, Montville; Voices of Spring (Sinding), Miss Mary Stewart, Norwich; Grand Scherzo (Gottschalk), John Carvallaro, New Haven; Theme Varie (Chaminade), Alceste (Gluck-Saint Saens), Miss Constance Learned, Norwich; Lotus Land (Scott), Reflects dans l'eau (Debussy), Mrs. William Golson; waltz, Ballet Naila (Delletes-Dohnanyi), Miss Alma Boutilier. Every selection was played with finished execution and expression, the varied themes being distinctly evident, showing the method and careful training of the instructor and the aptness of his students. The last three numbers were by Mr. Olson of Jewett City and Norwich, a pupil of whom Professor Farrell is pardonably proud. His first two selections, distinctively Chinese, were the Rush Hour in Hong Kong and Flirtation in a Chinese Garden, both by Chasins. No one could mistake the characteristic nature of these lovely numbers, especially the latter, which plainly brought to the minds of the listeners the cherry blossom gardens and the shy, sweet love-making of the little Chinese maiden and her lover, in so bewitching a background. Mr. Olson's last number was a marvel in its interpretation and his audience was spell-bound as he magnificently gave his idea on the pianoforte of the beautiful legend, the story of St. Francis of Paola Walking on the Waters (Liszt-Sliotti). Professor Farrell imparts so much of his art to his students, yet while encouraging individual talent, that this evening's music was far more than a mere recital and profoundly impressed the listeners. The rounds of applause which rewarded each number were spontaneous and sincere—a tribute to both instructor and musician. The entire evening was one of exceptional delight.

FIGHTING THE WHITE PLAGUE.

By the report of the state tuberculosis commission it is apparent that the same magnificent work that has characterized the sanatoria under its direction in previous years has continued during the last biennium. There has been much valuable work done and large numbers can point with satisfaction to the help which has been gained there.

As in all state institutions the fact that these are such places where patients can be sent serves to bring to light many cases of the disease about which little would be known. Thus while it is declared that there are 1,000 patients being cared for in the sanatoria it is also set forth that there are several thousands outside who could not find accommodations even if they desired.

It is not to be expected that every tuberculous patient will go to one of the hospitals for treatment and yet from the waiting lists that exist the commissioners believe that there should be additions to the facilities which now exist for treating the afflicted. They have made recommendations to that effect and it is to be expected that they will get thoughtful consideration when it comes time to take action. This fight against the white plague is an uphill one, but with the good results which have already been obtained in Connecticut as well as elsewhere there is reason to expect even greater results from its continuance and its increase.

It cannot fail to be noted with particular interest that the commission is committed to the replacement of these various hospitals when the time comes by fireproof structures. In its latest report the commission properly urges this for, although there has been no serious fires where loss of life has resulted, it cannot fail to be realized that old, wooden structures, where the sick in various degrees of helplessness are located, offer no protection. Provisions to safeguard against fires are made and yet there is a need for every possible protection. On the other hand there is the permanency of the buildings, which needs also to be taken into consideration.

Connecticut may well be proud of the work that is being done for the sufferers from tuberculosis but it needs to be given all possible support and continued aggressively.

MORE TREES.

From the policy which has been consistently followed in the water and park departments of the city of Woonsocket it becomes apparent that the officials of those departments are convinced of the advantages of tree planting. Further than that, it is evident that the citizens in voting the necessary appropriations are also of the same mind.

Woonsocket has planted 10,000 trees for the benefit of the reservoir watersheds and a similar number will be put in the ground this year. While this might seem like a large job the superintendent of the department shows that it is not when he states that the work can be accomplished by eight men in a period of four days, but the value of the trees in the protection of the watersheds as they grow far outweighs the expense that may be involved.

When it comes to the work of beautification there is an equally good opportunity for employing trees. This is to be seen in connection with the betterment of parks where trees are none too numerous. But while trees are being recognized as a valuable asset for watersheds and parks there is not to be overlooked the excellent opportunity which is offered for those who possess waste land to use it for the planting of trees which mean, through their own growth, the piling up of increased yearly assets.

The city which is not interested in putting out a certain number of trees each year and the landowner who is unmindful of the benefits of a tree crop are not giving proper consideration to their opportunities for improvement and future advantages.

According to the understanding that has been reached in the senate another session of congress is to pass without that body complying with the provisions of the Constitution in regard to reapportionment.

There is an apparent determination to place all the necessary obstructions in the way of action. That means that if those who desire the enactment of the Fenn bill should insist there might be no more legislation for the rest of the session. It would mean the sacrifice of much valuable time without gaining anything. It would not even insure the passage of the resolution. The result is that the matter goes over again quite the same as it has been doing throughout this decade.

The claim is made that it is opposed because of the provisions of this particular measure, and not because there is a determination to stand in the way of reapportionment. Such a claim might be made in regard to most any bill. The fact is, of course, that in the reapportionment, as it is expected to be, there is provision for bringing about a readjustment of representation so that there will be equality. That doesn't exist now and cannot exist under present conditions. There are states which have a larger representation in the house of representatives than they are entitled to. They are reluctant to give up that advantage. They desire to retain all they have even though states with larger populations are entitled to more. On the other hand they cannot fail to recognize that a constant adding to the membership of the house is undesirable. It is as large as it ought to be now.

Because of the importance of this measure the hope is entertained that it will get attention from the senate in the special session to be called in April. It is one of several matters which the extra congress will be expected to deal with along with its other business because of the importance and because of the refusal that has existed on the part of other congresses. Selfish interest has been the guiding influence in regard to this bill rather to this bill rather than constitutional requirements.

WHEN CHICAGO VOTES.

Chicago gets attention because of the size of the community, the things that occur there and attitude that is apparently displayed toward conditions in that midwest metropolis. In most cities there would be no thought of referring to the fact that an election had been held at which there was no bloodshed. It would be entirely uncalled for as judged by the experiences of the past, but when it comes to Chicago that is a feature about which interest revolves. Naturally there is a desire to know the outcome, but at the same time past performances are responsible for the requests for information as to whether there was any shooting or killings.

There must have been more or less satisfaction on the part of the Windy city when it was possible to proclaim to the world that the election of members of the city council was completed without the loss of life. There was an instance where a former judge was arrested on the charge of murder, but there was a freedom from the conditions which characterized the last city election when a series of bombings expressed the sentiment of gangland.

This improvement in conditions while surprising was perhaps no more so than was the disclosure that the Thompson faction had retained control of the city council. This was in direct contrast to the defeat administered to the Thompson forces last year. The demand at that time to clean house was general. It brought about an outpouring of voters with the result that those who backed the desired changes were elected. That was not pleasing to the Thompson machine. But since that time there has been a decrease in interest among reformers or else the division of the voters because of the number of candidates brought about the election of Thompson's men. Because of the reduced vote the impression is gained that the outcome was in a large degree chargeable to the apathy that prevailed among the voters. From all indications they had forgotten the past and there had been nothing in the immediate present to arouse them to the necessity of going to the polls and voting.

JUDGES UNDER FIRE.

When charges are brought against a judge it becomes apparent that they must be thoroughly investigated and until there has been a completion of such there are good reasons for suspending judgment. Judges may easily be the targets of unjust attacks.

At the present time there are two federal judges in New York state against whom charges have been made. Investigations in these cases are favored by the judiciary committee of the house of representatives at Washington and it is to be noted with interest that both Judge Winslow, the first against whom charges were preferred and Judge Moscowitz have urged a most thorough inquiry and offered all possible assistance to those making it.

The charges against these judges have arisen from the revelations which have been made in the bankruptcy cases in that state. There can be no question but what there are conditions which deserve a careful study in regard to the administration of bankruptcy cases. There have been disclosures which call for this even though steps have been taken to introduce a different system whereby a trust company will do the work instead of the individual receivers who were named in the past. This is expected to do away with much of the evil that has been charged, or close the door to such practices as are not justified, but while the conditions there have been subjected to such criticisms as have been made it is time that there was a setting forth of the methods of the past and a thorough presentation of the facts. With such a basis to work upon there will be opportunity for determining whether the charges that have been made are justified, or whether those accused are simply victims of past practices originated by others and simply continued by them. This would not justify their existence but it would create a far different impression.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

From the way action on certain legislation is being postponed, a better opinion is held of the next congress.

It is always cheering when you have to pay a larger income tax than you ever imagined.

We do not know why Mr. Hoover shouldn't name a cabinet member from his native state if he chooses, and that is apparently the way he feels about it.

The man on the corner says: Only two and a half months now to the opening of the straw hat season.

From the answers which Colonel Lindbergh is giving to a lot of personal questions he shows signs of wanting to be given a rest.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

There are numberless ways in which progress has been made in this vast country of ours in the last 50 years. To specify one of them is to represent all. This thought came to the writer as he read the illuminating address by Dr. Herbert Putnam on our national library, otherwise known as the New Congressional library at Washington. The first thing that impresses the visitor is the building itself, and many qualified to judge call it the most beautiful building in the world. It is indeed very striking both within and without. But its greatest value by far is the richness of its contents. There is no subject known to scholarship that is not found among its contents. This, of course, is its outstanding treasure. Books that relate to natural and physical sciences alone amount to the enormous number of 10,000,000. Its art department is one of the finest ever made, and other branches are as fully treated.

In many ways even an honest man and a church member hardly knows what to do when he comes face to face with many of the serious concerns of this mortal life. He is at a loss what to do when he comes to some situations that offer more than one solution. He can follow either of the situations without wholly losing his religion. One tragic illustration of the above will explain the general situation in which many honest men find themselves placed. For instance when a godly man looks from his window in the early morning and finds some eight inches of virgin snow on his sidewalk, what is he to do? If he attacks it in the true martyr spirit lumbago will attack his spine; if he doesn't neuralgia will creep into his conscience. Now which is worse? If he is a good old-fashioned Methodist neuralgia will be the longer; if a Congregationalist, it will be lumbago.

Does it ever strike the reader as passing strange how differently one nation judges some current event than another nation does? As an illustration mark the comments made by some foreign newspapers and magazines on President-elect Hoover's mission of good will to Mexico and the other leading states of Latin America. Throughout this country public opinion has been generally uniform on the part of the people of all political creeds as to the integrity of Mr. Hoover's motive in making this extensive journey; that it was prompted by nothing more sinister than to express the very kindly feeling of this great republic of the north to all the sister republics that make up the rest of the American continent to the south of us. But Europe criticises the expedition as undertaken for the sinister purpose of creating a larger market for what the United States produces. It cannot be said that Mr. Hoover in any of his speeches even hinted at this.

The question has frequently been asked—and not wholly untinged with a touch of sarcasm—as to what ought to be done with our retired presidents. The tone of many of these comments seems to be that while it would be illegal to knock them in the head, they ought not to do anything that will bedim the lustre of their exalted ex-position: that they ought to spend the remainder of their days as political wall flowers. But a suggestion has recently been made quite in contrast to this mushy sentimentalism and that is that President Coolidge devote his valuable time to writing on the great themes that come to the chief magistrate. We are familiar with the president's clear and concise manner of writing. The vast range of his information would give him ample material.

As these lines are written we are now fully launched on the Lenten period. Are you sufficiently interested to lend a little more time and thought to this important season? I am addressing all those whose eyes fall upon this paragraph. You sincerely believe that special seasons are as necessary to our spiritual living as mountain tops are to the physical world, or as good books are to the improvement of the mental life. Why is the Sudan less important to civilization than the British Isles and the United States are? The reason is perfectly apparent: The Sudan is a vast level while Great Britain and the United States have a great variety of physical features. How little Switzerland has figured in the history of Europe! Her great personalities stand forth as clear-cut and distinct as her Matterhorn and Mont Blanc.

How often have we wished that the writers of the New Testament had given us more of a glimpse of the Master's boyhood days in Nazareth. We are left almost entirely to conjecture, but we have a right to infer what its general scope must have been. One illustration however is given to us so clearly that we are justified in surmising what its general scope must have been. I refer, of course, to the little boy debating the great facts of revelation with the learned doctors at the temple at Jerusalem. For a boy of twelve years not only to be able to argue with, but to utterly confound, the great masters of the law, was, to say the least, most extraordinary. Is it not fair to presume that if he was master of this occasion it was a fair sample of what his life in the home was generally? If He was the Son of God at all, He was from the beginning.

Let us not be discouraged if a multitude of worthy objects press upon us for help. It gives us a glimpse of the great and diversified world that the good Lord has given us. In a world of such magnitude it is not strange that there should be both the sunlight and the shadow, just as truly on the human side as the material. Let us not forget that it is the duty of the strong to give the lifting hand to the weak. The reason why it seems there is a larger field for benevolence than formerly, is due to the fact that modern modes of communication are so much greater than they once were. It no longer takes months to hear of calamity in China; we know it in a few hours. Turkey, with its cry of suffering, is quickly brought to our ears. We look upon the litle boy in some orphanage in Turkey as though he were in Connecticut. Let us give them help, as we would a suffering child at the next door.

Isn't there some sense in this saying: "This age is not more wicked than the age of our fathers—it just fails to put down the shades?" In other words there is more openness in doing somewhat shady things than formerly. Slyness is not so characteristic of actions today as in the former times. Whether this applies to all kinds of wrong doing may be a question of doubt, but along some lines there can be no question. Take the matter of boys in their teen age carrying flasks in their hip pockets of which they are charged. Today that is done in the spirit of bravado; sometimes it is said that these flasks do not even have the smell of whiskey. The boy who did that thing years ago—who carried a flask that contained the real stuff, would not have made a display of it but once. His father, mother and relatives of both sides for five generations would have been after him.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES IN NEW ENGLAND

Arthur G. Staples, editor of the Lewiston Journal, makes an interesting contribution to the discussion of New England. He suggests that the myths which enter into the consideration of the good old times elsewhere are not absent when there is talk of the New England past. Speaking of magazine writers who make the supposed decline of New England their theme, Mr. Staples says:

What ails many of these lachrymose pot-boiler-makers is that they have set up awholly fictitious "Old New England." It wasn't so much. The average of difference between the village squire and the proletariat was that of master and servant. Poverty was grinding. The "lilac" if that is to be made a symbol, was not so lovely as the multi-colored preferred lilac of today, with the long rows of delphinium and stock and old-fashioned flowers that now bloom so widely. The city or the town square was not so picturesque as we fancy. The Yankee had all the traits of human-beings; he was no better and no worse than his kind. We select examples of sturdy and conscientious manhood, but the village of sixty years ago was too full of drunkenness and cruelty in many cases to be worthy of praise.

Born and brought up in a Maine town, Mr. Staples speaks from personal recollection of an aspect of the seamy side of life in what are now coming to be called the good old days when he adds:

We have personal memories of going as a child on the famous "excursions to the seashore," annual festivals of the old New England village, and coming home amid drunken riots on board of the boat; men fought like beasts; wherein women fled shrieking and children hid shuddering. Such a thing would today occupy front-page of the daily press. There was always a village-drunkard and perhaps more and there were always communities of such degenerate folk as were a public nuisance and a shame to God. These are now broken up and assembled in institutions.

Towns That Are Happier.

Here are not the opinions of one who is by nature a fault finder. The initials "A. G. S." signed to many of the articles which Mr. Staples contributes to his newspaper are recognized by thousands as those of one who contemplates the earthly scene with good cheer and optimism, and who appreciates to the full the homely virtues of the past. Much that he has written concerning the sterling worth of those who lived in bygone years has been copied the country over. It has appealed to sons and daughters of New England who have gone forth to make their homes in distant parts. They have been taken in fancy back to days in which there was much of happiness, and which, in consequence, may have become, with the passage of the years, so golden in memory as to preclude recollection of the sombre hues. But Mr. Staples is too painstaking a student, and too accurate an observer, to ignore the fact that the bad was intermingled with the good in the old days. And so, comparing the present with the past, he is able to tell his readers that

The life of the country-town, today in Maine, is so much better, cleaner, more sober, industrious and happier than it was sixty years ago, that figures would fail and words are meaningless to express. Many have grown smaller—none grown meaner. We defy history to produce examples of towns of sixty years ago as fine, progressive, sweet and clean as several we could name within twenty miles of this city of Lewiston, are at this moment.

Riotous Good Old Days.

Had Mr. Staples gone back beyond conditions as they existed within his recolection he might have had something to say about the days in the middle of the last century when riots were not uncommon in New England towns. Riotous proceedings were known in the Boston of that time. The passage of the prohibitory law in Maine was followed by that outbreak in Portland known as the City Hall riot, in which one man was said to have been killed when the militia fired. There were quarters in New England towns in which brawls were common. There were neighborhoods into which it was not prudent for the stranger to venture after nightfall. These were aspects of life in what has been often represented as the golden age of New England commerce and culture.

And the countryside was not everywhere that model of the stern New England virtues that it may seem to have been. Whether it be town or country, there is the same disposition to cast the glamour of distance over it when it is viewed from the bustling present. Mr. Staples reminds his readers of the darker side of life in the villages of three score years ago. He hints at similar conditions in rural regions. That they existed is not to be denied. But among those who comment on New England past and present—there is a tendency—perhaps an unconscious tendency—to give the impression that the depraved and sordid were lacking in the New England scene of the good old days.

An Aroma of Warm Bread

The Lewiston editor makes specific reference to an article "Destiny Comes to New England," written by Charles Edward Smith, and published in the February number of the Century magazine. Mr. Smith, it appears, journeyed from New York to a town in Connecticut where his mother lived. He spent a night there, and was glad to hurry back to the great city, because "each improvement in New England is a death blow to its original character. I was glad to return to New York so that I would not be compelled to observe this transition."

Poor fellow! Fortunately for him there are plenty of trains in these later days between hill towns in Connecticut and the cliff dwellings of Manhattan.

As this over-night visitor sees New England there is a sadness in the "truth that the provincial has become the national." There is more than mere sadness in the emotion conjured up by this twentieth-century New England. It is calculated to create a feel of horror. Thus we read of "the dismaying revelation that what was unique and provincial is either dying or dead." "Contemporary life," it appears, "has all but destroyed the typical New Englander." So it has caused the transformation of his womankind. Gone are the days so delightfully recalled by Mr. Smith's sentimental reflection: "When I think of the women of New England, I remember the aroma of warm bread."

As Legend and Poem

To be just to Mr. Smith, it should be said that he does not deny there were some bad people and some weak people who found themselves among the New Englanders of the virtues stern and austere. Nor does he deny that since it has become national rather than provincial New England has gained in material things. So we are told that farming is scientific and efficient. The New Englander of the town is much the same as any other suburbanite, but this is "an even more devastating change" than that which has been wrought in the life of the countryside.

Back to Earth

Mr. Smith, however, lets fancy dwell in a past which suggests to him "beautiful shy ladies gathering roses—yellow, pink and white roses—in the drowsy sunshine of June." He admits that the wife of the old-time New Englander may have been restless. She may have been unhappy. But the emphasis is thrown upon the beautiful shy ladies and their roses. And mingled with the scent of lilacs is the aroma of warm bread. He who takes Mr. Smith with becoming gravity may possess himself of a distorted picture of the New England of the past, the New England of the descendants of the Puritans, with the virtues, very large in the foreground, and the evils very insignificant in the far distant. "I remember a New England that is now all but forgotten, that has become a legend, a poem," exclaims out latest commentator from the world beyond New England borders. Perhaps he gets that way by living in New York.

But New Englanders may be pardoned if they bring poetic flights of fancy back to earth. For some years there has been discussion of the state of New England industry. Because critics of this corner of the land have in so many ways expressed the opinion that it was "slipping" in wordly affairs it has been necessary to conduct organized effort that the real facts might be known. Now it would seem that there is to be comparison with the New Englanders of the present with the New Englanders of the past. We are to mix psychology with our economics. A twentieth-century people, national in habits and opinions, are to be brought face to face with the "provincial" people who occupied the six states up to the latter years of the past century.

Nobody will object to that. But if we are to be told about the New Englanders of yesterday, let all the facts be presented, and in their proper perspective. If we are to hear of lavendar and old lace, of men who walked in the path of righteousness even if it was a gloomy way, let it also be recalled that they were not the whole population of New England. And it might be proper to suggest that the best among them sometimes faltered by the wayside. It was in colonial days that a good minister settled in a New England town wrote in his journal upon the occasion of an ordination, some among those present "forgot decorum."—F. G. Fassett in Boston Transcript.

Sunday Morning Talk

Our Great Men

As the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln have again passed, we have observed the birthdays of two of our greatest presidents. Our country is now enjoying the benefits of their noble lives.

An architect having raised a proud and noble building to the service of the Almighty, his admirers desired to erect a monument to his memory. How was it done? His name was inscribed upon the wall with these additional words: "You seek his monument; look around."

Let those who look for a monument to Washington or Lincoln look around the United States. One noted man said: I yield to nobody in the world in reverence and respect to the immortal memory of Washington. His life and his principles were the guiding star of my life, to that star I looked for inspiration and advice during the vissitudes of my stormy life.

In celebrating Washington's birthday year by year our generation may well bear in mind the fine example of regular church attendance set by our first president and many other great men.

That is what is needed most of all today in church and state—men of high standards that shall life up and stand firm and loyal for all that is best.

"Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

"Let us, then, be up and doing;
With a heart for any fate.
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 1 — The senate has a provokingly joking way about it sometimes. At least, that tall and solemn memeber from Minnesota, Henrik Shipstead, could be pardoned from thinking so. His colleagues gave him a real ride, first voting at his behest to reconsider a conference report carrying $500,000,000 and up in order to give him opportunity to deal with his three-year hobby, the shipping board machinery for recruiting seamen.

The reconsideration was voted 39 to 27. And after Shipstead had his innings, the senate turned right around and reapproved the report as was, 53 to 11.

Fights Recruiters

Three times the Minnesotan has slid into shipping board appropriation bills a stipulation that none of the money should be available to pay expenses of the sea service bureau, which recruits men for the ships. Three times it has been knocked out in conference.

Each time Shipstead raised hob about it, but got overruled. His main objection to the bureau seems to be that it maintains a sort of blacklist against men accused of a variety of offenses.

A letter from Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board, denying that the bureau was operating illegally or duplicating functions of federal commissioners, went into the record.

One phrase of that letter may be enlightening as to the underlying reason for Shipstead's single-handed crusade against the employment bureau. If one remembers that he figures in the Congressional Directory as the only "farmer-labor" member of the senate, although he sits on the republican side.

"The sea-service section makes no discrimination against seamen on account of affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor organization," the O'Connor communication said.

Dispute Over Figures

Incidentally, what looked like a conflict developed between shipping board and immigration bureau figures over the proportion of American citizens in the crews of various American ships, including the Leviathan.

Senator Shipstead rather astonished the senate by pronouncing the name of that vessel "Levi-A-than" and insisted the immigration office figures showed that under the sea service bureau "in this era of unemployment American citizens cannot get work." He argued that the shipping board figures dealt only with deckhands, while the immigration figures cover the entire crew.

"Does the senator doubt the accuracy of this shipping board report?" Senator Warren demanded.

"No," said Shipstead, and the senate also seemed to feel that way about it, for the next minute it sent the money bill through with only 11 votes supporting Shipstead's opposition.

"LENT AND MY HOME"
Memory Verse for Saturday

"Every one that loveth is begotten of God, and knoweth God." (1 John 4:7). (Read: I Corinthians 13).

MEDITATION: The home is life's primary school for us all our lives. As love is the only law of the home that will work, so we learn that it is also the only law for society, for the world. Love is enlightenment. It reveals the quality and the intention which is at the heart of things. Where love is not, there is darkness.

"Love only comprehendeth love,"
And knoweth whence it came."

So in this home of mine I continue to learn the meaning of life and with an understanding heart enter into the joys and sorrows of the world interpreted by love.

PRAYER. My God and Father, who dost reveal Thyself in the love of this home of mine, make my heart pure that I may see Thee. As I return hither from my wanderings, so lead my wayward and prodigal thoughts ever back to Thee, my sure refuge and my peace. Amen.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Inquiries received by the bureau of internal revenue indicate confusion in the minds of the writers concerning the difference between business expenditures and business expenses. Business expenditures are not always business expenses and therefore deductible within the meaning of the income-tax law. A merchant may build an addition to his store at a cost of $25,000. This is a capital expenditure for an addition to his assets. Capital expenditures are not deductible.

Medical, law, or other professional books, machinery, tools implements, or surgical instruments purchased by a taxpayer for use in his business, trade, or profession, and which are of a permanent character, are capital expenditures and their cost is not deductible.

The purchase price of an automobile, even one used wholly for business or professional purposes, is a capital expenditure and not deductible. The cost of gasoline, repairs and upkeep of an automobile is deductible if used only in business. If used partly for business and partly for pleasure and convenience, such cost should be apportioned accordingly. The proportion of cost justly attributable for business purposes is deductible as a necessary expense.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Danny Sees the Last of the Stranger

Pity those who strive to gain
Safety, knowing it is vain.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse had darted back into the opening to his tunnel, then had turned around and now was peeking out. Danny had had a very good reason for darting back. He had had an extremely good reason for darting back. He had seen what the stranger whom he was chasing had not seen. He had seen what appeared like two shadows—one in the air and the other on the snow—both moving. One really was a shadow. The other was Spooky the Screech Owl. As Spooky flew above, his shadow seemed to fly along on the snow.

"Spooky will get him," thought Danny. "I've just had a fight with him, but I don't hate him enough to want him to be caught. Yet there isn't anything I can do." Then he began to say under his breath, "Run, run, run!" just as if the stranger could hear him.

The stranger was running. He was running with all his might. Danny guessed that he had discovered who was after him. Suddenly Spooky swooped. Spooky missed. Danny was glad. Yes, sir, Danny was glad. In spite of the fact that only a few minutes before he had been fighting that stranger with all his might, he was glad when Spooky missed. You see, the stranger had dodged.

But Spooky dodged, too. Looking at Spooky when he is sitting still, you wouldn't think he could turn in the air as quickly as he can. He turned and swooped again. Once more the stranger dodged successfully. Once more Spooky turned and was back after the fleeing mouse.

"Run, run, run!" squeaked Danny.

The stranger was running. He didn't need to be told to run. He had no desire to find the way down Spooky's throat. Danny could just imagine how he felt.

"Oh dear!" thought Danny. "He has taken the wrong direction now. If he had run straight for the old stone wall he would have been safe. Why didn't he keep on the way he was headed? I declare, he's coming straight back here now!"

"Spooky will get him," thought Danny

It was true. The strange Meadow Mouse was headed straight back. You see when he dodged he had to go in some new direction and he hadn't been able to keep on toward the old stone wall. Had there been any openings down under the snow, he would have been all right. But there were none. The nearest hole that that strange Meadow Mouse knew of was the one that Danny was peeping out from and watching him.

Danny saw him coming and he was a little dismayed. He wondered what he should do now. If that stranger should come back, would he, Danny, drive him out again? But the stranger didn't come back. He was half-way there when once more Spooky swooped. This time Spooky flew away and he carried with him the strange Mouse. Yes, sir, he carried with him the strange Mouse. Danny was both sorry and glad. Of course he was sorry that the stranger was caught. At the same time, he was glad that he was not going to have any further trouble with that stranger.

There was a squeaky voice just below Danny. It was the voice of Nanny Meadow Mouse. "Has the stranger gone?" squeaked Nanny.

Danny scrambled down beside her. "Yes, my dear," said he, "the stranger has gone."

"Is he likely to come back?" inquired Nanny.

"No," replied Danny, "no, I don't think we'll ever see him again. I think he has gone away for good."

"For the good of all concerned," said Nanny.

"For the good of all concerned except himself," replied Danny, and he wouldn't say a word more.

Diet the menace of Hollywood

Stars wrecked seeking slimness

PHOTOPLAY MAGAZINE recently revealed that many motion-picture stars ruin their health seeking slimness. The motion-picture camera adds from 5 to 20 pounds to the appearance of a star's figure, so that many of these celebrities become victims of dieting.

One famous star died of tuberculosis brought on by weight reduction. Another ruined her career and was made an invalid by starvation. Still another resorted to quick reducing medicines and is today virtually an invalid. Another star is mentioned who collapsed on a set after trying to lose 10 pounds.

One of the alarming dieting extremes indulged in by the stars, according to Photoplay, is eating no food at all for breakfast, and seriously limiting nourishing foods for both luncheon and dinner.

No person can be healthy without eating enough nourishing food daily and regularly. The tragic experience of motion-picture stars should be a warning to all women and girls to eat enough.

Modern health authorities insist on a variety of foods, including milk, vegetables, fruits and meats. It is a dieting error to suggest eliminating sugar from the diet, for sweetness is the perfect flavor that makes all of the healthful foods so delicious. Serve applesauce, grapefruit, dried and canned fruits and cereals for breakfast sweetened for enjoyment. Learn the value of sweetening in the cooking of all vegetables for delicious flavors. Sweetening improves the taste and flavor of fruits and cereals. Sugar and flavoring make delicious milk-shakes and egg-nogs.

See that every member of your family eats enough. The best cooks are generous with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

CITY OFFICIAL HELD FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

HAMDEN, Conn., March 1—(AP)—Daniel F. Pickett, assistant city clerk of Waterbury, was arrested tonight on a charge of reckless driving following an accident here tonight. While driving along Whitney avenue his machine went off the roadway, struck a fence and ended its progress against a telephone pole, in Mt. Carmel.

Miss Agnes Tauley, 27, of Willow street, Waterbury, a passenger of the automobile was taken to New Haven hospital suffering from lacerations of the body. Pickett claimed the accident occurred when he was forced off the road by other machines.

GRADE CROSSING DECISION BY JUDGE ALLYN L. BROWN

NEW HAVEN, March 1—(AP)—Finding that the order of the public utilities commission which allowed the New Haven road to remove its gates and flagman from the Webster street grade crossing, of the Northampton division, was "so unreasonable and so inimical to public safety as to justify judicial interference," Judge Allyn L. Brown today abrogated the order in superior court. The appeals of the city of New Haven and the town of Hamden from similar orders affecting seven other crossings on the same division were dismissed.

BAY STATE GOVERNOR WRITES N. Y. CHIEF EXECUTIVE

BOSTON, March 1—(AP)—Gov. Frank G. Allen today wrote to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, that the New York executive's refusal on February 13, to permit extraditions of Frederick Biedenkapp, appeared to him "to be inconsistent with the requirements of the constitution of the United States." Biedenkapp was wanted here on a charge of conspiracy in connection with his activities during a textile strike at New Bedford, last year.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE WHILE CROSSING STREET

STAMFORD, March 1—(AP)—Struck by an automobile while crossing a street tonight, Miss Mary R. Halpin, 23, a stenographer, was carried for a distance on the hood of the machine before her head went through the windshield causing a possible fractured skull. She was taken to the hospital and is not expected to live.

HOUSE VOTES $150,000 FOR NICARAGUAN SURVEY

WASHINGTON, March 1—(AP)—The house today passed a bill to give legislative authority for the appropriation of $150,000 for a survey of the proposed Nicaraguan canal route. The money for this purpose is incorporated in the pending second deficiency bill. The senate already has passed a measure similar to the one approved today by the house.

Champion Pass Writer

NEW YORK—(AP)—Edward Sundell, who has died after 40 years of service with the New York Central railroad, was regarded for many years as the champion pass writer. Commerce Commission laid down rigid restrictions on the granting of railroad passes, Mr. Sundell was chief clerk in the late Chauncey M. Depew's office. The pass job was his and Sundell frequently was seen making out 20 or more passes in a block.

CHAMBER CAMPAIGN WORKERS RECEIVE INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMING DRIVE

The entire chamber of commerce campaign organization held their first get-together meeting Friday evening at 7 o'clock at the Wauregan hotel for the purpose of receiving final instructions regarding the campaign which will get underway Tuesday morning. The campaign has for its aim the raising of a $20,000 budget, through memberships and subscriptions to the activities fund, in order that the chamber may properly carry on its work.

Commanding Ace Frank R. Murdy presided at the hour and a half session Friday evening. After the instruction period the workers selected prospects upon whom they will call next week. General Chairman Hugh B Campbell was present and requested every worker to attend the "kick-off" dinner Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Wauregan hotel.

The personnel of the campaign organization was announced Friday evening, as follows:

Commanding Ace—Frank R. Murdy.

Plane 12—Pilot, Joseph S. Adams; Workers, L. Goffe Briggs, A. Curland.

Plane 13—Pilot, Henry S. Lyon; Workers, Martin Cohen, Emory H. Davis, Alfred Lillibridge, Arnold Smith.

Plane 14—Pilot, Earl Taggart; Workers, William Dougherty, L. E. Dix, F. E. Eggleton, James Brassill.

Plane 22—Pilot, Francis T. Diggins; Workers, John A. Cunningham, Sydney Smith, Jacob Block, Sam Aoleman.

Plane 23—Pilot, William J. Fitzgerald; Workers, Weston C. Pullen, James F. Quinn, George Driscoll, Edwin J. McKnight.

Plane 24—Pilot, John B. Caroh; Workers, P. F. Sweeney, N. Eugene Smith, Edward G. McKay, A. Leclaire.

Division 3—Ace, Ernest O. Rodier; Plane 31—Pilot, Henry D. Johnson; Workers, Edmund Hindle, Arthur L. Peale, Roy D. Judd, Aaron P. Hardy.

Plane 33—Pilot, Walter S. Gilbert; Workers, John H. Perkins, Theodore P. Sage, Charles E. Gilbert, Thomas Burdick.

Plane 34—Pilot, C. E. Smith; Workers, John Bell, William S. Spencer, John J. O'Rourke, W. P. Haugh.

Plane 43—Pilot, William R. Frisbie; workers, S. Leclaire, Michael D'Atri, Peter Barber.

Plane 44—Pilot, Meredith Lee; Workers, John R. Tarrant, Dr. A. J. Sullivan.

That the "take-off dinner" of the workers in the chamber expansion campaign scheduled for Monday evening will be largely attended is indicated by the large number of reservations already made. The question, "How's Your Spizzerinktum?" has aroused interest among members as to just what "Jimmie" Gheen means by this subject. Accordingly, Mr. Gheen wishes it announced that he will give a prize to the person who evolves the correct answer. Mr. Gheen is popularly known as "Jimmie" throughout the east. He is secretary of the Albany, N. Y., chamber of commerce.

This same talk was recently given before a convention of chamber of commerce presidents and secretaries in the Hotel Bancroft in Worcester, and it was the outstanding speech of the conference and created considerable amount of favorable comment. Mr. Gheen will arrive in Norwich Monday afternoon, coming from New York.

The meeting is scheduled to take place at 6:30 sharp. All the aces, pilots and workers are expected to attend and in addition many members of the chamber, who are not working on the campaign, have made reservations. Mayor Lee Roy Robbins has indicated his intention of attending. He will be called upon to officially open the campaign. Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, general chairman of the drive, will preside. William G. Park will lead the singing and D'Atri's orchestra has been engaged.

Frank R. Murdy, commanding ace of the sales organization, reported Friday night that his organization is 100 per cent complete, a total of 90 men being enlisted for this phase of the campaign. F. Russell Smith, who is chairman of the activities committee, has his committee in operation already and has obtained several substantial subscriptions.

Of particular interest to the citizens of Norwich should be an announcement made Friday evening by President Joseph C. Worth, bearing on the industrial expansion plank in the program of work.

President Worth's announcement to the citizens of Norwich, says:

The chamber of commerce is undertaking to raise a budget of $20,000. One of the principal items included in the budget is an appropriation of $2,500 for industrial promotion. If this sum is raised, it is the purpose of the officers to organize what will be known as the Norwich Industrial Commission. The purpose of this commission would be divided into two phases.

1st. To collaborate with the manufacturers' association and with industries in general in Norwich, to the end that the chamber may be of the greatest possible service in aiding these industries in any way that it can.

2nd. To aggressively seek new and desirable manufacturing plants for this city.

If the above plan is carried out, and I have every reason to believe that it will be, we propose that the commission will be made up of ten or 15 interested members and that out of that number a committee of possibly three shall visit two or three cities that have been particularly successful in the line of industrial expansion, studying their methods and searching for ideas which may be of benefit in the local situation.

It is planned to maintain a prospect file in the chamber rooms and keep a careful record so that it may be possible to give the citizens an accurate account of all the endeavor the chamber puts forth in this direction. It is also proposed to have a tip card printed which will be distributed among the members to solicit their assistance in making suggestions. There are no doubt many industries that might economically be located in Norwich to their advantage.

It will be the purpose of the commission to find out just which industries can be so classified. It will not try to induce industrial expansion that will conflict with the industries that are now well established in the city, nor will it try to induce plants to locate here by paying bonuses, moving expenses or by investing in the stock of the company. It will, however, be interested in financing the erection of suitable factory buildings, according to manufacturers' specifications and requirements.

I believe that this phase of the program alone is ample justification for the interest and support of the business men.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, general chairman of the campaign, has received the following letter from James L. Case:

As a past president of the Norwich chamber of commerce I am heartily in accord with the present activities designed to increase its usefulness to the city.

The chamber has accomplished many worthwhile things, but it cannot of course do everything everybody thinks it ought to do. No organization, to my knowledge, claims that distinction. I believe that with the means available in the past and the support given in time as well as money, by many of our business and professional men, we have attained an enviable record for a city of our size.

I understand that this year's budget has not been increased materially over that of last year. The reason it appears so is because of the consolidated campaign for the chamber and the merchants' bureau. Every item of proposed expense has been carefully gone over by at least two committees and by the board of directors and several items have been reduced that I think might justifiably have been increased.

When one considers the amounts invested in community promotion by other cities of similar size and nature we can conscientiously claim a modest proposal.

I feel sure that the citizens of Norwich will rally to the support of this important phase of our community life as they often have in the past, to the end that Norwich may grow and prosper and thereby become a bigger and better city in which to live.

Ernest O. Rodier, commanding ace of Division 3, has written Dr. Campbell as follows:

"There never was a truer statement than the one to the effect that a city is known by the kind of a chamber of commerce it keeps. That is the barometer of civic pride and progress. A poor, starved, struggling chamber of commerce indicates that the city where it is trying to function has lost community vision.

"I like the present movement of the Norwich chamber, of which you are the general chairman, because it has projected a program which is worth while, and because it is asking for enough budget to enable it to be a first class organization doing a first class job."

GAVE SECOND LECTURE OF SERIES ON LITERATURE

The second lecture in the series upon Literature was given by Dr. Gerard E. Jensen in the Osgood Memorial on Friday evening.

Recalling a definition of literature as the expression in words of human experience, and such expression being given by men of genius, Dr. Jensen stated the subject for this lecture as the Relation of the Art of Poetry to the Other Arts. Next week's lecture will illustrate the various types, as Epic, Lyric, Dramatic and others, and the final talk will be upon the Value of Literature.

In the three divisions of art, the esthetic or fine arts are engaged in discovering beauty, as in music or poetry; the liberal arts relating to language, philosophy and science are engaged in discovering truth; while the useful arts (mechanical, textile) are engaged in making human life more comfortable.

The art of literature must not be thought of as limited to the poem but may be illustrated in prose and drama as well as poetry. Literature is concerned with beauty not primarily for its educational value, nor its use, nor for moral purpose, though it does achieve all these.

Architecture survives by its form but in music, form is secondary to content, as also in painting, but literature is built of words, not paint nor notes. Music by itself has its own alphabet, words and ideas, yet it is impossible to translate it into words. Although sometimes music may simulate the sound of wind or the rhythm of dancing feet. Music at its best is untranslatable, yet it speaks a language understood by human minds. Illustration—Who can tell the joke in a Scherzo or the Humoreske—yet everyone feels it.

Sculpture deals with beauty in three dimensions, painting in only two dimensions, and both deal with brief moments of arrested beauty, while music expresses beauty in continuous form. Painting and sculpture are chiefly descriptive arts and cannot do what literature does nor what music does. Depth in painting relates to perspective, shadows, but in literature it has to do with balance of word or thought and contrast. The decorative arts borrow from nature. There may not be a painted scene, no illustration of a song or poem, yet there is a peculiar use. An oriental rug says nothing in words yet it leaves an impression of character.

Literature is like painting in having color and like music in having motion and melody, marvel-like qualities, beauty of form. Two descriptive selections from Christopher Morley's Ride Down the Delaware Valley, and Thomas Hardy's Eustasia from The Raturn of the Native, show how literature is good in description. It exceds in drama, in narrative, in exposition, in power over persons.

Contrasting art and science it may be said art relates to something to be done while science relates to something to be known. Both literature and science deal with human experience but the objectives of each are radically different. Science deals with experience exactly, while art seeks beauty. When the two are attaining beauty then they are being reconciled. Science and art are not competitive but rather like colleagues. Science does not feed the soul and art does. Science is not interested in individuals while the essence of art is individuality. Science is right in resenting the overt acts of some poets but literature may claim them. In his poem on the Locomotive in Winter, Walt Whitman has meddled with science but made a beautiful poem.

Historians disagree with scientists and they in turn with philosophers, but literature claims many for its own. Science has no business meddling with the fine arts. Edgar Allan Poe, the first great critic in America, had a sarcastic poem "dedicated to Science."

Yet it must be admitted that men of talent may work in the different realms of literature and science, as witness Samuel Johnson, eminent in two fields, since he wrote a treatise on "Chymistry," prepared a dictionary, and is always remembered for his literary ability. Others belonging in this class would be Ruskin, Francis Baron, Benjamin Franklin.

Emerson's "Nature" contains the idea of evolution; Tennyson's Locksley Hall a foregleam of the areoplane.

Literature may be called the most significant of all the arts and the only art which tells us what human beings think of other human beings and the world in which they live. Other arts also bring beauty into life and help for living.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH WON CUP AT INTER-CHURCH MEET

The Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, was awarded the cup by the judges at the interchurch stunt night presented Friday evening at the Community house under the auspices of the Norwich Council of Girl Workers before a large audience. Eleven churches in the city and town participated in the competition and the various stunts, which were gracefully and delightfully given by the entertainers, were enthusiastically received by the audience. The meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. E. H. Davis president of the council, opened with the address of welcome by Mrs. Davis and the remainder of the programme was carried out as follows:

Processional, "Fling Out the Banner"; Trinity M. E. church, stunt entitled Priscilla Allen; Taftville Congregational church, Edith Cavell; Central Baptist church, Ann Hazeltine Judson; A. M. E. Zion, Grace Bantist and Mt. Calvary churches, George Washington; First Bantist church, Clara Barton; Greeneville Congregational church, Lindberg; Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist, Sir Galahad; Park Congregational church, Betsy Ross; United Congregational church, Joan of Arc; Trinity Episcopal church, Frank B. Kellogg; Christ Episcopal church, William Penn; roll call responded by cheer or song from each group.

The judges, Mrs. George Warren Potter, Mrs. William G. Park and Mrs. Avery Smith, then rendered their decision in favor of the Universalist church and honorable mention was accorded the Park Congregational, United Congregational and Greeneville Congregational churches. The cup was presented to the winning church by Mrs. Potter.

During the evening a delightful programme of music was rendered by the Central Bantist church orchestra comprising Joseph S. Adams, Frank Dodge, John M. Swahn, Gilbert Adams, Walter W. Lang and Sherman Barber.

ANOTHER LARGE CROWD AT LOCAL AUTO SHOW

That the Norwich automobile show is attracting widespread attention was evident by the attendance at the armory Friday evening, to inspect the splendid array of exhibits. A feature of the evening which was designated as "civic organization" night, was the fine musical programme provided by the Colonial orchestra with Herbert Rich, formerly of the Baltimore orchestra, directing. The show is being given under the joint auspices of Battery B, 192nd Field Artillery and First Battalion, Headquarters Battery.

The program by the orchestra comprised:

March, "The Colonials" Farrar
Selection, "The Fortune Teller" Herbert
Fox trot, "Maybe This is Love" from "Three Cheers"
Intermezzo, "Sunny Hours" Herbert Rich
Trumpet solo, "Because" D'Hardelot
Suite, Three Dances from Henry VIII German
Fox trot, "Sweethearts on Parade"

The show will be continued this (Saturday) afternoon and evening, the final day, and the music will be furnished by D'Atri's orchestra. Today will be known as "suburban day" and large delegations from surrounding towns are expected.

GUSTAVE BJORK CHARGED WITH STEALING CHICKENS

Gustave Bjork, 37, of Convent avenue, was arrested Friday night about 10.45 o'clock at North Main and Fourth streets, on a charge of theft of four chickens from Joseph and Rose Walenda of No. 552 North Main street. Bjork was arrested by Officer Peter Sullivan who saw him carrying three dead chickens. The chickens' heads had been cut off and Bjork was carrying them under his arm.

Investigation by the police resulted in the discovery that the chickens belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Walenda. Later the police found the fourth chicken in an ash barrel in the vicinity. Bjork was held under bonds of $500 and will be presented in the city court this (Saturday) morning.

FUNERAL

Weronika Jablonska

The funeral of Weronika Jablonska was held Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock from the home of her parents, No. 29 Carpenter street, followed by a requiem high mass at the Divine Providence church, at 9 o'clock. Rev. Father Pulit was celebrant of the mass. Miss Frances Kstazek presided at the organ. Friends acted as bearers and the burial took place in the Divine Providence cemetery. Rev. Father Pulit conducted the committal service. Undertaker J. Woikowski had charge of the funeral arrangements. Miss Jablonska is survived by her parents and several brothers and sisters. She was a member of the Children of Mary, who attended the funeral in a body.

COMMUNITY MEETING AT CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

At the community meeting in the Central Baptist church on Sunday evening, special music will be furnished by the choir, Fred T. Maples will sing Kipling's Recessional, with Miss Louise Fuller presiding at the organ.

The citizens' committee of which Mayor Lee Roy Robbins is chairman, will present the message from the people of Norwich which will be telegraphed to President-elect Hoover.

What May We Reasonably Expect From the Hoover Administration? will be the topic of the evening. The meeting will begin promptly at 7.30 o'clock.

LOCAL EAGLES WATCHING OLD AGE PENSION BILL

The members of Norwich aerie, No. 367, F. O. E., are watching with interest the old age pension bill, which is sponsored by the Connecticut State Fraternal Order of Eagles, and which will come up for hearing March 7th at the state capitol, Hartford.

Edward J. Mullins, member of the state committee on the old pension, will attend a state meeting Sunday in New Britain at which time the proposed bill will be discussed. State Treasurer William R. Hastedt, of this city, will attend the meeting.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Kenneth B. Church, of Uncas street, entertained with four tables of bridge Friday evening. The prizes were won by Mrs. James A. Morton, Mrs. Webster D. Copp, Miss Beatrice E. Eastwood, W. Manley Eastwood, Jr., James M. Morton and Harold T. Robinson.

Mrs. William B. Clarke and her daughter, Mrs. Christopher M. Gallup, of North Stonington, have returned after ten days' stay at the Marlborough-Blenheim, Atlantic City.

In a setting of spring flowers, Mrs. Robert Williams, formerly of Norwich, gave a tea at The Mohican Friday to about 50 friends, in honor of Miss Margaret Fuller, the author, of Norwich, and her sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Fuller Eastman and Miss H. Louise Fuller. At the tea table were Mrs. Williams' sisters, Misses Helen M. and Annie E. Williams, with Miss Annie L. Ruggles of Norwich, Mrs. Donald J. Mitchell, Mrs. J. Beveridge Lee and Miss Susan S. Gardner, of New London. Among those who went down from Norwich were Mrs. William H. Painter, Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon Hall, Miss Amy L. Cogswell, Miss Elizabeth Huntington, William C. Ruggles. There were present from New London Mrs. Blanche Lanman Carr, Mrs. Gerard E. Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Archa W. Coit, also members of the resident colony at Connecticut college.

COMMUNAL FARM PLAN IS TRIED BY MEXICANS

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—(AP)—An experiment in applied socialism on Mexican farms is described by R. R. Creager, republican national committeeman from Texas, as a transformation in agrarian methods.

During a tour of inspection with President Portes Gil, Mr. Creager saw communal lands maintained by government agencies to further Mexico's agricultural welfare.

In this state of Tamaulipas there are 170 "ejidos," or rural communities operating on a communal scheme. Individual acreage is obtained by determination of a communal council, and tax money goes into a community fund.

Prohibition is enforced in the ejidos, Mr. Creager said, and crop production thrives under scientific methods sponsored by the government.

Jewelry Industry Merging

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The biennial census of the jewelry industry, conducted recently by the department of commerce, discloses a reduction of nearly 7 per cent. in the number of establishments from 1925 to 1927, but a slight increase in the number of workers, showing the trend toward larger units in this industry. Of the 1,367 establishments reporting, 491 were in New York State, 188 in Rhode Island, 138 in New Jersey and 135 in Massachusetts.

MALONEY GETS DECISION OVER HEENEY IN BRUISING BATTLE

BOSTON, March 1—(AP)—A left-hand jab, the same blow that helped Gene Tunney to retain his title last July, again proved troublesome to Tom Heeney, the New Zealand heavyweight, and he was decisively outpointed by Jimmy Maloney of Boston here tonight in a bruising ten-round contest at the Boston Garden.

Heeney entered the ring after being inactive eight months and this idleness took its toll. He was heavier and more sluggish than he was against Tunney but he bored in from the first bell to the last, never escaping from the left jabs which Maloney fed him with monotonous regularity.

Eight months ago Heeney was known to Fistiana as the "Hard Rock," but tonight Maloney had him well softened long before the contest reached the half-way mark. Tom tried vainly to land a hard right-hand punch, the blow he used to knock out Maloney in a single round 18 months ago, and he missed most of the attempts.

He was swinging his rights much too late and Maloney was always quick enough to find him with a left jab and, oft-times, a hard left hook. These stinging punches cut Heeney's face and he was bleeding from a dozen facial cuts at the end, which found his opponent un-marked and fairly strong.

The score card showed that Maloney won eight rounds, Heeney one, the second, and one session, the third, was even.

Heeney started his boring tactics early in the first round and he appeared to be greatly shocked when Maloney caught him with a left which opened a slight cut above his eye. Maloney sent in with instructions to use nothing but lefts to head, followed orders and the rushing Heeney was always open for them.

Tom beat the Bostonian to the punch when the second round started, but he clinched and Maloney belted him about the body with hooks, using both hands until they were separated. Heeney then pasted his opponent with hard lefts and rights to the head and ended the round by landing three hard right jabs to the jaw. He was not easily taken aback when Maloney took this punishment without flinching.

Heeney again put over the first blow in the third, a left to the head. Maloney ripped in body punches as Heeney worked on his face. Heeney scored three more rights to the head, which had but little impression on Maloney, and then the Boston heavyweight evened the round by slowly jabbing as he studied his subject.

Each of the remaining seven rounds contained the same action. Heeney would bore in at the bell and Maloney would meet him with a left jab, sometimes two when Tom was slow in clinching.

Once in the clinch, Heeney would try to pound away at Maloney's body but his punches had but little steam and they did not even brighten up his opponent's middle.

When broken, Maloney brought his left hand into action again and Heeney would again tie him up to escape the annoyance. He had a habit of carrying his right arm too low and this gave Maloney ample opportunity to sting him with left jabs.

Heeney appeared much slower against Maloney than he did against the skillful Tunney and Jim has never pretended to be much of a boxer. Tom was heavier than he was last July and the extra poundage became a great load during the final rounds.

During the last three rounds, Heeney tried desperately to put over a decisive punch, taking plenty of punishment as he worked in close.

These tactics, however, had but little effect on Maloney, who had taken enough of Tom's punches to learn that the New Zealander would have to use a barrage of his none-too-strong right hooks to drop him on the canvas.

The battle drew 19,500 spectators, the Garden's capacity, and the gate receipts were close to $52,000.

Jimmy Bryne, Louisville heavyweight, supplied the only knockout of the night when he disposed of the hope Bunker Hill of Atlanta, in the second round of an eight-round semi-final. Lon Barbs of New York, outpointed Marvin Scheier of Boston in a six round contest and in another such struggle, Homer Robinson, Cambridge Negro, defeated Ray Still of Kansas City.

Tom Toner of Philadelphia chopped Tiger Tom Dixon of Dover, N. H., to ribbons in another six-rounder and George Carney of Boston gained a six-round decision over Johnny Curcio of Providence.

Honors in the opening four-round contest were won by Tommy Coyne of Boston, with a decision over Frank Provencher of Montreal.

Lewis Throws Garibaldi.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1—(AP)—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former wrestling champion, defeated Gino Garibaldi tonight, pinning the Italian matman in 45 minutes with a double wrist lock and scissors. Lewis weighed about 30 pounds more than his opponent. Mike Nazarian, Boston, beat Abe Coleman, New York, in 9 minutes 30 seconds, with an aeroplane swing.

SHATTERS OWN MARK 200 YD. FREE STYLE SWIM

CHICAGO, March 1—(AP)—Martha Norelius of New York shattered her own world's record in successfully defending her national 220 yard senior free style swimming record at the national women's amateur meet tonight. She was clocked in 2.35 4-5. Her old mark, established in 1926, was 2.40 3-5.

Miss Norelius took an early lead in the race and gradually widened her margin, winning by 10 yards at the finish. Albina Osopowitch of Worcester, Mass., was second and Isabelle Smith, Chicago, was third.

The New York women's swimming club team gained another lap in its race to defend its national team championship by winning the 300 yard medley relay in 3.46 2-5. The Illinois women's Athletic club was second and the Homestead, Pa., team finished third.

Lisa Lindstrom, Eleanor Holm and Miss Norelius composed the New York team.

The victory gave the New York club a point total of 38. Its closest and only team rival, the I. W. A. C. has 26 points.

BALTIC M. E. TEAM BEATS GAMMA CLUB FIVE

The Baltic Methodist sprung a surprise by defeating the Gamma club Friday night at the Baltic gym, 30 to 21. The Gammas are the leaders in the Church league race and had been going great guns until they met their masters in the Baltic team.

The game was rough at times but nevertheless was real interesting. Economous of the losers was the leading scorer with ten points.

Speedboys defeated the Baltic Methodist Juniors, 20 to 17 in a fast preliminary.

LEAGUE GAME AT THE J. B. MARTIN GROUND

The Velvetmen meet the fast Goodyear soccer team Sunday afternoon in what should prove to be a fast and exciting game as they are about evenly matched and are keen rivals. The Upstate boys have added some new players to their lineup as they fully intend to win this game.

The J. B's. will be hard to beat as they seem to be in tip top form, having won the last two games and scored 13 goals and are expecting to add a few more at Goodyear's expense.

J. B. Martin team will be chosen from the following players: Orcutt, Greenhalgh, Headon, Erickson, Seidel, Joubert, Labenski, Decelles, Hargreaves, Thompson, Houston, Benker, Shaw.

The Godyear lineup has not been received. Referee F. Knowles. Kick-off, 2:30 p. m.

CONNELL AND STANTON WIN FEATURE BOWLING MATCH

At the Riverside alleys on Friday night Charlie Connell teamed with Stanton and won easily from Jim Moore and Doc Fenimore in a feature ten string bowling match. Connell and Stanton piled up 2,615 pins against 2,269 for Moore and Fenimore. Connell was the star of the match twice rolling strings of 163. His total was 1360 for an average of 136 pins per string. The scores:

Baseball Practice Postponed

Academy baseball workouts being held at the state armory were discontinued on Tuesday of this week because of the auto show being staged at the drill shed. They will be resumed the coming week.

The squad has now been out nearly three weeks and is sure to be in good shape by the time outdoor workouts begin, which will be in just a few weeks.

McLARNIN KAYOES GLICK IN SECOND

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, the Los Angeles boy with the baby face and a punch in either hand, came back to Madison Suare Garden tonight and knocked out tough Joe Glick, the Williamsburg tailor, in the second round of a ten round match.

Grown beyond the lightweight class in which he was an outstanding figure last summer, McLarnin served notice on the welterweights that he will have to be reckoned with when he floored Glick twice and then knocked him out after only a minute and 7 seconds of fighting in the second round.

Glick, one of the roughest and toughest of the lightweights, had been knocked out only twice before, Bobby Garcia and Honey Boy Finnegan turning the trick when Glick was campaigning as a featherweight three or four years ago.

The first bunch of the second round, another left hook, staggered Glick, another one to the chin floored him for the count of nine, as he rose McLarnin drove him to a corner where another left hook floored the New Yorker.

Outclassed but game as ever, Glick rose again at the count of nine only to run into another two-fisted barrage that drove him close to McLarnin's corner. A straight right landed flush on Glick's chin and floored him for the third time.

As the count reached seven, Glick, a bloody spectacle, half rose only to fall flat on his back just as the count reached ten.

It was a sensational victory for McLarnin despite the fact that he outweighed Glick by nearly four pounds. Glick, especially in the last two years, has met and beaten almost all of his lightweight rivals. Six weeks ago he dropped a close decision to McLarnin.

McLarnin weighed 140¼. Glick 136½.

Stanislaus Loyaza, of Chile, outgamed Lope Tenorio, of the Philippines to take the decision in a ten round match in Madison Suare Garden tonight. Tenorio weighed 141, Loyaza 138.

Much the harder puncher of the two, Tenario could make no headway against the rugged Chilean who forced the fighting throughout. Only in the ninth round did Tenorio appear to have the upper hand. The Filipino cracked Loyaza with one tremendous right to the chin but although staggered, Loyaza tore into his opponent with a heavy two handed barrage. Tenorio, discouraged, was content to do what he could to stave off Loyaza's rushes.

Johnny Erickson, Harlem featherweight, and Frankie Bowman, of Paterson N. J., fought six rounds to a drew. Each weighed 121.

Mickie Caldero, 124, of New York, gained the decision over Nate Cohen, 128, also of New York, in four rounds.

COLLEGE TRACK STARS IN ACTION THIS EVENING

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP)—With Cornell's reign as champion challenged by Georgetown, New ork university, Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Holy Cross, Dartmouth and other strong teams, four hundred picked college athletes were descending upon New York tonight for the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. indoor track and field championships here tomorrow.

Built for more speed than any other indoor saucer in the world, the special banked portable track of the intercollegiate association, eight laps to the mile, was set upon the spacious floor of the 102nd Engineers armory and made ready for a concerted assault upon college and world records. The weight events are to be run off in the afternoon with the main show set for the evening.

Cornell, winner of the team title last March by half a point over Georgetown, will defend its laurels against Bates, Boston college, Bowdoin, Brown, Colby, Colgate, C. C. N. Y., Columbia, Dartmouth, Fordham, Georgetown, Harvard, Haverford, Holy Cross, Johns Hopkins, Lafayette, Manhattan, M. I. T., New Yorw university, Rutgers, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Princeton, Syracuse, Union and Yale.

Six individual defending champions and the two relay winners of last year are included in the all-star entry for this eighth annual meet. The 1928 winners defending are James Daley, Holy Cross, in the 70 yard sprint; John S. Collier, of Brown, in the 70 yard hurdles; William J. Cox, of Penn State, in the one mile run; Joseph W. Hagen, Columbia captain, in the two mile run; David Adleman, of Georgetown, in the 16 pound shotput, Tom Maynard, of Dartmouth in the high jump; Syracuse in the mile relay and New York university in the two mile relay.

C. F. C. BASKETBALL TEAM HAS WON 5 AND LOST 2

The C. F. C. basketball team has had a successful season, if not an extensive one. The Baptists have won five and lost two games. The major victory of the year was over the Hartford Central Baptist quintet. Hartford beat the locals in Hartford and the othe defeat was at Stonington the other night by the Stonington Ironmen, a team that was beaten here earlier in the year.

The summary of the year follows:

C. F. C., 56; Battery E (Westerly, 39.

C. F. C., 20; Hartford Central Baptists, 41.

C. F. C., 41; Hartford Central Baptists, 33.

C. F. C., 54; Peerless Finishers, 25.

C. F. C., 51; Peerless Finishers, 29.

C. F. C., 24; Stonington Ironmen, 42.

C. F. C., 33; Stonington Ironmen, 42.

BROOKLYN VISITATIONS AT PLAINFIELD NEXT WEEK

That the Plainfield Pros are playing the best teams in the country is evidenced by the fact that on next Wednesday evening the Brooklyn Visitations, considered by many the best basketball team in the world, will play at Plainfield. The Visitations are well up among the leaders in the American Basketball league and no less authority than Nat Holman says that they are absolutely the best that are playing basketball today.

An attraction like this should indeed pack the Plainfield Community house to the doors with the basketball enthusiasts.

Retains Tennis Title

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 1—(AP)—Miss Elinor Goss, New York, retained her title as Florida women's tennis champion this afternoon by defeating Miss Eleanor Cottman, Baltimore, 6-3, 6-0.

BARBUTI REFUSES TO RETRACT ANY STATEMENTS MADE ABOUT THE A. A. U.

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP)—Replying to a telegram notifying him of his suspension by the Amateur Athletic union, Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400 metre champion, declared in a letter today that he "did say and I repeat now that certain athletes received more than their expenses and that this is known to a certain A. A. U. official."

It is also known to many college and club coaches and educators and to many newspaper men," Barbuti continued. "I am not a tale bearer and will make no affadavits involving anyone else in trouble. The A. A. U. should be well able to clean its own house without taking my time from a business which I am striving to build up less than a year out of college."

Barbuti's letter, addressed to John J. Deignan, chairman of the Metropolitan A. A. U. registration committee, said:

"I acknowledge your telegram received late last night as follows:

"You are hereby suspended from amateur competition until such time as you prove or retract the statements attributed to you in tonight's Evening Telegram.

"In view of the obvious inaccuracies of the direct quotation attributed to me in that article I feel that your telegram might have been withheld from the press until such time as you could have inquired whether or not the statements published were made by me. It is because I have always been taught and followed the principles of good sportsmanship that I reply to your telegram and not because I fear the suspension you have imposed previous to giving me a hearing.

Since the newspapers were in possession of the contents of your telegram long before it reached me I am following the same course and making public my letter to you.

"With but few exceptions every amateur athletic union official I have met has become friendly to me and I to him and at no time did I say that "I'm through with that gang of fourflushers forever." I did not say that. "I and other athletes have been lining the pockets of the A. A. U. and its affiliated clubs for years." I did not deride the A. A. U. as an amateur organization nor in any other way.

"I did say and I repeat now that it was unfair for the A. A. U. to place me under suspension for non-appearance in the N. A. A. C. games when I never signed an entry blank for those games.

"I did say and I repeat that the A. A. U. and its clubs do not get my business for me and I was annoyed, and I am now, because of the trouble and inconvenience imposed upon me to come to A. A. U. headquarters to ben investigated when entirely innocent of any wrongdoing.

"For your information several of the athletes whom you have suspended because they did not come to the A. A. U. headquarters to answer the charges were present and I saw them there. The long delay of your committee in getting to their cases caused them to leave for supper and this is why they were absent when you called for them. Several of these men had been working all day and were vouchsafed. No explanation as to when their cases might be called was made so they went out to eat.

"If there are any other points in the article referred to about which you wish information please let me know."

MARLBORO BEARS BEAT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 1—In one great game of basketball and before a record crowd the Marlboro Bears defeated the Danielson Towners in the town hall by a score of 38 to 30. Danielson, not having their star forward Gallup, had to call on outside help so procured the services of Morley and Kiley of Boston who played their usual fine game. The passwork of the Town team was not up to standard as the players were not used to playing together, therefore being handicap to a certain extent.

The first half started with five minutes of even playing and then Marlboro pulled away and at half time were leading 14 to 8. The second half opened in rapid fire fashioned and Danielson through some beautiful shots by Kiley evened the score only to have their opponents pull away to an eight point victory in the final five minutes.

Kiley starred for Danielson with 14 points to his credit with Tisdell coming through with high score for Marlboro. It was a beautiful game to watch and one would have to see it to appreciate the playing throughout. The summary:

APPEL IS PUT OUT OF INTERCOLLEGIATE TENNIS

ITHACA, N. Y., March 1—(AP)—Kenneth Appel, of Princeton, one of the seeded stars in the indoor intercollegiate tennis tounament here, was eliminated today by T. D. McDonald, of Dartmouth, 6-2, 1-6, 7-5. Appel's defeat came as something of a surprise. He was favored to fight it out with Julius Seligson, of Lehigh, the defending champion, in the final for the Larned cup.

The three other seeded players, Seligson, Gabriel Lavine, of Pennsylvania and Harry F. Wolf, of Williams, came through to the semi-final round. In tomorrow's matches, Lavine will meet Seligson and Wolf will play MacDonald.

PANAMA CANAL EARNS 3 PER CENT ANNUALLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The value of the Panama canal as an instrument of national defense has been placed at around $150,000,000 a year by Col. Harry Burgess, governor of the Canal zone.

"So far as I can see," said Colonel Burgess, "the canal is commercial and is part of the national defense. From the commercial end certain returns are obtained in tolls. From the defense end there accrues a lesser cost of navy per year. The navy costs around $300,000,000 a year. To get an equal efficiency without the canal, the navy would have to be increased at least 60 per cent in size. So the un-evaluated return from the canal as a defense measure is around $150,000,000."

Colonel Burgess placed the canal's total capital liability to the United States treasury on June 30, 1928, at $540,459,985. The figure includes the $250,000 paid annually since 1913 to the republic of Panama but does not include the cost of fortifications or other military or naval expenditures on the isthmus or treaty payments to the republic of Colombia.

On the actual debt owing the treasury, Colonel Burgess says about three per cent is being earned.

JIMMY QUINN TAKES TWO BOUTS AT PROVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PROVIDENCE, March 1—Jimmy Quinn of Norwich, Connecticut featherweight amateur champion, won a clean cut decision over Benny Zeroda of Providence, Rhode Island state champion here tonight. Quinn's clever boxing gained him the verdict in all of the three rounds.

In another bout he met and outpointed Al Gauthler of Springfield to win the honors in the featherweight division. Quinn showed remarkable boxing skill in both bout and seemed willing to take the decisions and at no time did he try for a knockout.

Miss Hicks vs. Miss Van Wie.

PUTNAM HIGH WINS FROM KILLINGLY FOES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 1—The Killingly high quintet of Danielson went down to a 34 to 24 defeat at the hands of the Putnam high team here tonight in one of the best games seen this season on the local court. It was Killingly's second defeat at the hands of Putnam.

The excellent guarding of Sabin and Marion coupled with the snappy passwork of Cody and Denning and the timely and accurate shooting of Carman, Leo spelled defeat for the visitors at the opening of the second half. Although Putnam's ancient rivals were unable to overcome the lead piled up by the Noyesmen in a spirited second half rally they were far ahead of the locals in passing the ball. Killingly was handicapped in scoring by the high backboards and the low ceiling of the Putnam gym. Youngs of Danielson ran a close second to Leo when he scoerd 11 of the visitor's points. Leo scored 20 points on ten field goals. Both team suffered heavily from the loss of their mainstays. Withey, Killingly star, was on the bench with an injured knee, and Bill Shann, Putnam's star center, was on the sidelines because of the return on an old football injury. Capt. Cody of the locals ably supplanted Shann at center and in addition to playing well chalked up four field goals. Jimmy Denning played his second full time game tonight and gained much favor with the fans fo rhis ability as a forward. One spectacular shot, the best of the evening, was made when he scored a field goal from a toss-up near the basket.

The win over Killingly tonight gives Putnam a good chance to topple the Chapman Tech team which comes to Putnam a week from tonight in the finale of high school basketball. Reports from New London are to the effect that the Tech men, who barely defeated Putnam earlier in the season, have not been doing so well lately giving the locals a good chance at the league title. Sonnenberg Wins from Hansen.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 1—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, holder of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, defeated Charlie Hanson, Swedish star, here tonight in straight falls. Sonnenberg won the first fall with his famous flying tackle in 43 minutes and 47 seconds and the second after a series of five headlocks in 17 minutes and 23 seconds. Sonnenberg weighed 205 and Hanson 199.

DISTINGUISHED HUNGARIAN NOW A CITIZEN OF U. S.

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— The United States in general—and Pittsburgh in particular—has gained a distinguished citizen with the granting of final naturalization papers to Ludwig von Fuehrer.

Von Feuhrer formerly was one of Europe's noted scientists and explorers, a captain of the Hungarian army during the war, an author, and he is the father of a family of talented children.

His wife also must be mentioned, for she edited all his books and herself is an author with several literary efforts in her native language to her credit.

Then there are the children. Mrs. Milan Petrovits, the daughter, is an accomplished pianist and vocalist. Her husband, a painter, has contributed several of his canvases to Carnegie ehibits.

A son, Ottmar, sculptor and taxidermist, also has exhibited his work in Carnegie expositions and in salons of Europe. A step-brother, Ansel Harray, is one of Europe's most distinguished painters.

And von Fuehrer says he is proud to say he is an American.

BULLFROG SONG IS LINKED TO GLANDS

NORTHFIELD, Minn., (AP)—When the bullfrog wakes from winter's sleep and begins his spring song, a change is taking place in his parathyroid glands, which are minute organisms near the neck region of a frog corresponding to similar glands in human beings.

Discovery that these frog glands partly dry up in winter and have a rapid regrowth in spring is announced by Roy A. Waggener, professor of zoology of Carleton college, in a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Waggener intimates that there is no apparent human application, but says the action of the frog glands is a "challenge for further investigation."

AGGIES CLOSE SEASON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Mach 1—The Connecticut Aggie basketball squad went through its last practice session of the year here today with a short shooting and defensive workout. The game with Rhode Island on Saturday is the objective game of the year, and with the fact that the Rhody team has yet to lose a contest in collegiate competion this year a defeat by the Connecticut team would add another upset to the basketball world as in the game with the fast traveling Providence team earlier in the season.

The last game on the schedule will see the faces of Schildgen and Dall, both seniors, in an Aggie basketball uniform for the last time. The former has made an excellent leader for the five this year, and has been a power in the offensive as well as the defense while playing the guard position. Dall, after a winning fight of three years to make an Aggie team succeeded this year in the attempt. He has added color to the team in all the games he engaged in.

Alexander will without a doubt throw in his strongest team in an attempt to beak the winning streak of twelve straight that the visiting combination boasts. Ryan is again back to normal, and will assume his old position at left forward. Darrow, who has been showing up well in the last few contests will pair up with him. Matskin starts at the pivot position, with McCombe held in reserve.

In the backcourt, Captain Schildgen will hold down one of the guard positions, assisted by Joe Duffy. The Aggie team has won eight of the fourteen games played this season, and should give Rhody a good battle when the whistle blows tomorrow night.

The Aggie frosh tackle the Rhody yearlings in the preliminary contest. The invaders lost a close game at Rhode Island, but this game will also be one worth watching.

The first game starts at seven o'clock, with the varsity taking the floor at eight.

ACADEMY VS. Y SENIORS TONIGHT

N. F. A.	Y. SENIORS
Stevens, lf	lf, Pingree
Henschel, rf	rf, Brown
Berghinzo, c	c, Harris (c)
LaCroix, (c) lg	lg, Eccleston
Barber, rg	rg, Kelly

Main Game at 9.

Rival basketball forces of Norwich, the Y Seniors and Academy, clash tonight at the Y gym in the first game of the annual city title series. Supremacy of the town also goes to the winner of this year's set of games as these two games are the only ones in this section that have played an extensive schedule this year.

Seniors Are Favorites

The Seniors, challengers, go into this year's affair as favorites. Four of the five members of the sensational Academy team of 1928 that walloped seven straight opponents in order in the dying end of the season have gone and two of the four will be seen in the opposition's lineup tonight.

The largest crowd of the season is expected to attend and this game is expected to make up in great part for the thrills that have been lacking in a rather dismal basketball season locally.

Both teams are just rarin' for the bell. For each team it is the objective series of the year and, of course, to get the opening game is a big advantage for the rest of the series. That each team will have a large backing of supporters is indicated in the interest being shown throughout the city.

The Academy finished its preparations for the game by shading the Coaches quintet Thursday night in a thrilling two-overtime period game, 50 to 48. As practically the same team held the Y Seniors to only a three-point margin of victory last week this was considered quite that had been the case. Last night, even the most optimistic of the Y backers expected a stern tussle from the school boys.

The Academy has improved considerably in the last few weeks. They beat Stonington and came mighty close to doing the same thing with Putnam and Windham, which is quite a reversal of form from the one-sided affairs of early-sea-son, when the team had not struck its stride and was meeting strong teams when it was in no wise prepared for them.

Rolland Harris and Aubrey Brown will be the Y main scoring threats of the Y, from past performances, and Berghinzo looks to be the school boy team's best bet in the matter of tossing in scores with the two forwards, Stevens and Henschel, closely following.

The season's records favor the Seniors. They have won eight and lost seven games. The Academy has won but four games and lost 11.

Fast Prelim at 8

In order to accommodate those working in stores until 9 o'clock, the main game will not start until that time or a few minutes after. A fast preliminary between the Y Emps and Lyman Memorial high five will go on at 8 o'clock. Special seating arrangements have been made for a large crowd and much enthusiasm is expected during the fray.

FANCY BRAID TO MARK ARMY BLUE UNIFORMS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Seventeen different colors will be used for facings and trimmings on the new blue army uniforms.

The dressmaking problems of the quartermasters' corps, which is responsible for the initial output of uniforms are thus multiplied. Each branch of the service will have a different trimming—ultra-marine and golden orange for the air service, yellow for the cavalry, scarlet for the artillery and so on.

Some of the colors in these particular fabrics have not been in use since the blue uniform was discarded years ago. Some branches of the service which have come into eistence since the World war, such as the air corps, chemical warfare and military police, will be using their colors for the first time.

DRESS, SMOKING, RADIO AND PARTIES

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: What bad weather we have had for the last three or four days. I came near slipping on my resolution to write one letter a month. February is such a short month that the end is here tomorrow. I will have to write another, as when this is read it will be March.

I agree with Sumac on the articles to be made over. When I was small and had dresses or in fact most anything made over, would think why can't I have new clothes intead of made-overs? But I have found, since I became old enough to realize, that they come in quite handy. Which they do to me now.

E. L. M.: I don't believe there are any thanks necessary. It was only what most anyone would do for anyone who was cold, if this is what you are referring to.

How the styles do change. It was only about six or seven years ago that I was wearing dresses most to my ankles. That was style. Now dresses are above the knees. That is style. I like short dresses, but not too short. Anyone can wear dresses too short. Above the knees is too short. I think the sister who started this short skirt business has received quite a few good letters on the subject.

Smoking is terrible. Anyone could stand the dresses, but smoking! What pleasure can they find in it? Just style.

American Girl: Heard you had quite a time getting O. D. on the telephone a while ago. Wrong number. Will tell you about it when I see you.

We have a radio which we are enjoying this winter. Any who cares for an organ recital, tune in on WPG, Atlantic City, Friday nights at 10 o'clock. One night she played our request number, My Wild Irish Rose.

On Valentine's day I entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the church upon the hill. I had a crepe paper valentine tablecloth, valentine napkins and favors. My sandwiches were cut in heart shape; cookies also. My cake was just a plain layer cake with a brown sugar frosting. Fruit salad and cream and tea. At each plate was a candy heart with a little rhyme on each which they read. They were real funny.

Brown Sugar Frosting: 1 1-2 cups of brown sugar, two egg whites, four tablespoons cold water, cooked in double boiler for seven minutes. Remove from fire; some add flavoring of maple, but we like the brown sugar taste best. Hope all the sick sisters are better.

RAVENA (Club 6, March 29).

SMOKING

Dear Social Corner Friends: It is not new for women to smoke. It was quite common many, many years ago for old women to smoke a pipe and take snuff. Many old foreign women, too, had those habits. So girls who take up the habit now are just imitating those not very refined women of older times. But it does not do for a girl to be crude, old-fashioned, wild, natural uncultured now; for we are not living in the primitive, secluded, old-fashioned times now.

In the time of our ancestors, long ago, girls married when 15 to 18 years of age and settled down to the care of a large family and heavy, hard work. Just industrious men and women with physical strength equal to the daily drudgery of primitive times, when labor saving machinery and conveniences had not yet been thought of. Brute force, physical animal existence was the most one could do then. Few young girls were physically able to endure the work and hardships. And we find from the records that it was not uncommon for the husband to outlive two or three or more wives in those days.

Now to be respected and successful we require almost entirely a mental and social superiority. A "girl of that kind," instead of being considered smart and superior, is now considered lacking in intelligence if she does not know enough not to do those things.

But she says "a girl gets more attention if she does do those things." What kind of attention?

Boys and men have more common sense and prudence and self-respect.

That kind of a girl is soon dropped by them and is never respected by anyone. It is just ignorant and silly, not smart.

A girl would hate to be rated as "not all there"—as a moron. But that is just what the silly, self-considered smart girl is rated. Ask yourself "Am I normally developed in judgment, in common sense, in fairness, in self-respect, in ability, in self-control?" If you find you are not yet, then say "I will go to work in earnest and make myself all of that. I will make myself the kind of woman who will always be respected."

A girl should be as clean and dainty and beautiful in habits and mental and social attainments as she likes to be in dress. Let's firmly decide which kind we are going to be, and let's dress acordingly. If our behavior is to be silly and nasty, let's dress the part, so no one could be deceived about us.

OBSERVER.

OREGON SALMON

Social Corner Members and Editor: Your readers might like to hear something about what Dan Young tells of Oregon salmon. Up the Mackenzie river, about 20 miles from Eugene, Ore., can be seen a sight which is astounding to those heretofore only acquainted with the salmon as he comes from the grocery in a can. The state of Oregon has built weirs, or fences, across the river which prevent the salmon going farther up the river to spawn. Below the weir are thousands of salmon, some weighing 40 or 50 pounds each, vainly trying to pierce the obstacle so as to reach their spawning ground. The state has men employed here who take up the salmon, squeeze out the eggs, and, after fertilizing with the male sperm, place the eggs in the state hatcheries, to be used in restocking the waters. These salmon are totally unfit for food, having great sores on their roses and sides. After laying their eggs they die. This all happens in their fourth year of life. The female points her nose in a selected place in the rocks and, holding it in one place, revolves around it on an axis, until she has scooped out a hole. In this hole she deposits her eggs, after which her life is done.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES.

MARIETTA: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

MARY ANN WILSKID: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

AN EXPLANATION

Mr. Editor and Social Corner Sisters: The Corner page last week was very interesting, containing as it did the different opinions and topics of so many capable writers. That is what I understand the Corner was instituted for, an exchange of helpful ideas, in which it appears to be successful.

As I have been requested, in a most friendly way, by an estimable sister, to explain what Robert Burns meant when he exclaimed "Oh wad some power the giftie gie us," will say that a careful reading of the verse will at once explain that it was "airs in gait," airs in dress, airs in devotion, and not the object that might or would disappear, could we see ourselves as others see us. It is a simple task for anyone to see their raiment, as all is required is to stand or walk between two glass mirrors, but to see the spirit or air of presumption, arrogance or giddiness is a different task and is almost impossible of description.

When my tonsorial artist bobs my hair and trims my eyelashes he invariably hands me a small mirror to enable me to see how I am pleased with the back of my head. Webster defines an air, "The peculiar look, appearance or bearing of a person, attitude, action or mien peculiar to, or expressive of some personal quality of emotion, demeanor or manner, as the air of a youth, a lofty air." This is what the poet had reference to, and had no reference to style, which is another word with an altogether different meaning and application.

The poet at two periods in his life wore short dresses, when he was a toddling baby boy and as a mature man, as a member of the Dumfries Volunteers, a military organization which wore the kilts, so he would not be likely to find fault with the "garb of Gael," as the kilts are generally called. His likes and dislikes were expressed very clearly and easily to be understood. An instance of this is shown in his Ode to a Henpecked Husband:

"I married with a scolding wife
The fifth day of November.
She made me tired of my life
By one unruly member."

Another instance of his hatred of sham is found in his address to the Deil Good:

"Oh ye who are so guid yersel
Sae pious and sae holy,
You've naught to do but mark and tell
Your neighbor's faults and follie.
Your tongue is like a fast goin' mill,
Well stock with store of water.
The heapit hopper's always full
And still the clat plays clatter."

And I might say that imagination causes many of us uneasy times, and more so than to have lived her life quietly with her family she has left behind her an example of a splendid wife and mother that we might all well imitate. She has passed on to her reward, her white dawn, has joined again the father, mother and sister who have preceded her, making once more the family circle complete. To the grieving husband, little daughter and son I extend my heartfelt sympathy. While she has left you in the body you still have her in your hearts.

"Say not Good Night,—but in some brighter clime Bid me Good Morning."

WINTER ROBIN.

WORSE THINGS THAN SMOKING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I think our editor must have a good laugh when he reads all the letters about short skirts. I myself think they are nice, not too short, and it makes a difference if the one who wears them is youthful. It is all right and she has a right to wear them if she wants to.

As for smoking. I never had any desire to try it, but hubby always smoked cigars and I took a lot of comfort, so why should we mind it? There are worse things some have to contend with, so let the men enjoy themselves.

Susanna: I laughed when you spoke of the paper bustle. I knew a girl who went to a ball and wore a flour bag. Her uncle blew it up and then she tied it around her waist. It was all right until she sat down! Hoop skirts, I never had one, but remember of seeing a woman coming out of Lanman & Sevin's drug store. She tried to get into her carriage, but no use. It was too large. The clerk helped her in. How I laughed!

Delicious Chocolate Pie: Line a pie plate with a rich crust. Bake in a not oven. Grate half a tea cup of chocolate. Put in a saucepan with one cup of hot water, butter size of an egg, one tablespoon of vanilla, one cup of sugar, the yolks of two eggs, and two tablespoons of cornstarch in a little water. Cook until thick. Put in the pie shell and let cool. Use the whites for the meringue with two tablespoons of powdered sugar.

HAS BOOK BY C. A. STEVENS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: A little more winter weather, although the sunshine promises spring on the way. Shut-in days make the radio and the Social Corner more welcome. A personal message on the page always gives us a special thrill.

May B (Club 6): Mind I have C. A. Stevens' latest volume, entitled Stories of My Home Folks, with a picture of the author in it. I have also an autographed letter from Mr. Stevens from The Laboratory, Norway Lake, Me., in which he quotes for me his explanation of the Unpardonable Sin in his story of that name that is in the book A Busy Year of Our Lives. This is the quotation:

"There is only one sin for which there is no forgiveness and that is the sin which we do not repent." If you would like to read my book I will send it to you if you give me your address.

With best wishes to all.

THIRTY-TWO.

CLUB NO. 1 ANNIVERSARY MARCH 13

Dear Corner Friends: How fast time flies! With the last meeting of our club not reported and time to announce the next one makes us hustle. The attendance at our last meeting was very good, about 75, I am guessing. The dinner was up to the standard of excellence and variety and was in charge of Alfara, Teeny Ann, Too Late, Riverview and Pleasardy. As it was donation day, various groceries were brought which were given to the welfare bureau and Salvation Army to help them in their charitable work. We called at the hospital to see Marigold who had been there a month, and found her improving from her fall and injured knee.

Aunt Sarah: I was not aware you had changed your residence for a while. You must have a very bright and cheery kitchen and one that reminds you of the Social Corner continually, with so many pretty yellow things in it.

The March meetings are the anniversary meetings and this is the 19th since the Social Corner page was printed, and Club 1 will celebrate in the chamber of commerce rooms on Main street, on Wednesday, March 13. Please remember your plate, cup, spoon, knife and fork and something for the dinner. Also you are invited to spend the afternoon, as we hope for a program and it will be worth staying for. When the hostesses get the work done they dislike to see everyone leaving. If one has to catch a bus or trolley that is an excusable reason, but we like to visit when the work is over. We anticipate guests that day from other clubs, which will be very welcome.

KNEW EZRA BILL WELL

Dear Corner Folks: I enjoy my time spent in reading the Corner letters this morning, even if I did get so interested I let the kitchen fire go out, especially Looking Backward by Quid Nunc, where she writes about Ezra Bill. I thought she never followed Uncle Ezra, as we called him. He taught broom-making in a blind school in Hartford for a spell, and during the last of his life he never did anything, but stayed at home with frequent visits to Norwich relatives and friends. His widow lives on Congress avenue or street in Hartford. Uncle Ezra knew my people all, but me, very well. At one time he lived next to the Boston Store, upstairs. Hacks and wagons were coming in numbers from Main street one day when I saw Mr. Bill standing at a crossing and listening for traffic. I said "Mr. Bill, I'll help you across," and I did. He said "Are you——" naming my little sister. Then I said "No, you never met me." He said: "Well, you are J——'s sister. I know. Your voice is just like hers." I laughed and said "Well, you have guessed right." He was always sure of voices. I thought if you didn't know this part you would be interested.

Aries: I was glad of your sign of Pisces. My son has a birthday Feb. 24th. His father's was the 2nd.

Why bother about the short dresses? Talking and writing don't stop it. For myself I like the sensible length or happy medium and I do hope they never get down to stop in bad weather about our feet. Bug's letter is O. K.

As for smoking cigarettes, I don't, so I'm not going to get in wrong by taking either side. I feel that what I do counts against me, what my neighbor does is her lookout, and if I like a person it's the person herself not her faults. That's my point of the subject, all in a nutshell.

Cady: Your letter sounds just like you, true to yourself and others. I ought to know as school girls. Yes, there surely was a lot of common sense in the letters today.

Well I remember the blizzard of 1888. The hard walking in drifts to get to the West Side where I lived. Al Heebner of Perch Rock helped me home and he then walked to his home. It's one storm I'll never forget.

We will all miss our dear sister, Write Dawn. The sympathy of the Social Corner goes out to her dear husband and son and daughter who need a mother's care. Remember Club 2. March 12. CALLA LILY.

THANKS FOR THE VALENTINES

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: I am sorry to hear that some of you have been ill. I am glad for those who have left the hospital and gone home, and trust that others will soon do so and that your improvement will continue.

I am sorry to hear of the passing away of some of the sisters. My sympathy is extended to the families. We surely will miss their letters.

I am glad you have such nice times at your monthly meetings. Your Valentine party, even if the weather was not favorable for many to attend, was fine. I wish to thank you one and all for my Valentine. It will fill a need for which I seem to have had many this winter. I am some better than when I last wrote, but do not feel as well as usual. I think the mild spring days will be good for me. It is very kind and thoughtful of you to send the Valentine.

I wonder if you, like us, have more snow on the ground than we have had at any one time this winter. The snow plow takes the snow all off so there can be no sleighing as of old and one does miss the cheery, merry tinkle of the bells. Everything and everyone must make way for the auto. As for myself, I think there is room for both the auto and the horse.

February is nearly gone and although March is a long month, it heralds in spring and Easter, so we have much to look forward to.

Again I thank you all for my Valentine, and shall be pleased to hear from any one of you at any time. With love and best wishes for each of you.

Glad to welcome the new sisters but let us older ones retain our place and write for the Corner oftener.

DIANA.

WISHING FOR SPRING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I have not written for a long time so will say a few words.

While I am writing it is hailing; maybe rain later. I hope not snow. It is said one bluebird don't make spring, but I was hoping spring was most here when we had a few warm days.

Ora: Mother has lost your number and wants you to call her. She has been quite well so far.

Palla: I had a heart spell when I neard you had moved. What about that? Don't look for us as M—— could not get on the bus. You know why.

P. S. How is Sis in Saratoga? I want to see my little C——. I suppose she walks by now. I saw F—— pass so I suppose you had fish. That is brain food, so write again.

I. J. B.: How are you? Call up again.

Foot Owl: How are you? Why don't you say something or are you too busy?

Lone Feather: Did you have a relative by the name of Hattie S.? I used to see her or one by that name. Your bedroom must be pretty. I am waiting to see how you fix the others. Best wishes to all.

A. RALEE.

NEGLECT CAUSES LOSS

Dear Social Corner Members: The surest way to lose a thing is to neglect it. Isn't it true of our health? Neglect to take a daily bath, neglect your daily exercises, neglect to get fresh air in your lungs every day, also neglect certain hours for recreation, and you will find you have lost your good health.

Isn't the same true of one's appearance? Neglect to dress carefully, neglect hair and care of skin, and very shortly you will wonder what has become of the well-groomed and finished appearance you have always prided yourself upon.

Isn't the same true of your work? Neglect it and you lose interest in it. When your interest is gone, your ability as a worker is gone also, for where there is no interest, no enthusiasm, no joy in one's work, there is no success.

Tish should write and tell us about the wedding. I also think it would be interesting to hear about her redecorating her kitchen.

Has anyone read anything from Milkshum lately? Where is Phuller Phun? Is she sick? Let us hear from her.

Have any of the sisters read Joseph Lincoln's latest book, Silas Bradford's Boy, or The Window, by Alice Grant Rossman? Crimson Roses by Grace Livingston Hill was very good also. I do enjoy a good book, but some on the market today aren't fit to read, and it takes a lot to shock me, too.

Greetings to the shut-ins and sympathy to those in sorrow.

BY JINGO.

FEATHERED PETS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I see one sister wanted to hear something about canaries. I suppose everyone knows now to care for them. In case they don't, I will give a few hints that I have found out.

I had birds for many years and raised many little ones. If birds keep picking at their feathers, they have lice. The best way to find out is to put a white cloth over the cage at night. In the morning you will find red lice on it. Scald and dry and use the next night. Scald the cage at least once a week. Never let the bird stand on damp perches, for they will get rheumatism. They like a bath every day. Keep sand on bottom of cage. I used to use graveled paper, but you can make it. Keep a piece of cheesecloth with sulphur in it tied in top of cage and it keeps the lice away; as they pick it it falls on them. Always keep a cracker in top of cage; also cuttlebone. Give some greens of some kind daily. They are very fond of it. I used to let grass and chickweed grow in my plants.

If they pull out their feathers or don't sing good, take a piece of salt pork and roll in red pepper and tie in the cage. It won't hurt them and they like it. Always keep them out of a draft. If there are plants in the window, in hot sun, always leave the shade so they can get out of it if they want to. Never give meats or sweets, as it is apt to cause skin diseases. If you would like the color of your bird darker during the moulting season, feed them one teaspoon a day of this mixture: Equal quantity of hard boiled egg and cracker crumbs. To one-half egg add one-half teaspoon cayenne pepper. Knead with a knife until it forms a paste. Then sprinkle with a little sugar. Always cover the cage at night. Keep the birds happy and they will make you happy with their songs.

I find nothing better for plant lice than a suds made of Lifebuoy soap. It kills them and they seem to stay away.

Mrs. K.: How are you? Heard you were both sick. Hope you are all well by now. Did that picture make you sick? I have had a cold and cough all winter.

Will write about parrots in my next letter.

ANNA Z.

BELIEVES SMOKING A FAD

Dear Corner Friends: Lost but not gone forever! I now take pen in hand, etc. I have read various Corner opinions on the subject of women and girls smoking with interest, and, like the writers, do not see any good in the habit. I believe the girls smoke because it is a present day fad and that most of them get no real enjoyment from the practice. There are at least three fine reasons to condemn the habit:

First—Smoking tobacco is against the principles of good health, the one asset for which we all should try, even though someone who has reached the age of 100 years tells us he has been a habitual smoker. He must have inherited a wonderful constitution.

Secondly—People might spend the cigarette money in helping the needy; that is, if they do not belong to that class.

Thirdly—Women smokers present an unenviable appearance and, if in public are a menace to the ones who dislike tobacco smoke.

At present I am greatly interested in two beautiful young girls in my family who are almost ready for high school. They are alert in mind, full of "pep" and attractive in every way. I often think that I should be very sorry to see them puffing away at cigarettes. Don't do it, girls and boys. Be as courageous as our beloved Lindbergh and have force enough to refuse, such as he has shown regarding intemperance. You will be respected in the long run by everyone.

Anastasia: I am sending a recipe which I use for chocolate pudding. It would be nice for one crust pie with meringue: Three cups milk, two eggs (yolks), four tablespoons cornstarch, one square chocolate, little salt. Beat yolks, add sugar and melted chocolate. Stir into hot milk in double boiler. Add cornstarch wet with cold milk. Cook until thick. Vanilla flavor. When cool, put in previously baked pastry shell. Beat whites of egg and tablespoon sugar and use for top. Brown in oven if desired.

Bachelor Maid: Some day I will surprise you by appearing at Club No. 1 meeting. I get messages from you through May. Glad you are present regularly.

Mavis: How are you Hartford people? Hope to see you all soon, as spring is coming.

Kind regards to all interested friends.

LUCILLE.

SOCIAL CORNER LIKE GRANGE

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: After reading Olive's letter I thought I had better answer the roll call this year. Olive and I joined the Corner at the same time. I agree with Olive, it does make me think of the grange in some ways. I would like to ask how many of the sisters belong to the grange.

I met two good sisters of Club No. 6 last Saturday at the Pomona grange at Putnam. They were V. B. A. and May B. Hope to see these good sisters at our next Pomona meeting at Scotland in April. Hope to be able to meet with the sisters in March.

CLIO.

SAYS TO STOP KNOCKING

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: I do not write very often but read all of the letters. I am sorry so many are sick and have passed away. I am sorry to hear that Worthy Belle is so sick. I always look for her at our club meeting. I think that the sisters have started some unnecessary talk about how women dress. I don't believe in women smoking but let them wear what they like best without criticism.

Happiness, if truly understood, consists alone of doing good, so stop knocking, sisters.

WINDHAM BLUE BELL

ANTICIPATING ANNIVERSARY MEETINGS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: We were all saddened to hear of the death of White Dawn. My sympathy goes out to her loved ones who have lost such a good true wife and mother.

As next week starts all the birthday meetings (Social Corner birthdays) no doubt we will meet lots of old friends and many new ones.

How nice it is to meet those whom we haven't seen in a year. Of course, we can't all go to all the meetings, but we do enjoy the ones we can get to.

Aries: Hope to see you at our meeting. It's a long time since I've seen your smiling face.

Calla Lily: We'll be there unless we have another blizzard or something unforeseen happens.

Congratulations to Strawberry, who has just passed the crystal milestone on her matrimonial journey.

Posy Posy: Are you feeling better? Why not come down to the Rose of New England to the anniversary meeting?

Cretin: Sure glad to hear that you are better. Try not to overdo. Kindly remember me to my friend at the Card home, and I hope to see you both soon.

Well, next week we will have Old Glory flying on our page. What a thrill it gives us to see our dear flag flying on the Social Corner page, or anywhere else.

Well, here's hoping we will see a good crowd at our meeting.

AGAINST WOMEN SMOKERS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: As I have another arrow to aim against feminine smokers, I will improve this opportunity. It was my pleasure to attend the installation of the officers of East Central Pomona, held at South Manchester, Feb. 20, which I enjoyed very much. The lecturers' program was very entertaining and was given by the retiring officer, a lady of Good Will grange, Glastonbury. In her final remarks and in reference to the conclusion of her four years in term of office, she called attention to an article in The Grange Monthly, of the Feb. issue, on page 14. She endorsed and fully agreed with this sentiment and suggested what a grand idea it would be if every grange would folow the example of Lowville, N. Y., Grange.

For the benefit of those, our Corner sisters, and families, who are not Patrons of Husbandry, and not readers of The Monthly Grange paper, I submit the following copy, which speaks for itself, without additional comment.

"Lowville Grange in New York state has recently taken up in vigorous fashion the question of smoking among women and after a lively discussion passed the following resolutions, which will be read with general interest:

Whereas, a number of farm papers have recently carried full page advertisements designed to increase the habit of smoking among women; and

Whereas, we believe that the great majority of farm women and girls neither smoke nor desire to acquire the habit; and

Whereas, we consider smoking among women an unbecoming habit; and

Whereas, the National Grange at its last session strongly opposed the efforts of the tobacco interests to extend the smoking habit among women; therefore be it

Resolved, that we, the members of Lowville Grange, No. 71, strongly resent the printing in farm papers of advertising intended to increase the sale of cigarets and tobacco among women and girls."

Perhaps many of us are not in direct association, or frequent company of women smokers, (we hope not) but perchance we have acquaintances who do indulge, as I have some, we can debar them of those disgusting habits of their pleasure, and not allow them to smoke during a call, while in our homes.

This is the rule of my house, and is strictly enforced. Again thanking all those who have expressed an opinion on this subject, through the Social Corner, and extending good wishes to the sick and sorrowing, that lighter days may come to them.

WHICH CLUBS WRITE MOST

Dear Social Corner Sisters: The Corner page is doing nicely and it does seem good to see so many letters from ones I meet and enjoy seeing. What club writes the most letters for the week? Club 4 keeps their end up and Club 6 does next best. Where Club 1 comes in I can't say. I like to see the club number at the end of your letter for there are some of the names I do not know, then I can tell which club is ahead. I look first for the names I know then I read those letters first. It is almost like saying "Hello" Then I go back to the others.

I want to thank those who sent me cards on my birthday as they came just at the time when a little cheer was what I needed. I lost my mother and had three deaths all inside of two weeks.

Scottie: You are still there. Thanks.

True Blue: You got the right name all right. Thanks.

Hattie P.: That's so nice I feel all doiled up. Thanks.

Nema: You never forget and the nice letter. Thanks.

Nyack on the Hudson: Thanks.

Anastasia: Many thanks.

Palla: I don't think I've met you but why be afraid. We will find out your real name. That's just what I took for my pen name. I think its nicer to know and then when seeing your letters why I think I can see you.

Chocolate: How are you? Going to answer soon.

E. L. M.: You try and do your bit. The letter of Little Sister's was just fine about the dresses and smokes. I guess there's not many sisters who are going to take up the smoking habit.

Betsy Bobbet: You had a good stay with Mary Frances and Marigold. I hope you are better. Best wishes to all sisters.

EFFIE (Club 1)

DRESS OF OLDEN DAYS

Dear Editor and Readers of the Corner Page: Since reading the different criticisms on woman's dress, I have been looking through some old Petersons and Arthurs magazines. The skirts of that period were four, five, and even six yards around, many of them ruffled from belt to hem worn over hoop skirts so large that it took an expert to get through a doorway, by lifting them on one side. They were cut round neck, very, very low, dropping off the bare shoulders half way down the upper part of the arm. We would lift up our hands in horror if one of our girls appeared in such an immodest costume. Tight basques, boned throughout and drawn in at the waist line to give the proper wasp like size. Heads were ornamented with immense "waterfalls," some covered with bonnets correspondingly large worn on the back of the head with a deep frill dangling down the back of the neck.

I have a bouquet of a later date that is a close second of Happy Hooligan's tin can, having a flat brim about the size of a tea plate.

The saying "you may as well be out of the world as out of fashion," was no doubt adhered to as strictly by our grandmothers as at the present day, the styles, though extreme, were different, that is all.

I well remember my envy of the older girls who could fasten their corset lacings to the bed post, thus enabling them to draw in the waist line to the fashionable size. Later as I grew older, I was the proud owner of a street dress with quite a long train. Underneath was a stiff rubber lined box plaiting, two or three inches wide. Believe me, the noise of that train could be heard for some distance as it scraped the walk from side to side, gathering dust and filth to settle on the underwear beneath.

At the present time a person showing so little sense would be held for observation, or placed in a home for the feeble-minded. Another freak style was the balloon sleeves, lined and stiffened and so immense one had to go through a door sideways for fear of crushing them. Then we had the other extreme, when skin tight sleeves came in. It was impossible to get the arms to the head so the hat or bonnet must be put on before the waist. How many remember the hideous "Grecian Bend?" That style though short-lived, would shame a hunch backed kangaroo (which it closely resembled) yet many followed it.

Then came the "tie-back" and the smaller bustle, some (as one sister mentioned) even made from newspapers.

The present generation will be "going some" if they can beat the freak styles of the past. Styles must change to make business good, so Dame Fashion has proclaimed short skirts, and to wear them the lower extremities must be exposed. It is only custom that causes criticism. For really why are well-dressed legs any more immodest than well-dressed arms?

It is only when carried to extremes that any style becomes ridiculous. The majority of our young girls (and many of the "old girls") are neatly, sensibly and becomingly dressed.

The "flappers" will always be with us no matter what the style. Let us hope they will wake up some day from the smart age, and make good wives and mothers.

I meant to speak of smoking and a more serious menace, but I have made my letter too long already. Before closing I want to thank the sender of a neat little calendar. The sentiment too was lovely, the same to you my friend.

PRACTICAL POLLY.

PREPARING FOR SPRING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I know I am a slacker and perhaps would have been one still longer, but for E. L. H.'s request in last week's paper. Perhaps that is a good way to make folks write once-in-a-while. At any rate it worked well this time.

Had planned to write in January but the "gripne man" paid me a visit and took away all my good resolutions. I am just beginning to feel like my old self.

Like Milky Way, I have been trying to finish my sewing. I plan to get through early, do the spring cleaning and have time to enjoy the nice warm rays. Some time ago I finished curtains with crocheted lace for nearly all my windows. No I am making crocheted curtain pulls.

I haven't seen Tish lately. She has been quite busy "taking elevators" and attending weddings.

Neighbor Eveready: I was glad to read your letter. Can't you find time to write often?

Quileca and Cutie: Hope you are both better by now.

Layer Cake: One cup sifted sugar, 6 tablespoons melted butter, 2 beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat hard for a few minutes, then add ¾ cup milk alternately with 1½ cups flour, a few grains salt, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cream tartar which have been sifted together. Beat hard and bake in 3 layers. Very simple and never fails. I use different kinds of frosting.

Best wishes to all, especially the sick and shut-ins.

TOPSY.

APPRECIATED GIFT.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Because of my mother, Marigold's, recent accident her general health is not as good as usual and feels unable to write, so I am writing this for her. She arrived home on Washington's birthday. She was very pleased with the gift from Club No. 1 which was received Feb. 14, so she called it her Valentine.

It was lovely of the sisters to remember her in this way and we greatly appreciate it. She will be unable to get around much for a long time, but we hope for the best.

I am still with Mary France and we are having a good time together.

I suppose a great many of the sisters are looking forward to next Monday to hear the inauguration exercises ove rthe radio. If we stop to think of it, what wonderful inventions there has been made in the last few years.

One preacher has said that the radio and other inventions have so contracted the earth that we all will have to live in one neighborhood. Therefore we will have to grow better in order to be a greater help to one another.

So these things which we enjoy so much bring their responsibilities.

With best wishes for all who are ill. I thank the kind member for the pretty calendar I received during the holidays.

BETSEY BRAY.

WISE ADVICE

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: This is Feb. 22nd (in other words, Washington's birthday), a most beautiful day after the snowstorm of yesterday. We listened to Cherio." He told us to "start the day with a smile." What good advice to follow! Yesterday is gone. Live today. Be busy. Be active. Be latent on doing right and accomplishing things worth while. There are no eyes in the back of your head. Look forward. This world is a mirror. Wear a smile when you go out for a walk and note the great number of pleasant people you meet. Gloom spreads gloom. Joy spreads joy. Don't be a "Gloomie." Be a Cheerio.

"It's time to lure the smile along
And help the world be gay.
It's time to sing the happy song
And whistle care away."

"George Washington was once the 'father of his Country'," said one boy to another.

"Of course he was," replied the other.

"Well, I'll bet he'd feel like taking his country out in the woodshed if he could see how it was carrying on today."

WANTED: MEAT PIES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Once more it is time for our meeting and I sincerely hope there will be a goodly number present. This is anniversary meeting. Come one, come all, and we will try and have a good time. If there are any of the sisters that feel they could make and bring a meat pie, we will thank them very much as we will need two or three more than we have. Hope all will bring all the good things to eat as usual. We surely do have wonderful dinners. I feel to thank all the sisters for this generous helpfulness, as it helps so much to make our meetings a success. We shall have only four meetings before it will be vacation time. I cannot make it

CHILDREN'S READING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It sometimes helps me to carry out a course if I write it down. This is what I think in regard to reading for children. Possibly it may help some one else.

Let's not emphasize the scandals, murders, etc., in discussing the contents of newspapers before children. It puts a false sense of values before children and leads to no good. Rather, as they grow older let's mention the interesting discoveries, special articles of interest about local places, etc., that will arouse their curiosity as to what is going on about them. If you have a map on the walls somewhere, children can find many of the places mentioned.

Of magazines I suppose it is a pretty safe rule and one which most of us follow not to have any around of which we in our hearts are ashamed. Not that young children will necessarily read them but they remember the names and look at the pictures and low standards are set for later years.

I shall be extravagant and subscribe to one children's magazine not only for the reading but for the hobbies suggested and the contests in which they can take part.

As they grow older I would subscribe to an occasional trade magazine or journal. A child's interests and tastes for his future work are often manifested by the way he will devote himself to some of these articles which may possibly seem rather dry to you.

With a wilderness of books from which to choose what can we do but offer a few suggestions and let our own judgment be the guide.

If your children don't care much for reading oftentimes they can be encouraged by reading aloud part of an interesting story and leaving them to finish. Try various types of stories. Nearly all children are interested in some especial thing. Discover what that is and build up from that, whether it is historical, adventure, fairy tales or what not. Many children's authors write a series of books more or less alike in treatment and youngsters often wish to read the whole series to the exclusion of everything else. I think it wiser to encourage children to read from a variety of sources to break up the series, so to speak, and introduce new forms of thought even though they return to them later.

Sound taste in books is a matter of experience. Don't worry too much if your young hopeful at the period in his life when he reads everything on which he can lay his hands gets hold of material that seems too mature for him. A little judicious fun poked at a book of doubtful standard, a little comparison with books of a higher value will do as much to encourage sound taste as fault finding and scolding.

And here I shall be extravagant again and once a year at least purchase one book well bound and beautifully illustrated to form the nucleus of a library for the child's very own.

Don't forget the nature books, please. At the age of eleven or twelve and encouraged by my mother I purchased with five dollars of my own money Anna Botsford Comstock's Handbook of Nature. Never have I invested an equal sum which has yielded me more true pleasure and profit though the five dollars then looked many times larger than the same amount would now.

NEW DOORWAYS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: I am glad to see so many letters each week, so will try and do a little toward keeping the pages full.

I want to say that I miss Kitty Lou. Never met her but always looked for her letters. I want to extend my sympathy to "White Dawn's" family through the Social Corner. It has been a long time since I attended a Corner meeting but always enjoy them when I can go.

Twice-Twenty: I miss your letters. As I passed your house the other day I saw that Zany has a nice big pile of wood. I spoke to A.—about it.

Artificial Flower: After reading your letter in the last paper I came across the following in another paper and I am going to pass it on to you:

New Doorways

Always there is a new doorway
Through which you have never been;
No matter who you are
Or what your station in life,
There are always new regions
To explore and new adventures awaiting you.
If you are tired of things
As they are, seek out
The new doorway and
Pass through it.
Who knows what charming
Adventures you may have?

Nelly Grey: This is something I want to send you: Then let us no longer attempt to fit our lives to the other fellow's measure, because it's likely we wouldn't care for the cut of his success after we tried it, what say? Instead, let us just live our own lives, fill our own niches in life and take the sort of happiness we really want.

Harry E: Where are you and Johnny on the Spot?

Votami Lee: I guessed right away who was who.

Pippin: Why don't you write a few lines? I see in The Bulletin where your cousin E. B. of Mystic attended the Social Corner No. 6 meeting. I am wondering what her pen name is.

Best wishes to all sick and shut-ins.

CENZI (Club No. 4).

SHORT SKIRTS AND CIGARETTES

Dear Social Corner Friends: I was so glad to see so many letters last week. It shows what we can do if we try. If you think of something when you are doing your work and jot it down at the same time, you will be surprised to see how much you will be able to write the next time.

There has been so much said about smoking and wearing short skirts that I just couldn't keep still any longer. As for short skirts, they are all right, at a reasonable length, below the knee, but any shorter I think it perfectly awful how some wear them. I don't care if they are young girls or old. I have been in places where I have been ashamed of them. I don't care if you call me old-fashioned, and anyone wearing them as short as some of them do, I think they have lost respect for themselves. Is it any wonder that girls go astray and get into bad company when it is mostly their own fault? So I say don't wear them too short; it looks so much more ladylike to have them just below the knee.

I hope the long skirts that trail the ground will never come back, but make it a rule to wear them at a proper length. As for smoking, I don't like to see girls, or women either, with a cigar stuck in their mouth. That doesn't look dignified to me, fashion or not. It is bad enough to see men smoke, but looks worse for women, in my mind. I have given you my honest opinion of them, both smoking and short skirts. It is too degrading and to think what the next generation will be makes me think a lot. So, women and girls, don't smoke.

Happiness is catching,
Gladness fills the air,
Laugh and you'll be sending
Health germs everywhere.
Do something for somebody today.

EXPECTS FINE TIME AT MEETING

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: This is very near the end of February and I mean to be with others to send a little bit for the Corner page. First I want to thank the member for my very pretty calendar. It is at my desk when I want a date. We are all very pleased to see the S. C. page kept full. We miss White Dawn at our meetings but now she has gone home to stay. We will not expect her with us bodily but in spirit she will be with us. She was always so willing and ready to help in any way she could. I extend my heartfelt sympathy to her husband and children.

Golden Glow, Marigold, Wordy Bell and all others who may be sick I hope they may be well and able to attend our next gathering, our anniversary, March 13th.

Necia: Are you tired waiting for that call? I hope to see you March 13. This is a lucky number for Club No. 2. Didn't we have a very nice time with Mr. and Mrs. L. as entertainers. I hope M. A. W. B. can get there again O, by the way, how is that play going? I know it will be fun.

Lizz Jane: I will see you next month. I got home all right. Yours as ever.

SCOTTIE.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

To the Social Corner: I have been a reader and great admirer of the place reserved in my favorite papers (The Norwich Bulletin and The Courier) for people to meet each week and to pass views and thoughts one to another in such a pleasant and social way that I thought if I were welcome, as I feel sure I am, I would join you. If I may, then call me

APPRECIATES KINDNESS OF SISTERS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank all the sisters that sent me cards while I was ill at the Hartford hospital. I am very much better now and hope to see you all this summer.

ROMA

HEAR—THEN SEE.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Most Americans, it's safe to say, will participate in the inauguration of Herbert Hoover. There will be a record radio hookup for one thing. People in every corner of the land will be able to hear the goings on in Washington and the short waves will carry the ceremonies to the rest of the world.

In addition to the radio, this inauguration will be visualized for the public eye in still and moving pictures on an unprecedented scale. Arrangements are being made to accommodate more than 300 shutter snappers and crank turners, that we may all see in our newspapers and on the screen Mr. Hoover as he comes into office and Mr. Coolidge as he goes out.

Moreover, "talkies" will be made of the inauguration, so theatregoers everywhere will get synchronized sound and action of our great national spectacle.

Just a little while ago we read about inaugurations and looked at a few pictures. And in just a little while longer, no doubt, radio and television will put us on the actual spot. It's all very interesting and impressive evidence of how fast moves this amazingly modern America.

But: I agree with you that about four inches below the knee is the right length for women's skirts, but it begins to look as if women's skirts are to stop permanently just north of the knee. There's a furor every now and then about longer skirts, but they don't appear. And the first of the summer style shows, now being held in Paris, indicate that an expanse of feminine silk stockings will continue to meet the eye.

Probably the fact of the matter is that the abbreviated skirt fits so neatly into the modern picture women won't give it up, any more than they are willing to relinquish their little hats.

The present day style in women's dress is no more fad, but a development.

It continues to stick because it is comfortable, convenient and becoming.

White Robin: I saw a robin last week Thursday. Often see blue birds on mild days during the winter months.

CLIP.

SELF PITY.

Dear Editor and Sisters: Nearly all of us feel sorry for ourselves at times. It is one of the most common, though one of the most stupid, of human failings. It is also one of the most dangerous of human failings, in that it tends to grow upon a person, gradually turning that person into a whining, complaining, chronically dissatisfied being, unable to enjoy the good things of life because of being so obsessed by the bad ones.

We all know individuals whose chief topic of conversation is the various ways they have been wronged, "put upon," snubbed, frustrated and afflicted. They can't understand what they have "done" to have such "terrible rheumatism," or to have such "terrible luck," or to have such terrible children. As a matter of fact they don't even try to understand. If they did they might find excellent reasons for the existence of their woes. They might find that their terrible rheumatism is the result of faulty living in the past; that their terrible luck is a result of their lack of ambition; that their terrible children are the result of their own dunbness in training those children. They don't want to understand. They don't want to be freed from their misfortune. Their morbid pleasure in grieving loudly over the way the world misuses them is too keen. But that morbid pleasure is a costly one. It loses those who indulge in it their friends, who can stand only so much whining and complaining. It loses them their good looks if any; for a peevish, fretful frame of mind, if continued for any considerable length of time invitably records itself most unpleasantly upon the human countenance.

Too the morbid pleasure of self-pity is one of the mightiest obstacles to success. When your mind is constantly occupied with broodings over your wrongs it cannot be functioning constructively and it cannot help you toward achievement.

Beware of the germ of self pity.

A long and dreary siege of influenza can't do you as much real harm.
So long as you can tell them you are down and out;
So long as you can move a limb or see a light, however dim.
You aren't through.
You still can do.
And prove the verdict isn't true.

FLAT ROCK

THAT GOOD CHOCOLATE PIE.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I am sending my recipe for chocolate pie, I say my own as I feel that it is.

My husband is very fond of chocolate pie and knowing this I tried recipe after recipe which I obtained from various friends as well as from several cook books. Yet none ever seemed quite as I felt it should be, either too thin, that is to say, not enough to fill the pie well (we like full pies), or too stiff; would crack if it stood any time at all. In fact as I said before, not quite right. I began experimenting and now feel I have just the best recipe one could have and have given it to many friends who are always thankful.

Chocolate Pie: I small can Borden's evaporated milk, 1½ cans cold water, pinch salt. Put these into sauce pan to heat. Now take 1 cup sugar, small piece butter, 2 egg yolks, 3 generous teaspoons cocoa, 3 generous teaspoons cornstarch and now just enough cold water to mix all smooth. Add to milk in sauce pan, stirring continually. Boil till thick and smooth. Remove from fire and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour into previously baked crust.

Meringue: Boil the 2 egg whites till dry. Add 2 tablespoons granulated sugar fold in—either drop by spoonsful or spread over top of the chocolate custard. Brown. Delicious.

Trust the sister who requested recipe will try this and let me know if she was successful. While it seems a lot of work I make them so often I could, as some people say, do it with my eyes shut.

Have been making butter scotch candy quite often this winter and we think it good, not only to eat, but for the throat as well. As Trade and Mack Smith say over the radio each week it relieves the tickle and protects the throat.

Butter Scotch: In large frying pan put 2 cups granulated sugar, a pinch of salt, 1-3 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons molasses and a generous piece butter. Mix together and set over flame. Do not stir again. Boil till when a little is tested in cold water it will form a hard mass, so it will cling on the side of glass. Pour into well buttered tin. When cold break up. Very good.

JOINS THE CORNER.

Dear Social Corner Editor: I would like to become a member of your Social Corner. I would like to take as a pen name MARIETTA.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lawrence Tibbitts, noted baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company, New ork, who is to appear at the Slater hall in a song recital on March 15, presented the Jazz Opera, Jonny Spielt Auf at the Metropolitan Opera house, New York, in February, with grand success. Mr. Tibbitts is appearing here under the auspices of the Norwich Rotary club for the benefit of the John S. Blackmar Memorial fund for Boys work. The recital was originally scheduled for Feb. 15, but owing to the inability of Mr. Tibbitts to appear on that date a last minute change was made. Tickets for the recital can be secured from the club members, at Cranston's, Plaut Cadden Co. and J. Ferguson.

Great West Moose—Benjamin Wunderlich, Norwich.

Custodian—Charles Vallac, Danbury.

Guiding Moose—Henry Lamonttee, Wallingford.

Herder—Harry M. Cole, Bridgeport.

Treasurer—Frank Collins, Stamford.

The installing officer was Frank Egan, past great north moose of Waterbury, assisted by Past Great North Moose Charles E. Cavanaugh of New London.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange No. 172, P. of H., held their regular meeting in Steiners hall with Leonard W. Staubley presiding in the absence of Albert W. Lillibridge. There was an attendance of 98 patrons and 15 visitors. Several names were proposed fo membership. The grange received an invitation to Neighbor's night at Groton grange, March 22, the lecturer to put on two numbers. After the business meeting the worthy master turned the meeting over to the lecturer for the literary programme to commemorate the birthday of George Washington. The programme: Song, by grange, Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground; Colonial Minuet, by Olive Beebe and Olive Kinne; Spring Fairies and April Showers, Adeline Glowacki; Vivacity, Viola Beebe; Death of the Butterfly, Benedita Renzoni; Songs, I Spied a Girl and Oh Doris, Adeline Glowacki; Acrobatic, Benedittе Renzoni.

These dances were put on by scholars of Mrs. Edward Andrews and were enthusiastically received, calling for encores. Other numbers were: Reading, George Washington, Mrs. Amy Colis; duet in costume, Doth Thou Love Me Sister Ruth?, Mrs. Elsie Wigley and Alida Boyens; reading, "George Washington's Cherry Tree," Mrs. John E. Fanning.

A delightful lunch was served by Div. E. Mrs. Jennie Davis, chairman, consisting of ice cream, fancy cookies and home made cake. An invitation has been extended to Norwich grange to visit Pachaug grange next Thursday evening, to hear Mr. and Mrs. Fred Midgely lecture on the Near East Relief work. Mrs. Weaver, worthy lecturer is hoping many will attend. The grange closed in due form to meet again March 13th.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

ODELL, Margaret, 184 West 71st St. Sept. 10. Murder: Strangled about 11 p. m. Apartment ransacked. Jewelry stolen. Body found by Amy Gibson, maid.

"Here in a few commonplace words, is the bleak, unadorned statement of one of the most astonishing crimes in the police annals of this country—a crime so contradictory, so baffling, so ingenious, so unique that, for many days the best minds of the district attorney's office were complekely at a loss as to even a method of approach."

That is the introduction S. S. Van Dine, famous author of detective stories, gives "The Canary Murder Case."

Margaret Odell, known as "The Canary," Broadway's most coldly ambitious showgirl gold-digger, is found strangled to death in her apartment. Philo Vance, whimsical society man, who has gained fame as an amateur detective, is brought in on the case.

"Who Murdered the Canary?" Was it Mannix, the fat broker who loved The Canary until she threatened to show his letters to his wife? Was it Spotswoode who feared for his son in the grasp of the scheming woman? Was it Lindquist, the half-insane doctor, made with love of her? Was it Cleaver whose political career she menaced?

"It's none of them!" says Heath, the detective, and he arrests Alys LaFosse of the Canary chorus and her sweetheart, Jimmy Spotswoode, son of Vance's best friend. Alys lived next door to The Canary and Jimmy had quarreled with Alys and let himself into The Canary's power.

"It's one of them!" says Heath, "and another man was locked in the closet and saw the murder. Find him and he'll tell you who the murderer is!"

But only the body of the eye-witness is found—he, too, has been strangled! With the case thus complicated, Vance works to save his friend's son. He learns not only who did the murder but how the murderer got in and out of The Canary's locked apartment; why The Canary's voice was heard screaming through the closed door; why the mysterious man hid in the closet and what was the powerful motive for the sensational crime.

You will hear as well as see every character in the masterful all-talking motion picture and you owe it to yourself to see this picture.

Palace Theatre.

An elegant array of variety entertainment comes to a close at the Palace theatre today headed by a peppy song and dance revue entitled "College Days." Will H. Ward & Co., in their comedy skit At the Stage Door, George Gallis Trio in a study of Stars and Stripes, Moore & Montez in Bits of Broadway and Jim Reynolds, a loose leaf from the ledger of laughs.

Life in the bleak atmosphere of a Hudson Bay trading post, the pursuit of the silver fox through the snowy wilderness, desperate hand-to-hand conflicts and the thrilling exploits of Rin-Tin-Tin, for the sake of two unfortunate lovers—these are a few of the many tense and colorful sequences of "Land of the Silver Fox," which comes to a close at the Palace theatre today.

"Land of the Silver Fox" combines the gripping action, the romance and tense melodrama for which Rin-Tin's pictures have come to be noted. In the supporting cast are Leila Hyams, Carroll Nye, John Miljan and Thomas Santschi. Howard Smith adapted "The Lan of the Silver Fox" from a Charles Condon story. Ray Enright directed.

"For quite a while it was believed by many good people that the movies were responsible for the wide-spread increase in the number of flappers," says Johnna Ralston, who comes to the Palace Theatre tomorrow in Elizabeth Jordan's story of modern youth, "Black Butterflies," considered to be something of an epic on flappers and those who are flapped by them. And I am sure that in "Black Butterflies," Elizabeth Jordan has advanced a powerful argument for flapper reform.

"The Sky Skidder," the Universal western air film starring Al Wilson which comes to the Palace theatre tomorrow will show the daredevil air ace doing stunts with a monoplane, the first time a plane of this type has been used for stunt work. Tail spins, loops and other difficult feats are ably accomplished by Wilson in his monoplane, a sister ship of Lindbergh's.

Norwich Music Association

The Norwich Music association will hold its March meeting in Slater Hall annex on Monday evening, the 4th, at 8 p. m.

This is an evening with Local Talent and an interesting and varied program has been arranged—a program which the management feels confident will prove thoroughly pleasing to all present at the meeting. It is anticipated that there will be a large attendance to hear and give encouragement to these local artists.

Connecticut College Concert

A recent New York newspaper review of Josef Lhevinne's playing reads as follows: "Mr. Lhevinne has been dutifully revered for many years. Also, perhaps, too readily taken for granted. The more observant among concert-goers, have noticed, however, that his art has mightily deepened, softened and broadened of late seasons. At the same time its bravura, more than ever refulgent, has become mellilized to the purposes of a creative intelligence and a consummate musical plan."

This great artist appears at Bulkeley auditorium Wednesday evening, under the auspices of Connecticut college. All should hear him.

St. Mary's Players

It may be of interest to know that some newcomers have been added to the cast of this year's play. Every year sees some new faces in this organization, and this year proves to be no exception. But, like in former seasons, these newcomers have not been taken on simply because the public would, perhaps, like to see new faces, but because they have met the requirements which St. Mary's Players demand, and have been judged capable of portraying the roles assigned to them. So a talented cast is again enrolled under St. Mary's banner. A splendid play and a good cast—if this does not assure the public of a good evening's entertainment, what does? You will be disappointed if you do not see it. One of the season's best plays is to be offered for your approval.

Central Baptist Church

Meetings and services next week at the Central Baptist church will include:

Monday—7 p. m., the pastor's instruction class for intermediate boys and girls in the pastor's study. 7:30 p. m., the Fellowship circle meets in the mothers' room. 7:45 p. m., the 3-G club meets at the home of Mrs. Freda Lathrop, No. 80 Town street.

Thursday—4 p. m., the pastor's instruction class for junior boys and girls; junior week-day school. 7:45 p. m., meeting for prayer and conference.

United Congregational Church

Meetings next week at the United Congregational church will include:

The cabinet of the Guild will meet on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. Edward A. Rich, at 84 Osgood street.

The Charitable circle of King's Daughters meets in the Junior department rooms of the church school on Tuesday evening.

The Bethlehem class will hold a masquerade party Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. A. C. Freeman, 89 Union street, Mrs. Freeman and Miss Bisbee, hostesses.

The H. G. L. club meets on Friday evening with Miss Mary Kerr, at 106 Peck street.

The March meeting of the guild will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Community house. William G. Baxter of Hartford, executive secretary of the state prison association will speak on Personal Observations of Prisons in Europe and America.

Park Congregational Church

Services next week at Park Congregational church will include:

Sunday, Young Peoples service at 7 o'clock with the Rev. E. Wallace Archer of Yale Divinity school as the speaker. The discussion will be as follows: Ought we to give to the church as much as we spend on amusements, if so, why?

Tuesday, 7:15 p. m. Troop 12, Boy Scouts' meeting.

Friday, the regular monthly meeting of the Missions department will be held in the parish house at 3 p. m.

If the water in the bottom of a boiler boils off never pour in cold water. Add boiling water, so that temperature may not be lowered.

vent conception. Every person who shall use any drug, medicinal article or instrument for the purpose of preventing conception shall be fined not less than $50 or imprisoned not less than 60 days nor more than one year or both."

Next week promises to be a busy one, with all the committees having assignments, many of them for three days. Just before adjournment today Speaker Eddy announced that he had appointed Ex-Speaker John H. Hill to preside over the house when it convenes next Tuesday. It is understood that Speaker Eddy will be with the governor's party at the inauguration ceremonies in Washington on Monday.

HOUSE.

The house was called to order at 11:18 by the speaker and prayer was offered by the chaplain.

Under suspension of the rules a resolution was passed requesting the governor to petition the president of the United States to transfer the old historic battleship, Hartford, from Charleston to New London.

The bill that would cause the ratification of the National Child Labor amendment was rejected after explanation of the law by Mrs. Russ of Sheldon, chairman of the committee on federal resolutions.

Favorable reports were received from the committee on fish and game on H. B. 557 that provides that no white perch less than seven inches in length, nor more than 30 in number shall be taken in one day; H. B. 568, providing a legal length of seven inches on crappies or calico bass and making the close season the same as on black bass; H. B. 533, that provides a closed season on partridge or ruffed grouse until October 20th, 1930 and a closed season on pheasants from November 24 to October 19 inclusive.

The judiciary committee reported favorably on H. B. 67, which extends the time in validating the election of justices of the peace and extending the time within which to qualify to June 1, 1929. H. B. 68, an act that provides for inclusion among state officers requiring bonds those who disburse money to be reimbursed by state.

The claims committee reported favorably a bill reimbursing the town of Sharon $260 for taxes on property now owned by the state.

The cities and boroughs committee reported favorably on bills that provide for the paving assessment of streets in the town of Bloomfield, and H. B. 193, an act that concerns the power to assess for the paving of streets over one mile in length in the town of West Hartford.

Several bills incorporating a variety of institutions were favorably reported by the incorporations committee.

Unfavorable Reports.

By committee on claims, H. B. 204 that called for the reimbursement of the town of Union for loss of taxes on property owned by the state.

By the judiciary committee, H. B. 300 an act that concerns the validating the licenses of veterinary surgeons and dentists who had failed to register.

H. B. 620 and 621, acts that provided that a negotiable receipt might be negotiated by any person in possession of the same.

Bills taken from the calendar and passed were:

Substitute for H. B. No. 230. An act establishing the town court of East Haven. Favorable report of the committee on the judiciary.

S. B. No. 10. An act amending the charter of the Hartford hospital. Favorable report of the committee on incorporations.

DOZENS OF STOCKS WERE BID UP FROM 5 TO 25 POINTS IN STRONG BULL MARKET

NEW YORK March 1—(AP)—The bull party brought out the same sort of stock market fireworks today for the inauguration of President-elect Hoover Monday that they used to cerebrate his election last November. The market experienced another of the 6,000,000 share days which were first brought forth after the election, and dozens of stocks were bid up from 5 to 25 points; and the Associated Press index of 50 industrials set a new high record.

The buying was of impressive character, much of it in flocks of 5,000 to 35,000 shares, indicating that powerful interests were behind the movement. Brokers' wires from all parts of the country were kept hot with orders, particularly those from Palm Beach, whence several prominent bulls were said to be operating. The ticker fell about half an hour behind the market, and ran for 25 minutes after the close.

Call money held at 8 per cent, all day, and the calling of loans was nominal. Failure of the rate to go higher over the month-end was a pleasant surprise, and stimulated the buying movement, although bankers were inclined to look for continuance of abnormally tight money for several weeks.

It was announced after the close of the market that the Dallas Federal Reserve bank had raised its rate from 4 1-2 to 5 per cent, placing it on a level with the eastern banks, and leaving only Minneapolis, Kansas City and San Francisco on the 4 1-2 per cent basis. Although it has been considered probable that time bringing of the 4 1-2 per cent. rates up to 5 would precede on an increase to 5 1-2 at New York, Wall street was not inclined to interpret the Dallas action as foreshadowing any immidiate change here, at any rate, not until after the government refinancing due Mar. 15.

Business news continued of bullish nature. The American Telephone and Telegraph company announced a $2,000,000,000 expansion program for the next five years. The United Corp., recently formed by Morgan interests as a utility holding company, made its first important move with an order to acquire a one-fourth interest in United Gas Improvement. Export copper was advanced to 19 1-2 cents to bring it into line with the new domestic price. The weekly trade and business reviews were cheerful, and earnings reports for 1928 continued to reflect the market improvement made last year.

Express shares again displayed extraordinary buoyancy, Adams moving up 25 points to 585, after its 60-point jump of yesterday. U. S. Steel recorded a new high for all time at 198 7-8, but closed at 192 5-8.

Coppers retained their leadership until afternoon, when they began to slip in profit taking, and heavy buying of the rails set in. There was considerable realizing toward the close. Radio (old) which rose 18 1-2 points to 413 1-2, only 6 1-2 points from its peak, fell back to 405.

Anaconda for the second successive day jumped more than 7 points, carrying it to 155, which is more than 100 points above its 1928 low. It lost half its gain for the day, however, and Greene Cananea after mounting 3 points to a new top at 190, fell back 5.

In the rails, which were stimulated by uncertain revenues, St. Louis Southwestern, Pere Marquette, Canadian Pacific, New York Central, and Union Pacific mounted 5 to 8 points. Missouri Pacific, which is seeking to unify its system as New York Central has done, touched a new high for the year at 83 1-2, and Baltimore and Ohio made a new top at 131 7-8.

Advance Rumely, American Bosch magneto, Commonwealth Power, Patino Mines, Wright Aero, A. M. Byers, Case Threshing, Motion Picture Capital, Russia Insurance, were among issues making extreme gains of 5 to 15 points. Bethlehem and Republic Steels followed U. S. Steel into new high ground. In the motors, Chrysler sold up over 5 points. Yellow Truck touched a new high for the year at 45, in buying said to have come from the Fisher interests.

The commodities were generally firm. Wheat improved on better returns from Liverpool, and corn was firm on short covering and light offerings. Cotton closed steady.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with sterling steady.

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP)—Most automobile manufacturers whose reports of February production reached Wall street today showed substantial increases over February, 1928. Among those to report record output for the month were Cadillac and LaSalle, Chevrolet, Peerless and Franklin. Ford production was reported as 125,984 cars and trucks compared with 132,938 in January.

The Glidden company, Cleveland, has offered stockholders the right to subscribe to new common stock at $35 a share in ratio of one new share for each 5 held, dependent upon approval by stockholders of an increase in shares to 600,000 from 500,000. The company is planning to add new subsidiaries, chiefly in its food division, said Adrian D. Joyce, president.

Combined net sales of Mckesson & Robbins, Inc., representing merger of 16 old established wholesale drug companies aggregated about $80,000,000 in 1928 as against actual sales of $74,950,259 the year before. The annual statement, soon to be published, is expected to show earnings of around $3 a share and the management expects the current year's earnings, due to operating economies as a result of the consolidation, will be around $8 a year.

GLUTTONS BLAMED FOR ACCIDENT TOLL

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Besides liquor, carelessness and speed, a committee of the automobile club of Southern California seeking to disclose the underlying reasons or automobile accidents has concluded that men and women who gorge themselves at meals are contributors to a steadily mounting death toll.

Overloaded stomachs, the committee said, cause poor driving. The conclusion was reached after a study of accidents on holidays.

A reduction in the duty on mining machinery was the only important tariff change announced at Ottawa, in the budget speech of James A. Robb, Canadian minister of finance. All other changes were of minor character.

Italian Flier Named Best 1928 World Aviator

Col. Arturo Ferrarin, of Italy, named the best aviator in the world for 1928, by the International League of Aviators meeting in Paris, France. The choice of Colonel Ferrarin for the honor was made by a margin of only two votes over Capt. Charles Kingsford Smith, who commanded the plane "Southern Cross" on its flight from California to Australia. Colonel Ferrarin broke the duration records in 1928 and then flew from Rome to Natal, Brazil.

BALTIC DRIVER WHO TOOK CHANCES GETS INTO TROUBLE IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 1—Samuel Rollband, 18, of Baltic, will be in the police court tomorrow charged with two violations of the state motor vehicle laws, driving with improper brakes and driving without a license. Rollband, accompanied by John Moran, also of Baltic, drove an automobile to this city this forenoon and at the corner of Main street the machine collided with a bus, driven by George Alger. Patrolman Edward Riordan, who investigated the crash, arrested Rollband. Moran possessed a license, but Rollband was not using the license to drive.

WAS 92 YEARS OLD MONDAY—MRS. SWANSON DIED FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 1—News reached this city today of the death of Mrs. Matilda Swanson this morning, in New Haven, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ernest W. Tomlinson. She had reached her 92nd birthday Monday. She was born in Sweden, and came to this country when a young woman. Besides her daughter, in New Haven, she is survived by a son, Edwin G. Swanson, of 382 Broad street, New London.

BAD MAN FROM HARTFORD MUST SPEND YEAR IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 1—Alphonse Collins, colored, of Hartford, was charged with assault with intent to kill. Because of the incriminating evidence produced to show that at least two were threatened by Collins, who possessed a .38 calibre revolver, Deputy Judge John McGarry sentenced Collins to six months in jail and fined him $200 and costs, so that Collins will be compelled to remain in jail a year. He also has a case of violation of the liquor law pending against him in the Hartford police court. Collins who is believed by the police to be a drug addict and admits that he has formed the narcotic habit, came to New London last night with two companions. They went to the house at 30 Potter street, where Mattie Jones was residing temporarily and where were also Leslie Taylor and Helen Carey. Hardly had Collins entered the apartment occupied by the women, which is on the third floor, when Collins brandished a revolver and threatened to kill the Jones woman. When the latter attempted to rise and reason with Collins she was kicked about the head and side. The Taylor woman succeeded in getting to the street and gave an alarm. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman John Sullivan responded, but the woman warned them to be on the alert since Collins was armed and was likely to shoot. The officers entered the dark hall and by one of the women were informed that Collins was in hiding. When he was found hiding behind a couch, the officers commanded Collins to give himself up or they would shoot. Collins dropped his weapon and appearing in the open, was arrested and locked up.

Two cases of intoxication were tried. One of them failed to appear after having been arrested at the New London Line wharf and his bond of $25 was declared forfeited. The other was fined $5 and costs.

A bridge party was held at the headquarters of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, in Jay street, last night, by members of the Catholic Girls' club. Prize winners were Mr. and Mrs. John F. Goula, Mrs. James J. Gilmartin, Mrs. George Kennedy, Mrs. Garland, Mrs. William A. Gaulkins and Mary Ballestrina.

A party was given last night in the lodge rooms of the Sons of Herman, by Mrs. Pauline Concors. Exhibition dances and music furnished entertainment.

Supper In Paper Bags

Girls of the New London Business college held a pirate's party at the Y. W. C. A., last night. The object of the meeting, which was attended by 11 girls, was to organize a social club. A feature was a treasure hunt. Other games as well as dancing were enjoyed and at the conclusion of the evening's entertainment supper was found by those present, in brown paper bags which had previously been hidden.

The Hearts and Flowers club, last night held its weekly bridge party at the home of Mrs. Thomas Collins, of Broad street extension. Winners of prizes were Mrs. M. Sizer and Mrs. Joseph Amoral.

At the March meeting of Lucretia Shaw chapter, D. A. R, to be held at the Methodist church, Monday afternoon, Mrs. Otto H. Schorcster of Faire Harbour place, will give a talk on early jewelers and silversmiths.

Donald Phillip Cruise, son of Captain and Mrs. Edwin Cruise, of Vauxhall street, has been elected to membership in Sigma Ki fraternity, at Brown university. Young Cruise will be graduated from Brown this year.

Sales of four properties, scheduled to be held this week for back taxes, have been deferred by Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander. They are: Property on Ocean avenue, belonging to Thornton Woodbury; at 114 Shaw street, owned by Matteo Rossi; in Parker street, owned by R. Lubchansky and H. Dombroff, and a house, at 68 Shaw street, owned by Guiseppe Perrone.

COL. AND MRS. W. E. ALLYN TO ATTEND INAUGURATION

Colonel and Mrs. W. Ellery Allyn (Marguerite Almy) of Waterford, left last night, for Washington, where they will attend the inauguration ceremonies Monday. While in the capitol city, they will be the guests of Captain Wilson Brown, naval aide to President Coolidge, and Mrs. Brown, who is a sister of Mrs. Allyn.

OBITUARY

Walter E. Banning

Walter E. Banning, 69, of 95 Smith street, died last night at his home, from an attack of heart trouble. He was born in Lyme, the son of Samuel and Elizabeth Fox Banning. He was a brother of Winslow Banning, who died in Hartford, January 2. He is survived by his wife, two brothers, Charles and Orrin Banning, of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Alice Callahan, of Groton and Mrs. Joseph Morris, of Hartford.

The condition of Mrs. Ida Nichols, who Wednesday night, attempted suicide by drinking iodine in her home, being very much improved at Lawrence Memorial hospital. It is expected that she will soon be able to leave the institution. It is alleged that the attempt to take her own life was prompted by the fact that she was prevented by her husband from attending the funeral of her young son, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Nichols today denied that he opposed her attending, stating that she herself stated she had no inclination to attend.

Burial of H. N. Albin

Burial services for H. N. Albin, father of B. J. Albin, of Groton, who died Tuesday, were held this afternoon, in Jordan cemetery.

The midwinter conference of the Girls' Reserve which is to be held in New Britain, March 15, 16 and 17, will be attended by eight local high school girls. Mildred Farmen, Rose DeGange, Marion Osey, Dorothy McKenzie, Helen Edgecomb, Alice McGushon, Janet Lane and Doris Chappel. The group of girls are now practicing stunts which they will perform as their part of the elaborate program.

Pound Party

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hemstead gave them a surprise party last night at their home in Center Groton. Each guest brought a pound of some commodity. An evening of music and dancing was enjoyed. Refreshments were served at the close of the affair.

A reorganization meeting of the Home department visitors of the First Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chester H. Howe. A pocketbook was presented Mrs. J. H. Tubbs, the retiring superintendent, in recognition of her services during a period of eight years.

At Hartford Conference

Several persons from this city attended the second jubilee luncheon of the New England Southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, held yesterday in Hartford at the Woman's Republican club. The meeting was opened by a greeting to the guests on behalf of the club by Mrs. Jerome Greer, of Gales Ferry, corresponding secretary of the conference.

The play An Old Time Sewing Bee, given by members of All Souls' church last night, in the parish hall, proved very successful. A large audience witnessed the show. Sleight-of-hand tricks by John Petrosky, proved extremely entertaining.

Mrs. John Ryan and infant son, of 15 Lenox street; Mrs. Paul Feeley and infant son, Groton; Mrs. Ralph Hill and infant daughter, 66 Franklin street; Mrs. Leo Covalik and infant son, 13 Pine street; Mrs. Joseph Caracausa, 113 Ocean avenue; Mrs. Nora O'Leary, Deep River, Albert Cotter, 1019 Pequot avenue, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

OBITUARY

Mrs. James Doran

Mrs. Anne C. Doran, 66, wife of James Doran, 25 Howard street, died this morning at Lawrence Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient about two weeks suffering from a complication of diseases. Besides her husband, Mrs. Doran is survived by a son, James N. Doran, Bridgeport, and two sisters, Mrs. Sudan V. Nevins, of this city, and Mrs. William Higgins, of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Doran was born in Ireland, but had resided in New London about 47 years.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the drivers' licenses of Fred King, 8 Starr street, and Henry J. Vallie, 11 Brewer street.

RICHARDS, DESPONDENT, TRIES DRINKING IODINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 1—Albert Richards, 32, residing at the rear of 138 Squire street, is the latest local resident to desire to end his life with poison as the method. Richards made a blundering job of it for he was discharged at Lawrence Memorial hospital this afternoon and returned to his home. Richards was at his residence last night and shortly after midnight he requested his wife to get him the iodine, declaring that he desired to use it in connection with dressing a cut on his hand. Mrs. Richards got him the bottle and while her attention was diverted from her husband for a few seconds, he placed the vial to his lips and started to drink the fluid. Upon observing her husband's act, Mrs. Richards knocked the bottle from the latter's hand and before he had swallowed much of the poison. Henry W. Razin, a neighbor was notified and he informed the police of Richard's attempted suicide. Patrolmen Frank Philopena and William Riordan speeded to the Richards house and took the suicide to the hospital. There an examination revealed that Richards' condition was not serious. It is understood that Richards' attempt at self-destruction was the result of financial difficulties, together with his over-indulgence in cheap liquor the past few weeks.

FINE OF $200 AND COSTS PAID BY TWO FOLLOWING RAID

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 1—Two of the four persons raided by the police yesterday afternoon had their cases disposed of in the police court this morning. The two men pleaded guilty on two charges of violation of the liquor law. They were Morris Agin, proprietor of a rooming house at 18 State street, and Harry Schuman, employed at the club room, 24 Golden street. Agin and Schuman were fined $200 and costs on each of the counts and both paid. The cases of Salvatore Macrino, proprietor of the club room, 30 Green street, who is charged with liquor violation on two conducts and maintaining a gambling device and of Daniel Lucey, 19 Winthrop street, charged on two counts of violation of the liquor law, were continued. Macrino's until the 9th inst., and Lucey's until the 5th inst.

Thomas Reagan, a laborer, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, was fined $10 and costs.

GROTON-NEW LONDON FERRY SERVICE MAY BE GIVEN UP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 1—According to statements made today by Captains George Crandall and David Sheehan, lessees of the ferry boat Mohican, suspension of operation of the line between this city and Groton may take place soon. The continued losses during the past year are of such an amount that to keep the ferry going is impossible. The giving up of the lease would entail a loss of the $1,000 bond posted by the lessees.

Members of New London aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, held an old-fashioned entertainment in Eagles' hall last night. The committee in charge was L. M. Schableim, P. J. Kane, David Carroll, Louis Pelletier and Edward L. Maurer.

THE LATE W. POTTER BROWN NOTED MUSICAL DIRECTOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 1—W. Potter Brown, 75, well-known resident of this city, died Thursday at Home Memorial hospital. He had been a patient of the institution for some time. A weakened heart condition was the direct cause of death. Mr. Brown was a musician of extraordinary talent. He could perform on almost every instrument known to the profession. During quite a period he was musical director of the Anna Held company. He was with Ziegfeld when the latter popularized the musical comedy, "The French Maid." He was a descendant of the family of the late Thomas Potter and during the summer months made his home at Quaker Hill in which place he owned property. In recent years he was a salesman in a local music store and won many friends and patrons by his ability. Local people best remember him as a director for Andrew Mack and Evans and Hoey.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Connecticut College Concert.

Josef Lhevinne, the Russian master-pianist, who will give a recital in Bulkeley auditorium next Wednesday evening is a powerfully built, heavy set man who radiates a kindliness and modesty that compels one to forget that he is one of the leading virtuosos of the day. His hands are extraordinary, even for a pianist. He can reach four keys beyond an octave without effort and bridges with first and fourth fingers an expanse as large as most players can do with first and fifth. His octave playing therefore is not only mystifying but astonishing, because of its brilliance and perfection. And his fingers—those wonderful manipulators of the keys that fly up and down the keyboard with a rapidity too swift even for keen eyes to follow—fingers with natural tips or cushions of unusual size to which is due his exquisite touch and tone quality. Then that mighty forearm that produces the titanic tones which delicate fingers and arms could never produce. His mastery of the instrument also owes much to his remarkable sense of pitch and his powerful imagination. Lhevinne classifies great piano playing as a combination of physical material, hearing, temperament and imagination, all of which he possesses in abundance.

The Near East Relief called upon the American people to contribute $2,000,000 to complete its overseas work.

GREENEVILLE ACTIVITIES NEXT WEEK AT THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH

Monday evening, at 7:15 o'clock, Troop No. 21, Boy Scouts, will meet in the hall of the Third Baptist church; Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock, the Mission Study circle of the Third Baptist church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Howard. The topic for discussion will be, "Overcoming Difficulties." Thursday evening, at 7:30, the topic for the midweek service in the church will be, On the Lord's Side.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dickson and Mrs. J. Dishington, from New Rochelle, N. Y., are visitors at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Harry Brothwell on Bowen avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Dickson are the parents of Mrs. Brothwell, and Mrs. Dishington is her aunt, who resides in Scotland but is visiting in the United States.

Greeneville school opens Monday, after a week's vacation, due to the eight-weeks system.

The Greeneville N. M. Sewing circle were entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. William Day, on Bowen avenue, with a large attendance present. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles, after which a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Harrington and Mrs. Harold Wickham, which consisted of assorted sandwiches, cookies, cakes, fruits, candies and hot chocolate. The club will hold the next weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. Helen Erickson, on Seventh street.

MAYOR ROBBINS CALLS FOR ACTION BY GAS AND ELECTRIC COMMISSIONERS

Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, in a letter addressed to the board of gas and electrical commissioners, calls for immediate action by them on the recommendations, concerning the operation of the gas and electric department, adopted at the special city meeting Wednesday. The recommendations adopted at the city meeting, which was attended by at least 1,000 men and women, were made by the "fact finding" committee when they submitted their report to the citizens of the city.

Mayor Robbins, in his letter, asks the commissioners whether or not they intend to comply with the wishes of the citizens as expressed at the city meeting, particularly in relation to the adoption of the schedule of rates for electricity, as submitted in the fact finding committee's report. The mayor also asks the commissioners whether or not they intend to stop all sales of appliances by May 1st?

Mayor Robbins informs the board that, if they can no longer conscientiously obey the edict of the people, that the time has come when they should acknowledge this fact openly by "resort to action consistent with honor and self respect." Mayor Robbins' letter to the commissioners follows:

March 1, 1929.

The Board of Gas and Electrical Commissioners, Norwich, Conn.
Gentlemen:

Within four months two unusually large city meetings have made plain the desire of the people of relief from the schedule rates put into effect by you last October. These same meetings also voted that the further sale of appliances by the gas and electrical department must stop. Especially after Wednesday night's meeting no reasonable doubt can remain as to just what action the citizens demand and expect from you.

No justification exists for further delay and failure to comply with their desires. The obligation of the office you hold includes this duty of public service to the same degree that you expect loyalty in your own employees.

If you can no longer conscientiously obey the edict of the people and endeavor faithfully to carry out your duty to them, then the time has come when you should acknowledge this fact openly by resort to action consistent with honor and self respect.

In view of the vote that the court of common council pass ordinances to enforce as far as possible the recommendations contained in the report of the fact finding committee and to stop the sale of appliances, I desire to know forthwith—

1. Whether or not you intend to comply with the wishes of the citizens as expressed in city meeting regarding the report of the fact finding committee, particularly in relation to the adoption of the schedule of rates for electricity suggested therein?

2. If so, whether or not you intend to put such rates into effect as soon as possible?

3. Whether or not you intend to stop all sales of appliances by May 1, 1929?

The prompt answer to these questions will enable me to determine just what action, if any, may be necessary on the part of the court of common council but I sincerely trust that the embarrassment to you of council made ordinances will be avoided by complete and satisfactory action on your part.

Very truly yours,
LEE ROY ROBBINS,
Mayor.

THIRD IN SERIES OF WEEKLY LENTEN SERVICES

Another profitable and interesting hour was spent by a large gathering of business men and others Friday noon at the Y. M. C. A., when Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London gave the third in his series of weekly Lenten addresses. Frank L. Arnold presided at the service and Louis Mell officiated at the piano in the absence of Hugh Kinder who was detained at home by illness. The hymn used was "Out of My Bondage, Jesus I Come to Thee." Herbert W. Gallup offered the prayer. Dr. Danforth in his usual attractive and interesting way spoke on the topic, "With Christ in Nazareth." He spoke in part as follows:

After you have seen Egypt and Bethlehem and have visited all else that you want to see in southern Palestine, you take an automobile for a drive of 60 or 70 miles to the north. It brings you past the birthplace of Samuel and the places connected with the northern kingdom and the Samaritans, past Ebal and Gerizim, the mountains of blessing and cursing, and then through the plain of Esdraelon. It was the highway and the battlefield of the ancients. It is now the farming country of the Zionists.

Mount Hermon looms up in the north. The hills rise before you. You climb the first ridges and take your way up the steep hill that brings you into Nazareth. Here too is another gray stone village, which has had many ups and downs in its history but never has been utterly extinguished. It contains more Christians than Mohammedans, and its story is distinctly a Christian story. It is not as old as Bethlehem, nor does it figure in the Old Testament.

The angel Gabriel first called our attention to the place. A marvellous way for any place to be put upon the map. In the Church of the Annunciation a column is shown to mark the spot where they say the angel stood when he told that lovely maiden of the long ago of the gift which she was to bring to all the world. It is a wonderful vision for the human race, and one which brightens as the centuries pass by.

Swiftly the scene shifts to Bethlehem and the birth of Our Lord. Then we follow the Holy Family to Egypt. And now return to Nazareth. We see the growing boy in the home of the carpenter. Many are the fancies with which devoted souls have sought to fill the years regarding which the gospel tells so little. We wish we had the perfect picture of the perfect child. But we only know how he grew in wisdom and stature.

The busy routine of laborious life was broken only by the annual pilgrimage to Jerusalem to attend the Feast of the Passover. One only of these events stands out above the rest. In it we see the boy of twelve in the temple in Jerusalem, hearing and asking questions, to the wonder of the elders. So much was he engrossed in spiritual interests that he stayed behind while the group from Nazareth started homeward. It must have been a very friendly group, for Joseph and Mary had perfect confidence in them and did not worry until a day or two had passed. Then in anxiety they turned back, found the Master, and heard from him about his Father's house and his Father's work. More words for the pondering of the mother heart.

A Latin inscription in Nazareth says "Here he was subject unto them". It is so. Until he was a grown man and ready for his life work he was subject. In the highest as in the lowest, he who would command must first obey. The unrecorded years were not lost. For a mighty work a mighty preparation is necessary. Christ showed us how.

To us the most interesting spot in Nazareth is the Virgin's Fountain. It is a spring pouring from a rock. And, as from time immemorial, it has been the only source of the water supply of that village, it must have been there that Mary came bearing her water pot for the clear water for the household. The women go there yet in the same way. And their little children go there with them. They pause before returning and talk over the events of the neighborhood. We are all human and have our human interests. So in that time must that child have gone with his mother. One drinks deeply from that spring with a bit of a prayer in one's heart.

One thing at first seemed to me just a bit out of place. Among the women with their graceful waterpots were some who carried shining tin cans in which the Standard Oil sells to motorists the magic fluid of motion. And it was all right. The business world of today needs to be filled with the same water of life of which our fathers and our fathers' fathers drank. So let us all drink of it more deeply.

Leaves Today for Chicago.

Arthur L. Beaver, son of Mr and Mrs. Charles Beaver of this city leaves today (Saturday) for Chicago to take up a course in electricity at an electrical school.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA HOLDS FIRST MEETING

A musical organization, to be known as Norwich Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Frank Drago of Hartford and Norwich, was formed in Norwich, Thursday evening. The organization meeting and first rehearsal was held at the B'Nai B'rith lodge rooms, Uncas Merchants Bank building, Shetucket street. To some of the old-timers present the holding of the first rehearsal of the new organization in these rooms was a reminder of old time days when the musicians' union occupied the rooms and also when John Swahn's band held their rehearsals in the same premises.

Max Hanover, who was present as a guest at the formation of the musical organization was called upon for a few remarks and he expressed his great delight at being the first man to extend greetings to the newly formed Norwich Symphony orchestra.

After extending his hearty congratulations upon the formation of the orchestra and complimenting the men and women present upon their fine attendance despite the inclemency of the weather, Mr. Hanover commented upon the presence of John M. Swahn and upon the remarks made by Mr. Swahn to the effect that if the Norwich Symphony orchestra of 35 years ago would have been kept up to date it would have been a very fine organization and a great credit to Norwich.

The speaker assured the musicians that with the highly organized manner of life of the present time, with automobiles traveling with safety at 45 miles an hour, with flying machines traveling at the rate of 100 miles per hour, and better, and with radio music traveling to our homes thousands of miles in the smallest fraction of time there will be no need for the Norwich Symphony orchestra spending a quarter of a century in becoming a fine musical organization and a credit to Norwich. Mr. Hanover urged for cooperation, personal sacrifice of time and effort, friendliness and patience among the men and women composing the ensemble, the result of which will be a real live and virile musical organization.

It took but a few minutes for the orchestra to get under way and the first selection played was Hungarian Dance No. V, by Johannes Brahms. As Dr. Frank Drago raised his baton the Norwich Symphony orchestra came into being. The musicians entered into the play with enthusiasm and the room resounded with beautiful music. The ease, co-ordination and fine response of the musicians to Dr. Drago's leading was a surprise and a delight to the players. The next number played was Largo by Handel, which requires very fine violin work. The smoothness and harmony of the entire body was a revelation to all present and a great incentive and promise for the future. Dr. Drago suggested as the third number, March and Chorus from Tannhauser, by R. Wagner, which was played with a will to the gratification of the musician, who commented upon the fine possibilities of such team work.

The fourth number to be rehearsed was Symphony No. 2 in D by Hydn, in four movements, and the rehearsal was finished with Marriage of Figaro Overture, by Mozart, with the entire gathering highly pleased with the enthusiastic comments of Dr. Drago upon the exceptionally fine beginning and upon the spirit of the men and women who participated in the rehearsal. The marked interest manifested by the musicians was evident that the organization will continue and will make rapid progress. It was the opinion of the old-timers present that a number of musicians who took part in the Norwich Symphony orchestra of 30 years ago will join the new organization.

Dr. Frank Drago, conductor, brings to the new musical organization a rich musical experience, having been connected with the Hartford Philharmonic and Symphony orchestra for a period of eight years. Walter W. Lang, is a musician of 35 years experience and a resident of Norwich during the entire period. Great credit is due to Mr. Lang for his untiring efforts in bringing together the new organization. The other members of the organization is as follows:

Violins, W. W. Lang, E. Henrich, F. Benson, V. Maramarco, M. Carelli, H. Smith, D. Pedace, E. Brennan, D. Trachtenberg, T. Gilbert, Miss Dorothy Stewart, William Malone, Miss Miriam Gordon, T. Sterry, J. Doherty, D. Tedeschi, A. Kampf, G. Volkman, G. Borden, H. Ladd, W. McCord, A. Perrone, A. McNamara, G. Laubin, F. Russel, E. Adams.

Violas: E. Swan, L. Procaccini, F. Chrest; Cellos, Eben Learned, A. Clayton, F. Reed, W. Ricker; Basses: F. Munroe, G. Helmboldt, E. Bishop, E. Scussel; Trumpets, J. Swahn, F. Decker, L. R. Bilven, E. Russell; Flutes: J. Heaps, C. Barber; Oboe: F. Royce; tuba, W. R. Stevens; Trombones: A. Webb, F. White; tympany and drums, R. Kyle and George Barlow.

The scope of Norwich Symphony orchestra is entirely cultural and educational having no commercial intentions in view. The musicians are entering the organization purely out of love for music and of the city of Norwich in which they live and where they have many friends and they are in the hope that the orchestra will be received with favor by Norwich music lovers.

COUNTY FRUIT GROWERS TO MEET HERE WEDNESDAY

The fruit growers of New London county are holding a meeting in cooperation with the New London County Farm Bureau, Wednesday, March 6th at the Buckingham Memorial, this city. This is the third year in which a specially arranged fruit meeting has been arranged by the farm bureau. An attractive program has been arranged which will be of interest to apple growers.

The meeting will start at 10.30 with a talk by Prof. R. A. Van Meter of the Massachusetts Agricultural college on "The Newest Developments in Fruit Growing Practices." Prof. Van Meter has been at the Massachusetts college for a number of years, at first as extension pomologist and now as head of the pomology department. He has had wide practical experience in apple growing and is one of the leading authorities in the east on orcharding.

At 11.30 o'clock County Agent Walter T. Clark will give an outline of the county fruit program for 1929 and also explain the proposed spray service which is to be inaugurated this spring. Following this a series of questions has been arranged for discussion. Lunch will be served at 12.15 by the Sedgwick Post Relief corps.

The program will be continued at 1.30 by Prof. W. H. Darrow, extension fruit specialist from Storrs. His talk will be on "Important Pests of the Apple and Their Control." This will be illustrated by slides and samples of fruit.

Growers are urged to bring in samples of apples which have insect or fungus injury not identified by them. Prof. Van Meter will talk on the fruit situation for the next fifteen years as he sees it.

The meeting will close with a general discussion of several important fruit questions. The meeting is open to the public.

At the clover and alfalfa meeting held recently at the Buckingham Memorial, Dr. Burt Hartwell, formerly director of the Rhode Island experiment station, especially advised against the use of gypsum as a substitute for lime. He stated that the farmer buying lime buys it for the purpose of sweetening the soil, for getting it into condition for crops which do not like an acid soil. Calcium which is contained in limestone is what we desire to correct this acid situation.

We get calcium in limestone, in hydrated lime, in ashes and through several other carriers including gypsum. Gypsum is chemically known as calcium sulphate. Probably most people have heard of sulphuric acid and know that it is a very strong acid, in fact about the strongest we have. Well, when the calcium is dissolved by the acid in the soil, an acid is left behind by the sulphate part of the gypsum which is stronger than the soil acid so one is not gaining on the soil acid.

In some instances gypsum is said to contain phosphorus or to have the same properties as super-phosphate and it does not cost as much. Gypsum contains no phosphorus whatsoever and has none of the properties of super-phosphate.

Dr. Hartwell stated that it has been recommended to be used in the stable gutters because of its absorbent property and not allowing the nitrogen in manure to be set free. It has some absorbent properties but does not help the nitrogen from being set free as super-phosphate will. For the money that gypsum costs one could much better aford to put a few more dollars with it and buy super-phosphate. It certainly is not good business to buy gypsum to be used instead of lime when it will not do what lime will and when it costs nearly twice as much.

CHRIST CHURCH SERVICES ON SUNDAY AS USUAL

Announcement was made Friday evening by the vestry of Christ Episcopal church, that contrary to a report that has gained considerable circulation during the past few days that the services at Christ Episcopal church, will be held as usual Sunday. The report that has been in circulation was to the effect that Christ church was to be closed for several months. The vestry announcement brands the report as false.

Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong completed his services as rector of the parish Thursday. Rev. Mr. Budlong recently tendered his resignation as rector of the parish, as the result of factional trouble among the parishioners. It is understood that Rev. Mr. Budlong is planning to leave Norwich shortly.

FOURTH COUNTY COUNCIL ELECTS AT MONTHLY MEETING

The Fourth County council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, department of Connecticut held its monthly meeting Thursday evening at R. E. Hourigan post rooms, Olympic building with County President Rosamond Jacques, presiding.

Following the regular business and officers' reports, the election of officers for the ensuing year was held. The following were elected: County president, Mrs. Rosamond Jacques, Norwich; sr. vice pesident, Mrs. Elsie Moon, New London; jr. vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth Francis, Pawcatuck; chaplain, Mrs. Mary Hull, Norwich; pat. instructor, Mrs. Stella Keegan, Westerly; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Kavanagh, Norwich; conductress, Mrs. Mary Acquis, New London; trustee, Miss Irene Morenyoni, Westerly; historian, Mrs. Ida Fairbanks, Norwich; color bearers, Miss Irene Morenyoni, Westerly, Mrs. Mary Richmond, Norwich, Miss Lucy Pasette, Westerly, Mrs. Agnes Poliquin, Norwich.

Hold Stag Party

Over 100 members and guests attended the stag party given by Junior branch, No. 11, O. D. H. S., Thursday evening at their quarters in Germania hall. Following an entertainment by a troupe of professional performers from Providence, refreshments were served. Charles Hamblin, Louis Charnetski and John Williamson comprised the committee in charge of the affair. The regular meeting of the branch preceded the social.

Case Again Continued

The case of Meyer Filan, 17, of Yantic, charged with manslaughter, was continued for the fourth time, to March 22, in the city court Friday morning. It is probable that the case will be nolled at that time, as Coroner Edward G. McKay, in a finding rendered Friday, exonerates Filan of all criminal responsibility in the death of Miss Jennie Bonney of Norwich Town, who was hit and fatally injured by the machine driven by him.

Lenten Service Next Friday

A Lenten service will be held Friday evening of next week at Grace Episcopal church, Yantic. The sermon will be given by Rev. W. F. Williams, rector of Calvary church, Stonington.

NORWICH TOWN

"A" CIRCLE ENTERTAINED AT HOME OF MRS. WHITMAN

Fourteen members of A.-Circle of the Woman's league of the Central Baptist church, were pleasantly entertained Friday afternoon from three to five-thirty at the home of the president, Mrs. William H. Whitman, 232 West Town street. This circle, one of seven in the league, numbers about 30, several being unable to attend because of illness while a few were absent from town. The meeting was opened with a devotional period in charge of the vice president, Mrs. Borden Taylor. The report of the secretary, Mrs. Herbert Hoffman and that of the treasurer, Mrs. Shephard B. Palmer, were submitted and approved, as was also the report of the work committee. It is the custom of this circle to have a part of the time set aside for the reading of a missionary book, "The Moffatt." While those present sewed on patch-work, Mrs. Palmer beautifully interpreted three chapters in this very interesting book, which is to be read through during the year. Mr. Moffatt, for whom the book was named, was a missionary to Africa. Meetings of the circle are held the first Friday of each month.

It is the plan of the Woman's league that the seven circles change memberships each year, that the several bodies of women may become better acquainted. A budget of $1,000 was scheduled to be raised for the Building Fund of the Central Baptist church. A.-Circle has continued for the past two years with the same members however, and has been successful in raising its quota of $150. Each circle in the league has its own president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, also work committee, program committee and hospitality committee. At the meeting Friday afternoon when Mrs. Whitman was the hostess, she was assisted by Mrs. Charles Rathbone of Cranne avenue. Mr. Wightman, one "of the old time fiddlers" entertained with a selection on his violin, "Turkey in the Straw," to the pleasure of all. During the social hour which brought the meeting to a close, Mrs. Wightman and Mrs. Rathbone served sandwiches, cake and tea.

MISS MARY WITTER, 90, HAS BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

In recognition of her 90th birthday, Friday at Johnson home, Miss Mary Witter, one of the oldest members of the family, was made happy in numerous ways. She received many callers at intervals, among them, Mrs. Robinson from Little Falls, N. J., formerly of Norwich, one of the original members of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters, who retains her membership in the chapter. Others included Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, Norwich and Mrs. Abbott. Miss Witter, a life-long member of the Congregational church, having transferred by letter from Preston City to the Norwich church, was born in Norwich, March 1st, 1839. She has no relatives living, with the exception of two nephews, Harry Beckwith, located in the west and Charles Beckwith, of Brooklyn, N. Y. A shower of post cards, various gifts from friends also a variety of fruit and candy, flowers and flowering plants were received by Miss Witter. From Loyal Circle of the K. D., she received a large basket of fruit, and a similar gift of all kinds of fruit and fancy cookies, etc., came from her nephew in New York. Miss Witter occupies the room of Loyal circle at the home.

The choir of the First Congregational church, Herbert L. Yerrington organist, is rehearsing an Easter cantata, "King of Glory." Miss Bernice Underwood soprano, is in charge of the rehearsals. There will be a chorus of about fourteen mixed voices.

The Secrament of the Lord's Supper is to be observed following Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church.

Having recovered after an operation for appendicitis at Backus hospital, having been seriously ill, Miss Mary Fields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Fields, has returned to her home on West Town street. Miss Fields, who remained at the hospital two weeks, is now able to be up and about the house and is receiving calls from friends.

Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Coles, of 169 Harland Road, were in Providence, Friday, having been called there by the death of Mrs. Coles' brother-in-law, Edward S. Riley. The funeral took place Friday. Mr. Riley had been critically ill only a few days, following a surgical operation for intestinal trouble, at a Providence hospital. Mrs. Riley was Miss Ella Babcock, of Jewett City.

MANY CHILDREN ATTEND SACRED HEART CH. MISSION

The theme of the sermon Wednesday evening at the Sacred Heart church, where Rev. Father John Mattimore S. J., of Boston, is conducting a week's mission was "Death". The three days' mission for the children of the parish closed Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. During the mission period, they renewed their baptimal vows, and the Papal Blessing was bestowed upon them by Rev. Father Mattimore. There was a large attendance of children Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon. Thursday morning all received Holy Communion in a body at the 7:30 mass.

POETRY

In February

When I awoke this morning,
The snow was drifting by;
The chimneys all were smoking
Against a smoky sky.
Half sleeping and half waking—
I know it couldn't be—
But—I thought I heard a robin
Singing in a tree.

I walked to school this morning;
The snow lay everywhere,
The road stretched white before me
The trees stood black and bare;
Within the frozen meadow
There surely was no sound.
But—I thought I heard a violet
Pushing through the ground.

And all the busy morning
Has been like any day,
With school-room tasks exacting
And school-room colors gray.
There isn't any reason
For such a senseless thing,
But—out doors and indoors
I hear the steps of Spring.

—Dorothy C. Allan, in Providence Journal.

Mountain Goat

Rigidly silver on the peak
Against the sky's blue flood,
A contemplative mountain goat
Pensively chewed his cud.

Frozen his pose, as if the wind
Had chiseled him from snow
And sunlight had put on him a glaze
From horn to flinty toe.

Oh, solemnly he held his eyes
On the beauty of the plain
Outspread below him in the sun,
Shot through with fitful rain:

The checkered April-green of field,
The poppy's butter-gold,
The valley-mist that draped the pines
With silken fold on fold;

The polished turquoise of the lakes
Leep in the hills and hollows,
That mirrored the scud of flimsy clouds,
The satin flight of swallows.

At last he wagged his wisp of beard,
Shattered his marble mass,
Bleated a dark sardonic "Ba-a-a!"
And fell to munching grass.

—Lew Sarett, in Poetry.

STEAMER RICHARD PECK GROUNDED IN SNOW STORM IN NARRAGANSETT BAY

The Vessel Was Floated at 2 P. M. Yesterday and is Being Towed to Providence—Went Aground on Ledge About 200 Yards Off Conanicut Island—46 Passengers Were Taken Off by a Sister Ship and Landed in New York—There Was No Panic—Report Says the Peck Was Anchored, That the Chain Parted and the Wind Drove the Vessel on the Ledge.

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—The Fall River line steamer Providence docked here today with 46 passengers from the steamer Richard Peck, which ran aground during a heavy snowstorm last night off Conanicut Island in Narragansett Bay.

The passengers were cheerful and appeared to have suffered no hardships from their experiences. They said that the transfer from the grounded steamer was effected in an orderly manner and that there was no danger at any time.

The Richard Peck, in command of Captain Dan Barrett, left Providence, R. I., at 7:30 last night. About two hours later the ship nosed into the mud and rock of the northeast end of Conanicut Island and was fast aground. The vessel was floated at 2 p. m. today.

Passengers said that the ship had anchored because it was unsafe to proceed through the storm and that when one of the anchor chains parted the wind drove the vessel on the reef, about 200 yards from the shore.

However, officials of the Fall River line here said that although they had no definite knowledge of the cause of the grounding they did not believe it was due to the breaking of an anchor chain. The crew of the Richard Peck remained aboard the vessel and three tugs refloated the ship.

The steamer Providence left Fall River, Mass., about the same time that the Richard Peck left Providence. When the Peck went aground it notified the Providence, which approached the Peck and stood by. Messages were sent to the company's offices here, where arrangements were made with the coast guard to effect the transfer of the passengers.

Aboard the Providence when it left Fall River were about 175 passengers, and as its capacity is 800, there was ample accommodation for those transferred from the Peck. Both vessels are owned by the New England Steamship company.

Thomas O'Conner, Boston newspaperman, one of those transferred from the Peck to the Providence, said that at no time was there any sign of panic among the men and women aboard the stranded steamer.

He said that about 9:30 p. m. he felt the steamer slow down and come to a stop.

"It was snowing very hard," he said. "I heard a heavy rumble, which probably was due to the strain on the engines when she went aground. Nobody knew what happened. Members of the crew told me that there was nothing wrong, and I supposed that we were merely laying to on account of the storm. Shortly after I talked to some of the crew I went to bed.

"I was about 2 a. m. when a steward knocked on my door and told me to get up, that in 15 minutes we were to be placed aboard another ship. He then told me that we had gone aground, but that there was no danger.

"I dressed and went out on deck, taking my baggage with me. All the rest of the passengers were out there and a few minutes later a coast guard boat came alongside. We stepped right from out deck to the deck of the coast guard boat, which took us over to the Providence, which was anchored about 300 yards away. It could not come alongside because the water was too shallow.

"There was plenty of time and the ship's officers managed the transfer very competently. There was no disorder, and no one seemed to be very excited. By that time the weather had cleared.

"The lights had gone out by the time we were being transferred and I heard one of the crew say that some water had come into the fireroom, but I don't know whether that was true. Otherwise everything was fine, and the captain and officers of the Peck did a fine job."

Mrs. Ruben Schwartz, of Pawtucket, R. I., who was traveling with her husband, was the only passenger aboard the Peck who said there was any excitement.

"When the lights went out after the ship went aground," Mrs. Schwartz said, "I was afraid something serious had happened. The crew were running around and seemed to be excited. I asked what the trouble was, but no one would tell me. Finally they put us on another boat, which took us over to this one."

HOLES STOVE IN BOTTOM IN THE RICHARD PECK

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 3—(AP)—The steamer Richard Peck of the New England Steamship company, was brought to this city in tow late this afternoon, holes in her bottom plugged with sofe ginc and her donkey engwater into her fire-room.

The Peck went aground at about 10 o'clock Saturday night at the height of the blizzard, after striking on a rocky ledge on the west side of the Conanicut Island, near Plum Beach light. All of her passengers except one man were transferred at 4 a. m. to the steamer Providence of the Fall River line, by means of a coast guard patrol boat, and brought to New York. He returned to Providence with her.

The response of the Providence to the Peck's call for help followed frantic appeals for immediate assistance at about 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. The Peck was fast on a shelving gravel beach about 200 yards from shore. She had several holes in her bottom. Members of her crew, using mattresses and blankets, were plugging crannies in the engine room bulkhead to keep the water out. In her fire room, within a short time, the water had crept upward of nine feet, almost to the gratings.

The coast guard patrol boat CG-212 and the destroyer Patterson (CG-16) went to her aid, together with the Providence, which is owned by the same line. Early today the tugs Maurania and Gaspee, of the Providence Towboat company, a lighter from the Hayes Lighterage company of Newport and the tugs "Aid" and "Commissioner" went to her, after her passengers were well on their way to New York.

Captain Barrett, seen in his cabin on the Richard Peck, by newspapermen, shortly before six o'clock this morning, said that at the height of the storm, he had let go two anchors, one anchor chain broke and that the Richard Peck borne by wind and tide, had struck, and then come to rest on the shelving bottom near the shore of the island.

PECK WAS FLOATED AT 2 P. M. YESTERDAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 3—(AP)—The Providence, New York liner Richard E. Peck, of the New England Steamship company, which went ashore off the west coast of Conanicut Island, during last night's storm, was floated at two o'clock this afternoon and is being towed to her dock here by tugs which have been working around her since early morning. Much of her cargo has been transferred to wrecking lighters in order to lighten her.

Forty-six passengers were transferred to the Fall River line Providence at 3:30 o'clock this morning and continued their journey to New York aboard that vessel.

Rough seas last night occasioned fear for the safety of those on board, as her hull was reported punctured by jagged rocks. However, the storm has now subsided.

Captain Daniel W. Barrett, of the Peck said this morning that he had anchored off Jamestown last night because of the blinding snow, but that the ship snapped one anchor chain and dragged the other hook, to go broadside on the shore.

J. Howland Gardner, president of the New England Steamship company, personally superintended the floating of the Richard E. Peck, after a midnight railroad trip from New York to Providence and a journey down Narragansett bay aboard the tug Maurania.

GROUNDING OF STEAMER FAILED TO ROUSE ONE MAN

NEWPORT, R. I., March 3—(AP)—There was at least one passenger aboard the Fall River line steamer Richard Peck, when that vessel stranded in the snowstorm on Conanicut Island last night who doesn't take ship wrecks seriously. He was found this morning still asleep in his stateroom, long after the others of the steamer's complement of passengers were well on their way to New York on the steamer Providence, to which they had been transferred.

The man departed without making known his name.

SUBWAY PASSENGERS TERRORIZED BY STABBER

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—For the second time in five days passengers on the Interborough subway today were terrorized by a stabber who slashed about him with a penknife on a crowded train, injuring one man. The stabber, a belligerent plasterer, finally was subdued.

Last Tuesday night, John Kipp, a six-foot ironworker, stabbed seven persons and held a crowd of several hundred at bay in Times Square station for half an hour until police clubbed him into submission. He is being examined for sanity.

Today's stabbing occurred on an East Side train near the Grand Central station. Nicholas Locasio, 31, of Brooklyn, leaped to his feet as the train neared the station and began to threaten those in his vicinity with a pocket knife. James Keeney, of Astoria, threw up his arm when Locasio made a pass at him and was stabbed through the palm of his hand.

Patrolman Ralph Zengen, a passenger on the train, after subduing Locasio, then had to protect his prisoner from the infuriated passengers.

Locasio was booked on a felonious assault charge and held in $3,000 bail for examination Tuesday.

$100,000 FIRE LOSS IN STAMFORD LUMBER YARD

STAMFORD, March 3—(AP)—Fire, fanned by a high wind, destroyed the entire lumber supply and all the buildings of the Getman and Judd Lumber company, here early today, causing a loss estimated at $100,000. The flames, rising like a huge bonfire, threatened for a time to spread to the Yale and Towne plant, across the street.

Firemen, summoned by two alarms, struggled for ten hours to bring the blaze under control, succeeding by noon. The fire still smouldered at a late hour tonight, but all danger was over.

The fire started, from an unascertained cause, in the dipping room. Arnold Kurch, watchman, discovered the blaze and turned in the alarm. Before apparatus arrived, the flames had spread to the other buildings and to the lumber.

TILSON RE-ELECTED FLOOR LEADER OF THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 3—(AP)—Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, and Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, were selected unanimously yesterday by house republicans to succeed themselves as speaker and majority floor leader respectively in the new congress. Inasmuch as republicans will command a safe majority nomination is regarded as equivalent to election.

ROME, March 3—(AP)—The report of the commission of inquiry appointed by Premier Mussolini, made public through the semi-official Stefani agency today, places responsibility on General Umberto Nobile for the loss in the Arctic of the dirigible Italia.

VATICAN CITY, March 3—(AP)—Permission to reside in Vatican City will be granted only to persons absolutely indispensable for the functioning of the vatican state and to "their parents, descendants and collateral relatives" but not to families of such relatives.

LONDON, March 3—(AP)—British estimates for government aviation expenditures during the 1929 total 16,200,000 pounds sterling (about $80,500,000). This is a decrease of 50,000 pounds (about $250,000) as compared with 1928.

CONFESSED FORGERY OF FRENCH AND BELGIUM PACT

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 3—(AP)—Confession of forgery today effectively quieted the latest war scare along the sensitive Franco-German frontier which had agitated many European ministries for a week. The police declared that the arrest of a man here early today had completely cleared up the episode begun by the publication in a Utrecht newspaper of a purported secret military agreement between France and Belgium.

Albert Frank Heine, a man who has changed nationalities like a cloak and has tried his hand at many means of livelihood, was arrested with his wife when he arrived during the early hours on the express train from Amsterdam. He was said to have readily confessed forging the documents published in the Dutch newspapers, basing them on an old Franco-Russian treaty which has long been dead.

Even before his arrest, the Dutch and German foreign offices had said that they were satisfied that neither France, Belgium or Britain were plotting against their interests. Denials of any secret agreement were made in behalf of these latter governments.

Heine, or Frank as he is more commonly known, was said to be a great-grandson of the famous poet, Heinrich Heine. His father was Dutch and his mother German. He was said to have deserted from the German navy and to have served in the Belgian army, obtaining Belgian citizenship. He was interned in England until the end of the World war and later found employment as a librarian, teacher, journalist and interpreter. More recently he had been a translator at the German embassy at Brussels. Under the name of "Diplomaticus," he had signed various anti-Belgian pamphlets.

Conviction of the charge would make him liable to imprisonment for 15 years for plotting against the national security. The police are searching for accomplices whom they believe he had. They would be liable to terms of from five to ten years.

POLICEMAN SHOT DEAD ON NEW YORK HIGHWAY

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., March 3—(AP)—A policeman was shot and killed today by a man who fired as the officer was riding his motorcycle along a lonely road. The slayer escaped in an automobile he confiscated after forcing the chauffeur to drive him to Briarcliffe, N. Y.

The body of the policeman, George Duggan, of the Irvington, N. Y., police force, was found by a passing motorist.

George Kelly, superintendent of the Sheldon Hopkins estate, Sunnyside lane, Terrytown, said that about half an hour after the shooting a stranger appeared at the estate and said he had just shot a policeman, the second one he had killed today.

Kelly next saw the man driving out of the estate in a sedan with the chauffeur and notified the police who sent an alarm through Westchester county. The chauffeur later reported to Briarcliffe police that the man had forced him out of the car at Briarcliffe and continued on. State police and local officers started search over a wide territory, converging toward the Connecticut boundary.

OVER SCORE HURT WHEN TROLLEY CARS CRASHED

HARTFORD, March 3—(AP)—More than a score persons were injured this afternoon, when a south-bound Jordan lane trolley car ran over an open switch at Main street and Charter Oak avenue and crashed head-on into a Middletown car, shortly after 3 o'clock.

Allan Williams, Harry Falkevitch, and William Vasile, 12, seriously injured in the crash, are in the Hartford hospital. Examination at the hospital indicated that Williams has a fractured skull and is in a critical condition. The others are expected to recover.

Fire apparatus and the police ambulance responded to calls to the scene of the collision and assisted the passengers of the two cars from the wreckage. Many of the occupants of the cars were unconscious and had to be carried to waiting vehicles in which they were taken to the Hartford hospital.

LINDBERGH IN SECLUSION IN MORROW COUNTRY HOME

CUERNAVACA, Mexico, March 3—(AP)—By secluding themselves within the walls of their beautiful country home, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, his family and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today were able to have privacy for their week-end visit and to avoid the photographers, reporters and groups of tourists from Mexico City who had hoped to see them.

Until noon no member of the family appeared outside of the house.

KING BORIS MAROONED IN SNOWBOUND WINTER PALACE

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 3—(AP)—King Boris was marooned today in his snowbound winter palace Sitnjakovo at Samokov, 60 miles from Sofia. All state business was suspended while gangs of peasants were at work clearing the road to enable the king to reach the capital. There has been heavy snowfall throughout the country and many persons were reported frozen to death.

NURSE FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

DENVER, Colo., March 3—(AP)—Guilty of murder in the first degree was the verdict returned by a jury today in the case of Farice King, 38-year-old nurse who shot and killed her former lover, John C. Bohaine, a policeman, in the General hospital here Nov. 28. The verdict carries a penalty of life imprisonment.

First Sunday Session Congress In 6 Years

Meeting Afforded an Opportunity For the Inaugural Visitors to See Congress at Work.

WASHINGTON, March 3—(AP)—Under the eyes of thousands waiting to acclaim the inauguration of a new president, the seventieth congress today all but wound up its business to retire from power at noon tomorrow.

A Sunday session, the first in six years, was made necessary in a last minute, but apparently futile attempt to postpone the placing into effect of the national origins clause of the immigration act but the meeting afforded an opportunity for the inaugural visitors to see congress at work—and they made the most of it.

Long before either house was in session the galleries were filled and the corridors were jammed. Those unable to get into the chambers crowded around on the spacious plaza on the east side and inspected the stands where tomorrow Herbert Hoover will take the oath as president of the United States.

The house convened at 10 a. m. and during a four hour session approved a bill to defer for one year after July 1, the effective date of the national origins clause which would revise the quota basis in favor of Great Britain and northern Ireland at the expense of Germany, Sweden and Norway.

After enacting the measure, however, it found that in the senate its opponents had gained control of the situation and numbered sufficient votes to force that body to recess until 11 a. m. tomorrow—or only an hour before under the constitutional mandate, the life of the congress will expire.

The senate was in session only 20 minutes and both friends and foes of the measure tonight admitted that except for a miracle, there was no chance of its receiving senate approval.

The attempt to press the bill through was initiated in the senate by Gerald P. Nye, a North Dakota republican, but encountered strong opposition under the leadership of David A. Reed, a republican of Pennsylvania. Today, after a quorum call in the senate Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader took the floor and moved a recess. He was supported by Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the acting republican leader. The vote to recess was 39 to 36.

As the clerk neared the end of the roll call the packed galleries were treated to one of the senate's tense moments when Nye, anticipating defeat, changed his vote from "no" to "aye" in order to move a reconsideration but Vice President Dawes, presiding for the next to the last time, ruled the senate had voted to recess and refused to permit another ballot.

In the house the bill was adopted by a 190 to 153 at the end of an hour's discussion. The measure had been called up and its approval urged by Chairman Johnson of the immigration committee. It was opposed by Representative Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, the democratic leader, who retires from congress tomorrow after 24 years of continuous service to accept a federal judgship.

Garrett said he not only was opposed to the measure but also regarded it a useless waste of time for the house to enact the bill in view of the situation in the senate.

The house chamber was nearly filled with members—the attendance being one of the largest this session. The vote disclosed the presence of 343 of the 431 now holding seats. The authorized membership is 435 but there are four vacancies.

ESCAPED CONVICTS IN GUN BATTLE WITH GUARDS

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 3—(AP)—Three long-term convicts who escaped from Auburn prison by scaling the wall with a rope made of bedding, fled in an automobile after kidnaping the driver and engaged in a gun fight with three pursuing guards in the west end of this city, were still at large late tonight.

Syracuse police, state troopers and deputy sheriffs joined the man hunt which started when the fugitives disappeared between the two houses in the residential section where the guards overtook them and forced their stolen car to the curb.

Stephen Westlake of Auburn, who was pushed into the bottom of the car when the fugitives overpowered him, escaped from his captors when the shooting started. He was not seriously injured.

The break occurred while most of the prison population was attending a motion picture show within the walls.

The fugitives are Edward Larkman, 27 of Buffalo, sentenced to die in the electric chair and transferred to Auburn after his sentence had been commuted by former Governor Smith; Henry Sullivan, 27, of Buffalo, serving a sentence of 20 years for robbery, and Ernest Paviesi, Brooklyn holdup man, a transfer from Clinton prison, under sentence of 40 years.

GOV. TRUMBULL AND FAMILY IN WASHINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, March 3—Governor Trumbull with his family and staff and official party arrived in Washington this morning at eight thirty. They were met at the station by Col. Bouve, official aid to the governor appointed by the inauguration committee, and Henry M. Barry, secretary to Senator Bingham, representing the Connecticut congressional delegation. The governor and his party were conveyed to their respective hotels in waiting automobiles the city being at its best in brilliant sunshine and "colors flying." The plans as forecast in the official program will be fully carried out, including both military, official and social. The reception tonight given in hono. of the 23 visiting governors to which 2,500 guests have been invited included the members of the governor's staff and ladies.

Judge Dunne was born in Wethersfield, but had lived here practically all his life.

Mexico In Throes Of New Revolution

Rebels Have Captured Several Cities and Towns in the State of Vera Cruz—Revolt on Large Scale.

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—(AP)—Several cities and towns in the state of Vera Cruz were said to have been captured by army units which revolted today under the leadership of General Jesus Maria Aguirre. A simultaneous revolt led by General Manzo was said to have broken out in the northern state of Sonora.

As soon as it became apparent that a serious movement was under way, President Portes Gil summoned military leaders to the national place to make plans for the campaign.

The rebel army units were reported unofficially to be in control of most of the state of Vera Cruz.

While the capital was buzzing with conflicting reports and martial preparations were going forward on every side, United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow with his wife and daughters and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh were at Cuernavaca. A miles south of the capital. There is no telephone in the residence there of the ambassador but it was expected that the embassy staff could reach him through the telephone at his next door neighbor's the British minister.

Censorship At Mexico City.

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—(AP)—At 9.20 p. m. (10.20 eastern standard time), federal censorship was established here tonight.

CAPTURE OF NOGALES WITHOUT BLOODSHED

NOGALES, Sonora, Mex., March 3.—(AP)—General J. N. Aguirre, of Vera Cruz, acting under orders from General Francisco Mando and Governor Fausto Topete of Sonora, took charge of all the federal troops in Sonora and captured Nogales at 5 o'clock tonight in a revolutionary movement.

The coupe was a bloodless one. General Aguirre deployed his soldiers along the oborder taking charge of all federal offices and customs offices in the Mexican portion of Nogales Arizona.

Eight states are involved in the revolution, leaders of the movement here said. The states are Vera Cruz, Chinuahua, Durango, Sonora, Navarit, Jalisco, Coahuila, and Sicaolca.

General Aguirre took a leading part in the campaigns of 1923 and 1924 against the rebels headed by De La Huerta who opposed the succession of President Obregon to the Presidency. The American government had recognized that of General Obregon only a few months before. The government, although hard pressed for some months, finally restored a peace that has not been seriously broken since.

There have been minor outbreaks in addition to the sporadic guerilla warfare conducted in the west by insurgents said to be in sympathy with the Catholics. The most serious was the short lived Gomez-Serrano revolt of October, 1927. The immediate execution of the leaders and the prompt action of the federal government brought this to a rapid close.

Gomez and Serrano charged that Obregon and Calles intended to rotate in office since the Mexican constitution forbade a president to succeed himself. They charged that all opposition to this combination in control had been so suppressed that elections were a farce.

This opposition removed by the execution of the leaders and potential presidential candidates, General Obregon was elected in July, 1928, without opposition. He never took office. Little more than a fortnight later, while at a banquet in his honor, he was assassinated by Jose De Leon Toral who recently was executed for the crime.

Under the constitution congress elected Portes Gil as provisional president for about a year and fixed the new general election to choose a regular president for the full term of six years for next November. The national revolutionary party, formed to carry on the principles of Obregon, now is in session in the city of Queretaro, but its course has not been smooth.

REVOLT ON THREE SIDES OF CAPITAL OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—(AP)—Revolt flamed on three sides of the capital tonight. The state of Vera Cruz was almost entirely held by rebels, the Isthmus of Tenhuantepec to the south was reported in their hands. And another group had taken the northern border state of Sonora without bloodshed.

THREE OF WESTERN UNION LAND WIRES CUT

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP)—Western Union telegraph officials said tonight that three of their land wires into Mexico had been cut, but that their main trunk wire, running from New York city to Mexico City still was in operation. The cable from Galveston, Texas, to Tampico and Vera Cruz also still was in operation.

The cable supervisor of the Western Union said that Mexican government wires from the border to points in Mexico which the Western Union customarily uses were reported unavailable tonight. He was unable to say whether they were crowded with Mexican official business or whether they had been cut.

ELIAS CALLES RECALLED TO ACTIVE MILITARY DUTY

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—(AP)—The recall of former President Plutarco Elias Calles to active military duty to suppress a revolution supposed to have broken out today in Vera Cruz was unofficially reported tonight.

Former President Plutarco Elias Calles, who was succeeded last December by provisional President Emilio Portes Gil after the assassination of President-elect Obregon, was recalled to active military duty to meet the situation.

The capital was in a state of high excitement. Trucks filled with fully armed and equipped soldiers dashed through the downtown streets. A strong guard was hastily thrown around Chapultepec palace.

Meanwhile, all communication between Mexico City and the gulf port was cut. No trains ran the national telegraph line and the telephone lines were cut. The population here awaited events while rumors rapidly spread.

PREPARATIONS COMPLETE FOR INAUGURATION TODAY

Chief Justice Taft Will Today Perform a Brief Ceremony Making Herbert Hoover President of the United States—Thousands Are Pouring Into the National Capital—An Almost Carnival Spirit Prevails in the City—Forecast For the Day "Probably Rain"—Approximately 10,000 Persons Will Participate in the Parade.

WASHINGTON, March 3—(AP)—The steep, winding road which has led Herbert Hoover into many lands and many adventures will beckon him to the pinnacle of his career tomorrow at the doors of the white house.

William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States, will perform a brief ceremony on the plaza of the capitol and the orphaned son of a Quaker blacksmith will become president of the United States. This over, Calvin Coolidge, who has served as head of the nation for seven years, will travel the few blocks to the union station and board a train for the quiet retirement of his Northampton home.

Preparations were complete tonight for the change in the administration of the American government. The thousands continued to pour into the city to find it flag draped and bathed in a brilliant, warm sunshine. The clean, dry pavements which on yesterday held pools of water and melting snow were crowded with throngs of visitors and an almost carnival spirit pervaded the atmosphere.

No one seemed to mind the fact that the forecast still was "probably rain" for tomorrow, and those in charge of the arrangements, looking at the deep blue of the skies, expressed hope, and even confidence, that the great American spectacle would not be marred by a downpour.

Without regard to weather prospects, thousands still sought seating accommodations on the plaza and along the inaugural parade route on Pennsylvania avenue. The hotels were crowded to overflowing, and constantly increasing numbers clamored for rooms.

The principals in the great American quadrennial event spent today much as they would spend other days. President and Mrs. Coolidge attended services at the First Congregational church, where they have worshipped since entering the white house. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover attended Friends church, where they will worship during their occupancy of the executive mansion. Today President Coolidge had visiting governors to tea, and tonight he invited the President-elect and Mrs. Hoover, the vice-president-elect, Charles Curtis, and Mrs. Edwan E. Gann, Mr. Curtis' sister, to the white house for a farewell dinner.

Plans for the actual inauguration were simple but impressive. Mr. Hoover will go to the white house from his home about 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in a white house automobile. Senator Curtis will go there from the Mayflower hotel in a congressional car. There President Coolidge will join his successor in office for the trip to the capitol.

The senate chamber, where the vice-president-elect will be sworn in, will be opened at 11 o'clock and Vice-President Dawes will occupy the presiding officer's chair for the last time. The membership of the house of representatives, headed by Speaker Nicholas Longworth, will be seated on the east side of the chamber, while the east side will be occupied by senators and senators-elect. Members of the diplomatic corps will have places on the west side, while the cabinet also will have accommodations there.

Seated with the senators will be the generals of the armies, Charles P. Summerall, the chief of naval operations, Admiral Charles F. Hughes, and the commandant of the marine corps, Maj.-Gen. John A. Lejeune, who is to retire from that office in a few days. The supreme court, in robes of office, will occupy its customary place on the east side.

The vice-president-elect will enter the chamber by the south door, will be announced, and will take a seat on the left of Mr. Dawes. President Coolidge will have a place in front of the desk of the clerk of the senate, as will Mr. Hoover.

Vice-President Dawes, who startled the senate four years ago with a denunciation of its rules, will administer the oath to Senator Curtis, after which he will make his farewell address. Mr. Curtis will follow with his inaugural speech.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies in the senate, President Coolidge and Mr. Hoover will attend to any last-minute business awaiting him. From there they will go to the inaugural stand for the swearing in of the new president.

On reaching the platform the outgoing and incoming presidents will occupy seats reserved for them, and flanking them on either side will be justices of the supreme court, the diplomatic corps, and all of the other official participants in the ceremonies. When all have assembled, Chief Justice Taft, a former president, will administer the oath and President Hoover will deliver his inaugural message to the country. This done, Mr. Hoover will return to the white house as its master, and after a luncheon he will go to the enclosed stand in front of the white house to review the inaugural parade.

A procession which will require two hours to pass a given point is on the program. It will include military and civilian sections and approximately 10,000 will participate. They will include representatives from many states, among them a score of governors.

The clearing weather today greatly improved conditions at Bolling field, where the aircraft assigned to fly over the parade are station. Upwards of 100 airplanes and the dirigible Los Angeles will be aloft if the weather is favorable.

Pre-inaugural church services were held by various denominations today. There were receptions tonight for the visiting governors and entertainments were arranged by civic groups.

The crowds during the day were attracted more and more to the quiet street on which Mr. Hoover's home is located, as well as to the white house. Thousands wandered about these two places and there were sight-seers there far into the night. The streets were lined with spectators, too, when the Hoover and Coolidge families journeyed to church services.

REPORT OF MAKE-UP OF THE HOOVER CABINET

WASHINGTON, March 3— (AP) — President-elect Hoover, himself an engineer, has selected another engineer, Robert Patterson Lamont, of Chicago, to head the department of commerce of which he was the chief for nearly eight years.

The selection of the president of the American Steel Foundries company as the tenth man in the new cabinet was uncovered by The Associated Press, ending a long period of intensive speculation as to his identity. Soon afterwards the appointment was formally announced at Hoover headquarters at the Mayflower hotel.

The ten men who are to be the official advisers of the next president-elect are:

Secretary of war, James W. Good, of Iowa.

Attorney-general, William D. Mitchell, of Minnesota.

Postmaster-general, Walter F. Brown, of Ohio.

Secretary of the navy, Charles Francis Adams, of Massachusetts.

Secretary of interior, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, of California.

Secretary of agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde, of Missouri.

Secretary of commerce, Robert P. Lamont, of Illinois.

Secretary of labor, J. Davis, of Pennsylvania.

The selection of Mr. Lamont came as a complete surprise to politicians generally. He never has been active in politics, having devoted his life to engineering and business affairs.

COOLIDGE TODAY ENDS 19 YEARS OF PUBLIC SERVICE

WASHINGTON, March 3— (AP) — Pressing cares of state broke a little into the calm of the last Sabbath in the white house for Calvin Coolidge.

He was at his desk both morning and afternoon, dealing with inescapable responsibilities of his high office even though he was trespassing against his own rule of Sabbath observance as he has done only in urgent emergencies since he became president.

With that behind him tonight, the man who goes back to private citizenship tomorrow after more than 19 years of continuous service in public office, turned to a last dinner table talk with his former lieutenant, Herbert Hoover, who succeeds him as president. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover and Vice-President-elect Charles Curtis and his sister and hostess, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, were the last dinner guests at the white house of the Coolidge administration.

But it was duty first, as always, with the retiring president when he arose this morning. It was a fine day outside, brilliant with sunshine, but the first appearance of the president and his wife outdoors was for their automobile ride to the First Congregational church where Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge have worshipped since they slipped so quietly into Washington and high public life eight years ago.

MRS. HERBERT HOOVER UNDECIDED WHAT TO WEAR

WASHINGTON, March 3— (AP) — Mrs. Herbert Hoover faces the dawn of inauguration day still undecided what to wear.

So does Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

The first lady-to-be, however, rested peacefully tonight after a day arduous from the stares of an already insistently curious public. The weather, it was said, will be the final deciding factor in the choice of her inaugural costume.

Mrs. Coolidge, her secretary said, could not tell how she will be garbed when she appears as the first lady for the last time tomorrow morning. She also will be guided by the weather.

FORMER WAR FLIER AND STUDENT PILOT KILLED

TWO INJURED AS RESULT OF SATURDAY'S STORM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 3—Although again fortunate in having escaped with less damage than several of its sister cities in the state, Willimantic had much to do today in the way of clearing out and repairing damage caused by Saturday night's severe snow storm. At least two people were injured, 175 telephones were put out of commission and the electric light and power service was interrupted somewhat as direct causes of the storm. While traffic was badly delayed and made dangerous there were no accidents reported at police headquarters up to this afternoon.

While on her way to attend services at St. Joseph's church shortly before 9 o'clock this morning Mrs. George Adams of 24 Hewitt street sustained a fracture of the left forearm when she slipped and fell while descending the grade on Prospect street, near Jackson street. She was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for treatment.

While the storm was at its height Saturday evening Attorney Arthur T. Kelley noticed what he believed to be a clothesline lying across the driveway leading to the garage in the rear of his home at 179 Valley street. As he picked up the line he suffered a severe shock which paralyzed his left arm for some three hours. Treatment by a physician revived the member and Attorney Kelley was fortunately well recovered today. It was found that the line was a telephone wire that in some manner had become charged by contact with an electric line. The wire had snapped away from a telephone pole in the rear of the Kelley home that had given way to the weight of heavy wet snow.

Manager John C. Frazier of the Southern New England Telephone company district comprising Willimantic, Lebanon and Stafford reported today that 26 lines had been put out of order in Willimantic, affecting some 175 telephones. Considerable trouble was also caused by the falling of loops leading into houses. In Lebanon eight lines were reported down, placing some 25 or 30 telephones out of commission. Stafford apparently escaped trouble. The repair crews were out early this morning and planned to continue repair work throughout the day in the hope of having the trouble both here and in Lebanon corrected by nightfall.

Assistant Superintendent Curtin H. Reinhardt of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company stated that but one wire had been reported down in the city. The falling of poles and wires threw the town of Lebanon into total darkness for a time during the storm but this difficulty was quickly remedied. Repairs were being made today and it was indicated that all service equipment would be back to normal before night.

City Street Superintendent Edwin O. Sumner was kept busy throughout the day supervising the task of clearing the streets of the seven-inch blanket of soggy snow left by the storm. The city plows were on duty all day and property owners complied readily with the law requiring that sidewalks be cleaned so that traffic was fair by night. Motorists who had been out of town when the storm broke and were forced to drive back during the heavy snowfall told of having to take as much as three hours to cover 30 miles of travel with road conditions exceedingly dangerous and windshields frozen over with wet snow.

LEGION POST ENROLLS 170 NEW MEMBER IN DRIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLEMANTIC, March 3—With the announcement late Saturday night that the American Legion membership drive of one week had gone "over the top" with an enrollment of 170, the local legion post became firmly established in Willimantic as an organization of much influence for the general welfare of the community. James J. Shea Post No. 13, which set out to secure a quota of 150 members during the week now anticipates that before many months have passed the total membership will reach the 200 mark. There was much satisfaction expressed here at the success of thed rive which qualifies the post as an important factor in civic work, giving it a relative importance to legion posts in many other cities. The whirlwind drive brought into the campaign every original member of the organization who worked under a plan outlined by the membership committee of which T. Frank Cunningham is chairman. With all officers elected and permanent committees appointed the post is now prepared to make its existence felt for the good of the community. Within a month the legionnaires will take over their new quarters arranged for their use by the common council in the Jackson street fire house which is now undergoing thorough repairs and renovations. Captain (Dr.) W. P. S. Keating is commander of the post.

WEDDING

Bunnell-Skoglund

Miss Elsa L. Skoglund, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Skoglund of 149 Walnut street and Wallis W. Bunnell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bunnell of 410 Clay avenue, Scranton, Pa., were united in marriage at a pretty wedding solemnized in the Swedish Lutheran church here at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. John Anderson of Norwich performed the ceremony which was witnessed by a large number of friends. The attendants were Miss Helen E. Skoglund, sister of the bride, as maid of honor and Phil W. Bunnell of New York city, brother of the groom as best man. The ushers were C. Edwin Skoglund of Simsbury, Marvin P. Stevens and Dr. A. C. Krause of New Haven and James Arnelli of Denver, Colo.

The bride was gowned in egg-shell satin trimmed with lace with a lace veil. Her shower bouquet was of white roses, sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor wore light blue moire with shoes and hat to harmonize and she carried American beauty roses.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where refreshments were served by a caterer. Mr. and Mrs. Bunnell will tour through the south on their wedding trip returning to 56 Norton street, New Haven after April 1, where they will make their home.

The bride is a graduate of Windham high school in the class of 1923 and also a graduate of the Connecticut Training School for Nurses connected with the New Haven hospital. She was night supervisor of the Miami Valley hospital in Dayton, Ohio, for one year and for a similar term was head nurse in charge of the men's medical ward at the New Haven hospital.

The groom is a graduate of Lafayette college in the class of 1925 and is now a senior at the Yale Medical school in New Haven. Their many and valuable gifts included pieces of silver, silverware, pewter ware, linens, etc.

Immediate members of the two families met at a pre-nuptial luncheon given in the Nathan Hale hotel at noon with 26 in attendance.

A series of attachments are being brought against the D. & R. Motor company of 929 Main street, practically forcing the concern to discontinue business. Suits by local and outside creditors have been instituted and attachments in satisfaction of these have been placed by Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish.

The first suit was brought by F. J. Jackson and Edwin O. Sumner, under the firm name of Jackson & Sumner on February 19, against George Robinson of the D. & R. Motor company for rent of $325. The case is scheduled for the second Tuesday in March in the Windham county superior court. The second suit is that of Wetmore-Savage Auto Equipment company of, Boston, Mass., a bill of $122.22 brought against George Robinson of the company on February 27, and returnable in the superior court the second Tuesday in April.

A third suit is that of the Aetna Life Insurance company of Hartford for a bill of $40 brought February 20 and assigned to the Hartford city court the second Monday in March. The Gulf Refining company through Attorney R. H. Fiske, has instituted proceedings to recover a bill of $60 for gasoline and oils, the suit being brought February 27 and scheduled to be heard by Justice of the Peace F. H. Foss.

The first and final suit is that of the Willimantic Lumber & Coal company placed March 1, for a bill of $99.50. This case is also assigned before Justice of the Peace Foss.

THIEVES RANSACK HOME OF MRS. MOLLY FLEISHMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 3—Mrs. Molly Fleishman, owner of the former Deppeler property known as "Eagle's Nest on Mountain street complained to the police Saturday forenoon that several articles of wearing apparel and considerable silverware had been stolen from the place during her absence of two months while she was in New York. While the exact amount of the loss could not be checked, it was stated that it would run up well into the hundreds of dollars. Mrs. Fleishman with other members of the household returned to the "Nest" which she purchased over a year ago, from a visit in New York Friday night.

The thieves entered by breaking open a door on the bulkhead at the west end of the house and leading into the cellar. They then forced open the kitchen door and it is evident that they went through the entire house in prowling about for valuables. Bureau drawers and cabinets were forced open and the stolen articles were stolen from these. Valuables on tables and in other exposed places were not disturbed, however.

Mrs. Howard Welden, a neighbor, denied a report in newspapers that she had seen two men walking up the driveway of the house a few nights ago. In correction of this statement it was stated today that George Willis, brother of Mrs. Welden and who makes his home there, had been attracted by a flashlight going on and off in the vicinity of the Fleishman home some ten nights ago. He walked near the place and noted two men but could not give a description of them. He asked what they wanted but they made no reply merely extinguishing the light and walking off around the rear of the house. Mrs. Fleishman said Saturday afternoon that she had found footprints on the snow leading to two windows. This coupled with marks on the window sashes led to the belief that entrance had first been attempted by this manner. The police are conducting a thorough investigation.

THREE VETERAN PROHIBITION AGENTS TO BE RETAINED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 3—The many friends of Stanton L. Briggs, William S. Congdon and Harry W. Avery were pleased to learn that these officers of the federal prohibition department with Leon Genlott of Hartford, would be retained in the complete re-organization of the Connecticut prohibition enforcement bureau scheduled for March 11. Stanton L. Briggs is now the oldest federal prohibition agent in Connecticut from standpoint of service. He was appointed as agent on August 29, 1921, receiving the promotion of agent in charge of Connecticut under Deputy Administrator Frank T. Putney in June, 1923. Agent in Charge Briggs had an enviable record of faithful and efficient service to his credit. William S. Congdon was also appointed on the department in 1921, doing excellent work as a dry raider. Agent Avery has been on the force for some five years and has identified himself with much valuable work.

Secretary of State Dr. W. L. Higgins, Representatives Louis W. Daniels and Franklin Orcutt of Coventry and Robert Hyde of Ellington, state senator from the thirty-fifth district, joined the Connecticut delegation leaving Hartford this afternoon to attend the inauguration at Washington, D. C., Monday.

WESTMINISTER

HARRY ERDON BURIED— NO RELATIVES FOUND

Harry Erdon, the man oy mystery was buried in the cemetery adjoining the Methodist church on Canterbury Plain. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon, with only a few acquaintances present: Rev. Mr. St. John. the pastor read the committal service and the casket was lowered in the grave making the final chapter in the life of the man who for 30 years had lived on the little farm which he owed in the North Society section of the town. With a team of horses he had eked out a living cutting and hauling cord wood and tilling the soil of the rocky little hillside farm. His dog, of which he was very fond was his sole companion. While he was in no way hostile he courted no friendships with his neighbors. One of these said that he had known him for 30 years, yet he knew nothing of his origin. He confided in no one and the neighbors have long since left him alone. When he first came to Caterbury it was generally supposed that he came from the west and had been a cowboy and for a time he was known as the cow boy which later became Buffalo Bill, a name by which he is more readily identified than the name Harry Erdon. Since early winter the recluse had been ailing and two weeks ago, when his condition became serious, neighbors notified the selectmen who took charge of him. Before and following his death the selectmen have made efforts to locate any possible relatives. There was a rumor that he had a brother in Pawtucket, R. I., and his death was broadcast over the radio in a vain attemot to locate some one who could shed some light on his identity. But a mystery in life he remains a greater mystery in death.

DANIELSON

ONE ACCIDENT DURING WINTER'S WORST STORM

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 3—The sun came up this morning over a dazzlingly beautiful countryside mantled in snow that created a veritable fairyland all through this section of Windham county. The handsome picture was in striking contrast to the blizzard conditions that prevailed late Saturday afternoon and during Saturday night as a vicious northeaster with swirling wet and heavy snow blinded those who were out in it, made perilous the operation of motor cars, interfered with the smooth working of wire service facilities, broke limbs from trees and messed things up generally.

It was easily the worst storm of the winter season, and particularly unwelcome with spring so near at hand. The storm was responsible for sending John Nunes of 79 Hartford avenue, New Britain, to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam and for giving his companions, Antonio Gonzales, 27 River street, Waterbury, and Augusto Nunes, 147 Baldwin street, Waterbury, a shaking up when the car John Nunes was driving was wrecked on Hampton hill. Nunes was reported to have broken ribs and other injuries. The accident was investigated by State Officer Donald J. Geddes of the Danielson barracks.

Out on Dark Lantern hill a queue of cars was held until a state highway plow cleared the highway surface sufficiently to allow the stalled machines to climb up the long, steep hill. Two state officers went on duty there to observe traffic and to render every possible service against the prevention of accidents.

It was a wonderful windshield cleaner that worked consistently through that storm if any considerable distance was to be traveled. As a matter of fact, most of the cleaners clogged eventually and refused to work. Drivers told of not being able to proceed more than 200 yards after cleaning off a windshield before they had to pile out in the storm and do it all over again. Cars that were kept moving rolled along at a snail's pace. The average running time between Danielson and Putnam was about an hour, reports showed this morning, whereas it is no trick at all to do it in 12 to 17 minutes with good traveling conditions.

During the height of the storm, limbs heavily laden with snow were broken from trees, and there was a general litter about town today. The electric lighting service faltered several times in the early evening, leaving homes in darkness, but only for very brief periods. By noon today state highway crews had cleared all the trunk lines in the territory, and the sun was completing the work of cleaning them up. These crews worked practically all night.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ray who left here Dec. 4 for the Pacific coast, have returned to Danielson. They had a wonderful trip, spending a considerable period of the time they were away in Los Angeles, where they took an apartment. Mr. Ray said he covered 9,200 miles on the trip. Returning, Mr. and Mrs. Ray were held up two days by deep snow in Tennessee. The snow down in that state that northerners are likely to associate with flowers and sunshine was 17 inches in depth. There is more snow in Pennsylvania and the sections of New York that Mr. and Mrs. Ray traversed than in southern New England.

This afternoon at the A. F. Wood funeral home funeral services for Mrs. Idella E. Handall, who died at the home of Clinton Shippee, near East Killingly, the past week were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong, pastor of the Danielson Baptist church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Mrs. Handall's brother, George Cook; William Cook, her nephew; Saville Harrington and Edward Caffery.

Today Mr. and Mrs. John Moran of Palmer street reached the silver anniversary of their wedding. With them for the occasion was their daughter, Miss Florence, who is training for nursing at a Providence hospital, and one of Miss Moran's friends from that city. Friday evening the members of the Help One Another class of the Baptist Sunday school, Town Clerk Frank T. Preston being teacher of this class, held a regular monthly meeting at the Moran home, and made the occasion for an observance of the silver wedding anniversary. About 35 were in attendance. On behalf of the class, Mrs. Chester J. Armstrong presented Mr. and Mrs. Moran with a pair of silver candlesticks and silver-sheathed candles. During the evening there were games and stunts, the entertainment being in charge of Mrs. F. O. Plummer and Mrs. Minnie Sweet Allen. An original poem was read by Mrs. William J. Pring and at a period during the evening, a wedding march was played by Mrs. John W. Gallup. Refreshments were served. Among those in attendance was Mrs. Frank Cochran, Mrs. Moran's sister, of Everett, Mass., who is remaining here for a few days.

This morning a dog owned in the town of Brooklyn, at a house on the flats on the state highway, between Danielson and Brooklyn, developed symptoms of rabies and was killed by State Officer John Murphy of the Danielson barracks. The head of the animal is to be forwarded to Hartford at once to determine definitely whether or not the animal actually was suffering from rabies. This is the first dog killed in Brooklyn since the epidemic of rabies developed in this territory, though numbers have been killed in Killingly and a few in Putnam.

Seven-room house in good condition with bath, for sale. Apply at No. 1 Morin Ave.—adv.

Michael Wall of Norwich was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court Saturday to answer to a charge of reckless driving and for not having an operator's license and for driving a motor vehicle without permission of the owner. Wall was so indiscreet as to force State Officer Emil Caslagne off the highway, and thereby invited a check-up of himself. The case was continued to March 5, bonds being fixed at $200. As Wall was unable to furnish this amount he was taken over to the county jail at Brooklyn. Wall was driving a light truck belonging to a Norwich laundry concern when arrested, and state officers charge he had no authority to be using the vehicle.

Another appearance before Judge Woodward in the town court Saturday was that of Henry DeForest, known to followers of the pugilistic game in eastern Connecticut as "Terrible Teddy." DeForest was arrested at a restaurant here by State Officer Elton Nolan and in court was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. The case was continued, after DeForest pleaded guilty, to May 25, the interim being a period of probation.

New members are to be received and there will be an initiation at the next meeting of the Danielson Hi-Y. The group is now beginning activities that will extend through the spring and summer season. Recently at the first meeting held for some time, the meeting arranged by Thomas Day, the boys were addressed by Gordon J. Gale.

Norman Ross has gone to Washington, D. C., motoring, to attend the inauguration exercises Monday.

Miss Katherine T. Theyer of Putnam was a guest today of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Witter of Broad street.

If your dog gets loose now, and police pick him up, you can get him at the police station by paying a charge of $3. The first of these cases developed today, and it is a reminder that there is a strict quarantine on dogs in force in this town at the present time.

Deputy Chauncey Genung of Hartford will be in Killingly, Brooklyn and Putnam all of the coming week supervising the enforcement of the dog quarantine, and checking on certain phases and developments of the rabies scare.

Miss Nellie Redman and Albert Redman are to be in New York several days this week, attending a convention of interest to beauty shop specialists.

Painting and other renovation work continues at the Connecticut Mills company plant, recently purchased by Rowdrell & Alexander, and to be made ready for operation during the late spring season.

Killingly's and Brooklyn's schools are to resume sessions Monday morning after a recess that has extended from Feb. 21.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward of the Killingly town court, sitting as a justice of the peace, was at Pomfret Saturday to preside at the disposition of some minor cases developing in that town.

The baby blizzard of Saturday afternoon and night was a reminder that March has turned in some terrific storms, the most notable of which in more than a generation was that of March 12, 1888, the greatest storm in territory hereabouts since that time.

Urgele LaFrance, Arthur C. Keith and B. J. Johnson, commissioners of Windham county, have arranged an official dinner to be given at the Nathan Hale hotel in Willimantic on the evening of March 14.

A still further slackening in the influenza and grip epidemic in Killingly as a new week opens is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kinkelman, at San Diego, Cal., for the past few weeks, are reported as delighted with Southern California, enjoying themselves thoroughly and in the best of health. They left here for the coast in early December.

Numbers of cars in this town are not being driven just now because the owners are without new operators' licenses. However, every mail brings in licenses and relicenses, cars for service.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Gorman of Cottage street are at South Norwalk, where they were called by the death of Mr. Gorman's mother, Mrs. Edward Gorman, 85 years of age.

PUTNAM

TRAFFIC AND TELEPHONE SERVICE DISRUPTED BY STORM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 3—The city today crawled from beneath a six inch blanket of wet soggy snow which fell continuously for more than five hours Saturday, halting traffic, slowing up trains, temporarily crippling electric light service, destroying telephone communication, crushing trees and shrubbery and filling the streets and highways with slush. In addition to wrapping every exposed subject with a shawl of the saturated snow, the belated storm served to drive hundreds out of the business center of the city Saturday evening and ruin the week end retail trade. On the highways a number of collisions occurred necessitating the attention of local and state police and in one incident medical attention.

Snow commenced to fall shortly after five o'clock, falling steady until ten o'clock in the evening. The snow came in large wet flakes, which gained a clinging hold on telephone poles, trees, automobiles and almost every object where the soggy flakes alighted, they remained. Bus service was greatly disrupted, some coaches arriving nearly two hours late, train service suffered only slight schedule delays while vehicular traffic barely moved through the mass of slush. Driving was made perilous within the city, cars skidding from one side of the street to the other and in one instance, two cars sideswiped each other and piled up on the sidewalk on Main street.

The Main street accident occurred when a taxi cab of the Providence street taxi operated by Conrad Lapalme went from his control to the left hand side of the street, smashing into a Hupmobile touring car operated by Jacob Baker of Sawyer district, which was proceeding north. Lapalme is alleged to have been driving in the center of the street. Baker saw the approach of the taxi and in attempting to avoid the accident steered his car upon the sidewalk. Even with this maneuvering by Baker, Lapalme failed to clear, as he struck a telephone pole, his car then crashing into Baker's. Fortunately neither driver was injured. Officer Edward Benoit of the local police investigated the accident, and after making the necessary recordings ordered the highway cleared of the damaged vehicles.

The state road between Pomfret and Putnam was the scene of a number of accidents involving several cars. The storm crashes were checked up by officers of Danielson state police barracks, no arrests being made. At Hampton a still more serious mishap occurred when a car operated by John Nunes of New Britain, capsized on the incline. Nunes was taken to the Day Kimball hospital in this city where a number of fractured ribs were set. He was reported by the hospital officials today as not being seriously injured.

Probably the greatest storm loss of the day was sustained by the Putnam Danielson and Moosup telephone districts, according to a report from Wire Chief Jones at Putnam today. In Putnam service to 750 stations was interrupted when the storm forced its way into minute appliances, causing telephones not to function. Snow bound wires fell to the ground under the weight of their additional loads. The wire chief's report also indicated that 150 telephones were thrown out of order in Danielson and service was abruptly halted at 75 stations in the Moosup, when lines became overloaded with their clinging burden. Before daybreak this morning, linemen with all the available apparatus were ordered out in an effort to restore crippled stations, while in Putnam and Danielson extra line crews were dispatched to replace the felled wires. At noon today trouble shooters had located all disabled wires and the three divisions were expected to have all stations repaired by nightfall.

The telephone was only one branch of public utility forced to bow to nature Saturday evening as Putnam as well as several other communities in this district of the Eastern Connecticut Power company was left in total darkness for nearly fifteen minutes, when high tension wires supplying power failed to function because of short circuits. Prompt action on the part of the trouble hunters of the company repaired the difficulty and soon the city was again illuminated.

The state highway divisional headquarters at Putnam soon had their fleet of trucks in service for the task of clearing the roads. The gangs worked throughout the night and this morning all state lines were free from Saturday's snowfall.

Sunday, with the mild temperature prevailing, pedestrians were endangered when the rapid melting snow began to slide from the sloping roofs of the business houses in Union square and on Bushees corner. The storm of Saturday, will doubtless prove to be the most costly experienced in Putnam this winter.

May street was the scene of a small flood last evening as the water from a broken hydrant rushed swiftly into the street from the open outlet to a gutter manhole several feet distant. A sedan operated by Thomas Marlow of Farrows street, skidded into the gutter during the height of the snow storm and crashed into the fire plug, snapping it open. Officials of the city water department and pipemen rushed to the scene repairing the pipe line before the water found its way to the railroad tracks at May street crossing.

The annual mission for the French speaking members of St. Mary's parish opened this morning at the 10.30 o'clock mass. The mission this year is being conducted by the Redemptorist fathers, and the sermon at this mass was delivered by one of the missionaries, who outlined the course of services to be held daily during the forthcoming two weeks.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's announced at all the masses today, a mission for the English speaking members of the parish will open in May and will be conducted by the Dominican missionaries. Father Bellerose stated from the pulpit this morning that Father Brockhaus, whose sermons brought members of all denominations to hear him a year ago, has been engaged to officiate at the mission again this season.

The sisterhood of the Hartford diocese was saddened today by the death of Sister Agnes Marcelle, a member of the order of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost, who died Saturday afternoon in St. Elizabeth's hospital in Boston following a major surgical operation. Sister Agnes was but 29 years of age.

Sister Agnes, before she assumed the veil of the order was Miss Mary Yutina of Waterbury. Her parents died at an early age. After completing her education in the parochial, grammar and high school of Waterbury, she entered a novitiate of the order. Upon the completion of her studies as a novice, Sister Agnes departed for the Holy Ghost academy in St. Brieux, France to complete her training. At the end of three more years of study she took her canonical vows and the veil of the order.

Upon returning to the United States Sister Agnes devoted her life to the education of Catholic students. She was sent to Jewett City where she taught in the grades of St. Mary's school. In the role of an educator Sister Agnes was highly adapted, for she was herself a brilliant student and was highly interested in her profession. "The Little Sister," as she was known to her students was loved and admired by all who knew her. She left the convent in Jewett City about a year ago, coming to Putnam, to the Holy Ghost mother house on Church street. The change proved beneficial and she was soon on the road to recovery, only to suffer a relapse, necessitating her removal to the Boston hospital a few weeks ago. The body was brought from Boston this morning to Putnam where it was taken in charge of a local undertaker. The mother superior at the provincial house of the order in this city stated this morning that funeral services would be held in Jewett City, where Sister Agnes ardently labored for a number of years. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery, Putnam.

Francis H. Beauregard, for many years station agent at Quinebaug, died at his home in that village late Friday evening at the age of 64. Mr. Beauregard was born in Canada. He came to the United States as a young man, taking railroad clerking for his occupation. After a number of years in the service of the New Haven railroad, Mr. Beauregard became station master at Quinebaug, a position he has long since held. He was widely known in Quinebaug and surrounding communities and was held in high esteem by those he served. Mr. Beauregard is survived by his wife and three children.

Mrs. Ella M. Carlton of Thompson died Friday evening after a prolonged illness, in her 84th year. Mrs. Carlton comes of a family who have made their home in Thompson for generations. She was born in Webster, the daughter of Solomon and Mary Joslin (Thompson) Shumway. Soon after her birth her parents removed to Thompson to make their home. Mrs. Carlton spent all of her years in this village and has become widely known in this section of the county. She was a membership of the Brandy Hill Baptist church and was affiliated with a number of the church social circles. Despite her advanced years, Mrs. Carlton remained active in these associations until a few months previous to her death. She is survived by her husband F. W. Carlton of Thompson and by two sons by a former marriage, one of whom resides in Providence and the other in Boston.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at St. Mary's church for Joseph L. Edmonds, who died Wednesday evening at his home on Water street. A solemn high mass a requiem was celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's, assisted by Rev. Joseph D. Casey, as deacon and Rev. Ernest J. Boileau, sub deacon. The Gregorian chant was sung by the members of the 10.30 o'clock choir, accompanied at the organ by Miss Rose Metras, church organist. The funeral mass was largely attended by relatives and friends of Mr. Edmonds and by delegations from fraternal orders of which he was a member. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery with committal service officiated at by Father Bellerose.

Mrs. John B. Lepire, widow of John B. Lepire died at the Day Kimball hospital shortly after 11 o'clock Saturday evening after an illness of a few days. Mrs. Lepire was born in Canada 76 years ago. She came to the United States as a young woman. She was married in John Baptiste Lepire, one of Putnam's few surviving veterans of the Civil war, who died less than a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. Lepire came to Putnam at the close of the Civil war. Mrs. Lepire has enjoyed good health and had suffered no physical afflictions during her declining years until the death of her husband last spring. She brooded over the loss of his companionship, which is believed to have brought about her death. Mrs. Lepire was a devout member of St. Mary's church of this city and was also a member of the Sodality of St. Ann. Likewise late husband, she widely known for her affectionate characteristics towards her associates. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Josephine Lapiere of Canal street and Miss Rose Lepire, who made her home with her mother on Bullock street; two sons Alexander of Mechanics street and Leodore of Bullock street.

Archi Ackerman six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ackerman of Richmond street was hit by a Ford sedan of the City Taxi company of Front street which was being operated by James Hall, Saturday morning on Main street. Hall was proceeding south on Main street at a moderate rate of speed when the child suddenly dashed in front of his car. The driver stopped short turning his wheels to the curb when the frightened boy dashed back to the sidewalk. In doing so he ran into the front of the vehicle and was struck by a fender. Blood issued profusedly from the side of his face and gave rise to belief that he was seriously injured. Officer Joseph Page of the local police investigated the accident and accompanied the driver with the injured boy to the office of Dr. P. Tetreault who took five stitches in the gash to stop the flow of blood. Dr. Tetreault also examined the boy and found that no bones were broken. He was taken to his home, nervous and quite shaken up from the effects of the jolt, was but not seriously injured. Hall was not held by the police.

Another member of the Italian quarter of the city was before Deputy Judge Macdonald Saturday morning to answer for charges of assault and battery after charges were preferred against him by his wife who alleged that he came home at a late hour Friday evening in an intoxicated condition and in his rage inflicted a serious beating upon her body. To substantiate her testimony she exhibited a number of swollen injuries, a blackened eye and effects of the family row. The husband pleaded guilty to all three charges and in addition to a sound scolding from Judge Macdonald, who warned the man that a repetition of this offense would result in drastic action being taken by the court, the representative of the Latin quarter paid a $2 fine and costs of $15.

The annual meeting of the members of the hook and ladder company of the central fire station in Union square took place Thursday evening. The following company officers were elected for duty during the coming year: Foreman Edward Keane; Assistant Euclid Favereaux; Second Assistant Foreman Elzear Guertin; Secretary Robert Ramspot. All were re-elections with the exception of the secretary.

Attorney and Mrs. Irving H. Miron of Florence street left Friday evening for the national capital in Washington where they will attend the inauguration exercises of President-elect Herbert Hoover. Mr. and Mrs. Miron plan to be in the nation's capital a week.

Assistant Postmaster Edmond Gagne of Woodstock avenue is planning to attend the inauguration of President-elect Hoover.

Augustus Wilson, a student at Suffield academy, Suffield, Conn. spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon T. Wilson of Laurel street.

David McGarry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. McGarry, of South Main street was host to eight friends at a birthday party held at his home on Saturday afternoon in honor of his eighth birthday. During the afternoon the children enjoyed games and folk dances. At three o'clock the little guests were escorted to the dining room where a table set with all the delicacies and sweets and a large birthday cake in center awaited them. Those who attended were Muriel Grosvenor, James and Charlotte McCollough, Doris Shipper, Billy and Edward Ellis and Bernard J. McGarry, Jr., who assisted his brother in entertaining.

JEWETT CITY

DOG WARDEN ENFORCING THE LAW WITH STRICTNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 3—William R. Palmer, dog warden for Griswold has had 12 separate complaints for roving, unregistered dogs during the past six days. Saturday morning, he was given judgment against three offenders whom he presented in Griswold town court before Judge John T. Barry.

Mr. Palmer says that with mad-dog cases, and strict town quarantine on all dogs, less than 20 miles away, he will keep vigilant watch until the law is complied with. Other cases will be prosecuted this week as soon as the owners of certain roving and not registered dogs can be located.

MRS. MARY B. WHIPPLE DIES SUNDAY AT AUBURN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 3—Mrs. Mary Brown Whipple, 73, widow of Frederick Whipple, died in Auburn, R. I. Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Walpole. She was a Griswold resident for years. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Walpole and by two sons, Fred, of Cranston, R. I., and George, of Griswold. She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Ida Herrick, of Norwich and Mrs. Eva Burdick, of Mystic and two brothers, George Brown, of Hartford and Charles Brown, of Connecticut, R. I.

Sister Agnes Marcella

The news of the death of Sister Agnes Marcella in a Boston hospital Saturday was announced at the masses at St. Mary's church Sunday. Sister Agnes was a teacher in the parochial schools here for eight years, leaving about a year ago on account of ill health. She was a teacher in the sixth grade and was much beloved by the pupils of the parish. Her body was taken to the provincial house in Putnam and many will attend the funeral there today. Her mass will be said here Tuesday.

Beginning without warning shortly before seven o'clock Saturday evening, the largest flakes of snow that ever fell in this section began to flock the walks and all surrounding objects. Telephones were busy at once, to be sure that friends all over the borough were not missing the sight. Some years ago a man named Boss of New London made crackers, known as Boss' milk crackers. After the snow started, within 5 minutes all this section had the appearance of being strewn with his 3 inch, round crackers. The mercury dropped 8 degrees, with an increased wind from the east. Automobiles, trees, fences and the sides of buildings were plastered with a heavy coating of wet snow. Traffic was slowed down to the safety point by most of the drivers over the state road. Falling limbs, sleet-loaded wires and the half-gale that blew strong for an hour, kept the men of the electric service busy until after midnight.

LISBON GRANGE ORGANIZES WITH FRANK MELL MASTER

At a meeting held in Newent Community hall Friday evening, much interest and fine enthusiasm attended the formation of Lisbon grange. Eighty were present, the new charter receiving 57 names. State Deputy John Hallowell, of Preston City, Mrs. Ida Richardson, of the home economic committee, and State Steward and Mrs. Charles Adams, of Groton, were in charge of the ceremonies of formation. The first officers chosen are: Master, Frank Mell; overseer, Harry L. Hull; Lecturer, Mrs. Clara Helmcolet; steward, George Bradlow; assistant steward, Harold Mell; chaplain, Rev. J. W. Reynolds; treasurer, E. Curtis Hull; secretary, Albert A. Gist; gate keeper, Newell Rist; Ceres, Martha Mell; Pomona, Lena Seidel; Flora, Augusta Thoma; lady assistant, Hortense Phillips.

The charter is to be kept open until the meeting March 8, when there is promise that the membership will be raised to 75. The state officials were much pleased with the degree of interest at the opening of the new charter. Mr. Adams, steward of the Connecticut State grange, is well and favorably known in this end of the state. He is a postal clerk in the railway mail service, at present assigned to the transfer department at the New London station. In connection with the formation of this new order the treasury shows a balance in excess of $100. Mrs. Lucy Baldwin will present a Bible and a check for $15 is credited to G. A. Ross.

Miss Alice Brennan, R. N., the district nurse, gives her report for February showing Metropolitant adult visits, 112; baby visits, 6; total, 120. John Hancock adult visits, 18; other visits, 6; deliveries, 1; total 145. Bill sent to Metropolitan, $86; to John Hancock, $12.50; total, $99.50.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox, Jr. and children, Everett, 3d, and Margaret Norma, of New London, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Hiscox, of Jewett City, spent Sunday with the parents of the gentleman, Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Hiscox.

FUNERAL

Edward Riley

The body of Edward Riley was brought from Providence, Friday, for burial in Jewett City cemetery. The funeral was held in McKenzie's funeral parlors in Providence, Rev. E. E. Scates of Jewett City Baptist church officiating both there and at the Jewett City cemetery. Friends acted as bearers. Mr. and Mrs. Earle E. Gilbert attended the services. Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Riley are sisters, both being natives of Jewett City.

Mrs. L. G. Buckingham entertained the Congregational Ladies' society at the regular meeting. She was assisted by Mrs. W. A. Richardson, Mrs. Walter Marshall, Mrs. Abraham Zegeer and Mrs. H. E. Paul.

At Professor Farrell's student recital, Friday evening, there were three encores, one each for Miss Mary Stewart, John Cavallaro and James Olsen.

The young women who have so successfully presented plays under the direction of Miss M. A. Burdick for the benefit of the Congregational church, are rehearsing a new sketch, which bids fair to outdo all former efforts.

A Million Dollars a Day

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company

EVERY business day in 1928, the 26 million policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who are its sole owners, added a million dollars to the great reserve fund needed for their protection against the hazards of life and business—present and future.

Happily, more and more persons have a new understanding of what life insurance promises, what it can do and what it does do. They are learning that it does many different things equally well.

While the original purpose—to take care of the breadwinner's dependents in event of untimely death—has never been lost sight of, today life insurance is largely and directly concerned with the business of living.

Financial Report to Policyholders for Year Ending December 31, 1928

Assets		$2,695,475,965.64
Liabilities:
Statutory Reserve	$2,346,775,847.00

Total Insurance Outstanding	16,371,956,002.00
Number of Policies in Force	42,329,281

(Including 1,304,569 Group Certificates)

ONE form of life insurance provides education for children at the very time when their education costs most . . . Another kind of policy tides over enforced idleness because of accident or sickness. Another form of policy, paid for in regular installments, is a sound financial investment, as well as a protection.

• • •

Employers and employees join together in buying another kind of insurance which provides leisure and freedom from financial worry in later years.

Business men build needed credit for business with life insurance policies . . . Final payments on homes are made certain by insurance.

About one person in every five in the United States and Canada shared in the Metropolitan's greatest year of service.

Total expenditures for Health and Welfare Work among Policyholders in 1928	$5,953,211.12
Trained nursing care for sick Policyholders in 1928	3,771,939 visits

AS MR. COOLIDGE RETIRES.

Today marks the closing of the presidency of Calvin Coolidge, whose administration of that important office has been the cause of much satisfaction to this country. Many are the times when the people of this country have had reasons for expressions of gratitude over the fact that he has been at the helm of the ship of state.

President Coolidge came to the presidency through holding the office of vice president under President Harding. He made such a success of the manner in which he directed affairs and put through desirable policies that he was demanded for the presidency and was elected by a handsome vote. There was confidence in him. The country had learned that he could be depended upon to tend to business and give that business sound judgment. The result was he has given the country an administration that cannot be overlooked in the political history of this country.

Mr. Coolidge not only understood the country's needs but he was determined they should be properly met. He put before the country the need of reducing expenditures and being more economical. Under his leadership it was accomplished in the federal government in a manner which can be pointed to with pride, quite in contrast to the results which have been obtained in most state governments.

The president has referred to the fact that his outstanding achievement was tending to business. Everyone will have to admit that he has done that most conspicuously along with a safety and sanity in governmental matters which has been of outstanding value. Perhaps this was no better demonstrated than during the pre-convention campaign when there was such an insistent demand that he again be a candidate for reelection. Had he had the desire to run again, or offered the least indication that he could be drafted, there is no question but what he would have been opening another four year term today.

It has been well for the country that President Coolidge has been chief executive for the past six years. The country and its people have been the gainer thereby and he has established a record of which he may well be proud. Well done is the country's verdict.

STIFFER PENALTIES.

Where conditions bring law enforcement to the front much of the time there is an insistent demand for better enforcement, or laws which have sufficient teeth therein to accomplish what is needed.

On the other hand, when there are drastic laws enacted and put into operation there is a call for leniency because of the belief that there are instances where the drastic action that ought to be applied in some cases should be reduced.

That is why there are two decided opinions in regard to the Jones law which has been enacted by congress and which calls for the imposition of a maximum penalty of five year's imprisonment and a fine of $10,000 for the violation of the prohibition law. Efforts have been made to secure a modification without result, although it has been pointed out that there will be much difficulty experienced in getting juries to convict when no distinction is made between the first offender and the hardened violator.

It is to be expected that judges will use discrimination in fixing penalties, such an expression being incorporated in the provisions of the act but that allows for a wide difference of opinion. Fear has been expressed that because the first offenders may receive a heavy sentence it will result in many failures to convict.

Whatever may be the outcome it is the conviction of congress that the stiffening of penalties is needed, that violators have been playing horse with the law and the courts under present provisions and the need prevails for a real deterrent. The impression is gained that such has been obtained. The test will show whether it works out as expected, or whether those who have been striving for modification of the penalties are justified in their claims. Congress seemed to have no difficulty in drawing the line between underdoing it and overdoing it, and both sides are waiting to cry "I told you so."

PAY-AS-YOU-GO WOULD HELP.

If we can judge by the declaration of the Detroit News someone ought to initiate the state of Michigan into the pay-as-you-go policy.

According to the News the Michigan senate has adopted a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment that will permit the state to issue bonds to the amount of $20,000,000 for state hospitals. It calls that action blind, bad financing and says: "If the $20,000,000 were raised in four years at the rate of $5,000,000 in the general property tax, or 80 cents per $1,000 of assessed valuation, the bill would be cleaned up at the end of that time with no great strain on the purse of anyone. But under the bond issue scheme, at 4 per cent. interest, before the bond issue is retired, they will have paid interest charges amounting to $4,400,000 for the privilege of paying in 10 years instead of four."

The people of Michigan will have an opportunity to express their views upon this proposition before it goes through and they may well give heed to the saving that will be effected under the suggested policy.

There seems to be little question but what Michigan needs state hospitals but there may be a question whether it is advisable to plunge into this matter wholesale at a big expense without gradually meeting requirements and profiting from the mistakes and the experiences as progress is made in meeting the situation is made.

Connecticut has no patent on the pay-as-you-go policy, but it has found it beneficial and it is wise in continuing it. That it will be the means of strengthening the financial situation of the state and saving it much money is indicated. That there will be no failure to take care of matters which really need attention is likewise indicated in saving such a sum as $4,400,000 but there is an opportunity for it to realize that that would go quite a way in providing additional hospitals if not actually cut the proposed cost by nearly a quarter. Saving such a sum by different financing should be better than raising it by taxation.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CAMPAIGN.

In every community there are certain necessary organizations. The chamber of commerce is one of them, and it requires no prolonged thought to come to the realization that the better and bigger such an organization the more successful the work that it will accomplish.

In the present campaign to provide the budget for another year, the chamber of commerce is working under a slightly changed policy in that it is conducting a consolidated campaign for the chamber and the merchants' bureau with more than the usual emphasis being placed upon the fund for industrial promotion.

One may well give heed to what the organization has done for the advancement of the community, but there also is keen interest in what it has in mind for the future. Naturally it can be expected that it will stand and work for what Norwich needs or what Norwich ought to have. Much dependence is placed upon a chamber of commerce. It is looked to not only to get the possible but the impossible. No pretense is being made that the Norwich chamber is going to do the latter but in its eagerness to do the former it is calling not only for the continuance of past support but an increase in the belief that more members and such a budget as has been prepared will permit of the desired increased benefits for the city.

The opportunity to help in getting such results is presented by this campaign. It has a community wide appeal. The statements which have been made concerning the plans for the coming year tell an interesting story; one that many should be desirous of seeing fulfilled. Norwich is disposed to seek improvement, to be progressive, to seek industrial expansion and to see that its needs are provided. It knows the need and the effectiveness of a live, interested, active, financially-strong chamber of commerce. The campaign this week provides the opportunity to see that such an organization, and the results that can be expected from it, are assured.

AIRPLANE LANDING GEAR.

At different times stress has been laid upon the fact that aviators have been obliged to land upon one wheel and have done it successfully. This has not been a stunt proposition, but has invariably come about when the fliers knew they had lost a wheel and were aware of what must be done to meet the situation.

There is the possibility that this danger of losing a wheel while flying will come in for increased attention inasmuch as more than usual publicity has been given it because of the experience of Lindbergh in Mexico.

It may be expected that the aviator will take good care to ascertain in advance of landing that his landing gear is all right. An expert has expressed the opinion that Lindbergh was prevented from seeing that he had lost a wheel on the day of his mishap because he had a passenger, but the same expert regarded the trouble on that particular occasion as a blessing in disguise, inasmuch as it should result in a betterment of ground conditions to the extent that aviators should be given warning under such circumstances while in the air.

Just why a landing wheel should drop off in midair, except that it had been damaged in the take-off, is difficult for a layman to understand. If it is a situation that develops often it certainly demands serious attention in the interest of increased safety in aviation. Better gear, chreful observance of its condition by the flier, before landing and warning from an observer on the ground should help to clear up difficulties in this direction.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The terrors of a March snowstorm may be many.

The day when Mr. Hoover becomes president.

Such a change of presidents as is made today bodes no ill for the country.

One estimate has it that $94,000,000 will be spent on airports in this country this year. Some day Norwich must join the procession.

The man on the corner says: All details for the inauguration are completed except those concerning fair weather.

Every snow storm removes just that much more of such precipitation which winter must get out of its system in cleaning house for spring.

It is claimed that fewer letters are being written. Possibly so but there's a raft of stuff going through the mails that gets such a classification.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Serve hot gingerbread with hard sauce.

Damp boots will take a good polish if a drop or two or kerosene is added to the blackening.

Cream is whipped sufficiently when the egg-beater leaves its print in the beaten mass.

Clean the electric iron with paraffin wax and wipe it off carefully before using.

Garnish creamed eggs with crisped slices of bacon.

To make the crust tender rub the loaf of bread with butter while it is still hot.

Serve blackberry shortcake with sweetened whipped cream.

Spanish whiting will make window glass shine.

The next time you make sandwiches, fill some of them with a mixture of cream and coarsely chopped peanuts.

Garnish a salmon loaf with cubes of mint jelly.

A satisfying sandwich has a filling of boiled ham, spread with chopped sweet pickles and salad dressing.

To whip properly, cream should stand at least 24 hours.

Table oilcloth should be washed and dried, then waxed and polished.

Add a tablespoon of honey to French dressing that you are going to serve with fruit. It makes a pleasant change.

GRAVY.

Gravy may be combined with bread and used as a filling for baked meat, green peppers, tomatoes, or added to chopped meat and potatoes and baked in a moderate oven for twenty minutes.

MATCH MARKS.

If careless members of the family have left match marks on woodwork rub the marks carefully with lemon and then cleanse with farm water in which onions have been boiled.

CORRECT MEASUREMENTS.

It is wise to write down the measurements of the sweater before washing. Then the sweater can be stretched to the original dimensions when straightened out on towels to dry. Then you will know positively it will fit after its bath.

BOILING SALT BEEF.

In boiling salt beef, leave two or three carrots in the liquid until cold; the carrots absorb the salt and the liquid can be used for soup.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

In case of injury to the eye, or when there is something in it, a drop of olive oil will relieve the pain.

A solution of peroxide of hydrogen containing a few drops of ammonia will remove ink stains from the hands.

If you are troubled with red hands in the winter time, either poor circulation or carelessness is very likely the cause. A general improvement in health and local massage will help to improve the former condition. The latter can only be remedied by systematic care.

In washing the hands never use water hotter than you can comfortably bear. Avoid cold water, too, as either extreme in temperature is likely to redden the hands. Rely rather on plenty of soap, lukewarm water and a hand brush to keep them clean.

Be sure to dry the hands carefully every time they are washed. A little cold cream and talcum powder or a soothing hand lotion rubbed in after washing are additional safeguards.

PROPER TRAINING.

The mother of many children, to whom every penny counts, but who desires to teach those children the correct way to live, uses paper napkins instead of cheap linen ones. In this way she teaches her children proper table etiquette and is able to give them clean napkins at each meal.

BRIGHT ALUMINUM.

Every housewife knows ere this that soda must not be used upon aluminum. If one of the proprietary cleaners are not in use, try the finest grade of steel wool. If you would make the outside of the pans shine again as new, any good make of silver polish will succeed.

The dark stain that so often disfigures the inside of aluminum ware and which is caused by the cooking of certain kinds of foods, is generally acknowledged to be quite harmless, but it is not pleasant to look upon. It may be removed by boiling up the saucepan with equal quantities of vinegar and water. But if you object to the smell of boiling vinegar, substitute a lemon cut in halves, and fill up with water as high as the discoloration.

SMOOTH LINING.

It has been discovered that clothes are almost ruined in weather at all damp by sitting in them for long stretches as one must do at a dinner party or a theatre. The only thing which will save them is a perfectly smooth, slick lining. For this purpose nothing seems better than rayon fabrics and these are being extensively used for the purpose.

COFFEE SPOON

After-dinner coffee is very often served at the formal dinner following dessert, though custom generally directs that it be served in the drawing room. If the coffee is served at the table, the coffee spoon should not appear among the original pieces which are laid with the service plate. The spoon is placed on the saucer and appears at the right of the cup as the coffee is served to your guests.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

A domestic turban of beige felt uses beige chantilly lace to give it femininity and formality.

New dainty lace brassieres for evening are backless. Some of them have sweet ribbon straps that cross at the waistline in the back, like West Point uniforms.

Another name for Kelly green is this new shade seen on smartly attired women at luncheons. Greens in general and the softer shades especially are increasingly fashionable.

Chic of the chic is a yellow handkerchief linen tuck-in blouse with finely crocheted buttons marching up the front in two rows between hand-scalloped edges of the linen.

Plain colored silk coats will be seen topping many a figured frock this spring. An emerald green silk twill short coat is gored, fits the waistline snugly and flares to a full peplum around the hips.

Of interest to the tennis enthusiast should be an original costume having a flowered cotton blouse that continues into little shorts, and a wrap-around skirt and cardigan of wide-wale pique.

Eggshell taffeta dresses trimmed with pastel ribbons of lavender, green and yellow have ruffles in these three colors which peep out from under the skirt to give the new petticoat effect.

Tweed, which is an important spring fabric, adapts itself nicely to the hat and scarf idea. A hat and scarf combination is likewise an excellent spot for concentrating color accents for an ensemble.

A brown and tan printed crepe frock has two rows of accordian pleated ruffling running diagonally up the side of the full sleeve from the wrist to the elbow. A similar twin jabot decorates the front of the waist.

New imported blouses, sweater jumpers and some frocks show quite a leaning towards high necks. A vivid red and white hand-woven sweater blouse has a regulation Russian blouse neck, side front decoration and tight belt with peplum.

COPPERY GLOVES.

Three different sun-tan colors in gloves and hose are displayed in the city shops so that milady can match these articles of dress to her skin if she likes. A new shade is a copper-tinted glove, so near to actual sunburn color that it is difficult to see where the glove leaves off and the flesh begins.

POLKA DOT ACCESSORIES.

Youthful cardigan, kerchief and belt ensembles are shown in the always attractive polka dot. This trio is predicted as the cleverest tennis outfit for wear with a white or pastel sleeveless frock. A few very charming three-piece ensembles are seen in polka dot and plain combinations.

OFF-WHITE WITH RED.

It is unusual to combine white with very dark red. Therefore all the more startling is this new combination seen in a costume comprising an off-white sleeveless dress and a cardigan of dark wine red.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

Wet tea stains on a tablecloth with lemon juice and expose to the sun.

If a garment is held in front of an electric fan, when cleaning with gasoline, no rings will be left in the material.

Hair tonic and other spots can often be removed by sponging with cold water before they dry. Put a bath towel underneath and let dry before pressing.

Those spots on sonny's knickers can be removed by wiping off with water in which as much borax as it will hold has been dissolved. It will save many a trip to the tailor's if a little homework is done to those panties.

To remove mildew from clothes mix equal parts of soft soap with powdered starch, half as much common salt and the juice of half a lemon. Spread the mixture over the mildew spots and then lay the article on the grass or clean paper, day and night, until the stain comes out.

REMOVE ODD PINS.

Your laundress will appreciate it and give you better service if you will be careful to remove odd pins from your soiled clothes while they are being sorted. It may save serious trouble. When pinning a pin to the front of your dress, pin it fast to your underwear as well. Then when you take off the dress you must remove the pin and no accident can occur.

DEEP FAT FRYING.

In deep fat frying, the safest and best way to test the temperatures is by the termometer. Lacking a thermometer, the bread test may be used. This test is the time that it takes a one-inch cube of bread to turn a golden brown. The smoking point of fat should not be used as a test. In the first place it is not reliable, because fats do not all smoke at the same temperature and in the second place the fat should not be allowed to reach the smoking point, because when fats smoke it is an indication that decomposition is taking place. Fats which have become discolored by decomposition do not give a nice even color in frying.

The size of the kettle changes the temperatures at which fat smokes; it will smoke at a lower temperature in a larger and wider kettle than in a small one where less surface is exposed.

SUCCESSFUL BAKIG.

Know your oven. Some ovens are quick cookers and others slow. The only way one can roast or bake successfully is to know the little tricks of her particular oven. Many ovens have a side that browns more rapidly than the other and virtually every oven cooks quicker in the back than in the front.

MOPPING FLOORS.

Be chary about the amount of water used in wiping up or mopping floors. Too much water means swelling and warping of the boards.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Grandmothers are the real heads on the Navajo heservations in the Arizona-New Mexico country. They rule with a rod of iron.

The first woman to climb Mount Baker in Washington in mid-winter was Miss Alva Wallenberg, school teacher of North Bend, who scaled the peak in company of three men.

Since women first went to the Connecticut legislature in 1921, there have been 19 in the house of 262 members, and one in the senate of 35.

Mrs. Zimmelman de Tashof, the newly appointed fruit commissioner of the Argentine Republic, is touring the United States to create a demand for Argentine fruit.

A plan to set aside one day of the year for the appreciation of poetry has been suggested by Angela Morgan, Philadelphia, Pa., poet. On such a day she suggests that poetry be read to the children in the home and placed upon the walls of offices and factories where it could be read by employees.

STOPS BANGING.

A one-inch piece of felt or cork fastened on the frame will prevent the screen door from banging.

WHITE INK.

When you need a little white ink and have none, try a solution of bicarbonate of soda.

RECIPES.

Honey Muffins: 4 tablespoons honey, 2 cups milk, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 quart graham flour. Mix honey, salt, egg and milk. Sift baking powder with flour, and add to the first mixture. Bake in well greased muffin tins in a quick oven.

Honey Gingerbread: 1 cup strained honey, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup melted butter, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon ginger, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 1-4 cups flour.

Mix honey, sugar, melted fat and beaten egg. Add chopped nuts, baking powder and ginger sifted with one cup of the flour. Add enough flour to drop from a spoon on to a greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Monday

"I exhort, therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions—be made for all that are in authority." (1 Timothy 2:1, 2). Read: Romans 13:1 to 7).

MEDITATION: Today a new president of my country is inaugurated. Whether I voted for him or not, he is now my president. As such he is entitled to my loyal respect, and to my humble prayers for divine guidance and support to be given him. Let me not forget this as a part of the duty of the Christian citizen.

PRAYER: Almighty God, Ruler of all nations, Judge of all men, we humbly beseech Thy blessing upon him who has been called by the voice of the people to be the chief magistrate of our beloved country. Endue him with wisdom and with the fear of the Lord which is the beginning of wisdom. Let the spirit which was in Christ Jesus reign in his heart that in righteousness and in charity he may rule over us. Guide him in the way of justice that we and all nations may have peace. In the name of Him who is King of Kings and Lord of Lords. Amen.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 3— Well, at last the army—or at least the four dozen horsemen of the Washington cavalry contingent of the army—are going to get a chance to exhibit its fine uniforms and gold lace more or less publicly.

The great sartorial event will be at the polo ball, to be revived this year in the wake of inauguration. It will be April 1, and as all the military and naval attaches will be floor committee members, the ball ought to be a colorful affair.

That is one place where the aviation daredevils have failed thus far to crowd their cavalry brethren out of the picture. The horse soldiers, once the corps d'elite in any army, have lost countenance a lot in this gasoline engine age. But socially they are still very much it. What other sport in which the army shares has anything like the social setting polo always gets? The answer is—none.

Once Publicity Venture

The Washington polo ball, inspired by the war department polo club and with General Pershing as its chief sponsor when he was chief of staff, was frankly started as a publicity venture. As a good cavalryman, Pershing was eager to build up interest in polo. The list of "patrons" of each ball has been a roll call of the great ones of Washington life, headed by the president of the United States and including the ambassadors and ministers.

This year General Summerall is chairman of the ball committee. And he's taking it seriously; he's an actual working chairman. The list of sponsors is incomplete, but probably will include both Coolidge and Hoover. It always has been a very swank affair, and as it will be Washington's first post-lenten ball this year, no doubt it will have all the more social class on that account.

General a Poloist

In General Parker, now a major general, the club boasts the only polo playing general in the army. Its membership also includes, however, General Booth, the regular referee of all intra-service matches in Washington. The fact that these two general officers are actively involved means the certainty of military-social prominence for any club affair like the ball.

And, coming back to the blue uniforms, the Bystander learns that definite assignments have been made among officer members of the club to insure the first return to the glory of full dress trappings. For once, the American contingent will be on a par with the foreign officers in that respect.

YOUR HEALTH

BLEEDING GUM TISSUE.

By R. Dean Creamer, D. D. S., Phoenix, Arizona.

Most all dentists advise their patients to have their mouths examined at least once every six months and in special cases more often. This advice is given for the welfare of the patients. Our foods today are so soft that it is hardly necessary to chew the food we eat. As a result of this, there is little or no massaging of the gums in the process of mastication.

There is a method of brushing the teeth that will produce the same massaging effect as that produced by chewing coarse foods, but many people will not spend the time necessary to accomplish this, which is another reason for frequent examinations.

Tartar, the hard flint-like substance that forms around the neck of the teeth on the inside of the lower front and outside of the upper back ones, due to calcium in the saliva, causes pressure on the gum tissues and results in a recession of the soft tissue and bone, if left on the teeth very long. This tartar should be scaled off and the teeth polished often to avoid recession, which is one indication of pyorrhea.

One of the peculiar characteristics of pyorrhea is that it gives little or no inconvenience until it becomes serious. It is comparable in this respect to tuberculosis and certain heart conditions in which the patient often does not suffer to any extent until the trouble has advanced beyond hope of recovery.

Bleeding gum tissue is an indication of pyorrhea. And it might say here that no tooth paste or powder on the market will cure this condition. You should get a competent dentist's advice immediately. He will note any unusual condition of the mouth and treat it accordingly.

Cavities in teeth should be found when they are very small, to save the most tooth structure and to safeguard the pulp (nerve) from destruction by irritation and infections from bacteria in the decay. All cavities should be filled before they even get sensitive. Cavities will never get large if you have frequent examinations. Then all chances for decay to encroach upon and destroy the pulp are eliminated.

I have had many patients tell me that their teeth were soft. They had been eating and broke a piece out of a tooth and didn't know there was a cavity in it. This cavity was on a surface in between the teeth and was quite large before the chewing surface broke through. There is a way of finding cavities between the teeth when they are very small, by the use of the bite-wing x-ray examination.

Remember it is for the patient's interest, to safeguard him from disease, that the dentist wishes to make frequent examinations, to prevent rather than to repair after the damage is done.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Amounts paid or accrued within the taxable year 1928 as interest on indebtedness are deductible, with certain exceptions, from gross income in determining net income. Such items include interest on money borrowed to defray personal expenses and money borrowed for the purchase of real estate. If a person owes money secured by a lien or mortgage on his home, the amount of interest paid on such indebtedness may be deducted. Interest, however, need not be evidenced by lien, judgment or mortgage to make the interest thereon deductible. Frequently indebtedness is evidenced only by note without additional security.

Interest paid on behalf of a friend or relative where there is no legal obligation on the part of the payor cannot be deducted. In such cases the payments amount to a loan or gift.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892 as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health: keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?

CHILD TRAINING

Reasons For Conduct

Edith L. Reid

"Don't you see that when you're naughty, you worry Mother?" Mrs Allen dropped wearily into a chair at the close of a rather troubled day and gave her son a reproving glance.

Billy put his arms around her neck and squeezed her tightly, but he said nothing.

"Are you going to promise to be good tomorrow, so Mother won't be so tired?"

So Billy was undressed and tucked into bed with a goodnight kiss.

The next morning, early, Mrs. Allen got a message that called her away from town for the day. Arrangements were made for Billy to stay with a relative. Billy was more obstreperous than he had been the day before; his mischief and stubbornness took him into many scrapes. The Auntie reported his conduct when Mother returned.

Mother took Billy side and said, "You promised me that you would be good today."

"There wasn't anything to be good for, 'cause you went away," argued Billy.

A deplorable method of discipline, surely, yet regrettably common.

"Aren't you ashamed to have Mother see you pick a rose from the bush in the park?" I heard a mother say to her small daughter as they were strolling just ahead of me on one of the park trails.

Evidently the offense was not in doing wrong but in being caught. The child, thus reproved, could not help getting the idea that condemnation or disapproval come only from being seen doing the questionable thing. Why should such a little daughter hesitate to pull all the flowers she pleases if she ever finds herself in the park with Mother and park superintendent off duty?

"I'll tell Daddy that you slapped Sister," a neighbor called to her son who was playing in the sand pile with his baby sister, the latter at that minute crying loudly.

Now the chances are this small son will do his slapping hereafter when there is no one around who is apt to report to Father.

Such methods of training not only fail to establish right motives for conduct, but they actually create ideas of deception in the young mind. We must teach children to do right, not because doing wrong worries Mother, because the park superintendent might see that a rose had been picked, because Daddy will find out at night if Son has been naughty, but because right-doing brings satisfaction. We must set up righteous and fair ideals in the mind of the child. He will not play false to what is part of his own creed. He will be true to the decision of his own heart.

To break a cold harmlessly and in a hurry try a Bayer Aspirin tablet. And for headache. The action of Aspirin is very efficient, too, in cases of neuralgia, neuritis, even rheumatism and lumbago! And there's no after effect; doctors give Aspirin to children—often infants. Whenever there's pain, think of Aspirin. The genuine Bayer Aspirin has Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

POETRY

Our Calvin Coolidge

From the spirit of the rock and the earth,
From the mountains and the high winds,
A soul came,
And he was made leader of a great people.
That he told them a wordless story;
Told them by look and gesture,
Told them as the story was told to him
By the country whither he had come.
For he was of the high hills,
And the long, blue rivers.
He had heard their story,
And their expressions were his.
This theme was born in him:
The tranquillity of farm and pasture,
The vastness of great skies cut by mountain peaks,
The serenity of lakes cupped in the earth's hand,
The powers of the wind, raging through trees on stormy nights,
The purity, the hope of morning, as it first comes after night,
The ruggedness of our New England granite,
The joy and prosperity of harvest in the farm land,
The majesty, the constancy and the almightiness of hills;
All these were his.
It was a noble theme,
And the people loved him as he told it.

Exploration for metal deposits can be made without digging by means of a radio-magnetic apparatus developed by Prof. A. A. Petrovsky of the Leningrad Geophysics institute. Professor Petrovsky tested his invention in an unexplored section of the Caucasus. He indicated that there were beds of sulphuric iron ore in certain spots. Borings of the ground confirmed his indications. His apparatus is said to be small, portable, and sensitive enough not only to locate metals underground but to indicate to some extent composition.

Until arrested, William Vincent Cauchi, 51, an engineer, had for several weeks been "seeing England" at what was possibly a record for inexpensiveness. When Cauchi wished to go anywhere he went first to one of Messrs' Cook's travel branches and bought a shilling ticket for a suburban station. Then he erased the name of the local station by the use of chemicals and inserted the name of some distant city. When caught, Cauchi admitted he had traveled over Devon, Cornwall and the south coast in this way. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to four months.

"Happiest Boy in Connecticut"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Connecticut mother, Mrs. C. C. Schweiger, 11 Clinton St., Hartford, says: "My little son, Elliott, became so constipated that I was badly worried. Then a friend got me to give him some California Fig Syrup. It stopped his constipation quick; and the way it improved his color and made him pick up made me realize how run-down he had been. He is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say he's the happiest boy in Connecticut."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

KENTUCKY STATION TALKS TWO HOURS TO AUSTRALIA

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—Students of University of Kentucky who operate short wave station, W9XL claim the record for two-way radio communication between the United States and Australia.

The claim is based on a continuous two-hour communication with DK5WR, owned by W. M. Richards, 5c Charibury Road, Medindia Gardens, South Australia.

It was nearly freezing in Kentucky one morning at 3:35 o'clock, central time, when W9XL, owned by the school's department of engineering, picked up DK5WR. The Australian station reported the weather warm. At the end of the two-hour conversation, DK5WR reported "QSA5," which in radio language means the sending station is coming clear and loud.

The University of Kentucky station uses two 75-watt tubes, and a special type of antenna designed by Isaac Watkins, operator of the station. It has communicated with CM2EMG, Havanna; PRS, Colon, Panama, Canal Zone; G5BZ, Great Britain; J9FT, Japan; VK4GS and DK5WR, Australia. Several times it has communicated with Byrd expedition at the South Pole.

OBITUARY

Mrs. William Caruthers

After a long period of ill health, Mrs. Nancy Snyder Caruthers, widow of William Caruthers, died Friday evening about 9.30 o'clock at her home No. 77 McKinley avenue.

Mrs. Caruthers was in her 82d year, and is the last of her immediate family. She was born in Martinsburg, Virginia, the daughter of Daniel and Mary Snyder. The bride of a Civil war romance, she was united in marriage on Sept. 16, 1868, with Lieut. William Caruthers, and coming at once to Norwich as a young girl, she brought to this city of her adoption all the rare traditions of southern hospitality and charm, which were hers to the very last of her long life.

Always bright and mentally alert, she was keenly interested in politics and the affairs of the times, possessing the faculty, unusual to age, of living in the present and enjoying young people. Her happy spirit and sympathetic viewpoint endeared her to a legion of friends, with many of whom, for over 50 years she has shared the same pleasant neighborhood.

Her passing brings deep sorrow to many throughout the town. Her gracious ways and busy usefulness in her day and generation, will linger long in cherished memory. Sterling and true in all relations with life, her tenderest interest centered around her home and family, and her children may well rise up and call her blessed.

While her health permitted she was a regular attendant and devoted member of the old Broadway church, transferring her membership to the United church when the two parishes merged.

She is survived by three daughters and one son, Mrs. James Metcalf Smith of Providence, Mrs. Gordon Simner of London, England, Miss Magie V. Caruthers of this city, and William H. Caruthers of Detroit, Michigan, A younger daughter, Faith Berkley, passed away on May 21, 1925.

George Clinton Gardner

George Clinton Gardner, 79, of Bozrah died at 2 o'clock Friday morning in this city. He had been in failing health for the past year, but was able to attend to his farm work until a week ago, when he became seriously ill and was taken to the hospital. Mr. Gardner was born in Bozrah, Feb. 26, 1850, the son of Russell and Fannie Lord Gardner, and had always lived at the Gardner homestead in the Gardner Lake section. He was a descendant of the Gardner family of Gardner Lake. Mr. Gardner was engaged in farming and was an attendant at the Gardner Lake Methodist church. Besides his wife, who was formerly Mary Bailey Lamphere, he leaves a nephew, Roy D. Gardner of Wallingford. He was of a quiet, pleasing personality and was well and favorably known. Mrs. Gardner is at present a patient at the Backus hospital.

FUNERALS

Barnet Cohn

The funeral of Barnet Cohn was held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at his residence, No. 233 Laurel Hill avenue with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Burial was in the Norwich Hebrew Benevolent association cemetery at Preston, and friends acted as bearers. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Hourigan Bros.

Mr. Cohn died Sunday morning in this city following a short illness. A number of years ago he was united in marriage with Yetta Katz in New York, who survives him, with three sons, Harry, Alec and Alfred, all of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Rose Olshin and Mrs. Ida Friedman, both of New York. Mr. Cohn who was about 50 years old was for about six years proprietor of the grocery store at 229 Laurel Hill avenue. He was well known among the Jewish residents of this city.

Edward Turner.

At 2.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon the funeral of Edward Turner was held at his residence, No. 314 Central avenue, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. There was a large gathering of mourners, including relatives and friends from out of town and there was a wealth of beautiful floral remembrances. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery and the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Ricketts. The bearers were Clarence Chamberlain, of Willimantic, Alfred Ennis of Danielson and James C. Henderson and John E. Ramage of Norwich. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker C. A. Gager.

Mr. Turner died at his home after an illness of nearly five weeks. He was born in Chaplin, Sept. 20 1844, the son of Jesse C. and Mary Eliza Clark of Mansfield. He attended district and private schools and later was engaged in farming with his father.

On April 26, 1867, he was united in marriage with Jean Campbell, daughter of Hugh Henderson and Alexander C. Southwick by the Rev. Mr. Williams of the Chaplin Congregational church.

He came to Greeneville in 1877 and conducted the livery business previously owned by Mason Jennings, later selling the business to William Kramer. For the past 20 years he has not engaged in any business pursuits.

He maintained a high standard of personal and business integrity and merited the respect of all who knew him. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Henry W. Long, a son, George E. Turner, and four grandchildren. Fraternally he was associated with Shetucket lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F.

Edward T. Alexander.

The funeral of Edward T. Alexander was conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at his home, "Fullertown" Hanover, by Rev. Dwight C. Stone, pastor of the Hanover Congregational church. The services were attended by many relatives and friends and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Burial was in Hanover cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Stone. The bearers were Fred Madd, Oscar Gallup and Edward Tucker of Hanover and William Stevens of Canterbury. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George Grant of Taftville.

SEND GREETINGS FROM NORWICH TO PRESIDENT-ELECT HOOVER

Greetings from Norwich to President-elect Herbert Hoover, were wired Sunday night, the eve of his inauguration, by a local citizens committee. The message was read by Robert McNeely and endorsed at a community service Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church, and was then rushed over the wires to the president-elect at Washington. The message follows: President-elect Herbert Hoover:

Washington, D. C.

Norwich, Conn., the Rose of New England, greets you upon this notable occasion and extends best wishes for the highly successful tenure of office under divine leadership.

It also desires to convey its pride in your splendid achievements and its assurance of complete confidence and loyal support in all your endeavors as president.

CITIZENS OF NORWICH.

The citizens committee included Senator Albert W. Lillibridge, President Joseph C. Worth of the Norwich chamber of commerce, Robert McNeeley, representing the labor unions, Rev. A. N. Foster, president of the Norwich Ministers' association and Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church.

In conjunction with the presentation of the message Rev. Dr. Pitt delivered an address on the topic, "What We May Reasonably Expect from the Hoover Administration."

In his message Rev. Dr. Pitt said:

I had hoped until Friday to secure specialists to speak to you on at least three phases of this topic. They all with one accord began to make excuse. Then it was I turned to the Otis library for help and as usual they did not fail me.

There are at least a dozen topics coming under our subject; like immigration, tariff, and farm relief upon which I am not qualified to speak. I shall therefore confine myself to three topics which are very close to the heart of the church and which group themselves around the American home, the average American home. I wonder if there was ever an American running for public office who magnified the home as did Mr. Hoover? The home seems to be the unit of his thinking.

Now if the American home is to be maintained in comfort and security there must be provided work with adequate wages for the bread winners. If there is any man in the world today who knows how much food it takes to maintain a family it should be Herbert Hoover after his experiences feeding the people of Europe, some of them during the war and some of them after the war.

The Full Dinner Pail

I presume most of us read of Mr. Hoover's plan to keep the dinner pail full. Governor Brewster of Maine announced it just after the election. In a word the plan is to set aside a vast sum of money, $3,000,000,000 to be released according as it is needed for public works during times of sickness of work. It is the plan employed by Joseph in Egypt in the long ago. The chief difference is that in Egypt people suffered when there was a famine. In America people suffer when there is a glut. What is called over production fills our storehouses and factories close down. Men walk the streets and starve, not because there is too little but because there seems to be too much. The hope is that this plan will do for unemployment what the federal reserve system has done for banking. "Organization for prosperity is the next lesson that America may teach the world."

That labor is delighted with the idea is evident from the words of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. "The proposal," he says, "is the most important announcement on wages made in a decade." James O'Connell, another officer of the federation, adds, "It should usher in a new era for the workers of this country."

The announcement of Mr. Hoover's plan to the board of governors together with his Newark speech before election are probably his two most important pronouncements thus far regarding labor. Here is what a rather severe critic of Mr. Hoover, The New Republic has to say about the Newark speech:

"Herbert Hoover's Newark speech on labor is a sincere expression of what is in the man, and as such it reveals at once his greatest strength and his greatest weakness.

His strength lies in his humanitarian aim and his technical competence to aid industrial management in the improvement of the physical setting wherein it carries its function. He really wishes to abolish poverty and unemployment, and to aid the creation of high standards of living for everyone, so that the individual and the family may have the background of happiness. He seems that the task of doing so is a complex and difficult process not yet completed. Advance has been made; more advancement must be made. He is averse to inventing new and technical ways of accomplishing the result; his eyes are upon the job, not upon the finished sanctions of the past or an accepted and unquestioned set of abstract principles. He is not so much interested in assertion and assent, in words and formulae, as he is in a chance to act."

Surely after such praise from the American Federation of Labor and the New Republic it is not too much to say that we may look for better days for the common man in the United States during the Hoover administration. He is to have a freind in the white house and that friend is a great engineer who is not so much a man of words as a man of deeds. The most Christian sentence coming out of the campaign is Mr. Hoover's declaration of purpose. "Our purpose," he says, "is to build a human society, not an economic system."

The Prohibition Question

What, may we expect in prohibition and law enforcement? It will be difficult for us to appreciate Mr. Hoover's attitude toward prohibition unless we understand his estimate of the American home. He believes that in the last analysis prohibition must be judged by its effect on the home. Therein lies one chief difference between the thinking of Mr. Hoover and the thinking of the personal liberty people. When they talk of the personal liberty of the individual what do they mean—personal liberty to build up a home or personal liberty to gratify the flesh even if it means the ruin of the home? You see their own personal thrist is the unit of most of their thinking; the well-being of the home is the unit of Mr. Hoover's thinking. In this he has come nearer to the mind of the church on this matter than any spokesman for prohibition now before the public.

I presume we all know that Mr. Hoover is a total abstainer "officially and personally." I understand that he recalls with pleasure his mother before her death taking her small son with her to a meeting of the W. C. T. U. You see then that when he answered Mr. Borah's questions as he did he was answering out of a background that was favorable to the position he took. It was not the answer of a political dry.

"I do not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, he said. I stand, of course, for the efficient, vigorous, and sincere enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder. Whoever is chosen president has under his oath the solemn duty to pursue this course.

"Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively."

"There is no question, in my opinion, that prohibition is making America more productive. There can be no doubt of the economic benefits of prohibition. I think increased temperance over the land is responsible for a good share of the enormously increased efficiency in production, which statistics gathered by the department of commerce show to have followed passage of the dry law."—Literary Digest, March 10.

In view of his own personal habits, and in view of his judgment of intemperance in relation to the home, in view of his statement regarding the benefits of prohibition, what may we expect during the Hoover administration? Indeed we may go further than this and ask, in view of the overwhelming sentiment expressed in the last election not only in the election of a president but in the election of congress; in view of the victory of the Jones bill in the old congress what may we expect in the coming years? Why even Connecticut the other day refused to listen to the exhortations of the Modification league to modify the liquor law! There hasn't been an hour since the enactment of the prohibition law that was brighter with promise for the cause than this eve of the inauguration of Herbert Hoover as president of the United States.

We have reason to hope that the states and local communities will receive in the coming years the help from Washington which they should have received ten years ago but did not get.

World Peace

In the third place let us inquire what we may expect during this administration in the interest of world peace? Again let us consider the new president's background. What other president of the United States came to the white house with such world contacts as Mr. Hoover? He is familiar with Australia; he knows the Orient, especially China; surely he knows Europe as few, even Europeans know it; he has made it his business to come into first contact with Latin America before taking office. Charles Lamb said the only people he hated were the people he didn't know. According to that division Mr. Hoover will have to visit Mars in order to find some one on whom to vent his hate.

There is something else in this man's background that makes for peace quite as much as his personal contacts and that is his Quaker training. The Quakers are among the smaller groups but they constitute one of the most influential groups of Christians in the world today. I wonder if there is any other group of Christians large or small who adorned their religion in the Great War as did the Quakers. They believe that "They that take the sword shall perish with the sword." I know of men who have no use for most pacifists but their hats are off to the Quakers.

There is still another element in Mr. Hoover's background that should make him the foe of war and that is his own experience in the Great War. He saw war in all its horrors. He saw not only how it kills and wounds and brutalizes men. He saw its terrible effects on women and children. I cannot imagine a Quaker who knows the world as Mr. Hoover knows it and saw modern war with all its horrors as he beheld them as being anything but the sworn foe of war and an advocate of a friendly and peaceful world.

Then too Mr. Hoover comes to the presidency at an auspicious moment for world peace. The Kellogg pact outlawing war has just been ratified by our own country and by France.

New Era of Understanding

I can easily make the words of one of the men who knows Mr. Hoover best my own. Dr. Wilbur of Leland Stanford university says, "I look for a new era of understanding under his guidance. Conference and cooperation are now established methods of business. With him they will become the methods of international relations. He believes in the solvent power of the spirit of good will."

Now these are some of the things we may expect from the administration or might ask in closing "what the administration has and what to expect from us. We have no right to set up an ideal of conduct for our presidents that is not applicable. Indeed the administration can accomplish little apart from us and 120,000,000 more of American citizens just like us.

The secret of Mr. Hoover's feeding the hungry in Europe lay in the cooperation he received in millions of American homes. If he receives like support from the American homes in the next four years the success of his administration is assured.

JULIUS STRENLEAU TO ADDRESS LOCAL EAGLES

The semi-annual meeting of the Connecticut State aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held in New Britain Sunday afternoon with State President Richard Dempsey of Hartford, presiding officer. E. J. Mullins of Norwich aerie, No. 367, a member of the old age pension committee, attended the meeting.

It was decided that all the strength and unity of the subordinate aeries in the state be given to the old age pension bill that is to be given a hearing Thursday, March 7, at 2 p. m., before the judiciary committee. It was also decided at this meeting to send Julius Strenleau, state chairman of the old age pension committee, to Norwich this (Monday) evening to explain the bill to all members of Norwich aerie. It was also voted to send William J. Feely, grand auditor, in the interest of the grand and state aerie.

This should be of special interest to all Norwich Eagles.

This being the last meeting of the state aerie before the convention, the state officers received their assignments for installing the officers of subordinate aeries. John McLoughlin state secretary, well known locally has been assigned to Norwich.

The 1929 state convention was awarded to Bell City aerie, Bristol, to be held June 17-18, 1929. The text of the old age pension bill follows:

Section 1—On or before the first day of August, 1929 the governor shall appoint a commission of three members, whose duty it shall be to investigate the conditions of the aged poor, and report to the next session of the general assembly upon the legality, advisability and practicability of establishing a system of state aid for dependent aged poor as means of providing more fitting maintenance for the dependent aged poor citizens of this state. Said commission shall consider and investigate the entire problem of pensions for such aged poor.

Section 2—If said commission shall recommend the establishment of an old age pension system, it shall include in its report a draft of any act or acts which it shall deem necessary in order to carry its recommendation into effect, together with an outline of any plan or plans for the establishment of such a department as it shall deem wise.

Section 3. Said commission shall serve without compensation, but it shall have power to employ necessary clerical assistance, and its proper expenses, when audited by the comptroller, shall be paid by the state.

Section 4—The members of said commission, or any assistant or employe of said commission designated by it for such purpose, may enter any property of any institution affected by the act and may examine any of its property and any of its books, papers or records and each officer of any institution or any board having the management or control thereof and each employee of any such officer or board shall assist said commission for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the act.

Section 5—The sum of $10,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary is appropriated for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act.

Section 6—This act shall take effect from its passage.

FOUR INJURED WHILE WALKING ON HIGHWAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 3.—Miss Nellie Beckwith, Willys avenue extension Waterford, was perhaps fatally injured tonight and Horace Beebe, 32 Converse place, William Spieler, Station 6, Waterford, and Donald Ferguson, son of Rev. R. W. Ferguson, 252 Montauk avenue, this city, were seriously injured on the New Haven turnpike near Station 7, Waterford, when they were struck by an automobile driven by Louis Perkins of Waterford.

Miss Beckwith has a possible fractured skull and is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where her condition is reported as critical. The other three victims are also patients at the hospital and it is believed they will recover. Perkins was arrested by State Policeman Bernard Kenerson, Groton barracks, charged with reckless driving while under the influence of liquor and held without bail pending the outcome of Miss Beckwith's injuries.

The three young men and Miss Beckwith had attended services at one of the local churches and were walking along the turnpike on the way to Miss Beckwith's home shortly before 11 o'clock. The automobile, driven by Perkins, came suddenly upon them at a fast rate, it is said.

TWO AUTO LAW CHARGES AGAINST GEO. DUFRESNE

In the city court this (Monday) morning, George Dufresne, 22, of Jewett City, will be presented on charges of operating a motor vehicle without a license with him and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested by Officer Filligar of Occum Saturday evening and was brought to the local police headquarters. Dufresne was examined by Dr. Thompson, who pronounced him under the influence.

REV. PERCY A. KILMISTER ACCEPTS FIRST BAPTICT CALL

Rev. Percy A. Kilmister, who has just completed nine years o fservice at Curtiss Memorial Baptist church, Concord, N. H., has accepted the call of the First Baptist church, Norwich, and will begin his pastorate here the first Sunday in May. He will succeed Rev. E. C. Dunbar, resigned. Rev. Mr. Kilmister is a graduate of Boston university School of Theology. He is married and has one child.

His father, now 83, is still a Baptist preacher in England.

THE HOLY NAME SOCIETY RE-ELECTS PRES. COLEMAN

The Holy Name society of St. Patrick's parish at its annual meeting on Sunday elected the following officers: Patrick M. Coleman, president; Alexander H. Disco, vice president; John P. Corcoran, secretary; William J. Mcnight, recording secretary. The treasurer is Msgr. Rt. Rev. M. H. May. The chaplain is Rev. Myles P. Galvin.

This was a re-election for Mr. Coleman, under whose leadership the society has had a most successful year, in its efforts to secure greater reverence for the Holy Name of Jesus and to wage a crusade against profane and unclean speech.

Charged With Theft.

Edward Corney of Crahston, R. I., is locked up at police headquarters and will appear in city court this (Monday) morning on the charge of theft. He was arrested by Officer Lamphere.

FEAR OF WAR RESTRICTS FRENCH ELECTRIC RAILS

PARIS—(AP)—The menace of war keeps France from trying to electrify all her railroads. Coal or oil-burning locomotives, the government realizes, can always run while there are two rails, but one good shot could cripple an electric power station and put hundreds of miles of electrified system out of commission.

Therefore, the 20-year program to electrify the rail lines covers only about 5,500 miles, one-fifth of the French systems. In addition, suburban lines of Paris and other cities are being electrified.

LOCATES A STATION ON EVERY CHANNEL

CHICAGO—(AP)—At least one radio fan has found one station on every one of the 96 channels alloted to broadcasting, and so far he is the only Chicago listener who claims to have done that.

Dr. Louis Schultzs said he brought in a station in all of the alloted channels with an old-time three-tube superhetrodyne. It originally had nine tubes.

Since, 1924, Dr. Schultzs has tinkered with the superhet. He uses a six-volt A power, but cuts the voltage down to four and one-half with resistors.

Dr. Schultzs claims he never fishes for stations, but sets the dial to the spot he already has discovered and waits for the station to come in.

Bank Stocks Soar

NEW YORK—(AP)—As an example of how bank stocks have appreciated in value in recent years, the record of a stockholder who accumulated 432 shares of Chase National Bank stock from 1919 to 1928 has been made public, showing that he payed a total of $122,550 for his stock, and that February 1 it had a market value of $396,576.

Radio Calliope Popular

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—The circus calliope still holds favor, says directors of WLAC here. Letters, telegrams and telephone calls flood the station, all appealing for numbers on the calliope, one of the few heard on the air.

Small Speculator Hit

NEW YORK—(AP)—The small speculator, who recently suffered a blow when leading stock exchange houses raised their minimum commission charge to $5, has been further handicapped by the refusal of several large commission houses to carry stock on margin in lots than 25 share lots.

FOX PURCHASES COMMON STOCK OF LOEWS, INC.

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—William Fox, president of Fox Theatres corporation, today announced purchase by the corporation of a "substantial block" of the common stock of Loew's Incorporated. The stock was acquired from the widow and family of the late Marcus Loew and its acquisition was said to make the affiliated companies the largest operatives of motion picture theatres and companies in the country.

Gross assets of Fox Theatres and Loews, Inc., were over $137,000,000, as of Dec. 31, 1928, and Fox Films corporation had gross assets of that date of over $36,000,000, according to the film daily year book.

The Fox Theatre corporation about 65 theatres all over the country, including the recently purchased Poli chain in New England. Loews, Inc., owns and operates about 175 to 200 motion picture and vaudeville theatres and in addition controls Metro-Goldwyn Mayer Pictures Corp. Mr. Fox is head of the Fox Films corporation, one of the larger motion picture companies, but said the films corporation was not involved in the transaction announced today.

GARDENS OF WEALTHY GET MOUNTAIN TREES

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo—(AP)—A forest of trees is slowly moving from a mountainous slope at the edge of Pikes' Peak to the front yards of the wealthy here—at a price approximating $200 a tree.

Nearly 200 trees, mostly of the Colorado blue spruce variety, have been pulled with cranes from their earthly berths, trucked to the city or its suburbs and transplanted to beautify estates in the vicinity. The trees range in height from 14 to 40 feet. A perfect specimen of the blue spruce would bring from $1,000 to $2,000 in the east, nurserymen here believe.

Cold weather this year accentuated moving the trees, and the market demand was great. In the winter time a tree can be removed from the ground with a great ball of frozen earth around the roots and set up again in a new location.

An exceptionally cold winter had been awaited for removal of grouns o fthe trees and this year, with the mercury establishing a new low record in February, the demand has exceed the supply.

"People are building beautiful new homes on lots where there are no trees," said Arthur L. Langman, a nurseryman. "They want trees, and they don't want to wait for them to grow. So those with the means to buy look about, and those who have too many large trees on their property are glad to sell some of them."

THINGS MADE EASIER FOR BRIDGE PLAYER

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—(AP)—"American Bridge," a new game embodying features of both auction and contract bridge, has been designed by E. H. Heinrichs, bridge editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Mr. Heinrichs says the new game is designed to give greater enjoyment to the "average" bridge fans who play for personal pleasure rather than for monetary gain.

The dominant factors in formulation of the new game, Mr. Heinrichs says, were:

1.—To provide a game as simple as possible.

2.—To make the practical part of bridge—the auction and the playing of the hands—of the greatest importance.

3.—To adopt a system of scoring which would be marked by absence of too many confusing complications.

The revamped game has two outstanding features. One is that the declared can only score towards game the number of odd tricks which he bids and actually makes. The other is abolition of bonuses for honors. All trick values are the same as in auction bridge.

The provision that the player be credited only with the tricks he bids, providing he makes them, will make competition keener, Mr. Heinrichs says, and will place more importance on the actual playing of the hand.

U. S. LEADING OIL CUSTOMER, ALSO PRODUCER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Not only is the United States the leading producer of crude oil, but it is the leading customer of foreign oil fields. Although about two-thirds of the world's supply of crude oil is produced in America, the country imports four times as much crude as it exports.

The United States consumes more gasoline than any other country and has the most extensive crude oil refineries. The oil is attracted to this country both by the market for it and the capacity to refine it. Much of the imported crude again goes out of the country in the form of refined products.

The bureau of mines statistics show in 1928 imports of crude oil of 79,555,000 barrels against 58,383,000 in 1927 and exports of 18,964,000 as compared witht 15,483,000.

German Heavyweight Looms As Champion

Max Schmelling, German heavyweight fighter, who resembles Jack Dempsey in features and methods of fighting, whom many predict will be the next heavyweight champion of the world. Schmelling recently defeated Risko in a fight in New York, and it is reported will meet the winner of the Sharkey-Stribling fight. He is under contract of the Madison Square Garden.

ACADEMY LOSES FIRST TILT FOR CITY CHAMPIONSHIP TO Y SENIORS

The Y Seniors scored the first victory in the annual city title series with the Academy five Saturday night at the Y gym, 23 to 13, a rally in the final period netting them the victory. The going was very even during the first three quarters with defensive play on exhibition for the most part.

The Academy made a better fight than most fans expected. They held on by a point or two from the first whistle and by the end of the third period were leading 13 to 12. In the last quarter they faltered though, and scored only one point while allowing the Y and especially Aubrey Brown to run wild with 11 points.

Frank Barber, Academy right guard, was put out of the game in the closing moments of the third period on personal fouls. He had been doing a very good job with Brown and was one of the Academy's best performers. Therefore, his going made a big hole in the schoolboy's front and probably resulted in the defeat. Brown started to score soon after and quickly threw in three field goals, which were enough for the victory. Jim Kelly was another who played a nice game. Although he didn't score his floor work was of the best. It was a pretty duel between Chet Berghinzo and Roland Harris at center with Harris getting a slight edge. Berghinzo was held scoreless for the first game in some time. Cecil Henschel led the Academy in scoring with six points.

The Academy was held to three goals from the floor. Seven of their points came on fouls.

Pingree opened the scoring about four minutes in the initial period and soon after Barber duplicated with the only Academy field goal of the first half so that it was a 2-2 tie at the end of this period. It was 7 to 6 at the half with each team playing a highly conservative game, only shooting when close to the basket. The Y had not been headed up to this time although tied on two occasions.

In the third period the Red and White took the lead about midway in the session an held it (a one-point affair) until the whistle. A minute or so before the quarter ended, however, Barber was put out of the game and Swatzburg took his place.

Brown led right off with a field goal in the final session to give the Seniors a 19-12 lead and from then on the Academy was in the rear. A foul toss near the end of the game by Berghinzo was their only score of the period while it was Brown that slipped through the five-man defense with scores enough to win.

Two former Academy players, who were prominent in winning the city championship for the Wildcats last March are now trying to wrest it. They are Jim Kelly and Les Pingree. The Y has a fairly good advantage on the series now but a week from Thursday, with Barber again in action, there is no telling what the schoolboys can do with their backs to the wall.

Emps Win Preliminary

In the preliminary the Y Emps beat Lyman Memorial high, 33 to 15. The locals had a picnic in the first half, running up a 17 to 2 score. This was enough for them to coast through the second half, although Lyman battled them on even terms during that time. Economous again was high scorer with 12 points, six field goals while Kollar led the visitors with five points.

As The Champs Slip

The next game of the series is set for Thursday, March 14 and, if necessary, a third on the Saturday of that week, the 16th.

The Seniors meet Saybrook Y here this coming Saturday night.

During the half one front window at the Y stopped a snowball with a loud crash of broken glass.

The storm no doubt was responsible for the small crowd. There were about 120 and it is safe to suspect that the snow kept this many at home.

Although the going was close until the last five minutes, there wasn't a great amount of enthusiasm. Probably waiting for a week from Thursday.

The Y Emps have a novel idea. On the back of each regular's suit is the name of a Norwich firm, said stunt being, of course advertising matter.

There were three casualties during the evening. Stevens and Kelly collided, Stevens head was cut. Kelly was stunned and later Eccleston was knocked cold.

Randy Whaples handled the game in good shape.

Nearly all of the Y squad saw action during the fray, subs being injected in the last minute or so.

NAVY CLINCHES WATER POLO TITLE BY BEATING YALE

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—By subjecting Yale's water polo team to its first defeat in five seasons last night at Annapolis, the Naval academy sextet practically clinched the 1929 Intercollegiate Swimming association title. Yale had previously beaten Columbia, Syracuse, Dartmouth, Penn, and C. C. N. Y., and the midshipmen had conquered both Columbia and Rutgers. The score by which the Middies won was 46 to 28, and Tommy Hynes, Yale's hitherto-outstanding scorer, failed to make a single touch goal.

E. J. Moles of Princeton set a new national intercollegiate 200 yard breast stroke record in the Dartmouth-Princeton meet at Hanover last night, bettering the marks made previously this season by Nelson Millard of Yale. Moles registered 2 minutes 37 2-5 seconds for the distance, which was a full second better than Millard's standard.

In the battle for fourth place between Princeton and Dartmouth, the Green surprised by defeating Princeton and thereby creating a tie between the two swimming teams. The Dartmouth team won by 32 to 30, its victory in the relay deciding the issue.

Yale maintained its leadership, with Rutgers, at the top of the swimming division by conquering the Navy natators. Yale now has won six meets in a row as compared with five won by Rutgers. Both teams are undefeated and will settle the championship in their clash at New Haven on March 15.

CHIAPETTA THIRD IN WEST COAST TOURNEY

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 3—(AP)—Tom Ralstes, 23 year old professional of Youngstown, Ohio, won the Florida west coast golf championship here today with a brilliant 278 for the 72 holes which was two under par and three ahead of his nearest competitor.

Billy Burke, Westport, N. Y., professional, and present north and south open champion, was second with 281.

Louis Chiapetta, of Hartford, Conn., finished third with 285. Gene Sarazen, New Port Richey, Fla., was next with 287, while Bob Stupple, of Chicago, had more strokes and Densmore Shute, of Columbus, Ohio, took 289.

Tied with 290 each were Leo Diegel, Professional Golfers association, and Canadian open champion of Bloomfield, N. Y. and Al Watrous, of Detroit.

Johnny Farrell, of St. Augustine, Fla., national open champion, Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y. and Joe Turnesa Elmsford, N. Y. each tied next with 292.

Ed Dudley, of Los Angeles, came in with 293. Walter Hagen, British open champion, took 295 and Horton Smith, young Joplin Mo., professional, had 296. John Golden, of Patterson, N. J., was the only other finisher under 300, holeing his last putt for a299.

Tied at 300 each were Vincent Eldred, Bradenton, Fla., P. O. Hart, Wheeling, W. Va., and Clarence Hackney, of Hackensack, N. J.

SONNENBERG TO DEFEND TITLE AGAINST MALCEWICZ

BOSTON, March 3—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion, will defend his title and $10,000 diamond belt against Panther Joe Malcewicz in the Boston Garden on March 15, Promoter Paul Bowser announced today. Bowser said that the champion, who has been barnstorming all over the country since he acquired the title from Ed "Strangler" Lewis here several months ago, would start training for Malcewicz tomorrow. The latter, according to Bowser, won the chance to grapple for the title by defeating Farmer McLeod and Joe Stecher with ease in his last two matches.

Sonnenberg, according to the promoter, will need plenty of training to get himself in trim for the rugged Malcewicz, considered the only heavyweight wrestler who has a defense for the former football player's "flying tackle." Though the champion met several opponents a week, the competition was so light, Bowser said, that Sonnenberg became rusty and a bit overweight.

Malcewicz has been training intensively since it became evident that he would be the champion's first major opponent and his two matches with Stecher and McLeod, he said, have placed him at the top of his form.

DONOHUE TO HOLD HEARING ON AMATEURS

HARTFORD, March 3—(AP)—State Athletic Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue has called an open meeting to be held in the New Haven arena, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to hear suggestions from all interested parties regarding the provisions he may take to govern amateur boxing in this state.

Donohue, when questioned at his home in New London, tonight, regarding the continuance of the so-called amateur shows throughout the state, said that no more of these exhibitions would be permitted until rules had been drawn and incorporated into the boxing code.

Governor Trumbull, who sponsored the measure putting the amateurs as well as the professionals under Donohue's control has made it plain to the commissioner that there must be no half-way measures from this time on. Either a show must be unquestionably amateur or strictly professional.

NAISHAPUR WINS $25,000 TIAJUANA DERBY

TIAJUANA, Mex., March 3—(AP)—Naishapur won the $25,000 Tiajuana Derby, a mile and an eighth race, here today. Boltear was second and Xylophone third.

Under the handling of Jockey C. E. Allen, Naishapur covered the mile and an eighth in 151 flat, the second fastest time ever recorded in the derby.

Naishapur carried 115 pounds today and paid $7 on every straight mutuel ticket. He paid $3.60 to place and $3 to show. Boltear paid $10.40 to place and $4.80 to show. Xylophone paid $3.20 to show.

Ervast and Vermajo, two of the best bred horses in the race, weakened in the stretch run. Vermajo finished fifth and Ervast seventh.

NEWARK CLUB SIGNS PIPP FOR FIRST SACK

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—The Newark club of the International league tonight announced the signing of Wallie Pipp, veteran major leaguer first-sacker.

Pipp was a free agent, having been given his unconditional release by the Cincinnati Reds.

Pipp broke into the big leagues as early as 1912 with Detroit but he became one of the game's leading first-sackers with the New York Yankees from 1915 to 1925. In that year he was sold outright to Cincinnati

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Collegiate Prep five of New Haven is entered in the U. of Penn. basketball along with Naugatuck, the latter being champs defending their crown. Collegiate plays its first game today. As the tournament is divided into two sections high school and prep school, the two Connecticut teams will not meet. Collegiate won 15 and lost 1 this season, including a 42 to 18 decision over the Academy. Other victims included Warren Harding, Conn. Aggies Frosh, Newark Prep, Stamford High (twice) and Milford Prep. The only defeat was inflicted by the fast St. Thomas Seminary quintet of Hartford, which won by the healthy margin of 41 to 17. The team scored 553 points against 395.

Warren Harding was the winner in both of its week end games in Eastern Connecticut. Friday night the Presidents beat Windham, 44 to 22 and Saturday night topped South Manchester.

The basketball race in the Eastern Connecticut conference is still undecided but a champ, the first, will be crowned in the next ten days. Chapman Tech at present still holds the lead.

Hillhouse high nine of New Haven which was defeated for the state title by the Academy, hasn't a very bright outlook for the coming season. Chick Bowen, former Holy Cross and New York Giants luminary has lost practically his whole team by graduation.

The backstop situation remains unchanged as Alift Thompson is back again, and it was he who did all of the receiving last year. Bowen is fortunate in having a man like Thompson for a backstop, for Tommy possesses a mean wing which can nip any man trying to steal second. In addition he can handle the pitchers in a reliable fashion and knows what the willow is used for. Fletch Burger, who scintillated in the backfield of the Blue and White gridders, may get a hand behind the bat, relieving Thompson.

Tommy Flynn, third string tosser last year, will take the mound as a full fledged regular in April. Flynn's performances against West Haven and Commercial warranted his being advanced. Bowen will have to depend largely on the work of Flynn, as Jack Brown and Jerry Murphy, crack right-handers will not be back.

Things aren't so rosy in the infield either as only Frankie Cammarano and Hap Sutfin remain as regulars. Cammarano, captain of the 1929 team will take care of first, while Sutfin is down for second base duties. This leaves short and third open for Little Joe Bellini and Doc Corrigan had to desert them upon graduation. The dizzy corner is due to find Ray Piontek as its boss but there is still an opening between second and third which must be taken care of.

If ever a graduation took its toll it was in the Hillhouse outfield. Eddie Wilson, Dick Murphy and Buck Gillespie, each a capable gardener and a club swinger of no little note, got their diplomas last June and that leaves a wide open gap in the outer pastures. However, Bowen foresaw this situation last season and groomed another trio to be prepared for this year's grnid. Bob Halpin and Harrison Fitch played frequently in 1928 while Fletch Burger got an occasional opportunity to display his outfield wares. Then there is Jack Lockery, basketball flash, who will fight it out with the other three for a regular job.

PENN MUST BEAT PRINCETON TO TAKE TITLE

NEW YORK, Mar. 3—(AP)—A much-battered Princeton Tiger now holds the key to the championship situation in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league.

After seven straight victories, Pennsylvania's defending title-holders were checked twice during the past week and now must conquer Princeton in their final game to gain undisputed possession of their second championship in as many years.

If the Quakers can snap out of their slump long enough to beat the lowly Tigers at Philadelphia next Saturday thec hamplonship flag again will fly at Philadelphia, but if the Quakers lose, the final standing will show Penn and Dartmouth tied with seven victories and three defeats. Penn then will have to take its chance with Dartmouth in a play-off game.

On form, of course, Penn is an overwhelming favorite to beat Princeton which has won only one league game in eight and holds the cellar position in a tight grip.

The standing to date follows:

Team	W.	L.	Tl. P.	O.P.
Penn	7	2	256	231
Dartmouth	7	3	299	277
Columbia	4	4	246	252
Yale	4	5	236	247
Cornell	3	5	222	204
Princeton	1	7	179	227

PLAINFIELD FACES STRONG OPPOSITION ON WEDNESDAY

The Plainfield Pros without a doubt face the strongest opposition so far this season when they meet the fast Brooklyn Visitations on Wednesday evening at the Plainfield Community house. The Visitations are now fighting it out with Cleveland for top position in the American Basketball league and there is every indication that the Visitations will cop the pennant at the close of the season a few weeks hence.

The Visitations come to Plainfield with the record of beating the best basketball teams in the world and are considered to be the best team in the country. Since the disbanding of the Original Celtics the world's basketball title has been conferred upon the Visitations. Joe Brennan and Conney are two of the most brilliant of the Visitations, Brennan being a high scorer, while Conney is rated as the best center in the country.

ACADEMY CLOSES SEASON WITH TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

The Academy returns to scholastic games this week playing two games and closing its high school schedule. Both games are away, with Windham at Willimantic Wednesday and Stonington Friday. Both games are also conference tilts. Following these games the only remaining attractions will be those with the Y Seniors.

The Wildcats beat Stonington here a few weeks ago while Windham, still very much in the race, was given a bad scare. The locals have improved somewhat in the past month and two close games are expected to wind up their scholastic schedule for the year and get some little glory out of an otherwise drab season.

HENNESSEY BEATS HUNTER IN MIAMI BEACH FINALS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 3—(AP)—Johnny Hennessey, Indianapolis, fourth ranking tennis player in the country, today defeated Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., second ranking star, in the singles finals of the annual Miami Beach tennis tournament, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Hunter and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., lost their match in finals of the doubles to Hennessey and Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., 6-4, 6-0, 6-2.

N. Y. U. TRACK TEAM SHOWS HEELS TO SELECT COLLEGE TRACK STARS

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—For the first time in the eight years of the indoor track and field championships of the intercollegiate A. A. A. A., the reign of four colleges which have monopolized the team championship has been broken. Seven meets from 1922 to 1928, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Harvard and Georgetown were the only winners. Now New York university, which has scored only 20 points in all of the previous meets has been added to the list.

With a team of brilliant performers who collected three first places, N. Y. U. gathered 25 points in the 1929 title meet last night to carry off first honors. Georgetown again took the runner-up position, scoring 22 1-2 points, one more than Pennsylvania, Cornell, last year's champion, had to be content with fourth place although the Red team had a total of 19 1-2 points, one and one half below its winning total a year ago.

Three fast runners did a major part in the scoring that overcame the leads run up by the old line institutions in the field events. And first among these was Sol "Hammy" Furth, speedy little sprinter. Furth stole the major honors from his more famous teammate, Phil Edwards, by scoring nine points. He took first place in the broad jump and finished a close second to John Collier of Brown in the 70-yard hurdles.

Edwards, the smooth striding Negro star of the Canadian Olympic team, yielded to the "dark horse" of the N. Y. U. team, Joe Hickey, in the mile run but came back for a fine anchor leg in the two mile relay to give his team the victory. Hickey surprised the crowd by running the fastest mile of his career to defeat Edwards. Nat Lerner added two valuable points by taking fourth in the two mile run while Walter Gassner, Bill Phillips and Redo Veit preceeded Edwards in the relay.

It remained for representatives of teams which did not come near victory to provide the biggest thrills of the meet, breaking two intercollegiate records and equaling a third.

Fred Sturdy, Yale's worthy succession to Sabin Carr in the pole vault, set a new mark for his event four inches above the one Carr made last year. Aided by new lighting arrangements which made the crossbar visible when it got near the top, Sturdy vaulted the feet, 7 3-4 inches. Berley Berlinger of Penn also surpassed the old record, taking second place with 13 feet, 4 3-4 inches.

Four young wearers of the Red and Blue of Pennsylvania made the second new record in the 7 7-8 medley relay, a sop to the freshmen which does not count in the point scoring. The team of Coan, Kerr, Bailey and McNiff carried the baton around in 7 minutes 42 6-10 seconds to beat the mark of 7:45 2-10 set by the 1922 Penn Yearlings.

John S. Collier, Brown's star hurdler, skimmed over the sticks in his first trial heat in 8 6-10 seconds to equal the intercollegiate mark, also the world's record, made by Charles H. Moore of Penn State four years ago. Getting off to poor starts in the later heats, Collier had a hard struggle to retain his title.

Only four of last year's champions were able to beat off the speedy opposition to repeat their victories. Collier had a close call in the hurdles and Bates gave the N. Y. U. relay team a hard struggle for its second victory. Joe Hagen, wiry little Columbia runner was forced to the limit in the two mile run by Levering of Cornell. Jimmy Daley, Holy Cross sprint ace was the only one of the four champions who came through early. He breezed home in each of his heats and in the final, beating out Karl Wildermuth of Georgetown by a gown margin.

Barney Berlinger, Penn's Olympic decathlon performer, easily took first honors for all around performance, in four events. Berlinger scored 9 1-4 points, nearly half of Penn's total. In addition to his second in the pole vault, the husky Penn boy took fourth in the shot put, tied for third place in the broad jump and was in a four-way deadlock for fourth in the high jump.

Here are the 1929 intercollegiate indoor track and field champions:

Team—New York university.

70-yard dash—James Daley, Holy Cross (x).

70-yard hurdles—John S. Collier, Brown (x).

One mile run—Joseph Hickey, New York university.

Two mile run—Joseph Hagen, Columbia (x).

One mile relay—Dartmouth.

Two mile relay—New York university (x).

1 7-8 mile freshman relay—Pennsylvania.

Running broad jump—Sol Furth, New York university.

Running high jump — Benjamin Hedges, Princeton and William M. Pump, Colgate (tie).

Pole vault—Frederic H. Sturdy, Yale.

16-pound shot put—John F. Anderson, Cornell.

35-pound weight throw—Leo Sexton, Georgetown.

(X) indivates retained championship.

TIGERS AND REDS IN TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

BOSTON, March 3—(AP)—The Boston Tigers and Providence Reds were deadlocked for the top place in the Canadian-American Hockey league today, three and a half games ahead of Springfield, which finished another week in third place.

The Tigers had a light grip on first place last week, but the Reds caught them by getting two victories and a tie. New Haven passed Philadelphia during the week and Newark remained in last place in the six club circuit.

The official league standing, including games of March 2, follows:

	gp	w	l	t	p's
Boston	33	17	9	7	41
Providence	33	17	9	7	41
Springfield	33	12	11	10	34
New Haven	33	11	14	8	30
Philadelphia	34	12	17	5	29
Newark	34	10	19	5	25

SCHAAF RETAINS LEAD IN COLLEGE BASKETBALL

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—Although Joey Schaaf was pretty well bottled up by both Columbia and Dartmouth during the week, the Penn captain still holds a wide lead in the race for individual scoring honors in the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball league.

With one more game on his league schedule, Schaaf has scored 107 points more than 20 ahead of his closest competitor, Hall, of Cornell. Hall has scored 74 points. Spaeth, Dartmouth guard, holds third place with 65 points with Layton of Cornell fourth with 61. Cheney of Dartmouth fifth with 53 and Nassau of Yale sixth with 53.

Schaaf leads in field goals with 42 and Paul Carey of Princeton in fouls with 25. Spaeth and two Cornell guards, Stein and Kass, have committed the most personal fouls, 21.

NEW HAVEN BEATS SPRINGFIELD IN CAN-AM GAME

NEW HAVEN, March 3—(AP)—New Haven beat Springfield, 2 to 1, in a Canadian-American Hockey league game tonight. The contest started fast, New Haven riding rough-shod over Springfield in the first period and winning her two goals. Springfield fought desperately to hold New Haven the next two periods, making one goal in the second, and the rest of the game was without scoring.

McLARNIN FIRES GUN THAT STARTS BIKE RACE

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—With 16 teams in the field, Madison Square Garden's 46th international six-day bicycle race got under way at 9 o'clock tonight. Six thousand spectators were in attendance as the starting gun was fired by Jimmy McLarnin, Pacific coast welterweight sensation.

MACHADO PLANS FOR INDEPENDENT CUBA

HAVANA—(AP)—Cuba is aspiring to diversified farming instead of concentrating on sugar and tobacco growing, as in the past, and is seeking industrialism in an effort to shake off the shackles of dependence on other nations for food, clothing and machinery.

Last year brought many innovations through President Machado, whose aim is to make Cuba self-sustaining and to create a nation having commercial ties with all civilized countries. Under his leadership Cuba has been adjusting herself to world market conditions of today, and general belief is that when adjustment is complete the sugar industry, as well as other lines, will follow a direct route to certain prosperity. It is not expected the prosperity will equal that of 1918-21, but an era of well-founded riches and definite income is awaited.

During 1928 Cuba, although suffering heavily from its decline in the world sugar trade, fared no worse than other small republics, business charts indicate, and ideas of financial depression are ascribed largely to a state of mind and possibly also to the passing of the period of hectic enjoyment which accompanied the "dance of the millions" during the World war.

While Cuba has safely weathered an intense crisis, it is clearly indicated in treasury reports, customs receipts and its mode of living that the island has suffered no greater vicissitudes than other nations through post-war reaction.

U. S. TAX RATES LESS THAN OTHER NATIONS

By John R. Norton,

(Director of Research, National Educational Association)

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Not a major country in the civilized world is paying so small a percentage of its income for taxes as is the United States.

The principal countries of the world on the average expend 18.6 per cent of their total income for taxes. In the United States the corresponding per cent is but 10.2.

The disparity between the effort required by the United States and by other countries to support their public services is greater than the table indicates. A man with a yearly income of $5,000 is able to pay five per cent of his income in taxes with less effort than a man with an income of $1,000.

In the first case, the tax payment probably involves little personal sacrifice, that is, reduction in the consumption of necessary food, clothing, and shelter. The payment of such a tax by the man of small insome may involve such sacrifice, since his income is close to the level of subsistence.

The United States is in the position of the first man. Our yearly per capita income and our accumulated wealth per capita outclass that of any other country. The yearly income per person is 1.7 that of Great Britain, which ranks second.

The income per capita in the United States is more than 4½ times that of such countries as France and Germany. The per capita wealth, that is, the value of all tangible property in the United States, is more than three times that of any nation in the world except Great Britain.

In 1926 tax collections by all governmental units were $8,555,075,840. Expenditures for public schools required $2,255,251,227 of this tax bill. The schools, therefore, require 26.4 per cent of our expenditures for public purposes. For every dollar expended for public education we expend nearly $3 for other public purposes.

CAMERA TO RECORD HISTORY OF FUTURE

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(AP)—Communication by camera, with the printed word auxiliary to pictures, is predicted by B. A. Auginbaugh, supervisor of visual instruction for the Ohio department of education.

He calls the news pictures of today lineal descendants of crude drawings by men of the Stone age. History books used in the twentieth century schools, he declares, are merely temporary substitutes for pictorial records of events of ancient times.

Future histories, Mr. Auginbaugh forecasts, will be rolled up on reels and stored in fireproof cans, and the history class will become a motion, perhaps talking, picture show.

The time will come, in his belief, when books will cease to be published and all great drama and literature will be preserved on celluloid instead of paper. Auginbaugh does not believe the printed language ever will be abandoned, but rather will be used auxiliary to the picture.

The alphabet was devised, Auginbaugh explained, because ancient man could not make pictures fast enough to keep up with events of his day. He thinks the modern camera adequate to keep pace with worldwide happenings.

His tests with more than 7,000 Ohio school children have convinced Auginbaugh that visual instruction is superior to oral teaching. Both in identification and retention tests, he found movies far more effective than words in relaying ideas and facts to students.

B. & O. MOVES TO ACQUIRE ROADS IN NEW JERSEY

BALTIMORE—(AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio railroad is one of the five roads involved in the struggle before the interstate commerce commission to realign the trunk seaboard.

The B. & O., ranked as an ally of the Van Sweringen brothers in their nickel plate merger plans and as arrayed against the Pennsylvania and the Taplin interests of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia, has taken an independent step in announcing plans to acquire the Reading and Central of New Jersey. Application for the acquisition will be filed shortly with the interstate commerce commission. The New York Central, fifth line in the struggle, has taken a neutral stand.

Already a billion dollar concern, the B. & O., if it acquires the Reading and Central of New Jersey, will have assets of $1,712,826,542. The B. & O. and New York Central jointly control the Reading, which in turn controls the Central of New Jersey.

GENCARELLI TRIAL BEGINS TODAY ON MURDER CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 3—The trial of Louis Gencarelli, charged by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown of Westerly with the slaughter of Santo Gaccione, Jan. 21, will begin Monday morning at Westerly at 10:30, in the Washington county superior court with Associate Justice Herbert L. Carpenter on the bench. In the Third district court, Westerly, probable cause was found, after two days' trial before Judge Oliver H. Williams.

The state will be represented by Third Assistant Attorney-General Louis V. Jackvony of Providence. The defendant's counsel will be Attorney Anthony V. Pettine of Providence and Attorney M. Walter Flynn of Westerly. At the direction of the attorney general's department, Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Washington county has made all preliminary arrangements for the locking up of the jury when empaneled and for the serving of their meals, as is the custom in Rhode Island murder trials. While his usual officers will care for the polding of the court rooms, the services of two state troopers have been requested to care for any crowds which may assemble outside the court house, or in the limited seating accommodations.

OBITUARY

George N. Crandall

George N. Crandall, 81, died Friday afternoon at his home on the road leading from Hope Valley. Besides his wife, Maranda Irish Crandall, he is survived by two children, George V. Crandall and Minnie Kenyon.

Robert Hazard, Raymond A. Sparo

Raymond C. Vars and Clarence A. Vars, Westerly members of Mystic council, No. 29 Royal and Select Masters, attended the annual inspection of the council in the Mystic Masonic temple Friday night. A turkey dinner was served by members of the Eastern Star previous to inspection by Grand Council Standard Bearer Brooks of New London, who was accompanied by Past Grand Thrice Illustrious Master E. Allan Bidwell, of Norwich. Mystic council officers worked the Royal and Select Masters' degrees.

Cycle Club's Election

George Elmer Leonard has been re-elected president of Westerly Cycle club for his tenth consecutive term. The annual meeting at the week-end which was followed by refreshments and social time, was largely attended. Other officers elected were: Benjamin A. Peabody, Jr., vice-president, to succeed Emil Brunke, who has removed from town. Joseph A. Clancy, secretary, to succeed Ernest N. Gully. Frank L. Friend was re-elected treasurer, an office held by him for many years. For the first member of the board of directors, Daniel L. Crandall received the election, having previously been a board member. Robert M. Kessel was a new member elected to the board. Joseph Law was re-elected pool captain.

OWNERS WERE ABSENT, HOPE VALLEY HOUSE BURNED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 3—Henry Heath of the state board of public roads department was a Westerly business caller early Sunday morning. He reported that during the snow storm Saturday night the home of Charles Blake on Spring street, Hope Valley, caught fire while Mr. and Mrs. Blake were in Providence and was burned to the ground. The pumper of the town of Richmond arrived in Hope Valley too late to be of any assistance in saving the house or its contents.

Collision During Storm

An automobile collision occurred at the junction of Elm and School streets just as the severe storm began Saturday night. The cars were being operated by Irving Rathbun, of Norton avenue, and Mrs. Dorothy Drew, of the Watch Hill road. The Drew machine was proceeding up Elm street and the Rathbun car was coming down School street toward Main street. In the storm, one of the drivers it is alleged, went past the red signal light and the crash resulted. Officer John Beattie investigated, but neither driver was held. The Buick sedan of Mr. Rathbun was taken to a garage for repairs. The frame is bent and the motor leg broken.

FOUR-INCH SNOWFALL ESTABLISHES A RECORD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 3—Many electric light circuits were broken in Westerly as the result of Saturday night's high wind and snow, the lights in the business section of High and Broad streets being out for several hours. As the snow ceased to fall, after it had covered a wet ground to a depth of four inches in quicker time than in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, the snow plows of the state board of public roads and the Westerly highway department, with large gangs were started to remove the snow from the highways before it could freeze. Not only were electric light circuits put out of business but many telephone circuits were out, due to fallen poles and broken wires. The New Haven railroad set a large force of men at work to remove the snow. Sunday, to repair damage to electric wires, a special train of baggage car and day coach was pressed into service for the use and transportation of electricians.

DE MOLAY CHAPTER FOR BOYS INSTITUTED IN WESTERLY

Westerly chapter of the Order of De Molay for Boys, the seventh in Rhode Island, was instituted Saturday evening in the Masonic rooms. The new chapter starts with a membership of 62 boys between 16 and 21. Previous to the institution, two candidates were given the degree in full form by the officers of Providence chapter. Grand Master Councilor Norris G. Abbott, assisted by Grand Marshal George C. Clark, and grand officers, instituted the chapter and the installation was conducted by the state officers of the De Molay. The work was done by Past Master Councilor Richmond A. Day, for Master Councilor Frederick J. Baslaw, who has been in office but a week. With State Deputy Abbott, of Providence, was George C. Clarke as grand marshal, who substituted for "Dad" Arthur C. Sisson, unable to be present. Westerly Masons assisting in the installation work were Samuel Green, grand senior councilor; Fred Kennedy, grand junior councilor; Lewis R. Greene, scribe; Walter C. Hiscox, treasurer; Thomas McKenzie, senior deacon; Frank L. Friend, junior deacon; Ernest N. Gully, senior steward; Carl Anderson, junior steward; J. Albert Pawson, chaplain; George C. Clark, marshal; George Smith, standard bearer; William M. Spencer, almoner; Robert D. Vennard, sentinel; Howard D. McFarland, orator; Francis M. Johnson, organist; David A. Lowry, Daniel N. Ashworth, George O. Murphey, Bourden A. Babcock, Andrew E. Ralston, Kenneth C. Everett and Howard E. Thorp, preceptors. The following officers were elected and installed: Miles Coulburn, master councilor; Robert Drysdale, 3d, senior councilor; Isaac Gavitt, junior councilor; John Wallace, scribe; John Payne, treasurer; Arthur Hustwit, senior deacon; Willis nMorey, junior deacon; Edward Botelo, senior steward; Charles Kenyon, junior steward; Gordon Minchen, Jr., chaplain; Ralph Briggs, marshal; Burnie Stenhouse, orator; Robert Spargo, almoner; Ronald Bonner, sentinel; Rupert Coleman, organist; Carl Sanders, tyler; Stanton Carpenter, standard bearer; William Egan, John Edmond, Earl Carpenter, John McFarland, Nelson Sharp, Alfred Platt and David Parker, preceptors; Alexander Smith, Jr., Arthur Wills, Harold Girven, Sidney Stewart and Joseph Winterbottom, assistant stewards. Gifts of paraphernalia from the various Masonic organizations and the Order of the Eastern Star, were accepted by Master Councilor Coulburn.

Martin-Peck

Miss Frances Elizabeth Peck and Raymond R. Martin, both of Westerly were married Friday at the parsonage of Pawcatuck Seventh-Day Baptist church by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D.O. They were unattended.

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENTS LAST WEEK INSPIRED WIDESPREAD CONFIDENCE

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—Industrial developments in the week preceding the inauguration of the Hoover administration were such as to inspire widespread confidence.

An outstanding development was the decision of the directors of the U. S. Steel corporation to retire its funded debt, which was regarded as convincing evidence of highly satisfactory conditions in this basic industry. James A. Farrell, president, stated that mills were running practically at capacity and that prices were on a reasonably satisfactory basis.

Notwithstanding stepping up of steel mill production was apparent during the week, and prices for certain finished products were raised $1 a ton. The automotive industry and railroads were said to be pressing for deliveries.

More than 70 railroads reporting factory net operating returns showed an average gain of nearly 40 per cent over that month of 1928, and freight car loadings for the week ended Feb. 16 were reported as approximately 50,000 ahead of the like week of 1928, and slightly in excess of the week of 1927. A wide assortment of 1928 earnings statements attested the wide advance made during the past year. The National City bank reported that 900 corporations showed an average gain of about 14 per cent over 1927.

Copper prices were sent soaring during the week by a rush of buying, mounting 1 1-2 cents to 19 1-2 cents a pound for domestic shipment, the highest in about ten years, and two more producers raised their dividend rates. The rapid advance caused some apprehension lest the high prices tend to restrain consumption. Electrical programs for coming years, however, promised enormous consumption. The American Telephone & Telegraph company announced that it planned to spend $2,000,000,000 on construction during the next five years.

Conditions in the oil industry remained unsatisfactory, with crude production showing no diminution, and gasoline prices suffering from competition. E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, however, stated that substantial progress was being made in organizing the institute's committee of 30 to study the production problem.

In the textile industry, there were some price reductions in rayon, indicating that American producers are increasing their efficiency and offering stiffer competition to foreign makers. Cotton mills were fairly active, and buying of fabrics was increased by rising raw material prices. Woolen trade also showed some improvement. Silk manufacturers were looking for an excellent spring trade. The leather industry was still unsettled by the depression in hides.

Credit conditions were still regarded as threatening. Prime commercial paper was firmer at New York at 3 3-4 per cent, and time money on stock collateral stepped up a fraction to 7 3-4 per cent for all maturities. Bankers declared that the disparity between the rates at which business and the stock market may obtain funds cannot be maintained indefinitely. Stock market activity, however, showed marked acceleration during the week. Bankers pointed out that this is the season when credit is normally in supply, and that stringency at this time is not promising for the future. The Federal Reserve bank at Dallas raised its rediscount rate to 5 per cent, leaving only the banks at Kansas City, Minneapolis and San Francisco on a 4 1-2 per cent rate.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Our Mother
Annie M. Counihan
Who Passed Away March 4, 1924.

Nothing left but sweetest memories
Of the one we loved so dear.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of Our Dear Son,
Who Died March 4, 1923.

Five years ago, today
Our loved one passed away.
He leaves a vacant chair and empty place
Since we last looked on his dear face.
Many a heartache and silent tears
We've shed through these long, lonely years.
May we place our faith in God on high
And pray that he'll guide us bye and bye.
MR. AND MRS. GUNDERMAN AND FAMILY.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of Our Dear Daughter
Martha Jane Ringland
Who Died 13 Years Ago, March 3.

This day brings back to memory
A dear one laid to rest.
And those who think of her today
Are the ones that loved her best.
MR. AND MRS. JAMES RINGLAND AND FAMILY.

FALSE ALARM OF FIRE SUNDAY 3.30 A. M.

PRANK OF SAILORS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 3—The fire department was called out at 3.30 o'clock this morning by a false alarm. Two sailors, William H. Downing and Robert E. Smith, members of the crew of U. S. Coast Guard destroyer Monaghan, state pier, are locked up at police headquarters charged with intoxication, but, in reality, the sailors are suspected of having pulled the alarm. The bluejackets will be in court tomorrow.

On the alarm being pulled in Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and two hose companies, an engine company and an aerial ladder responded. The box pulled in is located at corner of Main and Federal streets. On the firemen arriving there no fire existing, an investigation was started by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolmen William Riordan and Harry Watterson. Downing and Smith were observed acting amused at the failure of the firemen to discover a fire and their arrest followed.

Members of Circle No. 2 of the First Baptist church have voted to donate $200 to the white elephant fund.

Announcement has been received in this city of the engagement of Miss Josephine Knight of Philadelphia to Lee Harwood of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. LeRoy Harwood of Ocean avenue. No date has been set for the wedding.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID TO W. POTTER BROWN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 3—The funeral of W. Potter Brown, former well known musician and for years director of New York musical comedies was held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Church of Christ and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the church. The honorary bearers were Donald Chappell, Milton M. Baker, Dr. Winthrop E. McGinley, Lawrence A. Chappell, Thomas S. McGinley, Percy S. Palmer, Graham S. Hislop and Edward R. Keefe. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

S. Giordani, 614 Bank street, complained to the police Saturday that the fence in front of his residence had been damaged by being struck by an automobile, the owner of which is unknown to the complainant.

George Kalogine, Bank street business man, has left for his former residence in Greece, where he will remain two months visiting relatives.

LAW DEALS WITH A BULLY—TO HAVE CHANCE TO COOL OFF

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 3—George "Cowboy" Sheehan, Wall street young man with a long police record was meted out his most severe dose in the police court Saturday when he was presented on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace and as a result of the penalty imposed by Deputy Judge John McGarry, Sheehan will spend about 14 weeks in the county jail. Sheehan, a former preliminary fighter and a poor one, has on one or two occasions threatened to "beat up" police who arrested him, but not until Friday did he endeavor to carry out his threat. Sheehan was in a lunch room on Bank street where his conduct was such that an employe made complaint to the police. Patrolman Cornelius Moriarty arrested Sheehan and while the officer was seated beside the prisoner in the police car on its way to headquarters, the prisoner attacked the officer, dealing Moriarty a blow on the mouth. Hardly had the blow been delivered than Sheehan was on the receiving end of several rugged and well directed punches that quickly took all the fight out of him. When he faced Judge McGarry Sheehan was given a severe censure for his conduct and the admonition of the court ended with Sheehan being sentenced to three months in jail and fined $10 and costs.

Teddy Gingo, colored, a waiter when employed, was charged with breach of the peace and was fined $25 and costs. Gingo was on North Bank street Friday when he annoyed Mrs. Felice Bruno, a resident of that street, by mauling the woman as she was on her way to her home. Patrolman Augustus Ray was a witness of Gingo's actions and arrested the offender.

Samuel Rollband, 18, of Baltic, charged ith driving an automobile equipped with defective brakes, was fined $5 and costs. Rollband's automobile collided with a bus Friday at the corner of Main and State streets, resulting in both vehicles being damaged.

Two cases of intoxication were tried and in each instance a fine of $5 and costs was imposed.

A SUSPICIOUS BLAZE SUNDAY IN FASCISTI HALL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 3—In Fascisti hall, Shaw street, there was a fire early today and from the circumstances attending the blaze there is every reason to believe that the fire originated with a firebug. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds has announced, after an investigation, that the fire was of incendiary origin. The blaze was discovered by a resident of Shaw street about 2 o'clock. A brisk blaze was in progress in the rear of the building, which is of wood and one story. An alarm was rung in from Box 451, corner of Shaw and Steward streets. Deputy Chief Edmunds and the Niagara Engine company, the Alter Hook and Ladder company and Ockford and Pequot Hose companies responded. The firemen attacked the blaze with chemicals and quickly subdued it, the damage, it is believed, not exceeding $100. The fire originated in a quantity of books and papers and the odor of gasoline and oil was exceedingly strong, so much so that it satisfied Edmunds that the fire was set. So far as is known none of the members of the Fascisti were in the hall Saturday; the last meeting held there was Friday night.

Gives Himself Up

Manuel Souza went to police headquarters tonight and appearing before Desk Sergt. Frank Howard declared himself a deserter. He was locked up and Monday will be delivered into the custody of the United States army authorities. Souza declares that he recently deserted from Fort Rodman, Newport, R. I.

The police this month will learn their vacation periods for the present year, for in another week the officers will draw their assignments of vacations. The recreative periods will start in April and will continue until the very last of the year, excepting during July and August when vacations are not permitted because of the vast amount of automobile traffic and number of summer visitors in this city

FUNERAL

"The Building Power of Father John's Medicine Creates Strength for the Whole System"

"I was so weak after a serious operation that I could hardly walk," writes Miss Thelma Mae Mort, 2808 East 4th St., Dayton, Ohio. "Father John's Medicine speedily built me up. As a body builder, strength giver and for building up an appetite it is the best—it just can't be beat."

'When I was weakened and run down I found that the building power of Father John's Medicine created strength for my whole system," writes Mrs. Dorothy Parent, Bangor Road, Orono, Maine. "Since using it we have been free from serious coughs and colds."

"My baby is now healthy and strong, so full of life and play, that I am greatly pleased with the results obtained from Father John's Medicine. I say to other mothers: 'Give it to your children if you want them to hold their own with their playmates,'" writes Mrs. Joseph Silvia, 6 Marlborough St., Newport, R. I.

"When I had a bad chest cold I got no relief until I took Father John's Medicine," writes August Rieder, rural route 7, Centralia, Ill. "I don't think there is anything better for colds or any catarrhal conditions; it not only relieves colds but builds up the system."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

The true spirit of Annapolis long has been quite impossible to put into a motion picture. Yet it was done by Director Christy Cabanne and Supervisor F. McGrew Willis who made "Annapolis" for Pathe with John Mack Brown, Hugh Allan and Jeanette Loff in the featured roles. The picture will be on view at the Breed theatre today and Tuesday.

The company, headed by Willis, journeyed from California to the U. S. naval academy at Annapolis, Md., in order to photograph a majority of the scenes which compose this dramatic and delightful story of the midshipmen. The accurate depiction of life among the "middies" at the academy and the superb photographic views of the grounds and buildings are due in a large part to the splendid cooperation given by officials of the academy and the midshipmen themselves, who worked hard to make "their picture," as they called it, as perfect as possible.

The fact that Willis and Cabanne worked together in a previous occasion at the same naval base, rendered it reasonably certain that the picture presents to the American public and to all foreign nations the spirit that prevails at the naval academy in its truest form.

Johnny Mack Brown, fast-rising young leading man, has the principal role with Jeanette Loff playing opposite him. Hobart Bosworth, William Bakewell, Maurice Ryan, Charlotte Walker and Byron Munson complete the cast. Royal S. Pease, an instructor at the Academy wrote the story.

Broadway Theatre.

All lovers of good mystery; all lovers of good acting; all lovers of swift, pulsing action in moving pictures will enjoy seeing and hearing "The Canary Murder Case," the story which has won acclaim throughout the United States, playing at the Broadway theatre this week. William Powell, in the role of Philo Vance, the great fictional detective created by the mysterious author, S. S. Van Dine, has a powerful role and handles it in a masterful way.

The story moves swiftly, surely, logically from the finding of the body of the slain woman in her apartment through the mystifying details of the murder to the discovery of the perpetrator of the crime.

With the presentation of "The Canary Murder Case," a 100 per cent all talking picture, a new departure in moving pictures is presented. There is no "trick" photography employed to fool the public. Everything is shown to the public in a straight, matter-of-fact way.

In addition to this splendid mystery play, three high class Vitaphone presentations were thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience present last night. If you like an interesting performance you should not miss visiting the Broadway this week.

Palace Theatre.

After a long absence "spoken drama" again is to be found this week on the list of local attractions at the theatres. This is made possible by the Chicago Stock company which today opens a week's engagement at the Palace theatre during which they will offer a repertoire of late New York stage successes.

The company arrived here yesterday from Derby, Conn., where they appeared all last week and where large audiences attended each performance.

Their local engagement opens this afternoon and evening when they will present "Tommy", the delightful American comedy which ran all last season at the Cort theatre in New York. "Tommy" is a play recommended to every theatre-goer of Norwich as a clean, clever comedy guaranteed to please without offending; to send laugh after laugh through the audience and to send the patron home praisin athe play as one worth while.

Tuesday matinee and night the company offers "Jimmie's Women," a new style of bedroom farce filled with laughter and witty dialogue from start to finish. The play affords an opportunity for the ladies of the company to don some gorgeous negligees and all in all "Jimmie's Women", is a play quite different from any other in the repertoire.

Reserved seats for tonight's performance and for the other days to be offered during the week may be secured by phoning the box office.

Connecticut College Concert.

In the early stages of the career of Josef Lhevinne, who will be heard in a recital at Bulkeley auditorium next Wednesday evening, the world famous pianist, composer and conductor, Rubinstein, took a great fancy to the boy and became deeply interested in his progress. Following their meeting at the Moscow conservatory when Josef's playing won praise from the master, there arose a mutual friendship which led to an invitation the following spring for the young aspirant for pianistic honor to play at a concert for the benefit of musicians the coming November, to be conducted by Rubinstein himself. Josef was commissioned to prepare the "Emperor" concerto of Beethoven, which he had never seen. The task was exacting, arduous and delicate. Overwhelmed with the honor, he determined to satisfy the confidence of his musical god by giving the very best that was in him. Seven hours a day were devoted to preparation, so when the eventful time arrived he was ready.

The program was one to attract music lovers from far and wide, offering the "Coriolan" overtrure and the fifth Symphony in addition to the concerto. After the performance, he found himself being publically embraced by Rubinstein while his great, deep, gruff voice boomed out: "Very good! Work hard—you will make a name for yourself yet."

Twice burglars have entered the public garge of Louis Hunt at Haverstraw, N. Y. Mr. Hunt has announced that the visits better not be repeated unless the burglars are accompanied by a bear trainer. From now on Mr. Hunter is going to turn loose in the garage every night two grizzly bears which he has had in cages heretofore. The solution still leaves Mr. Hunter perplexed about his henhouse, which has also been broken into.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Strangers in the Old Orchard

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

To stringers be polite, I pray;
There's naught to lose and t may pay.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Danny Meadow Mouse, poking his head out of a little round hole in the snow in the Old Orchard, suddenly drew back. In a tree right over his head were two birds. Even in that hasty glimpse Danny had seen that they were strangers. It is always well to be suspicious of strangers. To be sure, they were not big like members of the Hawk family, but Danny long ago learned that there are others to watch out for besides Hawks and Owls. He knew that Sammy Jay had more than once enjoyed a dinner of Morse. And then there was Butcher the Shrike. He was no bigger than Sammy Jay, yet he was an energy always to be watched for, so Danny kept down out of sight.

Presently, he very carefully peeped out. The two strangers were still there. Never had he seen anyone just like them. Right away he looked at their bills. You can sometimes learn a whole lot from the bill of a bird. Danny looked to see if these bills were hooked. They were not. These bills were short and very thick. Danny recognized them right away as the sort of bills that are used for crushing seeds. He gave a little sigh of relief. Birds with bills like that are not meat eaters. The minute he saw those bills he was reminded of the bill of Rose-breast the Grosbeak. These two strangers were just about the size of Rose-breast, too.

"I'm not afraid of them," said Danny to himself, and climbed right out on the snow where he could sit up and see them better.

One was rather handsome. He flew down on the snow only a little way from Danny. His body was quite largely yellow. His tail was black and it was forked. There was a big bar of white in each wing. The top of his head was black. His forehead and a streak over the eye were yellow. The sides of his head and neck were a sort of greenish-brown. Danny looked up at the other stranger, which he knew without being told was the mate of the one on the ground.

"It is funny," thought Danny, "how differently the birds of the same kind dress. Now Nanny and I dress alike. Yes sir, Nanny Meadow Mouse and I dress alike. But just look at this couple! So far as the way they are dressed goes, one would never know that they were related."

This was quite true. The stranger up in the tree was dressed almost altogether in black and white. Wings and tail were black and white. The body was brownish-gray with just a little yellowish color around the base of the neck and shoulders. There was a little tinge of yellow on the under parts. The head was all brownish-gray.

"Good morning!" squeaked Danny. The stranger on the snow looked up. "Good morning," said he.

"I hope you are feeling fine," said Danny politely.

"Very fine," replied the stranger. "I couldn't feel finer. This seems to be a very nice place here."

"It is," replied Danny. "I take it you have never been here before."

"No," replied the stranger, "I have never been here before. What do you call this place?"

"This" replied Danny, "is the Old Orchard. Have you come far?"

The stranger chuckled. He looked up at his mate in the tree. "He wants to know if we have come far," said he.

The stranger in the tree looked down at Danny and her eyes twinkled. "I suppose," said she, "that some folks would say that we have come quite a distance. Yes, sir, some folks would say that we have come quite a distance. Personally, I think we have come quite far enough. What do you think, my dear?"

Her mate flew up beside her. "I agree with you, my dear," said he. "I like this place. If we can find enough to eat, perhaps we'll spend the rest of the winter here."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Every day a business man—in big business or small—makes plans to protect and develop his business, so taht his income will increase. But too few consider what will happen to their families when that income stops, for not many can accumulate $1,000,000. Life insurance provides the way—insurance in a sound company, under a liberal policy.

You will be interested in the advertisement of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company appearing in this paper. It points out the many ways by which insurance serves both home and business, and will perhaps bring to your mind some new ideas for yourself. The local office of the Metropolitan will be glad to advice you.

AMERICAN AUTOS ARE POPULAR IN NEAR EAST

ALEXANDRIA (AP)—American automobiles cover the Near East like desert sands.

And sheiks, robed tribesmen and keen Oriental traders buy their motors on the installment plan, just as the American office worker or farmer.

In Palestine motor traffic is developing so rapidly that the railway fare on the extensively used Jerusalem-Haifa route has been cut in half in order to compete with automobile transport.

In the Lebanese republic, with population estimated at about five million, there are 6,000 cars. Many people there ascribe the economic crisis from which Lebanon has been suffering since the beginning of 1928 to the craze for automobiles.

There is no indication of American cars being crowded from the Near Eastern market, despite the efforts of British and other makers.

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION AT DIVINE PROVIDENCE CHURCH

The Forty Hours Devotion was opened following the 9 o'clock mass Sunday morning at the Divine Providence Polish National Catholic church with a large attendance. During the day the Blessed Sacrament was exposed for adoration by the parishioners. Rev. Pullit, pastor, officiated at the opening exercises and also delivered the sermon, dwelling chiefly on the topic of the day, Forty Hours. He very clearly explained what it represented and why the church had set aside a time each year at a certain season, in order to give the parishioners certain privileges to make peace with their God. Rev. Father Pullit stated that (today) Monday, the children would have special devotions at 5:30 p. m. Monday and Tuesday evening at 7:30, vespers will be said. Confessions will be heard by neighboring priests from Westfield, Mass., New London and Bridgeport. The musical program for the exercises were in charge of the organist. Miss Frances Kavick, who also rendered a solo Ave Maria. The main altar and two side altars were prettily decorated with choice cut flowers and palms. The Forty Hours will come to a close Tuesday evening with a procession by the boys and girls of the church, with the girls acting as flower girls strewing flowers before the Blessed Sacrament which will be carried by the pastor.

Mrs. Thomas E. Casey

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas E. Casey was held from her late residence, 65 Fifth street Saturday morning with many friends and relatives attending. Requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor, officiating at 9 o'clock, at St. Mary's Memorial church. At the offertory Mrs. Farrell rendered De Profundis and as a waiting hymn the choir sang, Lead Kindly Light. Chopin's funeral march was played at the recessional. Burial was in the family lot at St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was read by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan. The bearers were Joseph Daley, Arthur Jackson, James Daley, John Ready, William Leeney and Robert Swanton. The floral tributes were both numerous and beautiful. Undertakers Cummings and Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears of North Fifth avenue and Mrs. Clarence J. Nagle of South Second avenue were in New Haven Saturday evening to attend a banquet given in honor of Vice National Commander Ned White of the American Legion at the Hotel Garde.

President Desire J. Dufresne presided at the monthly business meeting of the members of the St. Jean Baptiste society held Sunday afternoon at Parish hall.

Master Leo Michon of Norwich avenue is a patient at the Hartford General hospital.

FUNERAL.

Exarie Chabotte.

Funeral services for Exarie Chabotte were held from his late home in Occum Saturday morning at 8.30 with a requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Ludovic Paradis, pastor of the church was the celebrant of the mass, which was largely attended. The bearers were Francis Chabotte, Samuel Chabotte, Jeremiah Raymond, Alfred Raymond, Wilfred Ballard and Orlis Ballard. Burial was in the Immaculate Conception cemetery in Baltic where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Adelard A. Jalbert of Baltic. Undertaker George G. Grant had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Lenten devotions were held Friday evening at Sacred Heart church, consisting of stations of the cross and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

TELEPHONE POLES TOPPLE, TRAFFIC DELAYED DURING BLINDING STORM

The Southern New England Telephone company was hard hit by the blinding snow storm which swept over this city Saturday evening accompanied by a high wind and leaving in its wake between four and five inches of snow. The storm which started shortly before 6 o'clock was preceded by a three hour fall of rain. It was a wet, soggy snow, making it difficult for pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

In a number of cases automobile traffic was halted, due to the falling of limbs and trees across the highways. Automobiles were reported stalled in all the surrounding districts. Garages and gasoline service stations soon after the storm started had many calls for chains from motorists.

The local telephone exchange reported 250 telephones out of commission Saturday evening, as the result of wires being down in Colchester, Jewett City and Norwich. Trouble was also experienced on several lines extending between Middletown, Providence and Boston. In this section most of the storm damage was netween Bozrah and Colchester, where nearly a score of poles toppled to the ground.

Saturday night and all day Sunday, repair crews were employed in clearing up the damage and Sunday evening a construction gang was operating in the Norwich-Colchester area. It was said Sunday evening that it will be two or three days before complete service will be restored.

The entire night force of the street department was called out Saturday evening to put the streets in shape for vehicular traffic. Not only was the snow removed, but limbs and trees that had been blown down by the high wind onto the sidewalks and streets. Trees and limbs fell on Washington, corner of Broad and Warren, Rosth and Yantic streets.

A large limb was blown down near Christ church, Washington street, falling across the sidewalk and street and blocking traffic. It took the day and night gang nearly all night Saturday and all day Sunday to clear up the broken limbs and trees, which in several instances fell across wires and broke them. The men were also called to Laurel Hill avenue to fill in a washout caused by the heavy rain.

The gas and electrical department reported no serious trouble from the storm. Lights were out for a time in the Goldberg avenue, Washington street, Norwich Town and the Taftville sections of the city, but this trouble was repaired shortly after the storm. A number of transformers were also burned.

A gang of men from the Eastern Connecticut Power company were also out Saturday and Sunday in and outside of Norwich, repairing wires that had broken under the weight of the heavy snow.

The fire department was inconvenienced by the storm and it was necessary for Acting Chief Henry R. Taft, Charles Culver and Forrest Lewis, with a G. and E. department man, to locate and repair two breaks in the fire alarm system. One was at the Eighth street bridge and the other near Oneco street. Two hundred feet of wire was down at the latter place.

ACTIVITIES FUND COMMITTEE TO MEET THIS AFTERNOON

The activities fund committee in the expansion program of the Norwich chamber of commerce will assemble for a short meeting at 5 o'clock this (Monday) evening in the chamber rooms and then adjourn to attend the Norwich Progress dinner at 6.30 o'clock in the Wauregan hotel in a body. F. Russell Smith, chairman of this committee, has called the meeting to check up on the work of soliciting the larger subscriptions to the activities fund from the firms and corporations in the community, which started last week.

The activities fund committee has the task assigned to them of raising $10,000 of the total budget of $20,000, which has been adopted by chamber directors as being necessary to finance the enlarged program and meet the constantly increasing demands being made on the organization for service to the community.

Members of the committee are: F. Russell Smith, chairman, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Arthur M. Brown, Judge Allen L. Brown, Charles R. Butte, James L. Case, Roy D. Judd, Walter F. Lester, Shepard B. Palmer, William G. Park, Aurin E. Payson, Robert W. Perkins, Charles W. Tagsart, Chas. J. Twist, Albert Van Wagenen, and Joseph C. Worth.

James E. Gheen, who will be the principal speaker at the dinner tonight at 6.30 o'clock in the Wauregan hotel, will arrive in Norwich this afternoon from New York city, where he has been on a speaking engagement. All members of the activities fund committee, the entire team organization, members of the chamber and other interested citizens will attend the dinner.

William G. Park, vice president of the Arlie Mills, and a member of the activities fund committee, has written to President Worth, of the chamber, as follows:

"American cities today are vitally concerned in their civic commercial and industrial growth. Huge sums are being expended in industrial promotion, community advertising, and civic improvements such as airports, recreation facilities, conventions and tourists, housing, new hotels, etc. The competition between cities is becoming acute—business men who are vitally concerned in their property are keen to appreciate these facts.

"Many of us here in Norwich realize that we must be fortified in order to maintain our position. The chamber of commerce is the one and only organization equipped to cope with this situation and the citizens of Norwich are the only ones who can support it.

"As it is non-sectarian, non-political, and democratic in its principals, every business and professional man or woman who has the future welfare of the city at heart will be found enlisted on its roster at the close of the campaign. The movement is most commendable and I most certainly lend my endorsement."

INDUSTRIAL NURSES HOLD FIRST ANNUAL BANQUET

The Industrial nurses of New London and Windham counties held their first annual banquet Saturday evening at the Lawton Inn, Plainfield. The address of welcome was given by Miss Anna C. Buckley, R. N., of Norwich, president of the association. Among the guests was Edward Jacobs of Providence, who is connected with the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co. He spoke very interestingly to the nurses present on their industrial work and the duties connected with it. Miss Margaret Cavanaugh, R. N., of Somersworth, N. H., national president of the American Association of Industrial Nurses, also spoke of the work connected with the Industrial nurses.

A delicious chicken supper was served by the management of the Lawton inn, and was heartily enjoyed by all. Credit is due Miss Joan Kirby, R. N., of Lawton mills, chairman of the committee, for her untiring efforts to make the event the success it was. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jacobs of Providence, Miss M. Cavanaugh, R. N., of Somersworth, N. H., Miss A. C. Buckley, R. N., Miss A. Fitzgerald, R. N., Miss E. Morrison, R. N., of Norwich, Miss J. Kirby, R. N., Mrs. O. Dahloff, R. N., Plainfield, Miss W. Walsh, R. N., Miss M. Leyden, R. N., Miss P. Chase, R. N., Jewett City, Miss E. Marshall, R. N., Danielson, Mrs. J. Hester, R. N., New London. There was music and dancing during the evening.

FRACTURED ANKLE IN FALL ON ICY STREET

While walking near Washington square Sunday, Israel Adirin, about 49, of this city, slipped and fell on the icy street, receiving a fractured right ankle. He was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital.

Discharged from Hospital

Patients discharged from the W. W. Backus hospital Sunday were:

Pearl Greene, 17 North Cove street; Melvin Dwitt, 332 Central avenue; Mariah Sylvia, 23 Lake street; Arlene Laporte, R. D. No. .

SOUTH MANCHESTER SINGERS AT LOCAL Y. M. C. A. SERVICE

The service at the Young Men's Christian association Sunday was one of unusual interest and inspiration to an audience of 300 or more, and the unanimous verdict was that it was "one of the best" ever held in the local "Y."

The service opened with the singing of America and this was followed with a prayer by Rev. Joseph Cooper of the Trinity Methodist church. The Men's Choral club of South Manchester, under the very able leadership of its director, Archibald Sessions, rendered a program of mainly spiritual selections, and the approval indicated by applause was frequent. A rising vote of thanks was given by the large audience to the choral club. Rev. Mr. Cooper gave an exceedingly impressive address on "Harmony." He stressed the need of harmony in all avenues of life, the home, in business as well as in music. This does not mean that everything must do things the same way; these good men of the choral club have varying voices but nevertheless they produce beautiful harmony. No character of history demonstrated such magnificent harmony as did Jesus Christ the great Son of God.

In all parts of His life He was in perfect harmony with His Father. There can be no perfect harmony apart from the Christ. Sin produces discord, and Christ is able to come into a life and make it beautifully harmonious.

FIVE DIVORCES GRANTED IN SUPERIOR COURT

Five divorces were granted Friday at the short calendar session of the superior court in New London. All were uncontested.

William F. Mitchell of Noank was given a divorce on the grounds of desertion from Sara P. Mitchell. They were married Oct. 7, 1924.

On the grounds of desertion, alleged since the day of marriage, Sept. 5, 1925, Frank Muise of Noank was given a divorce from Margaret Ward Muise.

Lucy A. Neff of Groton was granted a divorce from Raymond A. Neff on the grounds of desertion, alleged since June 25, 1925. They were married June 29, 1923.

John Lewis Bonamarte of the Submarine Base was given a divorce on the grounds of a statutory offense, from Grace D. Bonamarte.

On the grounds of desertion alleged since February, 1923, Edna M. Miner of Poquonnoc Bridge was given a divorce from Frank B. Miner.

SUPPOSED CHIMNEY FIRE AT THAMES STREET HOUSE

The fire department was called out at 7:52 o'clock Sunday morning for a supposed chimney fire in the building at No 129 Thames street owned by Charles Topliff and occupied by Mrs. Grace Peck. Bricks lodging in a bend in the chimney caused a backdraft, it was discovered, sending smoke into the rooms. Squad A, Acting Chief Henry R. Taft and Acting Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan responded.

CORONER EXONERATES DRIVER FROM CRIMINAL BLAME

Coroner Edward G. McKay has exonerated from criminal blame, Meyer Filan, driver of the automobile which struck and fatally injured Miss Jennie G. Bonney, 55, Dec. 21 at the corner of Washington street and Harland road.

G. AND E. BOARD ASKS INTERPRETATION OF LAW

Mayor Lee Roy Robbins has received from the board of gas and electrical commissioners a reply to the letter he sent them Friday asking them to inform him whether or not they intend to comply with the recommendations in the fact finding committee's report Wednesday evening at a special city meeting. The gas and electrical commissioners, in their letter to Mayor Robbins state that there are fundamental legal differences between them and the mayor as to the power of the board. They ask for a written opinion on the interpretation of the law by corporation counsel. The board's letter to Mayor Robbins follows:

Hon. Lee Roy Robbins, Mayor of the City of Norwich, Conn.:

My dear Mr. Mayor:—

The board of gas and electric commissioners have instructed us to acknowledge receipt of your communication of the 1st inst. At a special meeting of the board it unanimously approves the following reply and asks that the questions it contains be answered, all of which are regularly entered upon the records of the board.

Apparently there are grave fundamental legal differences between the mayor and the board as to the powers, duties and responsibilities of the city's lighting commission. We ask to have the law interpreted and explained in a written opinion to us by the corporation counsel of the city.

We have believed, and do believe, and are advised, that the two special city meetings you refer to had no power of direction and control over the fixing of rates. The advice and opinion of the corporation counsel in writing is asked as to this.

We understand and have believed and advised that the duty and responsibility of managing, directing and controlling the city's lighting plant rests primarily upon the board of gas and electric commissioners, with certain powers vested in the mayor and court of common council, if they choose to exercise them and so organ. We ask through you for the corporation counsel's written opinion upon that proposition.

We understand and are advised that our personal bonds of $5,000 each given to the city are conditioned among other things upon our obeying and complying with the law of the state. We ask the corporation counsel of the city to advise us in writing whether we are correct in this last assumption.

That the present situation may be somewhat understood and clarified for the nearly 7,000 electors of the city, we ask why you refused our request submitted to you that the reply of our board on the rate question might be read by the city clerk to the last city meeting.

Do you favor generally the municipal ownership and operation of public utilities?

Are you in favor of selling the city's gas and electric plant and franchise?

Will you publicly repeat what you said to Commissioner Goldberg and others in your office on Tuesday last, Feb 26th, as to your view of the correct attitude of the commission in response to a vote of a special city meeting even though the commission was unanimously of the opinion that the business policy dictated by the special city meeting would prove very disastrous to the city's property?

Do you agree that the corporation counsel of the city is appointed by the court of common council and that under the charter of the city one of his duties is to represent the city in all suits in the courts against it?

We ask why the corporation counsel of the city did not explain to the two city meetings you refer to the law governing the sale of appliances, the law as to how the rates shall be fixed and determined, the law as to the maintenance of reserves and as to what shall be charged off by the commissioners each year, the powers of the mayor and the court of common council and of the board of gas and electric commissioners?

We ask the corporation counsel of the city to advise us in writing whether the two special city meetings you refer to have the power to regulate curtail and prohibit the sale of appliances?

Your suggestion of "edict of the people" reminds us that we are sworn like yourself to obey the law. As at present advised, we are doing so and have done so. We regard our responsibility as one in the nature of trustees for all of the citizens and not automatons or a mere will o' the wisp.

Let us assure you that "council-made ordinances" hold no terror for us, nor will we thereby be embarrassed in the slightest, but we hope that these ordinances will not depreciate the city's property, hamper its efficiency, reduce the present market value of the city's property or impair the quality of the service.

Respectfully,

The Board of Gas and Electrical Commissioners,

By SAMUEL GOLDBERG,
Its Vice President.

By JEREMIAH A. DESMOND,
Its Secretary.

DIST. SUPT. GENTER AND SON LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON

District Superintendent Myron E. Genter and son Paul left for Washington, D. C., on Saturday. Mr. Genter is scheduled for a meeting of the national executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league Tuesday, and will also attend the inauguration ceremonies with his son. Paul will spend some time sightseeing and a day at the American University as a guest of Otis Fellows, who is a student there. They expect to return home Wednesday.

Sent To State Farm.

Found guilty of a charge of intoxication Gustave Bjork, 37, of this city, was sentenced to the state inebriate farm Saturday morning in the city court. The original charge was theft of chickens, but the intoxication charge was substituted. Bjork was arrested Friday evening by Officer Peter Sullivan, on North Main street. He had three chickens in his possession. It was learned that the chickens belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walenda, of No. 552 North Main street. A fourth chicken was found in an ash barrel in that section. Bjork was intoxicated at the time he was arrested.

NORWICH TOWN

FREDERICK W. WEIR DIES IN HOUSE WHERE HE WAS BORN

Although in failing health for about two months, the death of Frederick W. Weir, 68, life-long resident of Norwich Town, came somewhat unexpectedly at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at his home 140 West Town street. Death resulted from angina pectoris.

Born in Norwich Town, June 4th, 1860, in the same house in which he died, he was the son of Rev. John and Eliza Gifford Weir, esteemed residents of Norwich Town, years ago. Mr. Weir's mother, who died January 17th, 1923, lived to be 94. She was the oldest member at that time, of the First Methodist Episcopal church, where she and Rev. John Weir, a Methodist clergyman were united in marriage in the early fifties of the nineteenth century.

On his mother's side Mr. Weir's ancestors, the Gifford family were among the early settlers of Norwich. His grandfather was Erin Gifford. That family formerly owned the land where now stands Rock Nook Children's Home, on East Town street. Gifford Lane, Yantic, was named after Mr. Weir's ancestors.

Mr. Weir, was a graduate of Norwich Free Academy, also successfully passed examinations to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. He however, was unable to attain this course, owing to illness of his grandfather, for whom he felt the obligation to care, as his own father had died when he was only eight years of age.

When a young man, Mr. Weir was a traveling salesman for a large concern dealing in pig-iron, being located at times in Philadelphia, Chicago, and St. Louis. He was for a period in charge of an electrical plant in St. Louis, having always had an interest in electricity.

About twenty-five years ago, he retired from active business and returned to Norwich Town, that he might be with his mother in her declining years.

Mr. Weir retained a life membership in the National Rifle association. During his young manhood he attended Norwich Town Methodist church. For the past four years, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bentley have made their home with him. Mrs. Bentley was a faithful home-keeper and in every way she and her husband have looked after Mr. Weir's interests in sickness and in health.

Mr. Weir has but few surviving relatives, among them, Mrs. Charles Winslnes, of Warwick, New York, a cousin; also Mrs. Nelson C. Taintor, (Ruth Mowry Thayer) of Hartford, formerly of Norwich, and her sister Mrs. A. Harold Knott of Morro Bay, California, the former Mrs. Rachael Thayer Dunlop. Their mother, the late Mrs. Charles F. Thayer, was cousin of Mr. Weir; Mrs. Taintor arrived in Norwich Saturday evening, to assume charge of the funeral arrangements.

MISSION PREACHER ENJOINS CATHOLICS TO PERSEVERE

The week's mission at the Sacred Heart church was brought to an impressive close Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, with a very large attendance. Rev. Father John Mattimore, S. J., of Boston who has been conducting the mission summed up the sermons during the week in his final discourse Friday night, the sermon theme was the Prodigal Son, while the service Saturday evening consisted of the Holy Hour, with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in closing. In addressing the congregation Sunday afternoon, Rev. Father Mattimore commended the people for their loyalty in attending the mission exercises, also that he was much impressed by the devotion and piety of the people during the week. He expressed the hope that they would continue to live in God's holy grace and in the future would be greatly benefited by the mission. The Papal blessing was bestowed upon the congregation at this service and all renewed their baptismal vows, each one holding a lighted candle. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament closed the very successful exercises.

Lenten devotions at this church for this week will consist of Rosary, Litany and Benediction Wednesday evening at 7:30. At the same hour Friday evening, there will be Stations of the Cross and Benediction.

SERIES OF OVATIONS MARKED THE INAUGURATION OF HERBERT HOOVER AS PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES

Bare Headed and Rain Beaten, President Hoover and Vice President Curtis Rode From the Capitol to the White House, Smiling Their Happiness—After Taking the Oath of Office President Hoover Stood in the Reviewing Stand, Glowing With Pleasure, as the Parade Passed—Connecticut Troops Were an Outstanding Feature of the Parade.

PRESIDENT HOOVER

COPYRIGHT UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N.Y.

VICE PRESIDENT CURTIS

WASHINGTON, March —(AP)—The American people today with solemn ceremony placed Herbert Hoover in the highest office within their gift—that of president of the United States.

With rain falling, he swore to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States, kissed a verse in the Bible and began the gravest duty ever demanded of him in his life of far-flung activities. Assuming to his inaugural address he made a pledge to enforce all laws, including the prohibition amendment, to the full extent of his ability.

Into office with this California engineer and orphaned Quaker went Charles Curtis whom fate had plunged from an Indian reservation for elevation to the vice presidency. The two then rode down the historic route from the capitol to the white house bareheaded, rain-beaten, but smiling their happiness over one of the most remarkable and enduring ovations given any president or vice president in recent years.

Thousands Stood in Driving Rain

For nearly four hours the thousands stood in the driving rain waiting to do honor to the foremost two Americans. They filled the long rows of water soaked stands lining the route; they perched upon perilous, slippery ledges of buildings flanking the street. Dripping windows were filled with peering faces, and rooftops were heavy with humanity.

On the capitol plaza thousands with water dripping clothes, saw Mr. Hoover kiss a verse in the Bible in which sealed his fealty to his countrymen. That verse said: "Where there is no vision the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."

The Parade

And when that solemn ceremony was over they remained defiant of the weather to see the impressive tribute paid to the incoming head of the nation by representatives of nearly every grouping of American life. The army, the navy, the marine corps, the coast guard, governors, governors' staffs, patriotic organizations, marching clubs, and bands tramped the wet, pool studded pavements until late in the day to salute the new commander in chief. He stood in a reviewing stand in front of the white house, glowing with pleasure, and by his side the new first lady of the land, animated with interest, waved in numerous salutes.

When the parade ended and President Hoover entered his new home, its occupants of yesterday was speeding toward the quietness of Northampton, Mass., seeking the rest of a private citizen. He had become former President Coolidge, but he took with him happy memories of the expressions of friendship showered upon him on his last day in office.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge did not remain in Washington for the inaugural parade. With President Hoover installed as chief executive of the nation Mr. Coolidge entered an automobile with Mrs. Coolidge, was driven to the Union station, and boarded a train for the city where he started the career that led to the presidency. Cheers rang in his ears as he departed and there was a smile upon his usually stern countenance.

Ceremonies Began at 10 a. m.

Inauguration day in Washington means just that. The train of events leading up to the ceremonial installation of the president and vice president began at 10 o'clock in the morning when the two central figures started for the white house to join the President and Mrs. Coolidge. Mr. Hoover rode with Mrs. Hoover in a white house automobile from his home on S street, while Senator Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Eward E. Gann, proceeded to the executive mansion in a congressional car.

After a short stay at the white house the official party including the President and Mrs. Coolidge departed in a motor cavalcade for the capitol. Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover riding together with an escort of three troops of cavalry. There were billows of applause as the presidential car passed along the avenue, and both Coolidge and Hoover kept busy acknowledging enthusiastic greetings from the packed sidewalks and stands.

Reaching the capitol, President Coolidge and his successor-to-be entered the president's room on the senate side, and there awaited the moment for the induction into office of Mr. Curtis, who for years had been republican senate leader. Curtis took the gavel from the hands of Vice President Dawes before an assembly in which were interminglied the brilliant uniforms of diplomats, army and navy officers, the sombre robes of the justices of the supreme court, and the formal attire of some members of congress.

Dawes Surrenders Seat

A reminiscent touch of the electric atmosphere of four years ago was given to the Curtis inauguration. Vice President Dawes on that day had given the senate a sound lecture over the rule which permits unlimited debate. Today defiantly, but good naturedly, he said farewell to that body with the reminder that he would take nothing back. He smiled with his listeners as he descended from the rostrum, seated himself near President Coolidge in the senate chamber and listened to Vice President Curtis say that the senate was master of its own course.

The rain was showering the senate skylights when the senate finally adjourned and the inaugural party moved toward the open-air stand on the plaza for the swearing in of Mr. Hoover. Chief Justice Taft administered the oath of office to Mr. Hoover on the twentieth anniversary of the day Taft himself had taken over the reins of government from Theodore Roosevelt. A president, a former president, and a president-elect stood there until the few words of obligation prescribed by the constitution made of them one president and two former presidents.

Crowd Listened to Address

The crowd which listened to Mr. Hoover's inaugural address presented brilliant mixture of color as it stood there in the rain, a myriad of bright umbrellas bobbed about, their color emphasized by the glints from their water sheeted fabrics. Raincoats of every hue mingled in the audience which followed the new president's declaration of faith attentively and applauded his telling points.

Departure of Coolidges

The plaza ceremonies complete, Mr. Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge departed for their journey homeward, and the procession of acclaim was formed. The president and vice president rode to the white house ahead of the parade for luncheon. As they passed in automobiles, with tops down, they repeatedly waved their high top hats to the cheering spectators. Water poured across their faces as they extended their signs of appreciation.

Half an hour later the two leading

HOOVER HONORS LITTLE OLD SCHOOL TEACHER

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—Evidence of a deep streak of sentiment in Herbert Hoover showed today in the midst of the most momentous and the busiest time of his life as he thought of his little old school teacher, Mollie Carran of West Branch, Iowa, and invited her to an honored seat near him for the inauguration ceremonies.

There, tremulous and happy, arrayed in her best black silk she sat with the notables of the land and watched the man whom as a little boy she had taught in the class room, take the oath for the highest office in the land.

"MISS AMERICA" HAS FILED SUIT FOR DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., March 4—(AP)—Fay Lanphier Spiegel, "Miss America" in 1927, filed suit for divorce here today from Sidney M. Spiegel, Jr., of Chicago charging extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Spiegel declared in her suit that she was treated brutally and inhumanely and on several occasions she was subjected to severe beatings by her husband.

The couple was married in Chicago on June 7, 1928.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BERLIN, March 4—(AP)—The police sought additional members of the gang of forgers who had attempted to sell documents purporting to have been illegally exchanged by United States Senators William E. Borah and George W. Norris with the soviet government.

LONDON, March 4—(AP)—The Mail today says that a remarkable invention enabling beam radio stations to use telephony and telegraphy simultaneously in almost complete secrecy was tested successfully on Saturday between Bridgewater and Montreal. The invention was described as the Marconi Mathieu multiplex system.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 4—(AP)—After having looked in vain for a rich American girl to marry and restore his shattered fortune, Prince Abdul Kadir, the son of the late Sultan Abdul Hamid, who today might be sultan of Turkey had not Mustapha Kemal made that country a republic, has sought permission from the minister of labor to join a Gypsy orchestra as a violinist.

CHARGE POLICEMEN HELPED CHICAGO GANGSTER MASSACRE

CHICAGO, March 4—(AP)—The Herald and Examiner publishes a purported interview with a "Bugs" Moran gang survivor tonight in which the unnamed man was quoted as charging that four Chicago policemen participated in the massacre which, he said, was ordered by Capone. Moran himself was said to have gone to Florida just before the killings to straighten affairs with Capone in their rivalry for the North Side liquor market.

The Moran gangster's story of the shootings said three police, two in uniform, entered the garage from the rear.

"Moran's men thought it was a pinch—a pinch they could be squared," the story ran. "Moran's strictest orders were that his men should never kill a cop. That's one rap that can't be fixed.

"So, of course, the men who were later killed submitted to being disarmed. Then McGurn, another cop, and two other men entered from the front door. McGurn directed the machine gunning."

FINAL EFFORT TO AVERT EXECUTION OF G. E. H. TAYLOR

BOSTON, March 4—(AP)—A final attempt to save the life of George E. H. Taylor, sentenced to die in the electric chair sometime this week for the murder of Stella Pomikala, of Lawrence, was begun today by his counsel.

John H. O'Neil, of Amesbury, and Francis Rafter, of Salem, Taylor's counsel, told Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, who is acting governor in the absence of Gov. Allen and Lieutenant Governor Youngman that they were investigating certain matters in connection with the case and might wish to present a statement to the governor tomorrow.

They were told that Gov. Allen, who is in Washington for the inauguration of President Hoover, and who previously has refused to extend clemency to Taylor, was not expected to return to Boston until tomorrow night.

MOTION FOR DISMISSAL OF EDEL MURDER CASE

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—A motion based on the argument that the state had not proved a murder was submitted today for the dismissal of the indictment charging Frederick W. Edel, a waiter, with the killing of Mrs. Emmeline Harrington, an actress, in December, 1927.

The trial before Judge Nott in general sessions, had been adjourned until Wednesday because of the death of the father of one of the jurors when Ira Holly, of counsel for Edel argued that the prosecution, which completed its case Friday had failed to prove Edel guilty or that Mrs. Harrington had been murdered.

Decision on the motion was reserved after Assistant District Attorney James E. McDonald in a brief argument said he believed Judge Nott knew the criminal law well enough to decide the motion properly.

BOOTLEG LIQUOR CAUSED 14 DEATHS AT PEORIA, ILLS.

PEORIA, Ills., March 4—(AP)—The fourteenth victim of poisonous bootleg liquor distributed in Peoria over the week-end died tonight, and a coroner's inquest was held in abeyance to await the death or recovery of others who imbibed the tainted alcohol.

Ben Teel, 60, of Vermont, Ills., was the latest to succumb. He was one of a group of stockmen who became ill after a party at a hotel Thursday night.

State's Attorney Henry E. Pratt announced tonight that Maurice Mansfield, arrested as the local distributor of the liquor, had admitted he imported 50 gallons from a Chicago bootleg syndicate but refused to name his source.

Reports current on Peoria streets said liquor from the same source that wreaked havoc here had been shipped to Galesburg, Decatur and possibly several other Illinois cities.

HOPE REVIVED FOR RECOVERY OF FOCH

PARIS, March 4—(AP)—The physicians attending Marshal Ferdinand Foch tonight gave out their first word of hope in more than a week of gloom after the illness of the old warrior had suffered a fresh complication.

They said that the former generalissimo of the Allied armies, who had sunk so low that at one time they feared that it was a matter of hours, had fought his way back so that he might yet win his battle for life.

The marshal had a better night and a good day. His temperature tonight was 101 and his pulse 88, which are not far from normal.

Closing Scenes Of The 70th Congress

Last Minutes in Both Houses Were Marked by Farewells and Eulogies to Departing Members.

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—The seventieth congress ended its session quietly today after writing a record as colorful as that of any of its recent predecessors.

It enacted the bill to control the turbulent waters of the Mississippi river system; greatly expanded the nation's naval forces; paved the way for harnessing for man's uses the mighty Colorado river; and placed on the statute books a new act to materially increase penalties for violation of the prohibition laws.

In addition, the senate ratified the Kellogg treaty to have war renounced as a national policy by the nations of the world.

The congress, however, left as a legacy to its successor the vexing problems of farm relief and tariff revision but it did take steps to enable early consideration of both these questions at a special session of the new congress to be convened sometime next month.

The last minutes in both houses were dominated by farewells and eulogies to departing leaders.

In the senate, Charles Curtis, of Kansas, who retired two days ago to ascend to the vice presidency, was paid tributes by Senator Reed Smoot, republican of Utah, and then by Senator Joe Robinson, the democratic leader, who opposed Curtis for the vice presidency in the last election.

In the house as the noon hour approached Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican leader, said that before the bang of the gavel he would like to hear from Representative Finis Garrett, of Tennessee, the minority leader, who after 24 years of continuous service retired today.

The chamber was in confusion as Tilson spoke. Members with hats and coats on their arms, were leaving through the main doorway for the inaugural ceremonies. As the Tennessean rose from the seat, a hush fell. The exit of members ceased.

Garrett walked to the wall in front of the rostrum. Turning and facing the speaker, one of his closest personal friends, he said:

"Mr. Speaker and my friends of the house: This is perhaps an occasion when it would be quite proper for me to say something of a personal nature or carrying a personal flavor and yet I shall not do that because if I were to attempt it, I realize I would display an emotion which, which I certainly would not be ashamed of it, nevertheless would not be of interest to the house."

CURTIS DEFENDS THE SENATE'S LIBERAL RULES

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—Charles Curtis took over the vice presidency today from Charles Dawes at a ceremony unique for its good-natured clash of pronouncement by the two leading participants.

The nation's officialdom gathered in the senate chamber shattered the solemnity of the hour by jovial applause when Dawes reiterated his antagonism to the senate's liberal rules and Curtis, a moment later in his inaugural address, defended them.

In more moderate manner than four years ago upon his own ascending into office, Dawes again criticized the unlimited debate allowed by the senate, and the senate, which has ignored his plea, good naturedly applauded as the former army general emphatically said, "I take back nothing."

The interest of the audience intensified as Mr. Curtis began his address. Again applause and laughter rang through the assemblage facing Herbert Hoover and Calvin Coolidge as Curtis, 34 years a legislator and the father of the controverted rules, paused and in measured words declared:

"The vice president is not one of the makers of the law, nor is he consulted about the rules adopted to govern your actions. His obligations to the people of the country to whom he owes his high position and his duty to you senators call for a fair and impartial construction of the rules which you, yourselves, have adopted and which you alone may change."

TEAR BOMBS USED TO REPULSE U. OF M. STUDENTS

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 4—(AP)—Approximately 4,000 hilarious students of the University of Michigan, celebrating the basketball victory of Michigan here tonight over Wisconsin, were repulsed with tear bombs when they attempted to enter the Michigan theatre, the largest play house in Ann Arbor. They retreated but prepared to return to the attack in a few minutes.

Four persons were held by police but not formally arrested and their names were not divulged. Three were said to be students.

After a second unsuccessful sally against a hastily recruited defending force of police and ushers, the student crowd dwindled to about 500 but made up in belligerency for its smaller size.

Potatoes, rotten eggs, bottles and rocks, were used as missiles. Police responded to each new fusillade with tear bombs.

The students demanded release of the four in custody as the price of peace but police believed that if freed they would act as leaders in a fresh attack and refused to arbitrate.

$150,000 FIRE IN BUSINESS SECTION OF NEWPORT

NEWPORT, R. I., March 4—(AP)—Fire which threatened extensive damage to part of the business section of this city tonight caused damage estimated at $150,000 and gave firemen a stubborn two-hour battle before being controlled.

The fire had burned through two buildings, the Rosen building and the Bryer Exchange block before it was checked. A fire wall on the Colonial theatre on one side of the fire area prevented a spread in that direction. Firemen checked the blaze in the other direction after it had done slight damage to a building owned by Christie Petrolis.

SETTLING STRIKE OF SHOE WORKERS IN LYNN

LYNN, Mass., March 4—(AP)—Twenty-nine of the 44 shoe manufacturing concerns affected by a strike of approximately 1,700 operatives in this city had signed agreements with the unions involved tonight and it was reported that all but about 500 workers would have returned to their benches by tomorrow morning.

STORIES OF EXPLOSIONS IN WOOLWICH ARSENAL

LONDON, March 4.—(AP)—The Woolwich arsenal area, close to the heart of London, was thrown into alarm this afternoon by a series of heavy explosions in the primer and fuse factory of Britan's greatest munitions manufacturing center and supply dump.

Nineteen persons suffered minor injuries. Flames licked up the arsenal walls and rockets burst high overhead or fell a great distance away in the environs of the metropolis.

A court of inquiry has been appointed.

Coolidge Writes For Ladies Home Journal

Mr. Coolidge Has Written Three Articles on "Promoting Peace" For the Publication.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4—(AP)—After Calvin Coolidge departed from Washington this afternoon the Ladies' Home Journal announced that the former president has written three articles on "Promoting Peace" for the publication.

The announcement, signed by Loring A. Schuler, editor of the Journal, says:

"Calvin Coolidge has written for the Ladies' Home Journal three articles on the principles of peace.

"In his Armistice day speech of last November, the retiring president said: 'For the cause of peace the United States is adopting the only practical principles that have ever been proposed, of preparation limitation, and renunciation.'

"He has elaborated these three fundamentals — preparation, limitation, renunciation—in three articles under the general title, 'Promoting Peace.'

"The first of Mr. Coolidge's articles will appear in the April issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, the second in May and the third in June."

22 KILLED BY EXPLOSION AT BULGARIAN ARSENAL

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 4—(AP)—Twenty-eight persons, mostly women, were burned to death and 25 were critically injured in an explosion in the largest military arsenal of Bulgaria here today. Property valued at $1,000,000 was destroyed.

The catastrophe shook the capital to its foundations. The real cause of it has not been yet determined officially. One theory was that a workman, seeking warmth from a stove, carried a fuse signal too close to the hot coals.

Within a few minutes the entire building was a roaring furnace. The flames spread rapidly to the adjoining powder depot causing a second and strong explosion. The terrified people feared a repetition of the calamitous earthquakes which devastated Bulgaria last year. The roof of the second building, in which more than fifty workers had just begun their afternoon labor, crashed with terrific force cutting off the only retreat of the panic stricken women.

At the risk of their lives the fire brigade erected ladders against the flaming building and smashed in the heavily iron barred windows, while red hot steel projectiles rained from the interior and rescued a few of the workers from the asphyxiating fumes and the inferno of exploding shells.

HOME COMING OF COOLIDGE TO BE QUIET AT HIS REQUEST

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 4.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge's home city waits tonight with quiet expectancy for his return from Washington. With Mrs. Coolidge, he was due to arrive here at 1 o'clock tomorrow morning, but will remain aboard his private car until 8.30 o'clock.

In keeping with the former president's wishes, there will be no speech making and except for the presence of the American Legion band, the greeting at the railroad station will be limited to the personal salutations of the welcoming committee named by Mayor Jesse A. G. Andre.

The reason for the quietness of the reception is the serious illness of Mrs. Lemira B. Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge. She has been in a weakened condition at the Dickinson hospital for more than a year. One of the first acts of the Coolidges, according to their friends, will be a visit to Mrs. Goodhue.

So quiet will be the home coming that a municipal appropriation of $200 for the occasion has not been spent. There are no decorations in the streets and virtually no signs that the thirtieth president of the United States is returning to the city which he calls home.

REPARATIONS EXPERTS CONSIDERING TRUSTEESHIP

PARIS, March 4—(AP)—The proceedings of the plenary session of the committee of experts on reparations today revolved around the idea of setting up a trusteeship to carry out the recommendations of the committee.

Such an organism would have a corporate existence as Lord Revelstoke, British banker who heads the subcommittee determining how Germany can pay annuities without transfer protection, developed the scheme in his report today. It would have its central office in one of the smaller capitals of Europe. This would eliminate any possible influence from propinquity to London, Paris, or Berlin, the capitals most directly interested.

The new trusteeship, as explained by the banker as the result of his conversations with various members of the subcommittee, will handle the receipt and distribution of German annuities whether in cash or kind and whether or not hitherto subjected to transfer protection. It also would undertake to issue, when decided upon by the full committee, negotiable bonds capable of commercialization but based on annuities.

CHANGE IN RULES OF THE SALVATION ARMY

HARTFORD, March 4 (AP)—The absolutism of the head of the Salvation Army passed out of existence by vote of the recent high council held in London, in connection with the election of a new general to take the place of Bramwell Booth, declared Col. Arthur T. Brewer, of New York, field secretary of the New York area, this afternoon at the winter conference of 70 officers of the southern New England division of the army.

This means from now on the same rule applies to general and private alike and if a general does something contrary to the principles of the Salvation army he is just as liable to censure as the humblest officer in the ranks, pointed out the speaker.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL FOR SAMUEL GALLO

BOSTON, March 4—(AP)—Motion for a new trial for Samuel Gallo convicted last week of the murder of Joseph Faraglia, was filed in superior court here today by Gallo's counsel, William H. McSweeney. The motion was based on the grounds that the verdict was against the evidence and the law.

REBEL TROOPS ARE MOVING TOWARD MEXICAN CAPITAL

Insurgent Troops Are Marching From Vera Cruz—The Revolt Has Developed Into a Struggle Between the Central Govenment of Mexico and a Powerful Group of Military Commanders Centering Chiefly in the States of Vera Cruz and Sonora—In Mexico City the Government is Preparing Energetically to Combat the Rebels.

(By The Associated Press)

The revolutionary movement in Mexico, which flared up with dramatic suddenness on Sunday, had developed Monday night into a struggle between the central government at Mexico City and a powerful group of military commanders centering chiefly in the states of Vera Cruz and Sonora.

Revolutionary troops left the city of Vera Cruz today and began moving northward toward the Mexican capital. Because of the mountainous territory their progress was expected to be slow.

From the northernmost part of Mexico in the state of Sonora came a definite revolutionary statement that the aim of the movement was not against the central government as such, but was directed against the influence which former President Calles is charged with still wielding in the government.

Gen. Fausto Topete, governor of Sonora and a close friend of the late President-elect Alvaro Obregon, sent a message to The Associated Press saying the revolutionaries had demanded that Calles leave the country and "desist from the direction of its affairs."

"When Calles leaves Mexico and those in authority agree to constitutional conduct of the government, this revolution will die a natural death," he said.

In Mexico City the government was preparing energetically to combat the rebels. General Calles, himself noted as a military commander in former revolts, was called out of his retirement to take over the secretary of war portfolio.

President Portes Gil, elected as provisional president only a few months ago, declared that the government had the situation in hand. He asserted that the movement was led by a dissatisfied military-political group and would be crushed.

While the government claimed that the revolt was restricted merely to Vera Cruz and Sonora, the revolutionary leaders claimed that the states of Sinaloa, Chihuahua Durango and Coahuila have joined actively in the movement.

As yet no clashes between loyal troops and the insurgents have been reported. Because of the great distance of most of the affected states from Mexico City, with the exception of Vera Cruz, fighting is not thought likely for some time. If it comes, it probably will be in Vera Cruz.

Gen. Roberto Cruz with 5,000 men was reported marching on Guadalajara City, while General Sorosteeta was massing troops near Guanajuato, Michoacan, to march on Colima. Both were stated to have joined the revolution.

During the day the rebels consolidated their position along the northern boundary of Sonora, taking command of the three principal cities which are key points of entry to the United States.

Mayor Millard Haymore of Douglas, Arizona, declared that he would ask that a detachment of United States troops be sent there as a precaution against trouble.

At Washington it was felt that any action at this time was unnecessary. The situation along the border is being watched closely by the corps areas of the army who have jurisdiction and authority to take whatever steps are necessary.

STATEMENT ON MEXICAN REVOLT BY PRESIDENT GIL

MEXICO CITY, March 4—(AP)—Provisional President Emilio Portes Gil, after a day spent in consolidating federal forces to crush the revolution, admitted tonight that a third state, Coahuila, had joined the opposition.

At the same time he declared that the revolution headed by General Jesus Maria Aguirre in Vera Cruz, General Francisco Manzo in Sonora and General J. Gonzalo Escobar in Coahuila was the most unjustified of any revolt in Mexico in recent times.

"These unfaithful leaders," he said, "have gone into open rebellion with the purpose of establishing a military dictatorship. They are actuated by no noble ideas but their movement is nothing more than an idea of personal gain."

The president said the majority of the army was loyally supporting his government and that the entire nation disapproved of the rebellion.

MANIFESTO BY GOVERNOR TOPETE OF SONORA

NOGALES, Ariz., March 4—(AP)—Gov. Fausto Topete, of Sonora, in a manifesto today set aside the Mexican religious laws and announced that ministers of all religions henceforth could hold services in their respective churches.

The governor said that until a new revolutionary government could be set up, the religious problem could be solved by establishing "freedom of conscience" and non-interference by the government in religious matters.

No specific mention was made of the Roman Catholic church, but the manifesto obviously was directed to members of that faith whose priests have refused to abide by certain provisions of the religious laws, resulting in their being barred from conducting services in their churches.

"It is made known to all ministers of all religions," the manifesto said, "that they can officiate in their respective churches free from political meddling from our government which will be an exclusive civil one."

GEN. BORQUEZ HAS RELIEVED GEN. AGUIRRE

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, March 4—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Borquez, commander of the 64th Cavalry and 8th Infantry regiments, tonight relieved Gen. Manuel M. Aguirre as commander of the military district covering all of northern Sonora border points, of which Nogales is the strategic center.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED TO THE PUBLIC UTILITIES LAW

HARTFORD, March 4—(AP)—Half a dozen amendments to the public utilities law of the state, recommended by the public utilities commission, and designed to make minor amendments which were beyond the power of the state revision commission, will be before the house tomorrow, when it reconvenes after the week-end holiday. The bills have been reported favorably by the railroads committee.

The bill designed to prevent surprise tickets in school districts elections by requiring the filing of such tickets well in advance of the time for voting is one of five bills which will be before the senate for adoption tomorrow morning. As only two of the committees met Friday afternoon, few reports on bills are expected tomorrow.

Ten committees, agriculture, appropriations, claims, education, finance, fish and game, incorporations, judiciary, motor vehicles and roads, bridges and rivers, have hearings scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. The education committee starts hearings today on the revision and codification of the school laws. Wednesday the Hartford charter amendments will be before the cities and boroughs committee and the bills embodying the recommendations of the judicial council, will be heard by the judiciary committee.

LAST BILLS SIGNED BY PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—Although confronted by fewer last minute bills than usual at the end of a session of congress, President Coolidge today signed 52 measures and applied a "pocket" veto to about ten more which died for lack of his signatures.

The bills approved included the first and second deficiency appropriation measures amounting together to approximately $212,000,000 and the interior department appropriation bill carrying about $285,000,000. The bills disapproved included that for civil service, retirement, providing for increased annuities for government employes and a bill to establish a national park at Ouachita, Arkansas.

The first deficiency bill was the one which caused much controversy in congress on account of the amendment of Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, to appropriate $24,000,000 additional for prohibition enforcement.

Among the outstanding measures approved by President Coolidge today was one extending the authority of the radio commission until next Jan. 1. That body would have automatically ceased to exist on March 16, had the bill not been approved, and the commission's work reverted to the commerce department.

Another measure approved authorized appropriation of $50,000 to cooperate with Latin American countries in the construction of a system of inter-American highways.

WEALTHY MAN FIGURES IN DEATH OF MRS. NORA WILSON

MIAMI, Fla., March 4—(AP)—Guy A. Loomis, wealthy New Yorker, today became the chief figure in the investigation of the death of Mrs. Nora Wilson, 40, of Lancaster, Pa., whose body was found early Sunday in a hotel here.

Loomis left aboard his private yacht for an unannounced destination this afternoon. His departure, according to Dade county officials, occurred as a constable waited at the dock to subpoena him as a witness at the coroner's inquest tomorrow.

A series of notes lay on a table near Mrs. Wilson's body and in them a "Guy" was mentioned. Mrs. Wilson had filed a damage suit three weeks ago in Dade county circuit court against Loomis. According to her attorneys, it was to seek remuneration for her services to the New Yorker as a housekeeper and social hostess, although no bill of complaint has been filed.

A development today halted temporarily, at least, advancement of the theory that Mrs. Wilson had taken her own life several hours before her body was found. A .38-calibre revolver was found under her right hand, but officials claimed that lack of powder burns indicated that the revolver from which the shot that killed her was fired had been held at a greater distance than the length of her arms.

The notes apparently left by Mrs. Wilson were to be brought into the inquest tomorrow. In one of them, addressed to Loomis, he was said to know why she had taken her life.

ELIHU ROOT DECLINED PRESIDENCY OF COMMISSION

GENEVA, March 4—(AP)—Elihu Root today declined an offer of election to the presidency of the commission meeting March 11 to study revision of the statutes of the world court of justice. Mr. Root said that he preferred to serve as a simple member.

It is understood that Mr. Root has a formula concerning the problem of advisory opinions which he hopes may satisfy both the American senate and those powers which have already adhered to the court. This formula it is believed has been seen by senate leaders as well as Washington officials and is of a nature calculated to solve the problem of American membership.

THREE MEN KILLED WHEN SNOWSLIDE STRUCK TRAIN

ST. PAUL, MINN, March 4—(AP)—Three men were reported killed today when a snowslide struck the rear end of Great Northern mail train, No. 27, west-bound, near Single Shot, Mont.

The train was just entering a tunnel when the slide struck the rear six cars, turning them over. A mail clerk, a track walker and a section foreman were reported killed.

LEGION POST TO HOLD CEREMONIAL IN APRIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 4—The 170 new members of James J. Shea post, No. 19, American Legion, will be initiated at a big ceremonial to be held in this city Thursday, April 25, it was announced by District Commander Edward A. Zimmerman at a joint meeting of the Tolland and Windham county legion posts held in Rockville Sunday.

The initiation, which will take the form of an elaborate program of induction of new members and entertainment, will be attended by delegations from the various units of Connecticut. The Meriden post will send a band for the occasion and many legion officers will occupy seats of honor. The increase in the membership of the local post brings the total number of legionnaires in Tolland and Windham counties to about 900. The goal has been set for 1,000 members before the national membership drive closes in May.

T. Frank Cunningham, chairman of the local post membership committee, expressed appreciation today for the co-operation of the original members, the public and the press in making the drive a success with especial gratitude to Mayor Charles A. Gates for the issuance of the proclamation regarding American Legion day. The other members of the membership committee are: Raymond A. Parker, Abraham Sussman, Dennis F. Haggerty, James B. Fullerton, William Mann, Oscar Keith, Albert J. Piche, Major Joseph R. Morrison, Charles A. Reynolds and Lieutenant James J. Lee.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Rose Muni

Leaving from the home, 1067 Main street, the funeral for Mrs. Rose Muni was held this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Charles M. Kelly was the celebrant. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Henry Mathieu with Mrs. E. R. Portelance presiding at the organ. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Father Kelly conducted a committal service. The bearers were Sebastiana Catalano, Vincenzo Sebastiana, Joseph Rompullo, Joseph Piecefello, Sario Vincenzo and Tony DeGrange. Arrangements were in charge of the Hurteau-Bosse Corp.

The spring opening committee of the Merchants' division of the chamber of commerce met this afternoon to consider details for the big merchandising show which will be staged Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16. The committee as named by President James H. Hurley is composed of Lyndon E. Little of the Rhode Island Textile company, J. Z. Mathieu of the Union Shoe store and James M. Smith of the Tubridy-Weldon company. It is predicted that one of the outstanding features of the show will be the special window decorations which may be placed on a competitive basis. It is possible that the committee will arrange for the announcements to inform the public of the offerings for spring as well as Easter merchandise.

A truck owned by the Mansfield State Training school and hospital and operated by James Benton, was totally wrecked at 7:19 o'clock this morning when it crashed into the side of Train No. 9 of the Central Vermont railway, bound for Brattleboro, Vt., at the Mansfield Depot crossing. The driver appeared to have escaped injury. The truck had been descending a grade leading to the crossing. Benton applied the brakes but the machine skidded on the icy road, colliding against the train. Officers from the state police barracks at Stafford Springs conducted an investigation and it is understood that they termed the accident an unavoidable one.

The recently appointed board of directors of the Retail Merchants' division of the chamber of commerce will hold its first meeting Tuesday forenoon at 9:30 o'clock. The board comprises the officers: President James H. Hurley, Vice-President P. D. Donahue, Treasurer Frederick J. Williams, and seven merchants at-large. The latter are: Robert T. Newton of the Hurley's, Boyd's store, J. E. Sullivan of Brick & Sullivan, Joseph B. Riordan of the H. C. Murray company, William B. Sweeney of W. J. Sweeney & Son, Harry W. Standish, Harold C. Lincoln of the J. C. Lincoln company and Nelson A. Daniels of the Jordan Hardware company. Tuesday's meeting will be the first of monthly meetings called for in the newly adopted set of by-laws.

OBITUARY

Miss Josephine Coulter

Miss Josephine Coulter, 72, former resident of Phelps' Crossing, North Windham road, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. C. Williams, of Shawsheen Village, Andover, Mass., Saturday. Death followed a three days' illness of acute indigestion. Miss Coulter resided with relatives on the homestead place in North Windham for several years, leaving last October to make her home with her sister at Shawsheen Village. She leaves two sisters and several nephews and nieces. The funeral was held Sunday with services at the home of her sister. Burial took place today in Brooklyn, N. Y.

A three-day entertainment for the benefit of the church is being planned for by members of the Sodality of the Children of Mary in St. Mary's church. The affair will be staged in St. Mary's hall in the near future and will feature a drama, The Two Rivals, which will be presented for the first time. The play is based on incidents supposed to have taken place during the World war. Singing, humorous recitations, music and other forms of entertainment will be provided between the acts. A beautiful flower drill and chorus will bring the program to a close.

For the second time within a few months the "smoke-eaters" of Engine company No. 1 appeared in the role of feline rescuers. The day platoon was called out Sunday to extricate a black cat from the crotch of a tree on property at 1088 Main street where the animal had been wedged for the past two days. Neighbors were attracted to the plight of "pussy" when boys who should know better and have a kindlier feeling for a dumb animal in distress, began pelting snow balls and stones at the cat. The aerial ladder truck was used in effecting the rescue.

The annual reunion of the First Methodist church for members and their friends will be held Thursday evening of this week at 7:30 o'clock at the church with an entertainment including a social and refreshments.

Mrs. W. C. MAJOR E. W. NILES DIES FROM STRANGE ACCIDENT

At a dinner in Washington, D. C., lately, Major Ellery W. Niles of Washington gave a toast to the army. A small cocktail fork concealed in the glass was swallowed and later had to be removed by specialists. Complications followed and the officer was operated on for appendicitis, from which he died. Major Niles was a brother in law of Miss Lovejoy, now of Lynn, Mass., but formerly principal of the village school in Yantic.

Damage by Storm.

The latest snow storm proved the worst of the season around here. Falling limbs of trees damaged so many electric light wires that the street lighting and house lighting systems were out of order for 14 hours, candles and flashlights as well as kerosene lamps were used in homes and the only light the street had was from the headlights of an occasional automobile passing.

The snow plow went over the road early Sunday morning and all the men who could be pressed into service were at work, trying to keep the culverts clear for the volume of water that flowed along the gutters.

DANIELSON

SCHOOL SUPT. RETURNS FROM CLEVELAND CONVENTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 4—Supt. W. E. Parker of the schools of Killingly and Brooklyn resumed his duties this morning, after returning at the week end fro mattendance at the sessions of the National Educational association in Cleveland the past week. The Cleveland convention, an annual event, drew 15,000 persons prominent in educational activities from all sections of the nation, and it is estimated that 85 per cent. of the superintendents and principals in New England were in attendance, including the majority of those filling such positions in eastern Connecticut. On the out-bound trip the New England delegation traveled in a special train, leaving a week ago last Saturday. This party spent a day in Washington, visited things of interest, especially educational institutions and arrived in Cleveland in time for the vesper service that was the prelude to four days of sessions held in the public auditorium, scene of a number of historic events.

In addition to the lectures, which were an outstanding feature of the convention, Supt. Parker found numbers of things to impress him. There was a singing exhibition by members of the senior high school of Cleveland, and also by members of the junior high schools of the city. One great chorus of 2500 junior high school pupils was particularly impressive. Another demonstration of the part that musical education holds in present day high school activities was the concert by three Cleveland high school bands, each of these of about 80 pieces, and then the playing of numbers by all of the bands merged for the time being into one of nearly 250 pieces. The physical side of education as it is carried on in Cleveland schools was demonstrated by squads numbering from 250 to 500.

The formal features, by some of the most noted educators of the country, had to do with many phases of educational work, and were all of prime value and intensely interesting to those engaged in the educational field.

Returning, the New England party had a stop over at Pittsburgh and visited Carnegie Institute. Last Friday the party stopped off at Harrisburg and then journeyed to Gettysburg, where they visited two large high schools, each constructed at a cost of about $1,500,000, and were entertained by the chamber of commerce. The Gettysburg visit included several hours spent upon the famous battlefield, where the high tide of the Confederacy spent itself during the Civil war.

Complain of Radio Reception.

On behalf of radio fans and dealers in radio sets, this paper has been asked to say as graciously as possible that something should be done about clearing up what appears to be unnecessary interference with reception in Danielson, especially in the central section of the borough. Interference has reached the stage where it has in many cases absolutely ruined reception. The result has been to irritate owners of sets and to cause loss of business to those who sell them. Electric light, telephone circuits, oil-burning heaters with the electrical devices attached to them, all are held more or less responsible. It is held by those who know about such things that the conditions complained about easily may be corrected. It so happens that public utilities corporations all have what are termed public relations departments in these advanced days. Here is an opportunity, it would seem, for these departments to do a real service in adjusting a difficulty between their patrons, for such radio owners are, and themselves. An owner of a radio that pays anywhere from $100 to many more hundred for a set likes to get service from it, and is inclined to complain because of hums and other things that can be eliminated with such co-operation as the set owners feel in their just due.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Elmer Gallup.

Just before midnight last night, Mrs. Nellie Shaw Gallup, wife of Elmer Gallup, died at the home on Florence street, Putnam. Mrs. Gallup was a native of this town, spent her early and girlhood years in Danielson and was a graduate of Killingly high school. She was 31 years of age. An illness with pneumonia caused her death. Mrs. Gallup was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Shaw, resident on the West Side. With her husband, who is a registered pharmacist at a drug store in Putnam, Mrs. Gallup had made her home in that city for a number of years. She leaves her husband and three young daughters, Barbara Ella, Marjorie Ida and Ruth Alma. She also leaves her parents and a brother, Harry. Mr. Gallup is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gallup of Danielson. Funeral services are to be held in Danielson.

Members of the Westfield Congregational church have had their attention called to urgent appeals for famine relief in China, these appeals carrying the signatures of Dr. S. Parkes Cadman and Bishop Francis J. McConnell, the new president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. It is set forth that the need is acute and immediate, with 12,000,000 people already destitute and millions more liable to become so. Gifts of those solicited may be made in envelopes and turned in next Sunday morning.

What undoubtedly is to be one of the most important meetings of the chamber of commerce this year is to be held Tuesday evening at the community room of the Eastern Connecticut Power company's new Danielson division headquarters, at the corner of Main and Academy streets. Will Rogers (not the cowboy actor and punster) is to be the speaker. Mr. Rogers comes here from Hartford, and is one of Connecticut's outstanding organizers and orators. Pursuing a policy of interesting the general public in the chamber of commerce, it has been decreed that Tuesday evening's is to be an open meeting, and the hope expressed by President E. B. Wilbur and his associates that as many people as may find it possible will attend. It is all in the interest of the manufacturing and commercial well being of the towns of Brooklyn and Killingly.

The opening of the trout fishing season of 1929 is just a shade more than five weeks away, but a lively topic of discussion by scores of those who really live when meandering along a trout stream with rod and reel and good companionship; indeed, often without it. There is this promise to those who will seek the wily trout in the spring days of 1929 in this territory—the fishing is going to be good. The state has been generous to this section of Connecticut in its stocking of brooks during the last few years. It may do more before the season opens. No one will venture a certain opinion about that. However, in this first week of March early "birds" who scan the brooks tell of seeing trout that are verging on the battleship class, and it may be that some of these leviathans will decide to bite an angler's lure in the days soon to come. In any event, observers hold that trout have fared well during the winter and should be taken in abundance in the spring. The re-stocking that the state has carried on so intensively for several years is beginning to produce real results.

Future Life will be the subject when the Young People's Discussion class meets at the Westfield Congregational church Tuesday evening with Rev. Harding W. Gaylord leading.

The South Killingly Congregational church, having amicably severed the close tie of relationship it has maintained for several years with the Westfield Congregational church of Danielson, is soon to have a pastor of its own again, after a lapse of years. The severing of the organic relationship existing for a number of years does not mean the ending of the warm and cordial feeling between these churches, but merely a rearrangement of administration.

Interest will commence March 1st for all the depositors in the savings department of the Windham County National bank, Danielson, Conn., made before the close of business today, March 5th.—adv.

This particular day found many a radio set working overtime to bring in the details of the inauguration exercises at Washington.

A checkup of motor vehicle operators to determine whether they have licenses to drive from March 1, is reported imminent. Driving with a license that expired Feb. 28, is now, of course, a violation of the motor vehicle laws.

Personal Tax Collector Arthur A. Dean reported today that the personal tax list assessments have in every instance been paid, and that record closed for another year.

The adjourned annual town meeting is scheduled for Monday of next week, and prior to taht time a budget for the fiscal year will be published, in order that all citizens may acquaint themselves with the town's financial requirements for the twelve months period.

Attendance at schools in Killingly when a new term was started this morning indicated that there is much less illness than has been the rule since the first few days of the year.

Miss Eileen Germaine, a graduate of the Worcester State Normal school in the class of 1928, has been appointed as permanent substitute to Miss Elizabeth R. Woodsworth, resigned, as teacher of the fourth grade of the Danielson graded school. Miss Germaine will teach during the remainder of the school year. To succeed Miss Woodworth as principal of the schools in the building, Miss Edith Fuller, teacher of the second grade, has been appointed acting principal and assumed her duties this morning upon the opening of the new term.

In an old bookshop on the Strand, London, a collector found a volume titled 'Etiquet of the Ballroom" published in 1860. Among its rules is this one: "The practice of chewing tobacco and spitting on the floor is not only nauseous to ladies but injurious to their gowns."

PUTNAM

PUTNAM GIVES UP HOPE OF GETTING HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 4—The aspect today was that a site twenty miles west of Hartford, in the direction of New Haven has been chosen by the federal hospitalization bureau as a location for the veterans hospital for southern New England and has been approved by ex-President Coolidge, according to word received from Washington Saturday evening. According to Washington dispatches General Frank T. Hines, chief of the hospital board is to make another tour of site inspection into Connecticut soon to examine other sites, but will confine his trip to the southern and western parts of the state.

Although the Putnam delegation seeking the hospital made a strong effort to induce the board to select one of the two sites available in this community, it is believed that the Hartford location contained many more advantageous points than what those in Putnam offered.

President Walter N. King, of the Putnam chamber of commerce said this afternoon that he had as yet received no official word from the Washington veterans' bureau, regarding the selection of the Hartford site as the location for the three million dollar government institute, but was of the opinion that the news dispatches from the national capital Sunday contained correct information. The local delegation will cease their work in connection with the hospital, unless further information comes to the effect that General Hines will make another inspection tour into this section of the state.

A plea will be made to the selectman of the town today in an effort to have them provide the town dog warden with a dog pound to be used during the existence of the quarantine on dogs in this city. Special Deputy Chauncey E. Genung of the state department of domestic animals today advocated that the town construct such a place of confinement. The dog pound is provided for in the state laws pertaining to dogs. It should be set apart from the residential section of the city in a building suitably cared for by some agent of the town to keep the animals comfortable during their period of confinement. Officer Genung said that the city barn on the outskirts of the city would serve the purpose, should the town equip a portion of it with a number of cages in which to house dogs suspected of having rabies. Town Dog Warden Ernest L. Chandler, who is directing the enforcement of the quarantine in this city, said today that he would take the matter up with the proper officials Tuesday.

At present a number of dogs have been taken into custody, suspected of being afflicted with the dog disease and have been killed before the authorities have been able to thoroughly observe them for definite symptoms of rabies, because of the absence of such a pound. During the first stages of the quarantine period, Warden Chandler has been keeping dogs under suspicion of being affected with rabies at his home on Livery street. While this has proved sufficient the sickly dogs have disturbed neighbors at night, by howling and barking and have caused much inconvenience to Mr. Chandler and the members of his family. Officer Genung of the domestic animal department felt this afternoon that the town officials would gladly cooperate with the health department in providing the much needed dog pound.

Among other matters pertaining to the abolition of the rabid dog in this section of the state is the necessity of owners of dogs, whose canines have been found to be suffering from the disease, taking the Pasteur treatment furnished for them by the state department of health. In several instances the department officials have been urged by the state health department to urge the dog owner to take the treatment to protect himself from the disease. Officer Genung said this afternoon that there is no provision in the statutes to compel a person to take the treatment and by the absence of such an act, a number of persons have refused to subject themself to the treatment. The refusal is absolute folly on the part of the man or woman who has been exposed to the disease, as hydrophobia is liable to develop in the system in the event the anti-toxin is not injected into the body to combat the disease germs. Officer Genung today urged publication of this fact and also asked for the cooperation of the public in aiding to stamp out the dog disease.

State officers of Danielson barracks swooped down upon the home of Michael Olia in the Manahansett village section of the city Sunday evening arresting five frequenters and the proprietor, charging him with keeping a gambling house. The raid was the result of a complaint entered to the state officers by one of the gamblers who alleged that he had been robbed of a sum amounting to about $40, taken from him by the members of the poker club after he threatened to quit the game.

State Officers Donald E. Geddes and H. Theodore Strand investigated the complaint and as they made their way into the gambling den found the four men. The men were taken into custody and were arraigned before Judge M. H. Geissler this morning in police court. The quartet pleaded guilty to the charges placed against them, each frequenter paying a fine of $1.00 and costs of $4.03, while Michael, who managed the house left $5 with the clerk of court and costs of $12.00.

Funeral services were held this afternoon in the Brandy Hill Congregational church for Mrs. Ella M. Carlton of East Thompson who died Friday evening at her home in that village. The services were in charge of Rev. Mr. Lyons assisted by a Webster pastor. Burial was in the Carlton lot in Webster. The service was largely attended by friends and relatives of Mrs. Carlton.

The dime novel thriller is regaining its popularity of by-gone days among the youth of the nation to such an extent that boys have begun to steal the magazines from the news counters. This sort of pastime has been going on for months in one of the local newsstores and the business man has found that his magazines have been reaching readers but at no profit to him. For the past two weeks traps have been set in an effort to apprehend the culprits when they enter the store in quest of a hair-raising narrative experienced by some of the world's greatest crime detectors. This was noted this morning when a boy entered the store, commenced to examine a number of the detective thrillers on display. When he supposed every one was looking in the opposite direction he slipped one book into his pocket and attempted to make his exit. While he was removing the magazine from its berth on the newsstand, his actions were witnessed by the merchant and before he could make a get away he was in the hands of the law. He was released on bonds this afternoon by Capt. of Police Jarvis, for his appearance in police court at an early date.

The report of Health Officer Peter A. Gardner for the week ending March 2, contained three cases of double pneumonia, one case of septic sore throat and five cases of chicken pox. The communicable disease report of the past week shows a substantial decrease in the number and the nature of diseases within the city. The report this week is free from any cases of influenza which have ravaged the city for the past two months. This week also brings to light a new disease, which residents of this city should use extreme precautions to guard against, that of septic sore throat. Health Officer Gardner said this afternoon that this disease while existing is only mild and with the cooperation of the residents of the community it should be an easy matter to stamp out all traces of it.

Miss Emma Hall and Miss Rebecca Hibbard, students at the Hartford Nurses Training school spent the week end at the home of Miss Hall's parents Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hall of Farrows street.

The towering steeple in St. Mary's church is soon to be the resting place of a 2100 pound bell and a new church clock, according to an announcement made at all the masses yesterday by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of the church. The present bell while being of considerable size, is not audible at a great distance from the church. Father Bellerose said that he is also planning upon installing a more reliable design of church clock, with a radium dial so as to enable one to know the time at night. Father Bellerose expects to have the tower work completed for dedication exercises on Memorial day.

At th friendly evening service at the Second Congregational church Sunday evening, Charles Leach Guilick, well known organist and composer rendered an organ recital on the church organ to a capacity audience. Mr. Guilick has appeared in this city before and his appearance last evening was because of a public demand. His selections were of both American and foreign composers.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald T. Noonan and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McQuillan of Providence, R. I., spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Burger of Farrows street.

Miss Anna G. Murphy of Farrows street returned to her home in this city Sunday after a visit with relatives in Leeds, Mass.

A number of legionnaires and their wives, members of the Anslem Mavotte Post 13 of this city were in Rockville yesterday where they attended a meeting of all the posts of the fourth district.

RADIO OWNERS HEAR INAUGURATION EXERCISES

The close to 300 radio sets in this section were all tuned in Monday on the inauguration ceremonies and celebrations at Washington. Inquiry this evening, found everybody pleased with perfect reception. Many local people with radio sets entertained any who called to listen in on the wonders distinctly reproduced. Not a few here were especially attracted by the roar of the engines in the big tri-motored Army plane from which much of the parade and city descriptions was broadcast.

The heavy snow which fell Saturday evening, was well on its way Monday evening. With temperature in the upper 40's, snowy ater lakes were formed in every land depression.

HUNDREDS OF DAY-OLD CHICKS ARRIVED IN SAFETY

The first spring shipments of day-old chicks are beginning to arrive at the local post office. Some Griswold and Lisbon poultrymen and egg merchants are buying 1,000 baby chicks. Not so long ago shipments of this sort by mail was unheard of, the main source of supply coming from the incubator, with plenty of arrivals in nature's own style, under the "old brown hen."

Today, a half dozen boxes were being taken away by purchasers after being transported safely from Ohio. An observer remembered when his mother used to send him to a near-by neighbor, to borrow a settin' hen.

A few years ago, when baby chicks by mail were getting their first try-out, the local orders seldom included White Leghorns. Ninety per cent would be Plymouth Rocks or R. I. Reds. Today F. L. Kanahan, in one shipment sent 1,700 certified White Leghorns to one customer in Orange, Conn. One purchaser in telling of the percent of male chicks which he received in a shipment of 200, figured that there ought to be some sort of state legislation, in Hartford or some other place, so that so many cartons wouldn't run mostly to roosters. When 100 chicks have been received here after 500 miles of travel, with every little yellow chap alive, post office department orders are so carefully followed by postmasters and railway postal clerks, that the per cent of losses en route from distant points is reduced to a minimum.

Carnations by the Thousand

Visitors at the A. A. Young greenhouses are interested in a new electric refrigerating system, 10x16 ft equipped to keep cut carnations at the uniform temperature of 40 degrees. Spring activity is underway with 90,000 slips from standard varieties, already rooted in sand awaiting transplanting time, when they will be set out in long rows out-of-doors, later to be brought to the greenhouses for the fall and winter demand. Mr. Young is continually making tests from seed which may develop something new and worth while in the carnation world. The cutting for last season were made from less than a dozen of standard popular and proven grades. The big houses are growing over 100,000 plants.

Following the recital of Professor Farrell's students at James Olsen's Friday evening Mrs. Olsen served punch and wafers, assisted by her daughter, Loretta Olsen, Mildren Olsen, Valeda Boule, Margaret Gohery and Dorilda LaFleache. The ushers at the recital were John MacLean and Charles Donohue.

Invited to Norwich

The members of Ruthie Rebekah lodge are to be guests of Hope Rebekah lodge in Norwich Wednesday evening, supper being served at half past six.

Attended Sister's Funeral

Among those who were in Putnam Monday to attend the funeral of Sister Agnes Marcella, were Rev. J. J. McCabe, Rev. Nicholas Caron, Warden E. J. Jodoin, J. A. Hourigan, Ulderic Jodoin, T. E. Shea and daughter Helen, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Shea, Mrs. J. T. Dolan, Miss Nellie Connell, Mrs. Emelien Dufresne, Mrs. Adelard Dufresne, James Olson, Mrs. John Mort and daughter Margaret, Agnes Avery, Lawrence Cassyant, Mrs. Joseph H. McCarthy, Miss Jennie McCarthy, Miss Verna Raill, Miss Blanche Nichols, Mrs. Mitchell Brissette, Louis Masse and Mrs. Wilfred Lachapelle.

Two pigs were able to run about a field after they were removed from an old abandoned well at Warrenburg, Mo., where they had been entombed for 11 days. R. A. Corsen, owner of the pigs, had not searched for them, thinking wolves had killed them.

Has Your Back Given Out?

Backache Often Warns of Sluggish Kidneys!

DO you feel always tired and achy? Suffer nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizzy spells? Are the kidney excretions too frequent, scanty or burning?

Colds and chills increase the poisons in the blood and bring extra work to the kidneys. Heed the early warnings. Don't let kidney trouble get a firm hold.

To promote normal kidney action and assist your kidneys in cleansing your blood of poisonous wastes, use Doan's Pills. Are endorsed everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:

Mrs. Lydia Bolander, 106 Amanda Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., says: "I can publicly recommend Doan's Pills for what they have done for me. My kidneys were not acting normally. Headaches and dizzy spells annoyed me a lot. There was a soreness across my back and I felt out of sorts. I felt all right after using Doan's Pills."

Cadillac-La Salle Dominance of Fine Car Field Creates Unique Opportunity to Buy Exceptionally Good Cars at Remarkably Low Prices—Now Is Best Bargain Period the place Where is the best place to buy a good Used Car?

CADILLAC LA SALLE FLEETWOOD

From a dealer whose used cars are of the very highest quality; who has a wide variety from which to choose; whose cars are in the best of condition and strictly as represented; and whose reputation for honesty, square dealing and reliability is unquestioned.

Cadillac-La Salle dealers offer this special advantage. Their Used Cars are remarkably fresh, as well as varied, because of the very nature of their new car business, the commanding position they occupy in the fine car field, and the character of their clientele.

Most of their Used Cars have seen little service. Many are only a year or two old. They look good. They are good, and ready to deliver thousands of miles of excellent service.

the time Now is the best time to buy from any Cadillac-La Salle dealer.

There are sound reasons why you can pick up better bargains today than at any other time of the year.

During the past few weeks, it has been possible to spend much time in re-conditioning. All Used Cars carried by Cadillac-La Salle dealers are therefore in exceptionally fine shape.

Low prices now prevail, because with the natural acceleration of new car sales from now on, it is desirable for the dealer to accelerate the sales of present Used Car stocks.

extra values A further reason why Used Cars, of any make, sold by Cadillac-La Salle dealers offer the highest obtainable values is because there is never an excess in price that must be absorbed by the purchaser of a trade-in.

There is a temptation in some quarters to make over-allowances for trade-ins to force sales of new cars.

The sale of new Cadillacs and La Salles is not made in that fashion. Thanks to their acknowledged position, no artificial stimulants are necessary.

ease of purchase It is a simple and an easy matter to purchase any Used Car from any Cadillac-La Salle dealer. The General Motors Deferred Payment Plan is a banking service for your convenience. You enjoy the car now and pay for it out of income.

Wise buyers of Used Cars will naturally seize these opportunities. The time is now. The place is wherever Cadillac-La Salle dealers sell Used Cars.

Family without sickness for years.... mother tells secret

"I'm so grateful to LIFEBUOY and its wonderful antiseptic lather," says Mrs. J. H. Doerres.

"I'M so grateful to Lifebuoy for the way it helps me keep sickness out of my home, I feel I owe it a word of praise.

"A doctor hasn't visited us in years. I have four children—all so healthy that other mothers have told me they envy me. I naturally attribute a great deal of their robust health to my care in guarding against germs.

"In play as well as in other daily tasks, our hands are very apt to pick up germs and pass them into the mouth. So it's one health rule we all observe in this home—wash-up with Lifebuoy right after work or play and again before eating. I'm sure this habit of removing germs has saved us many a sick day.

"Lifebuoy is so clean-smelling, it makes one feel so clean and refreshed that we all enjoy using it."—Mrs. J. H. Doerres, 3920 Fillmore St., St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Doerres is only one of millions of mothers who know this simple Lifebuoy way to guard family health. Her interesting letter is typical of many written us.

A safeguard your family needs

As a careful mother, could you deny your family such an effective means of health protection? It's a simple safeguard—yet very important. For hands can't escape germs. Every day we must touch things which others may have left germ-laden—such as telephones, money, car straps. The Life Extension Institute lists 27 germ diseases that hands may spread.

"Our smartest salute to Lifebuoy," say Dorothy and Caroline Doerres. They know how well it guards health.

Why, then, take chances when Lifebuoy's mild and abundant antiseptic lather removes germs? Keeps skin fresh and clear, too, prevents winter chapping.

Your family has to wash with some toilet soap anyway, so why not use Lifebuoy which gives added health protection—at no extra cost. You'll quickly learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant extra-clean scent which tells you it purifies. It vanishes as you rinse. Adopt Lifebuoy as your regular toilet soap today.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S ADDRESS.

In the day that has just gone the country has changed pilots. Today at the head of the government is President Herbert C. Hoover elected by the people and placed in office in accord with constitutional provisions.

Naturally the country has great hopes under the new chief executive It has reason to feel that there will be a continuance of those highly commendable policies that were set up by Calvin Coolidge, and additional assurance has been obtained from the inaugural address.

It was a fitting tribute that was paid by the new president to his predecessor and a recognition of a well performed service during a trying period, but as Mr. Hoover pointed out there are always dangers which call for attention and as he dwelt upon certain of them he indicated certain methods which it can be expected he will endeavor to put into effect as a means of combatting or preventing them.

The failure of our system of criminal justice he attributed to the burden that has been imposed upon it by the 18th amendment and to the influences which have long since complicated and weakened our law enforcement. He calls for reform, reorganization and the strengthening of the whole judicial and enforcement system. He sees where there have been failures on the part of states and on the part of individuals, but he is clear in his statement that "I have been selected by you to execute and enforce the laws of the country. I propose to do so to the extent of my abilities," and he hopes for the moral support of his countrymen. In the matter of law enforcement he stands right where it is to be expected that a president will stand and a move in which there will be nationwide interest is that which he promises to make by appointing a national commission for "a searching investigation of the whole structure of our federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the 18th amendment and the causes of abuse under it." It is no slight undertaking but it is unquestionably needed.

President Hoover makes it clear that he interprets the American sentiment as opposed to government ownership but in favor of the regulation of private enterprise and he believes that the means should be perfected for cooperation by the government in the interest of human service. In this direction he made reference to education and public health as showing a large opportunity for economic benefits.

Mr. Hoover made it clear that he was thoroughly in sympathy with the efforts which have been made by this country in behalf of international peace, showed that this country is opposed to instead of being in favor of imperialism, declared it to be the desire to help other countries and not only to be at peace with the rest of the world but to see peace maintained throughout the world. He spoke strongly in behalf of the Kellogg treaty and the world court and when he covets "for this administration a record of having further contributed to advance the cause of peace," he voices the sentiments of his countrymen. His advice to keep the world free from the inheritances of fear and distrust, which have so troubled the old world was well directed.

The president will be heard later in regard to farm relief and tariff changes for which a special session of congress is to be called, but there is interest in what he regards as the further mandates from the election. These he enumerates as "the maintenance of the integrity of the Constitution, the vigorous enforcement of the laws, the continuance of economy in public expenditure, the continued regulation of business to prevent domination in the community, the denial of the ownership or operation of business by the government in competition with its citizens, the avoidance of policies which would involve us in the controversies of foreign nations, the more effective reorganization of the departments of the federal government, the expansion of public works and the promotion of welfare activities affecting education and the home."

In assuming his duties the president has a full realization of its responsibilities, and well he might from his closeness to previous administrations, but well does he estimate the value of the tolerance, aid and cooperation of the people as he faces the future which he regards as "bright with hope."

It was a short message but it showed what the president regards as the high points as he enters office and there can be no quibbling over what his policies are going to be. It marks the opening of an administration from which the country has great expectations.

MORE ROADS OR BEAUTIFICATION.

In connection with the building of highways the question has been raised that many of the users would be delighted if more attention were paid to the work of beautification along the roadsides and all of the funds were not employed for construction and maintenance work.

In Connecticut more and more attention is being given each year to the beautification of the highways. The results are to be seen in many directions and they call forth many expressions of appreciation. No doubt the great majority of highway users would be pleased if roadsides in every direction might be so improved that there would be a boulevard effect over the whole state system. Such adds to the delights of automobiling regardless of the actual purposes of the journey.

However there are those who maintain with reason that there are greater needs for the highway funds than the beautification of the roadsides. They feel that the money ought not to be employed for such a purpose until the highways of the state have received the attention they deserve. The building of good roads and better roads means much but those roads do not serve all the people. There are many sections where contributors to the better roads are obliged to go for a long distance over unimproved roads to get to a macadam or hard surfaced road, and it is quite natural that they should feel that they should receive some attention from the road-builders.

Under such circumstances it is not surprising that there are those who insist that beautification of the best roads should wait until the condition of the poor roads is brought up to the point where some advantage can be gained by the residents of the country districts which happen to be off the main highways. They have a right to feel that they are not getting the consideration they are entitled to and that they are experiencing taxation without obtaining reasonable results. Under such conditions beautification can well wait until the actually needed facilities are provided. The latter are far more necessary and beneficial.

CHANGING SENATORS.

Connecticut was making a change in senators at the same time as the country was receiving a new president. Because of his refusal to stand for renomination Senator George P. McLean has been succeeded by Senator Frederic C. Walcott and thus he concludes 18 years of service at Washington in behalf of his state and country that have been rich in results to state and nation. But for his poor health he would have been elected for a fourth term and it was with reluctance that Connecticut yielded to the inevitable in this respect.

It is an enviable record which Senator McLean has made at Washington. This is recognized not only in this commonwealth but by those of both parties who have labored with him. His retirement means a distinct loss, the quitting by an experienced legislator whose counsel was highly regarded and whose services have been highly valuable and a speaker whose words have edified many a session.

Senator McLean was not a spectacular figure but his words carried weight and his years of service brought him to the head of important committees, and the part which he played in the senate was limited only by the state of his health. For Connecticut he has been active in political service for more than two score years, his service at Washington rounding out a conspicuous career.

Connecticut loses much by his retirement, but it is confident that it has chosen well in the selection of his successor. Senator Walcott has begun a service in congress from which his constituents expect much and under such circumstances it has not been his practice to disappoint. He has the qualifications to give Connecticut successful representation.

MEXICO'S REVOLUTION.

The outbreak of a revolution in Mexico is not what can be regarded as a pleasing development in that republic. It comes soon after the new president has taken office and if it lasts any great length of time cannot fail to be a distinct handicap.

Mexico has had plenty of experience with revolutions, experience which it had been hoped would not be repeated, but while Mexico had been endeavoring to live down its past and escape from the detrimental effects of such methods it is now apparent that the government faces a test on which much depends. It rests with President Portes Gil, through such support as he is getting from former President Calles, to demonstrate sufficient strength to put down the insurrection.

While this development is most unfortunate for Mexico, it likewise causes regret on the part of this government that there are indications of disorder after the marked improvement in relationship resulting from prolonged efforts. At the same time the possibility of the good work in behalf of that country which has been accomplished since the disastrous effects of revolutions were checked cannot be viewed with complacency. It indicates a backward tendency which is not indicative of a peaceful future. It is to be hoped that it doesn't mean a return to the conditions which prevailed there prior to the days of Obregon when destruction rather than construction seemed to be the motive back of most of the endeavors, and when conditions were in marked contrast to what they have been in the present decade. Mexico has suffered enough without being subjected to more prolonged revolutions.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is now President Hoover and thus our list of ex-presidents has been increased by one.

A new place to spend your vacation will be on one of those floating airports in midocean.

The man on the corner says: It took the country a long time to get what it ordered last November.

The robins probably understand that it would not be entirely wise to venture north just yet.

It reflects much more upon those who oppose Mr. Mellon's retention in the cabinet than upon the secretary of the treasury when his retention in the cabinet is opposed.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, March 4—Washington is a mass of flags, processions, martial music, waving red, white and blue bunting, and the scene of official pomp and gaiety. Thousands upon thousands of visitors, troops, marching cavalry on prancing horses, and the brilliant uniforms of the staff members accompanying 23 governors of states, have made Washington exceptionally brilliant as a spectacle today.

From house top and tree top, grand stands and windows, everybody was alert to watch the inaugural parade, which re-established a form of inaugural celebration abandoned eight years ago, when Mr. Harding took his oath of office.

Senator Bingham gave Governor Trumbull a seat of honor on the floor of the senate during the inauguration of the vice-president, which preceded by a few minutes that of the president, the latter taking place on the grand stand erected on the east front of the capitol. Mrs. Trumbull sat in the private gallery with Mrs. Bingham, and the rest of the party were provided with excellent opportunity to witness the parade, and the ceremonies.

Congressman Tilson entertained Mayor Tully of New Haven and a party of friends, and other members of the delegation saw to it that every courtesy was accorded them.

The most brilliant and notable social event in honor of Gov. and Mrs. Trumbull and the official party personally accompanying the governor was the dinner given in their honor by Senator and Mrs. Hiram Bingham, this evening.

Dinner was served in the Chinese room of the Mayflower hotel, where gorgeous oriental coloring added to the brilliancy of the affair, and gave added charm to the beautiful gowns of the women and the military and full dress diplomatic clothes of the men. Gold lace, jewels and the colorful costumes of the diplomats were a splendid background for the gowns of the women, nearly all of whom were to be guests at the great charity ball later in the evening.

Senator and Mrs. Bingham received the guests, presenting them to Gov. and Mrs. Trumbull. Mrs. Bingham wore a very beautiful and exceedingly becoming gown of exquisite salmon pink lace.

In the Chinese room covers were laid for 100 guests, who were seated at round tables, each laid for eight persons. The table decorations were a mixture of spring flowers, and scattered around the walls of the room were potted plants, ferns and palms. The effect was very beautiful.

Among the guests were ambassadors, senators, representatives, the governor's staff and other Connecticut friends.

After the dinner, throughout which a fine musical program was rendered, Senator and Mrs. Bingham, Gov. and Mrs. Trumbull and the Connecticut guests attended the inaugural charity ball where the governor was to be one of the honor guests and where all were to occupy seats in boxes.

John Coolidge was in the uniform of a major of the governor's staff, and together with Miss Trumbull attracted much attention. Young Coolidge remained with the Connecticut visitors, instead of staying at the white house, which was of course turned over to President and Mrs. Hoover before the close of his visit here.

Senator and Mrs. Bingham took the lead in entertaining the official party, not only by the dinner they gave in the governor's honor, but they also entertained the governor and staff, with their ladies, at an informal luncheon at the senator's committee room at the capitol following the inauguration ceremonies. The big committee room overlooks the grand stand and from its windows the long parade could be watched as it wound its way through the capitol grounds, escorting the president to the white house. As the staff had to be in line early, they were forced to forego the elaborate luncheon spread for the official party, and satisfy themselves with coffee and hard-to-mouth sandwiches thoughtfully provided by Senator Bingham for those who could not remain for the entire luncheon.

The splendid showing made by the Connecticut troops in the long line of march from the capitol to the white house, where they were reviewed by President Hoover, made Connecticut's part in the Hoover inauguration something of which the state may well be proud.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 4—Four years is no great span of time, but what marvels in radio communication have been wrought in these last four years!

Four years ago, when President Coolidge took office on his own right, the tones of his voice as he delivered his inaugural address were carried out over much of the nation by air to be heard by hundreds of thousands.

Four years before, President Harding's inaugural was heard only by the vast throng on the east plaza of the capitol and it was a modern wonder that even all of those could hear him, due to first use of amplifiers out-of-doors.

Four years after Coolidge, Herbert Hoover's voice as he pledges himself to his great task will be heard all around the world. Millions of people will hear him, just how many no one will ever know.

And wavering over the strange, invisible highways of the air scarcely 12 hours after he has concluded will go flickering motion pictures giving to distant eyes glimpses of the inaugaration, of Hoover's gestures as he talked.

And the Next Four

Who will say what another four years will bring forth? Will it then be possible that the functions of sound and sight broadcasting will have been combined for everyday practical use?

Eight years ago it was little more than a wild guess to say that a day ever would come when a presidential inaugural address would be audible to tens of millions of listeners. Yet that day is here.

And even as plans for weaving all American air channels together to carry the Hoover inaugural for universal reception were being perfected, men who less than eight years ago merely dreamed of such a possibility were gathered in Washington talking of another day to come when the sight as well as the sound of any great event could be as widely broadcast.

The New Infant

Television already is here; but still in its crude infancy as was broadcast radio eight years ago. Among those who talked with federal radio authorities was Frank Conrad, who in 1921 opened in a Pittsburgh barn a pioneer broadcasting station, 8XX, the KDKA of today.

There, too, was Lee DeForest, the radio wizard; there also C. Francis Jenkins of Washington, who disclosed his purpose of putting motion pictures of the Hoover inauguration "on the air" in the hours between midnight and dawn—to which hours this infant prodigy of the air, television, is as yet confined.

And who will say that another four years will not see the glitter and even color of the next inaugural pageant as widely distributed by radio as will be the sound of Herbert Hoover's voice this year? Not the Bystander.

IN THE LIBRARY.

No girl had a right to look so pretty in horn-rimmed glasses, reflected Horace Blethering. Which had nothing to do with bonds. He was reading about bonds and the library boy was even now bringing him six or eight more books about bonds. He couldn't hope to read them all, but he felt better if he surrounded himself with the entire literature of a subject. It was his way, and a good way. Horace Blethering was a professor at the university.

"Amortization is the crediting of a portion of the discount so as to bring the value to par at maturity, the transfer being made respectively from income to investment or vice versa," read Horace Blethering, and then he read it over again, for she had taken off her glasses to clean them—puckering up her mouth and wrinkling her brow most charmingly as she did so—and he had noticed that her eyes were blue.

He read the paragraph over a third and fourth time. Was he losing all powers of concentration? The girl, it seemed, had plenty of those. Apparently he did not exist as far as she was concerned. He wondered what interested her so, suppressed a ridiculous irritation which he would not admit was jealousy toward the books that were able to hold her attention. And he did not even know the girl!

But he must inform himself on the subject of bonds. Aunt Tina had said so in her will. It would not do to go contrary to the slightest wish of Aunt Tina. Not now, at least that she had left her two bachelor nephews all her money. "On condition that they inform themselves about the science of investing money," wrote Aunt Tina in her will. He motioned for a boy. Maybe there were a few books which had been overlooked! Maybe—

Hang it, here was a boyish bob that looked like something. Why had he never liked bobbed hair before?

It was an old trick of Susan's, acquired in her school days, and she was very apt at it—this pretending to be wrapped in study while really her mind and even her eyes were wandering afield. As a matter of fact, what did all this reading matter? She was just plain lonely and that was that.

She had summed up the professor even before he had noticed her, for the best of women waste no time at these matters. He really wasn't half bad. His face was wholesome; she did not think handsome. Well, you might call him handsome at that.

She wished she might dare address him. Life was so dull since she had finished college. Some men, but stupid ones. She wanted somebody with expert knowledge of things.

Take this paper she was writing for the Cornelia Culture club—the British poets of the eighteenth century. What a bore! What did she know about poets, eighteenth century poets at that? These books were deadly.

Was it possible? He had toppled over a pile of books so that they had fallen clear over to her side of the table. Should she get up and try to reach them over to him? No, he was coming around. How very exciting. He was coming round.

"Excuse me. Very clumsy of me. I hope they didn't disturb you."

"Not a bit, I assure you."

"The pile was too high."

"It was just an accident."

"It shouldn't have been so high."

"Lots of people have them so high. It might happen to any one."

"It shouldn't. I'm frightfully sorry."

He couldn't for the life of him think of anything more to say. So he went back to his seat. But he just couldn't read any more about bonds that morning. Besides, he had to hurry to meet his class in Dryden. For, considering his age, he was regarded as quite an important authority on the British poets of the eighteenth century.

Soon the girl left, too, her paper still unprepared. She had to rush back to her office. A large stack of mail awaited her, which she attacked with gusto. It was no small job for a young woman, providing advice for the thousands of investors who wrote in to the large securities corporation by which she was employed.

She went to the library once again. He was not there, had not trusted himself to come again. After that she did not go any more, having resigned from the literary society.

As for Horace Blethering, he decided that he might as well get his advice on bonds by writing to a large securities corporation which had been recommended to him. Their woman who replied to correspondents on the subject of investments was said to advise with the utmost sagacity. So why should he worry what amortization meant?—Exchange.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Tuesday

"Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you" (John 15:14). (Read 1 John 4:11 to 21).

MEDITATION: I find that my social life is largely confined to the people of my own church. This is to me a gracious thing. It is friendship sanctified by a common faith. These people share with me as no others can my joys and sorrows. Their faith confirms and supports my own. My constant contact with them tends to correct my faults and to hold me to a high standard of Christian conduct. When trouble or sorrow comes they do not desert me but are drawn closer to me. How much I owe to my friends in my church! Am I at all repaying the debt? or I must do good to all but especially to those who are of my own household of faith.

PRAYER: Heavenly Father who hast knit us together in the friendship of Jesus Christ, teach us to love one another with a pure heart, fervently, and ever to be careful for each other's welfare in the Lord. In His name. Amen.

YOUR HEALTH

Play According to the Rules Real "Exceptions" Rare

By LeRoy A. Wilkes, M. D., American Child Health Association, New York City.

Now and then we meet an exception to the rule. Further experience usually shows, however, that the rule is pretty sound and the exceptions are quite rare. Colonel Lindbergh is an "exception" in the flying game. So far, at least, he has always come through all of his undertakings in the air while many others have failed in similar exploits. There are exceptions in many lines, but unless you have proved that you ARE an exceptional person, and don't just think you are, it is best for you to follow the rules.

Begin early to follow the rules of healthful living. To get the best results, you should have been trained in health habits from your birth, for at this time it is as easy to form the right habits as wrong ones. Some persons seem to be able to abuse themselves considerably, through bad habits, and still live to an advanced age—but they are the "exceptions," and they are comparatively few in number. Some people have lived through the hardest fought battles of the war; some have endured great privations such as starvation and prolonged exposure to Arctic cold. Recently some persons were saved from drowning after having struggled in the ice-cold water for long hours, but the rule is sound that tells us that peace, food, warmth and strength are best in spite of the experiences of the heroic "exceptions."

Certain children whom one occasionally meets do seem to get along quite satisfactorily on rather odd diets that would certainly prove harmful to the great majority of children. These children are the "exceptions" and must be recognized as such. But, "exceptions do but prove the rule," as a study of the facts readily shows. Exceptional people have a very important part to play in the game of life. They give the color, the spice and the variety—but they are FEW in number. This is rightly so, for the real greatness and strength of the nation is made by the fellows who live and play according to the rules. They are the people who sustain and support the world and give the constant and consistent effort necessary to prosperity and progress in any community or nation. So, unless you have proved yourself to be one of the rare "exceptions" you had better play the game squarely and according to the rules. You will in this way get the most out of life in values of health and wealth and happiness.

"It is not the guns or armament, or the money they can pay,
It's the close co-operation that makes them win the day.
It is not the individual or the army as a whole,
But the everlastin' teamwork of every blooming soul."

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

YOUR INCOME TAX

Bad debts may be deducted from gross income in determining net income and may be treated in one of two ways, either by deduction from gross income in respect to debts ascertained to be worthless in whole or in part, or a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts. Permission to adopt the reserve method is limited to taxpayers having a large number of accounts where credit has been ascertained to cover a codsiderable portion of time. It is not granted for the handling of one specific debt.

Bad debts may be deducted only for the year in which they are ascertained to be worthless and charged off the books of the taxpayer. The taxpayer should attach to his return a statement showing the propriety of any deduction claimed for bad debts. Where the supporting circumstances show that a debt is worthless and uncollectible, and that legal action, in all probability, would not result in the satisfaction of execution on a judgment, proof of these facts is sufficient of their worthlessness.

Unpaid loans made to relatives or friends with little or no expectation of their return are not deductible but are regarded as gifts. If a debt is forgiven it cannot be claimed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Use of Steel Traps

Mr. Editor: After reading the piece in The Morning Bulletin of March 4, I cannot help but reply to the same, paid for by Willis P. Austin. I see by his piece that he wishes to abolish the steel trap entirely, so as to make it safe for children, dogs and wild life.

How long has Mr. Austin felt that way? I would like to know this, as it was no earlier than last fall Mr. Austin wrote me when I was in Townshend, Vt., asking me to come to Norwich or be near him so we could trap together with steel traps. On or about Dec. 1, I had lunch with Mr. Austin at his home. After lunch I went with him to look at "steel" traps that were his and that he told me he had not looked at for five days and I know by experience that he was telling the truth.

Now if Mr. Austin felt that way in December what has changed his mind I wonder. Is it because a few trappers have caught foxes and he and his pal are not able to shoot foxes with the dogs that they have? No, I don't think it is more cruel to trap any wild animal than to shoot at and wound them and let them suffer from these causes.

If the people who back these bills will sponsor a bill to wipe out both hunting and trapping of all kinds pertaining to wild animal life, I will do all I can to see the bill passed in the legislature.

Yours in true sportsmanship,
DANIEL E. MARRA,

KAFIR KRAAL OR PHOENICIAN CITY?

Where did the Queen of Sheba acquire the 120 talents of gold she presentedt to Solomon?

Whence came the gold for King Solomon's drinking and eating vessels and that which embellished his throne of ivory?

From what place did Hiram, King of Tyre receive the vast treasure of gold brought by water in his hundreds of galleys?

These mysteries of antiquity may be cleared up through the work of an English expedition recently organized to examine the ruins of Zimbabwe in Mashonaland, Southern Rhodesia," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"No connection between the ruins and Sheba's queen and Solomon and Hiram has been found. But the gold mines of Rhodesia were worked during an era corresponding to the reigns of those monarchs, and many relics found in the temples and other ruined buildings are distinctly Asiatic.

"The ruins of Zimbabwe are the remains of an ancient city, which could have contained a huge population. They are located in the southeastern part of South Rhodesia, about 200 miles inland from the east African coast, and visitors go there from Victoria, the nearest town other than native villages. Victoria is on a railway line and Zimabwe has an up-to-date hotel for tourists, situated in the midst of the ruins. Picturesque landscape features add to the attraction of Zimbabwe as a tourist resort. Much of the glamor surrounding the ruins has been dispelled by their neat appearence. Debris has been cleared away and immaculate signboards point the way to the glories of the past by announcing 'To Your Right' or 'Follow the Arrow.'

"Articles of Egyptian, Arabian and Persian origin have been found in the ruins. One relic is an Egyptian figure with a hieroglphic inscription partly defaced, but with the word 'Osiris' still decipherable. Osiris was the Egyptain God of the dead. On the figure was the cartouche of Thothmes III, a king of Egypt, who ruled about the year 1450 B. C. Five soapstone birds were found which archaeologists declare resemble images of birds sacred to Astoroth, a Phoenician deity. The instruments for making jewelry, domestic utensils and armaments are different from those used by the primitive African tribes before the advent of the English.

"The buildings of Zimbabwe are round. Few right angles have been found and no evidences are apparent that any of the buildings were roofed. Except in the construction of the floors and steps a mortar or cement was used.

"The elliptical temple, with an interior circumference of 770 feet, is the largest and most intact of the buildings. The so-called Acropolic ruins are situated on Zimbabwe Hill and are mainly fortifications. The eastern and western temples are situated on the summit of the Acropolic and it is in these two buildings that the most relics of Asiatic and Egyptian origin were found.

"Zimbabwe is the largest of some hundreds of stone ruins scattered over Rhodesia, so the uncovering of its history may supply the history of the entire country.

"Some explorers believe the Zimbabwe ruins are not an ancient Asiatic center of industry but magnified kraals built by Bantu natives about 400 years ago. However, no explanation of the presence of the Phoenician and Egyptian relics has been made.

"Zimbabwe was the mythical 'dead city' of Sir Rider Haggard's 'She.' It also figures in his other novels, 'Allan Quartermain' and 'King Solomon's Mines.' The natives regard it with superstitious fear. These facts have helped make it a city of mystery and conjecture."

The Strangers Decide to Stay

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who knews he is well off is wise
To be content; there comfort lies.
—Old Mother Nature.

"Who are you talking to?" asked Nanny Meadow Mouse, as she poked her head out of a little round hole in the snow in the Old Orchard just back of where Danny Meadow Mouse was sitting. Then she saw the two strangers overhead. "Oh" she exclaimed in her funny, squeaky voice, "who are these folks?"

"They are two strangers who have come down to the Old Orchard to stay until winter is over," said Danny. "That is, they are going to stay if they can find enough to eat. They'll do that all right. Farmer Brown's Boy will see to that."

"Who is Farmer Brown's Boy?" asked one of the strangers.

"He lives over in that house," replied Danny, "and all winter long he keeps food out here for all the feathered folks and some others. No one goes hungry around Farmer Brown's. By the way, you haven't told me who you are."

"The same to you," replied one of the strangers.

"Oh, excuse me," squeaked Danny. "I am Danny Meadow Mouse and this is Nanny Meadow Mouse."

"I am pleased to meet you," said the stranger politely. "People call me Wanderer—Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak—and this is Mrs. Wanderer."

It was Danny's turn to be polite. "Welcome to the Old Orchard," squeaked Danny. "You—you don't happen to be fond of Meadow Mice, do you?" He added this somewhat anxiously.

Wanderer chuckled. "If you mean to eat, I should say not," said he. "We are seed eaters. Then we like a few bugs as a change of fare now and then. So you see we can almost always find something to eat wherever we are. That makes it easy for people who travel as much as we do. Hello! There is a small cousin of mine over there. It is Linnet the Purple Finch. He probably can show us where that food is that you say Farmer Brown's Boy puts out. Come on, my dear."

Without stopping to even say goodby, Wanderer and Mrs. Wanderer flew over to the edge of the Old Orchard where Linnet the Purple Finch and Mrs. Linnet were just joining a whole flock of Purple Finches. They were gathering around a shelf fastened to one of the trees and they were very busy picking up something that they seemed to relish. Wanderer and Mrs. Wanderer were not at all bashful.

"What have we here, Cousin Linnet?" inquired Wanderer.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CREOMULSION
FOR THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

"Welcome to the Old Orchard," squeaked Danny and stared most impolitely. "Who are you?" he asked bluntly.

"I am a sort of big cousin of yours," replied Wanderer. "That is, I belong to the Grosbeak branch of the Finch family. People call me the Evening Grosbeak. May I join the party?"

He didn't wait for Linnet to reply, but flew down to the shelf and inspected it with a critical eye. There were sunflower seeds there and hempseed and some smaller seeds. Linnet and his friends were breakfasting on Lempseed. He tried some of these hempseeds himself. He was joined by Mrs. Wanderer. Together they tried the sunflower seeds. Then they settled down to eat. When they had finished their breakfast they flew back to the tree, beneath which Danny Meadow Mouse had his home. Danny was still there. Wanderer looked down at Danny and his eyes twinkled.

"We've decided to stay," said Wanderer. "Yes, sir, we've decided to stay. This is the very place we have been looking for."

Little Talks on Thrift

Ability To Earn Money Less Important Than Ability to Save

The ability to make money, particularly where it is possessed by a young person, is not usually accompanied by the more important ability to save. When wealth is acquired easily, through talent or some special aptitude, the faculty of saving and investing cautiously is often lost sight of until the days of easy earning are gone.

No man or woman can be so shrewd an earner that they can afford to overlook the necessity of learning how to conserve.

We often hear of men who are on the high-road to success and it seems impossible that they could develop into financial failures. We may not know that they are defying the practices and the principles of thrift. If they are their success cannot be permanent.

Lack of thrift has caused more financial failures than anything else. There are today many men who might have become wealthy had they known how to save money. During the course of their careers they have earned large sums, but these have slipped through their fingers from day to day. They had the natural gift of making money, but they lacked the quality of permanent success—which is thrift.

The majority of men who have built up great fortunes, though they have in many instances risen rapidly, owe their successes primarily to thrift. It was this that gave them the start they needed and it was the development of this characteristic that imparted the combination of courage and cautious judgment without which there can be no substantial success in money matters.

Thrift requires steadfastness and the martialing of the last ounce of moral strength that we possess. But it does not require any special genius or brilliant gift of mind.—By S. W. Straus President American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Sister.

One day a little miss was invited over to a friend's house for dinner. She was accompanied by her older sister Grace and their mother. When the time came for the "return of thanks" at the dinner table, this particular little miss was asked by the hostess whether she said "grace."

Too little to know the difference, she exclaimed calmly: "No, I say 'sister.'"

DON'T STAY FAT IN THESE DAYS

You see countless people who have gained new beauty, new health and vim, by fighting excess fat. Some have done this by abnormal exercise and diet, some in a modern, scientific way. Why not follow their example?

There is a way based on scientific research. It combats a cause of excess fat which starvation cannot fight. That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets, now used for 20 years. Millions of boxes of them. The results you see wherever you look should induce you to accept them.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for results. So there is no secret, no reason to fear harm. You will know that all the good results come in a natural way. Go learn them now, by asking your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it is safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the cruel pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since, 1875.

WANTS "BOB WHITE" SAVED FROM HUNTERS

KINGSVILLE, Ont. —(AP)— Jack Miner, whose sanctuary for wild animals here is known to all North America, is trying to have the "Bob White" quail placed on the song and insectiverous bird list. That classification places a bird beyond the legal reach of a hunter's rifle.

Analyzing the crop of a month-old quail, Miner found one small spider, one harvest-spider, one leaf-hopper, one plant bug, one cricket, two small crickets, two moth caterpillars, one nymph of a bug, one small beetle, two hymenopterous insects, two ants, nine insects eggs, 30 small gravel, six wheat grains, 45 seeds of three-seeded mercury weed, 288 seeds of black nightshade, 28 seeds of green foxtail, eight seeds of witch grass, and 38 unidentified weed seeds.

A few years ago Miner helped, by proving the value of the mourning dove to the farmer, in having it placed on the immune list.

The older residents of the town will learn of her death with sincere regret.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ebenezer B. Young

Mrs. Nettie Avery Young, widow of Ebenezer B. Young, died at her home in Aquebogue, Long Island, N. Y., on Friday morning, March 1, after an illness of less than a week.

Mrs. Young was born on Rose Hill, Lodyard, the daughter of Isaac and Henrietta Billings Avery, educated in the schools of the town and at East Greenwich Academy, R. I., and for many years was a teacher in her home town and the neighboring village of Poquetanuck. She was a loyal member of the Congregational church at Ledyard Center and with her brother and sister sang in the choir.

In 1887 she married Mr. Young and to the church in Aquebogue she transferred her former loyalties. Mr. Young died about twenty years ago.

Two children were born to them: Jane Avery, a teacher in New Rochelle, N. Y., and Harold Edwin, now in charge of the home farm. Mr. Harold Young is married and has a daughter, Charlotte Annette Young.

Mrs. Young was a woman of fine and strong character, always identified with every movement for religious or civic betterment, bringing to every question keen judgment tempered with a sense of humor which made her a welcome guest in any gathering.

Besides the children and granddaughter mentioned, Mrs. Young is survived by a sister, Mrs. Julia Avery Chase of Washington, D. C., and by the widow and three children of her brother, Edwin, living in Berea, Ohio

John T. Thompson

John T. Thompson, 28, died at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Hugh McGeowan, No. 458 Laurel Hill avenue, following a long illness. He was born in Scotland, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Thompson and came to Norwich in 1915, was employed as an engineer for several years at the Uncas Paperboard company. Besides his parents and a brother, William Thompson, living in Ireland, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Hugh McGeowan of No. 458 Laurel Hill avenue and two brothers, Joseph Thompson of Ridgeville Park, N. J., and Dennis Thompson of New York city. He was a member of St. Patrick's parish. Mr. Thompson possessed a pleasing personality, was a true and faithful friend and had a host of friends, who will be grieved to learn of his death.

COUNTY RACING BILL HEARING THIS AFTERNOON

The judiciary committee of the general assembly will hold a hearing at the state capitol this (Tuesday) afternoon on a bill which, if passed, would legitimatize betting, under pari-mutuel system, on horse racing in New London county and would authorize Governor Trumbull to appoint a commission to supervise the racing. The bill, introduced by Representative Shriver of Groton, according to its sponsors would limit racing to 90 days in any one year. Representatives of the Connecticut Federation of Churches as well as other people are expected to appear in opposition to the bill.

The March White Ribbon Banner, under the head of "Promoted" lists a former Norwich resident, Mrs. Ada M. Burning, of Hartford, a long-time faithful member of Hartford W. C. T. U.

NORWICH PROGRESS DINNER MARKS OPENING OF CHAMBER CAMPAIGN

If the enthusiasm existing at the Norwich Progress Dinner held Monday evening at the Wauregan hotel, marking the formal opening of the Norwich chamber of commerce campaign, is indicative sustained, there is no doubt that the quota of $20,000 needed by the chamber to promote its expansion campaign, will be raised this week. The dinner, held at 6:30 o'clock, was attended by members of the activities fund committee, members of the campaign organization, members of the chamber and guests to the number of more than 100. The feature of the meeting was a talk on "How's Your Spizzerinktum?" delivered by "Jimmie" Gheen, executive secretary of the Albany, New York chamber of commerce, whose jokes and witticisms were enthusiastically applauded.

Following the diner, during which Benson's orchestra provided a delightful concert programme, President Joseph C. Worth of the chamber, introduced Dr. Hazel B. Campbell, chairman of the executive committee of the campaign. In opening his remarks Dr. Campbell said that "I don't know when I have seen a finer and larger enthusiastic gathering then tonight in my experience in campaigns. I want to speak of the thoroughness with which this campaign has been planned by Mr. Young, Mr. Pilcher and the co-workers, to whom we are greatly indebted. It is already bearing fruit, some of the banks in town having doubled their subscriptions. I am sure that if you put your shoulders to the wheel the outcome will be a success."

At this point Dr. Campbell introduced two of the guests, George Gariepy of the New London chamber of commerce, Earl Arnold of the Willimantic chamber of commerce and also presentEd F. Russell Smith, chairman of the activities fund committee.

Frank R. Murdy, commanding ace of the team organization, was called on by Dr. Campbell and gave final instructions to his aces, pilots and workers. "I prophesy this campaign is going over the top, 100 per cent strong," said Mr. Murdy. "We have heard a great deal about the present chamber of commerce. If we are going to have a successful chamber of commerce we must have funds so that it can function. We must have memberships."

"I believe you are thoroughly sold on the possibilities of the city. There are wonderful opportunities here if we get behind the chamber of commerce. The chamber of commerce is the backbone of any community." Mr. Murdy then explained how he approached one of the busiest men in town to handle the various positions. "I am well satisfied with the personnel of the campaign organization," he said, "which I believe is to the best selling body of men to go out and raise this money. How are we going to do it? If we don't work together it will be a difficult task. We need cooperation and harmony."

"I have assigned to each division 100 sales, five for each man. I want to tell you everything on the programme is possible. We have got to sell the "five sale a man" in order to successfully carry out this programme. Take for your slogan, "One for all and all for one.' Get behind the leader of the division and work together."

After his final suggestion to the workers on "approaching the prospect try to sell them the chamber of commerce," he said that if this is done the $20,000 will take care of itself. Mr. Murdy introduced the aces of the four divisions, Abner Schwartz, John R. Lyston, Ernest O. Rodier and William G. Park, all of whom expressed the opinion that the campaign will be a success.

In his brief remarks Mr. Rodier said that "a man who is not a member of the chamber of commerce does not know as much about the city as one who is. It will help any business man to be a member of the chamber. All the big companies encourage their employees to take an interest in the community, particularly through the chamber of commerce. If every call is made on the cards and every person is interviewed there will be no question of getting 400 memberships, out of a 1,000 prospects. You get just what you go after. The people don't come to you They want you to come to them. There will be no question about the success and outcome of the campaign if this is done."

Dr. Campbell then introduced the principal speaker of the evening, "Jimmie" Gheen, who, put the audience in good humor with a barrage of jokes, after which he gave as the five rules of success the following: "You can have in Norwich anything you want, providing you know exactly what you want. You must want ti hard. You must confidently expect to attain it. You must be persistently determined to attain it. You must be willing to make sacrifices for its attainment."

"The chamber of commerce is an institution. There are some people who have the idea that the chamber of commerce is on trial here. The chamber of commerce has proved its worth in cities. If anybody's on trial it is you. A city regardless of its size is only as large and as small as its men of prominence make it. The greatest need of the people is to raise the plane of living of the community," said Mr. Hoover. That is what the chamber of commerce is doing."

"In order to have this ideal city I spoke of you have to keep working. Some people don't understand that things must be done by cooperation. Things don't happen. Nothing works out all right unless you work it out. Only two per cent do any constructive thinking about the community," says Babson. You ought to have 2 per cent of the community in the chamber membership, who are willing to think about the community. You men have to educate the remaining number. If this community isn't prosperous, very few of you individuals will be prosperous."

"To have an ideal city you must eliminate thatw hich is not god for the city and anything that is bad. How are you going to have an ideal city unless you have ideal citiens? You must continue to have a chamber of commerce and a bigger one." As your chamber of commerce, so is your city," said the speaker. "What is the chamber of commerce? The best definition of the chamber of commerce is: A chamber of commerce is a community at work. If you have a chamber of commerce that does not contal nall the forces of a chamber of commerce it is that so much weak."

"Organization is the art of getting men to respond like thoroughbreds," said the speaker. "Bring in members and make them thoroughbreds. Think more about your city. That's what the chamber of commerce wants you to do. The great city of the future will be for a community of ideas. Your great job in the chamber of commerce is to see that everything is done that ought to be done."

"The five great principles of a successful chamber of commerce are these: An active working membership, adequate financial income, definite comprehensive programme of work, committee organization of control and a competent, trained executive," said Mr. Gheen. With your inspiration and these five principles you can make the campaign, chamber of commerce and city if you have the spizzerinktum.

How is your spizzerinktum? The word is an obsolete one meaning vim, intensive energy, the overmastering will. You will accomplish these things if you have the spizzerinktum."

In concluding his talk Mr. Gheen gave instructions to the workers on selling memberships, stressing the importance of not forgetting to call on the prospects. The speaker was warmly applauded at the conclusion of his address.

The meeting was adjourned after Carlton Young, in charge of the campaign, notified the workers to assemble at the Wauregan hotel at 9:30 this (Tuesday) morning to receive final instructions and to meet again at the hotel at 12:15 for presentation of subscriptions procured during the morning.

During the supper hour Monday evening there was spirited community singing under the leadership of Song Leader William G. Park, who called upon special groups for selections.

STOLEN CAR FOUND OFF CHESEBRO ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I. March 4—A Dodge roadster, owned by Lunson H. Clarke, "Captain Ted of the C. A. Root Yacht Torac," was stolen Monday night about 6:05 o'clock while parked on High street. Mr. Clarke saw his automobile pull from the curb and called to a police officer to intercept it. Lieutenant Champlin blew his police whistle for the car to stop as it was proceeding without lights over the Pawcatuck river bridge. He notified the police of Norwich, New London and the state police barracks. At 9 o'clock the car was found off the road in the mire in Chesebro road in the Bay View district in Stonington. Mr. Clarke was notified and went to Stonington to recover his property.

POLISH AMERICAN VETS OPEN PINOCHLE TOURNEY

The pinochle tournament to be conducted for five evenings by the Polish American Veterans was started Monday evening at Pulaski hall with a large number playing. It was inadvertently stated in that the series was being given by the Veterans of Foreign wars and due to the fact many of the players did not appear. These players will play next Monday night and will be entitled to the lowest score in last night's play.

The six winners for the evening were Mrs. C. Cooney, 7990; Miss J. Straub, 7970; Mrs. W. Pianko, 7330; Al Haffner, 8420; W. Stranc, 7690; Mr. St. Zawislinski, 7680.

WESTERLY DRIVER FINED IN LOCAL CITY COURT

John Lewis Buck, 28, of Westerly, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, was presented in the city court Monday morning and fined $200 and costs. A ten days' jail sentence was recommended by City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy in addition to the fine, but Judge Arthur Libby thought the fine sufficient in view of his previous good record. Buck was arrested Saturday evening near the plant of the Norwich Belt Co., on North Main street by State Police Officers Whitmarsh and Smith.

THEFT CHARGE NOLLED. FINED FOR INTOXICATION

In the city court Monday morning Edward Cooney, 66, of Cranston, R. I., was fined $5 on an intoxication charge and a charge of theft was nolled. The nolle was granted on the theft charge after the accused convinced Judge Arthur E. Libby that he would not have committed a theft had it not been for his intoxicated condition. Officer Albert Lamphere arrested Cooney Saturday morning after he had taken a three-pound box of cheese from the store of Mrs. H. Marcus on the West Side. The accused was not aware of his arrest until he woke up in the cell at police headquarters, he said in court.

VILLAGE SCHOOL USED AS MODEL FOR OTHERS

HAYS, Kas. —(AP)— One-half of more than 100 consolidated schools in western Kansas hav been copied from a model school in the litle village of Holcomb, which, at the time the school was established 10 years ago, had only a dozen homes, two stores and a bank.

The community was chosen as a typical place where a modern type of education was erpecially needed. The Garden City Sugar company owned most of the land and the tenants were mostly Germans, Russians and Mexicans.

Seven of the surrounding school districts were consolidated into a union district with the little village of Holcomb as the center. Bonds were voted and a large modern building immediately started. Twelve autos large enough to haul 30 pupils each were purchased for transportation to and from school. An important feature of the Holcomb Consolidated school is the school farm of 12 acres. Agriculture projects are carried on by students under supervision.

At Ashville Conference.

NORWICH TOWN

TWO SPECIAL SOLOISTS AT M. E. EVENING SERVICE

Two soloists assisted in the Sunday evening service at Norwich Town Methodist church. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter gave brief sketches of some of the popular and old hymns of the church. The hymns were then sung by the choir and congregation. Henry Ladd a violin soloist played "Mediation" by Massenent, "Adoration," by Dorowski, and "The Old Refrain," William Prothero, the boy soprano soloist of Christ Episcopal church sang, "Shepherd, Take Me By the Hand," by Ward N. Stephens and "The Hills of God," by Nevin. The hymn about which the pastor talked were, "O, For a Thousand Tongues to Sing," "A Charge to Keep I Have," "Into the Woods My Master Went," "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord," "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour," and "How Tedious and Tasteless the Hours."

"Paul The Man Who Made Good," was the theme of the sermon at the morning service the text, Acts 27:25, "Wherefore sirs, be of good cheer, for I believe God." The junior choir under the direction of Mrs. Lewis Aldrich sang an anthem. Mrs. Helen Hayland Potter told the children a story.

Frederick Ross was the leader at the Junior Epworth league service, also led in the discussion of the interesting topic, "How Would You Use a Whole Week In Which You Could Do As You Pleased?"

"Recruiting For Christ" was the subject of the C. E. meeting, which was led by Mrs. William Weaver. The attendance at all services of the day was very large considering the poor condition of the streets.

Scout Hike Successful.

Seventeen Scouts with Scoutmaster Rev. George Warren Potter left the parsonage Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for the 14-mile hike, a first class Scout requirements. At the end of the first seven miles the Scouts stopped and prepared dinner before starting on the return trip. The following Scouts passed the second class cooking test: Edward Smith, Wallace Wagner, Albert Phillips, Donald Olsen and Robert Ringland. Those who passed the first class cooking test were Clayton Rose, Arthur Bennett, Edward Smith, Richard Cormier, Harry Spicer, Edward Gallagher, Donald Waterman and Kenneth Kivlin. The Scouts who passed on the hike test were Arthur Bennett, Wallace Wagner, Albert Phillips, Edward Smith, Robert Ringland, Donald Olsen, Kenneth Kivlin and Richard Cormier.

Talk By Scout Commissioner.

One of the most interesting meetings held since the Scouts organized Troop No. 2, of the Methodist church was the verdict of the troop which gave such good attention to the speaker Friday night, when Scout Commissioner Arthur L. Peale was heard in an informing talk on "The Indians of Norwich."

The meeting was in charge of the scoutmaster of Troop 2, Rev. George Warren Potter, and opened with a bugle call by Robert Ringland. The opening ceremony of salute to the flag with the repeating of the scout oath and laws followed. Edward Eccleston gave a good report as the scribe and the treasurer, Wallace Wagner, also made a report. Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Smith led in a song period. Mr. Peale was accompanied by four of his scouts. There was an attendance of 25.

Many Cubs Advanced.

Following the meeting of Wolf Cub Pack of Scouts connected with the Methodist church Friday afternoon tests were successfully passed by Frederick Ross, Ellis Bentley, John Yetke, Charles Browning and John Gallagher. Compass test: Ellis Bentley and John Browning. Thrift test: and Ellis Bentley, first aid. The meeting was in charge of the cubmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter, who called the Cubs into the council circle for the Wolf Cub Howl. Ellis Bentley played assembly on the bugle. The regular opening ceremony followed. The assistant cubmaster led in a facing period, also in a semaphore test game. The usual song period was shortened to give more time to the story period. Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Smith, of the Boy Scouts, gave the second installment of a thrilling story which he began a month ago. For 15 minutes he held the close attention of the Cubs who at the finish gave him a rousing cheer.

C. B. C. AND KAPPA TEAMS WIN IN LAST NIGHTS CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES

Two of the fastest and most keenly contested games of the Church league were played last night at the local Y. M. C. A. court with the Kappa club losing out the Baltic Methodists, 29 to 27, and the C. B. C. five winning from the Phi Delta Nu club, 27 to 23. Both games were hotly contested from start to finish and the outcome of each was in doubt until the final whistle.

The P. D. N. team made a valiant rally in the final half of their game to overcome a seven-point lead that the C. B. C. had piled up in the first half. The P. D. N. team outplayed the Centrals in this last half but lacked the scoring punch to overcome the handicap.

The Kappa-Methodist game was much closer with the teams battling on even terms throughout. At half time the Kappas led by a 12 to 9 score but at the opening of the second half this lead melted as the Baltic boys fought to even terms. This was one of the best tussles of the season and more spirited basketball has not been seen at the local Y during the league.

BASKETBALL PLAYERS TURN OUT FOR BASEBALL TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, March 4—After finishing the basketball season against Rhody on Saturday, the workouts in Hawley Armory have turned to the diamond sport. Today's workouts for the 1929 baseball team saw the appearance of McCombe on the floor for his initial fling of the year. He was caught by Watsop, a varsity candidate for the past two years. McCombe is a Hartford boy, and bore the brunt of the pitching for the Aggie nine last season in which they had marked success.

Ray Ryan has yet to make his appearance due to an injury received in the game Saturday night. On examination by the club doctor, it was found that he suffered a severe sprain of his left ankle. He is expected out after a few days' rest of the injured member.

BIG DELEGATION GOING TO PLAINFIELD GAME

From Norwich, Taftville and Jewett City as well as Danielson and Putnam large delegations of basketball fans are planning to attend the Plainfield Pro-Brooklyn Visitation game at the Plainfield Community house tomorrow night. From a basketball standpoint this game far surpasses any game yet billed in the eastern part of the state this season. It is seldom that a place the size of Plainfield is honored by the appearance of one of the world's best basketball clubs, the Brooklyn Visitations are proclaimed to be the world's champions since the Original Celtics disbanded.

Plainfield through playing some of the best clubs in the country is becoming to be known as a thriving basketball town and the big league teams are seeking engagements with the Pros. Plainfield's community house will be taxed to its capacity tomorrow evening and extra seating accommodations are being made for the comfort of the large crowd of fans expected at the game.

WINDHAM-PUTNAM ATHLETIC RELATIONS ARE STRAINED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 4—Trouble between the Windham and Putnam high schools sporting circles loomed today when Coach L. L. Noyes of the Putnam basketball team communicated with Coach Thomas A. Callaghan of Windham to determine when the local five would go to Putnam to play off a return game which the local mentor had assumed was forfeited to Windham. While Coach Callaghan did not give any decisive reply to the query it is generally felt here that Windham will insist on a forfeiture of the game that was scheduled for Jan. 19 and which was called off by the Putnam mentor at that time. Since the scheduled game Windham has lost the valuable services of its captain, Walter Monast, and this fact will undoubtedly have something to do with Windham's standing in the matter. Putnam, which has lost but two games, ranks as a contender in the conference race. Putnam lost one of the games to Windham and the other to Chapman Tech. The defeat by Windham was by a score of 35 to 22.

RYAN ELECTED CAPTAIN OF AGGIE BASKETBALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, March 4—Ray Ryan, regular forward on the Connecticut Aggie basketball team, was unanimously elected here today to lead the 1930 five. Ray has played a consistent game all through his two years of varsity basketball and was the logical choice. He acted as captain through the first part of the past season, when Schildgen was out with an injury, and proved an able leader. Ryan today is the only three letter man on the Aggie campus, being outstanding in baseball and football as well.

Besides his athletic activities, Ryan is president of the Junior class, member of the Mediator, the inter-fraternity governing body, and is a junior member of the Student Senate. He hails from New Haven, where he starred in all branches of sport before matriculating here in the year 1926. The captain-elect is a member of the Theta Sigma Chi social fraternity.

AMATEUR FINDS PRO BOXER IS VERY TOUGH CUSTOMER

There is a story going the rounds that a certain local amateur boxer, who has quite a record, is not yet ready for the professional game at the present time. The story is that a few nights ago both the amateur and the professional were working out in the same gym when the amateur made a few wise cracks about the pro which got under the latter's skin. Words led to more emphatic words and these finally led to a real set-to. The boys battled for considerable length of time until they were pulled apart. It is said that the amateur came out second best in the argument and is convinced that he needs more experience before entering the pro ranks. As to the weights, it is said that the pro had a few pounds on his amateur opponent.

Y SENIORS PLAY PICKED NEW LONDON FIVE THURS.

On Thursday evening the Y. M. C. A. Seniors play the Mu Iotas of New London, a team which comprises the pick of the players of the house league of the New London Y. M. C. A. This game is one of two hard games that the local Y quintet has scheduled for this week, the Y clashing with the Saybrook Town team on Saturday evening.

For the preliminary to Thursday night's game the Y Emps will play the Gamma Rho five, leaders of the Church league.

KILLINGLY BEATS TOURTELLOTTE IN TWO OVERTIME SESSIONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 4.—Killingly defeated the Tourtellotte quintet in two overtime periods at the Killingly gymn tonight by the close score of 24 to 21. Tourtellotte's defeat was a complete upset to Eastern Connecticut basketball fans, being Tourtellotte's second defeat of the season. The climax came when Young of Killingly scored a field goal and a foul shot in the second over time. Tourtellotte high opened up in fine shape with two field goals by Bousquet and before the end of the first quarter they piled up eight points to Killingly's two. The second period still gave Tourtellotte the edge over Killingly with Bousquet and Johnson doing most of the work. The half ended in favor of Tourtellotte high 10 to 5. Young of Killingly put in a shot from the corner of the court in less than a minute after the beginning of the second half. Then Neilson followed with a field goal and a foul shot, tying the score and putting the fans in an uproar. Dascoll broke the tie with two field goals, but again the score was evened up by the shots of Chubbuck and Johnson of Tourtellotte. The score at the end of the thirdquarter was a 14 to 14 tie, Szafranski put in a shot which was closely followed by a sensational shot from mid-court by Johnson of Tourtellotte, making it even for the fourth time. The game went in the same fashion being tied twice before the end of the game, which ended 21 to 21. The coaches agreed on a two minue overtime period. Neither team could play any better than the other and the score at the end of the first overtime remained the same. There was one minute to play in the second period when Young put the ball through the hoop for Killingly. He was given two foul tries on a personal foul and he made good on one of them giving Killingly the game by three points.

The game was the most exciting witnessed in the Killingly gym this season. Carty and Sherry for Tourtellotte were out of the game tonight due to illness. In like manner Capt. Withey and McKeon of Killingly were missing from the lineup. The high scorer was Bousquet of Tourtellotte, who scored ten points while his teammate, Johnson, was a close second with eight points. Young and Dascoll took the laurels for Killingly scoring seven points each.

In the preliminary K. S. H. Seconds, defeated the Methodist Church team by the close score of 19 to 18. The summary:

SOUTHERN SUN HAS ITS EFFECT ON BALL PLAYERS

ATLANTIC, Ga., March 4—(AP)—Southern sunshine has had ample time to get in its effect today as major league baseball squads training in Dixie started a week or more and harder work.

John McGraw's Giants, pasturing over at San Antonio, Texas, found one workout insufficient and went back to the diamond later in the day for another long drill.

Lena Blackburne, chief of the Chicago White Sox, ordered an all day session at Dallas with lunch served on the field.

Buddy Myers, who not so long ago went to Boston but was brought back, agreeably surprised Johnson at Tampa, Fla., when he reported ready to work to the Senators. He was not expected for another week. Myers has played shortstop and third base in the majors.

The Phillies were struggling into camp at Winter Haven, Fla. They went through their first work during the morning. The entire squad will be on hand by Thursday.

Jack Hendricks divided his Cincinnati Redlegs for a practice game at Orlando with rookie pitchers doing the flinging.

At Fort Myers the Athletics regulars spanked the rookies for the second successive time this afternoon 19 to 4. In a full nine inning game.

Work was the order at the Cardinal's camp at Avon Park, with the arrival of the first contingent of infielders and gardeners. Manager Southworth laid heavy stress on the hitting game.

The Red Sox landed at their Bradenton, training quarters this morning, and had their first workout completed before noon. Bill Carrigan's hopefuls, some forty strong, presented a full roster on the first work day, with the exception of Ira Flagstead, veteran outfielder, and Benny Borgman, rookie infielder who are expected in a few days.

The Browns at West Palm Beach had only their usual early season workout, but Dan Howley warned them of the morrow. At that time, the remainder of the crew, including infielder and outfielders, will be in camp, and the first hard practice day of the spring is in prospect. Phil Ball, owner-president, will come with tomorrow's contingent. Walter Schang, veteran catcher, appeared in uniform today. The champion holdout man of the squad arrived yesterday.

ROY JOHNSON TO REPORT TO TIGERS AT ONCE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4—(AP)—The managers of the three major league baseball clubs in training out here paid no attention to "Blue Monday". Instead their features lighted up with broad grins.

Bucky Harris, whose Detroit Tigers are encamped at Phoenix, Arizona, mulled with probably the most gratifying news of the day, namely that his $75,000 outfielder, Roy Johnson had decided to report at once.

Johnson, purchased from the San Francisco Seals of the Coast league had been holding out for a part of the money paid for him. He was trying to get the money from the Seals but it is not believed he succeeded. The Tiger roster is now complete and will hold two workouts daily.

The Pittsburgh Pirates had a busy day at their Paso Robles, Calif., quarters. Although batting occupied most of the routine today, Manager Donie Bush was most pleased with the fact that Lee Meadows, The spectacled pitcher, appeared ready for a "comeback". Meadows' arm failed him last mid-season and he went on the voluntary retired list. Today he seemed loose and used his curve freely.

The progress of the Chicago Cubs holding forth at Santa Catalina Island, Calif., was reflected in a statement by Manager Joe McCarthy. "There is but little to correct after the two exhibition games of Saturday and Sunday," he said, "a little more work on stealing bases and double plays is in order but there is plenty of time for that yet."

Rogers Hornsby had his batting eye sharpened today, every one of his hits traveling to the outer reaches of the field.

COURTNEY FLATTENS TASSI IN FOURTH ROUND

After nearly three rounds of heavy walloping, Courtney drove a hard right to Tassi's stomach just before the end of the third. The Italian went down claiming a foul but the referee refused to allow the claim and went on counting until the bell interrupted him at the count of nine. Tassi's seconds carried him to his corner and worked over him during the intermission but he was unable to answer the bell at the start of the fourth round. The referee awarded the fight to Courtney on a technical knockout. Tassi was carried from the ring still protesting that the blow had been foul. Courtney weighed 166, Tassi 173 1-2.

In a six round preliminary, Sylvio Mireault, Montreal lightweight outpointed Joey Abrams of New York in a fast battle. Abrams was down for a count of seven in the final round. Mirsault weighed 134 1-2, Abrams 135.

Walter Peters of Germany and Ted Moses, New York Negro fought a draw in another six rounder. Peters weighed 148, and Moses 147.

YALE BEATS HARVARD IN CLOSE GAME

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 4—(AP)—The Yale varsity basketball team defeated Harvard tonight, 30 to 28, in a game which was won in the last half minute of play.

Linehan, center for the blue five brought victory to his team by sneaking the winning basket in as the final seconds were ticking off with the score 28 all. Up to taht time the last half was bitterly fought with Harvard making a desperate effort to overcome a slight lead that the Yale team had garnered in the first half. Success seemed to be with the Crimson for a moment when Sam Burns scored for Harvard putting his team out front by one basket. Cook of Yale knotted the count, however, and then Linehan came through with his decisive shot.

All through the first period, Yale held a lead of no less than three points and at half time the Crimson trailed 18 to 15.

Sam Burns, playing center instead of Upton, who was well covered by Yale in the early stages of the game, gave Harvard the necessary assistance to make the game appear to be either team's in the closing moments.

CROWN GALL IN APPLE NURSERY CONTROLLED BY NEW METHOD

Crown gall, a bacterial disease of root-grafted apple nursery stocks, often causes the nurserymen to lose from 25 to 50 per cent of the grafted seedlings. These losses can be greatly reduced by a new method recently developed by the United States department of agriculture which utilized one of the organic-mercury comopunds as the disinfecting solution instead of formaldehyde as in the former method of treatment.

Tests with the organic-mercury compound over a period of three years have shown it to be distinctly more effective than the formaldehyde treatment. In one instance reported, the new method proved 100 per cent perfect; no galled trees grew from the treated grafts, whereas 48 galled trees were observed in the same number of untreated trees.

The method of procedure in applying the control methods is described in Department Circular 376-C, just issued by the United States department of agriculture. The treatment consists, briefly, in dipping the uncut seedlings and scions in the disinfecting solution (1 part hydroxymercuricchloro-phenol to 40 0parts of water) and allowing them to dry before cutting for the grafting operation. Then the grafts are dipped in a freshly-made solution for 3 seconds, stored under cool conditions, and dipped again immediately before planting.

Since the first dipping, that is, the dipping of the uncut seedlings and scions, is by far the most important in control, it is suggested that the last two dips may be omitted and thus lessen the danger of reducing the stand of grafts in the event conditions unfavorable for growth should follow.

STUDIES OF POULTRY PARASITES SHOW WAYS TO PROTECT FLOCKS

Recent studies by parasitologists of the United States department of agriculture are of scientific interest and of practical value to poultry owners. Referring to a 10 per cent decline in the chickens of the 1928 hatch compared with that of the previous year, Dr. Eloise B. Cram, of the bureau of animal industry, raises these questions: Why this decrease in 1928? Was it due to casualties caused by accidents and disease, or the closing out of flocks, or the cutting down of their size by poultry raisers, and, if the latter, why this closing out or cutting down? Were diseases, and especially parasitic diseases, an important item?

In answer to these questions, Doctor Cram cites evidence showing that parasites have been making more serious inroads on the poultry industry of the country than is commonly realized, though losses are sometimes difficult to explain until scientific observations are made. "In general," says Doctor Cram, "the worm parasites of poultry seem to be causing greatly increased losses to the industries.

"A poultryman in Washington, D. C., for instance, lost 75 per cent of several hundred chicks from gapes. Investigation showed that this loss resulted from the use of one of the poultryman's fields, for about 24 hours, as a resting place for a flock of turkeys being driven overland. The chickens became infested by gapeworms left by the turkey flock. In addition to producing the noticeable symptoms of gaping, by obstructing the windpipe, gapeworms also weaken their symptoms by sucking blood.

"Tapeworms have been named as the cause of death of 50 per cent of the chickens in some Maryland flocks. There have been correspondingly heavy losses of domestic geese in Oregon from a closely related parasite. In addition to causing death, tapeworms bring about emaciation, reduced egg production, and more or less complete paralysis.

"Slender, threadlike worms in the crops of turkeys were found to have caused the death of three-fourths of the birds in a flock of 200 and the survivors were scarcely worth marketing. The gizzard worm, one of a general class of roundworms, is also serious because it attacks the walls of the gizzard and interferes with the food grinding function."

Doctor Cram points out also the close relationship of parasites of domestic poultry to those of wild birds. "The ever-present birds of the countryside," she says, "flying from one farm to another, or, on the other hand flocks of migrating birds, may leave behind them parasites which will later prove to be of economic importance."

The spread of poultry parasites involves in some cases a so-called intermediate host, scientific investigation shows. For the development of poultry tapeworms the hosts are earthworms, snails, slugs, and insects; for the fluke, which invades the oviducts of chickens, it is the dragonfly; for the eye worm it is a cockroach; for certain other parasites the host is yet to be discovered.

"Control measures to check inroads of parasites on poultry flocks," says Doctor Cram, "consist largely in sanitary equipment and management of flocks in such a way that the life of parasites is broken so that infection can not get back to the fowls. Prompt disposal of droppings from poultry houses, plowing up or scraping off the top soil of chicken yards, the use of a rotation system of yards, the judicious use of disinfectants, and providing sanitary feed and water containers, are some of the practical means of prevention.

"Even though poultry raising has been highly successful, it is unwise to relax precautions against parasitic foes of poultry. By increased attention and knowledge, the ravages of parasite enemies may be checked and poultry given a better chance.

OUTBREAK OF FOOT-AND-MOUTH TRACED TO CALF BUYER

In spite of the prompt and drastic veterinary action taken to suppress foot-and-mouth disease, which was discovered in Los Angeles county, Calif., Jan. 18, the infection has persisted, and on Feb. had affected a total of four herds, one near Whittier, two near Downey, about eight miles away, and now, the fourth, about 6 1-2 miles south of Downey. The spread of infection in the last instance was traced to a calf buyer who visited the premises.

Although a rigid federal and state quarantine is maintained over a considerable area surrounding the farms in which infection is found, the United States department of agriculture impresses on all livestock owners the importance of great care in excluding from their premises all possible carriers of infection.

"During the serious outbreak of 1924," Dr. J. P. Mohler, chief of the bureau ofanimal industry, in discussing this very serious denger, said, "calf buyers especially were often the means of spreading the infection of foot-and-mouth disease. When quarantine interfered with their visits to farms in a certain area, they would go elsewhere, carrying infection usually picked up by contact with a herd in the early stages of the disease before the symptoms were visible and consequently before such premises were included in close quarantine. It is especially important that stock-owners observe their personal and civic responsibilities in co-operating with the inspection forces which are seeking to suppress this dangerous, elusive plague."

"The quarantining of large areas," Dr. Mohler points out, "when only a few premises are suspected of harboring the disease would interfere with the personal and business affairs of large numbers of people, as well as requiring a large force of guards. Such drastic action is not necessary if stock owners will keep visitors—stock buyers in particular—out of their barns, pastures, and all inclosures used for livestock."

The first three infected birds have been slaughtered and buried and the same procedure is being followed to suppress the fourth thrust of the disease, which, however, is only about two miles from a highly developed dairy district. Although the infected premises are surrounded by woven wire and are under strict guard, department officials point out that two miles is a dangerously short distance when dealing with such a highly infectious malady as foot-and-mouth disease.

GOOD CARE OF PIGS WINS PORK CONTEST

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—By raising 24 pigs to produce 5,015 pounds of pork in 160 days, Anslem Rice, a Daviess county farmer, won the first pork production contest ever held in Kentucky and made a net profit of $207.83 above the cost of feed.

The pigs were raised on ground made free from parasite eggs by plowing previous to the time the sows were put into the lot. They never were allowed to return to the old hog runs.

From breeding to farrowing time the sows were fed ear corn and tankage. After farrowing, and until the pigs were weaned, the sows were fed ear corn, tankage and a brand of flour. The pigs were weaned when they were 8 weeks old, and put on a ration of corn feed meal, shelled corn, ground oats, tankage, skim milk and a home-made mineral mixture. During the latter part of the feeding period they were given a small amount of cotton seed meal.

In 1927 Rice won the national seven-litter contest with pigs that weighed a total of 2,008 pounds when 180 days old.

HINTS FOR THE FARM

There would be fewer losses from fires on the farm if buildings were rodded for protection against lightning. Records of fire losses from lightning in Iowa over a period of six years shows that 72 per cent of the total fire loss from lightning occurred in farm barns and houses, of which 60 per cent was due to fires in barns that were unrodded.

Live poultry for market should be fed generously just before shipping. If the birds are to be a day or more on the way, nail a tin can or two, filled with whole corn well soaked in water, in each coop. This will provide water and also cut down shrinkage during shipment.

If livestock are seen to shake their heads from side to side, they probably are infested with spinose ear tick. An effective treatment is a mixture of two parts, by volume, of commercial pine tar and one part cottonseed oil, applied by hand directly in the animal's ears. In cold weather the mixture should be warmed a little.

When beef cattle are to be finished on grass with supplementary feeds it is better to rough them through the winter on a ration of silage, straw and cottonseed or linseed meal, or on a hay and straw or stover ration with some protein meal in the absence of legume hay, and so save the grain for summer feeding on grass.

The use of lime is advisable on heavy soils in the garden, especially when green manure and cover crops are used to add humus to the soil. Lime should not be applied at the same time with either stable manure or mixed fertilizer. Applications of more than 1,000 or 1,500 pounds of lime to the acre should not be made unless a soil test shows that a large amount is necessary. Over-liming may be as harmful as a lack of lime.

HANDY INCINERATOR FOR DEAD POULTRY

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—(AP)—The only satisfactory and year-round method for disposing of dead poultry is to incinerate them, C. B. Hudson, poultry pathologist at the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, insists.

He finds that a handy incinerator can be made by punching holes through the sides of an iron barrel or drum, about half way up, and threading strong wires through these for an improvised grate. The dead birds are thrown in through the opening in the top and the lid closed. About once a week a wood fire is built in a fire box made at the bottom by cutting an oblong hole below the grate. The heat reduces the material to fine ashes.

EFFICIENT MAINE HENS BOOST EGG PRODUCTION

ORONO, Me.—(AP)—Efficiency is spreading among the hens of Maine.

Records of 52 poultry farms studied by Donald W. Reed of the University of Maine shows the average fowl now produces 142 eggs each year, as compared with 124 in 1922.

PUTNAM WILL NOT FORFEIT GAME TO WINDHAM HIGH SCHOOL QUINTET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, March 4.—"We have not and will not forfeit the Windham-Putnam high league game despite the claim of the Willimantic athletic board." This was Coach Laurison F. Noyes' reply to a Bulletin inquiry tonight relating to the veracity of the forfeiting of the Windham-Putnam league game by the Putnam mentor today. In Willimantic there is some controversy regarding the encounter between the two teams slated to be played at Putnam. Coach Noyes said tonight that he had been in conversation with Coach Thomas A. Callaghan of Wollimantic this morning in an effort to secure a satisfactory date to play the game, which will be the final match on the Putna mschedule this season. Willimantic was of the opinion tonight that Coach Noyes conceded the game to Windham by reason of a forfeiture. This fact Coach Noyes flatly denied, insinuating that he would give the matter an airing before the league officials if the Windhame high athletic board claimed victory by a forfeit.

Coach Noyes said that in the event Putnam should defeat Windham Friday night and continue their winning streak over Windhem a tie for the Eastern Connecticut championship between Chapman Tech and Putnam high would result, while on the other hand, if Windham takes the Putnam game by forfeit, Putnam's opportunity for a championship would be altogether lost. "We're not going to lose a chance for an even break unless we have to," was Coach Noyes' final statement.

WESTERLY

JURY PANEL IS SECURED FOR GENCARELLA TRIAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 4—The murder trial of Louis Gencarelli of Oak street, Westerly, was started Monday morning in Washington county superior court before Associate Justice Herbert L. Carpenter.

A number of matters on the attorney general's docket were the first to come before the judge. Sergt. Ernest Stenhouse and Trooper Ralph Bona of the state police kept the crowds gathered outside the courthouse away from the doors and steps. Only court officials, members of the bar, witnesses, relatives of the parties to the murder case and a few others with cases to be heard were admitted.

Attorney General Jackvony stated when the case of State vs. Edward Liotta was called, that by agreement the matter was continued to Tuesday morning.

George Larkin, of Pawcatuck came before the court for sentence on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas Brown, charging the creating of a false alarm of fire in Westerly on the night of election. The case came before the court on an appeal from the third district court in which a sentence of $10 fine and costs was imposed by Judge Oliver H. Williams. Mr. Jackvony recommended and Judge Carpenter imposed a deferred sentence, upon payment of costs.

Clifford Jordan and Herbert Waite, have been in jail since November, 1928, having been found guilty by a jury in November of a charge of breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling in the woods in South Kingstown. The attorney-general stated that since that time the owner of the property had been sent to jail on a charge of carnal knowledge and stated the crime of the two colored young men was not serious, although both had been in jail before. Judge Carpenter taking into consideration all facts, imposed a sentence of 15 months, the time already served to be deducted, and commitment to Providence county jail at hard labor.

The case against Charles Benson was continued to the April session.

Charles Turano, was before the court for sentence on a charge of reckless operation of an automobile when three autos were involved in a crash. The district court fine was $50 and costs and a similar fine of $50 was imposed by Judge Carpenter.

A capias was ordered in a liquor case pending since April 3, 1928.

Lloyd Albro, tried in February 1928 for drunken driving before Judge then called, Chief of Police Thomas E. Providence.

George E. McKinley, did not make his appearance on the charge of reckless operation of automobile which had been continued. The court directed that the papers be held.

Selecting a Jury.

The first degree murder case was then called Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown of Westerly vs. Louis Gencarelli. The accused was brought into court by Deputy Sheriff Fred Bull. His counsel, Anthony V. Pettine waived the reading of the complaint and the defendant in a firm tone pleaded not guilty.

On motion of Mr. Pettine the jurors were excluded from the court room to be brought in singly. The empanelling of the jury proceeded as follows:

Robert T. Downs, North Kingstown, was accepted and later excused on a pre-emptory challenge by M. Walter Flynn, junior counsel for defense. Samuel E. Whaley, Jr., South Kingstown, 26, farmer, was accepted although admitting that her had formed somewhat of an opinion by reading newspaper; Horace B. Gardiner, Exeter, 45, farmer and teamster was first accepted and then dismissed, on pre-emptory challenge from the defense. Robert M. Mills, Charlestown, a truckman, had formed an opinion from reading newspapers and preferred not to sit on case. Was accepted; Leroy S. Lampiear, South Kingstown, 38, second-hand in Peacedale mills, residing in Peacedale. Accepted and made foreman of jury; Arthur B. Carpenter, 56, farmer, South Kingstown, admitted being a "sort of constable in the town," accepted; Robert E. Loomis, 23, Avondale, formerly in employ of Alling Rubber company, challenged and excused; Isaac A. Allen, Narragansett, painter, not a firm believer in circumstantial evidence. Accepted; Arthur E. McShande, 28, North Kingstown, truck driver, Bellville. Accepted; Fred W. Gray, North Kingstown, assistant dyer, Lafayette. Accepted; Joseph A. Reese, 45, farmer, Hopkinton. Accepted; Frederick S. Sawyer, laborer, Westerly. Knew the slain man, Santo Gaccione. Excused by Judge Carpenter; Napoleon Ledoux, woodworker, had so much knowledge of Gaccione that Judge Carpenter allowed him to go off the panel; Louis Lillibridge, 26, farmer, South Kingstown, excused by judge; John T. Whitford, farmer, of Terryville, South Kingstown, accepted; George E. Eccleston, 36 weaver in silk, Carolina, accepted; George W. Spear, contractor, Westerly, had formed opinion, excused by judge; Frederick F. Camp, farmer, South Kingstown, accepted; Robert L. Palmer, farmer of Potter Hill was the last juryman to qualify and fill the jury box at 1.35 p. m. when the jury was ordered withdrawn and excused until 2.30 p. m.

The jury had not occupied the jury box for any length of time at the afternoon session when the motion was made and granted to take a view of the location of the shooting, at 4 Marion street. The sheriff and his deputies, attorneys, state troopers, Chief of Police Brown, members of the Gaccione family and the defendant Gencarelli took special automobiles for Oak street. The jury were taken in a bus and with the interested parties the ground was carefully gone over with Judge Carpenter.

At 4.15 p. m. the viewing party returned to the court house and the jury again filed into their jury box. Mr. Jackvony asked for an adjournment of court at 4.30 as this was his first view of the scene. Court was adjourned by Judge Carpenter and those under summons were notified to appear Tuesday at 10.45 a. m. The jury accompanied by court officers marched to the Hotel Martin for the night.

NOANK

BIRTHDAY DINNER GIVEN BY MISS LAFFARGUE

Miss Blanche Laffargue entertained friends at a dinner at her home on Riverside avenue, Saturday evening, in observance of her 13th birthday. The room was decorated and a fine dinner was served. She also received many gifts. Those present were: Miss Etta May Buddington, Miss Helen Laffargue, Miss Ruth Laffargue, Robert Lane, Robert and George Laffargue and Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Laffargue.

E. H. Park received a painful cut on his hand while at work in his market Saturday, the knife striking the top of his hand, a cut about one and one-half inches long resulting.

Frank Trahan has returned to East Greenwich, after spending the week-end with his family on Main street.

Kenneth Reid has returned to his home after spending a week in Ledyard.

Much excitement has been aroused among the basketball fans as to who will win the game this week when the Whirlwinds meet the Nuggets. The Nuggets seem to have a slight edge over the Whirlwinds by the way of experience, while the Whirlwinds have a fast passing team.

Keith Ebbetts, of New York, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ebbetts.

Mrs. Daniel McQuarrie is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Butson have returned home, after spending a few days with friends in Putnam.

Bernard Carson, of East Greenwich, spent the week-end at his home.

Thomas Buchard has returned, after a visit in Detroit.

Frank McDonald has returned to his duties at Newport, R. I., having spent the week-end at his home on Cedar street.

Miss Dorothy Rathbun, of Norwich, visited at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Henry Langworthy, over the week-end.

A Night with Dickens, given by the World Wide guild at the Baptist church, Friday, was very well attended. Rev. H. C. Suter, of Westerly, entertained with selections from Dickens. Orchestra selections were enjoyed and also a solo by George White, accompanied by Ada May Davis.

Won From Mystic

Noank Nuggets defeated the Mystic Shamrocks in the second game of the series, 20 to 20, Saturday night at Cosmos hall, before about 100 basketball fans. Each team has now won one game. They have not decided where the third game will be played. The game was fast and Mystic scored five points before Noank really started. K. Ebbetts then broke the ice for Noank and made a pretty one-handed shot. From then on it was the Nuggets' game. The score at the half time was 22-7, in favor of the Nurgets. The Nuggets did excellent passwork, short snappy passes that went through the Mystic defense easily. Keith Ebbetts was high scorer for the Nuggets with 11 points. Jess Long held the honors for the Shamrocks with nine points. Bert Patterson, and Babe Bracci also played well for the Nuggets. Referee, Fitzpatrick; scorer, Buddington; timer, Clark. The Nuggets' lineup was: Rf, K. Ebbets; lf, B. Patterson; c, B. Bracci; rg, H. Robertson; lg, Deveau. For the Shamrocks: Rf, Stewart; lf, Taylor; c, Jess Long; rg, O. Foote; lg, M. Foote.

When Harrison Morton Ward post, American Legion, held a meeting at the quarters in the Sawyer block, Friday evening, there was a good attendance. The new flag has arrived. After the meeting refreshments were served by Edward Morgan and committee.

Charles DeBlasi, of Sterling, spent the week-end at his home on Riverside avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren W. Park, of Newark, N. J., are spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Park.

James Rollins, of Springfield, Mass., spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Catherine Rollins.

STONINGTON

TOWN VOTES $6,000 TO COVER REVALUING PROPERTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, March 4—The annual town meeting was held at the town hall tonight with about 200 present. Selectman John Fribance was chosen chairman and Albert G. Martin clerk. A 25-mill tax was levied payable before April 1, 1929, and 3-4 of one per cent was voted to be paid for collection. Attorney John Gallagher of Westerly made a motion to have the present board of assessors, Charles Johnson, Ira F. Noyes and Robert L. Burke, and a committee of one from each district, appointed for the revaluation of the taxable property of the town of Stonington, which must be completed before Jan. 1, 1930. Representative Henry A. Stahle made a motion that the following committee be appointed to assist the assessors: Lorenzo G. Fairbrother, of the First district; Walter L. Main, Fourth district; Seth N. Williams, Third district; W. F. Walbridge, Fifth district and Fred D. Rogers, of the Second district. Mr. Stahle also made the motion, and it was carried, to appropriate $6,000 for the work.

Mrs. Frank D. Stanton and Miss Natalie Burgers entertained the Ladies' Aid society following the session in the church parlors Monday.

Services in St. Mary's church this week will be this (Tuesday) evening, sermon by Rev. J. F. Vincent of Westerly, and Friday evening stations of the cross. Children's service Thursday afternoon at 4 p. m.

PENDLETON HILL

Mrs. Annie Cook is spending some time with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Cook, of Carmholme, Stonington. Mr. and Mrs. Cook are moving from the big farmhouse on Miss Thurswood's estate to her cottage on the same estate.

Mrs. George Palmer has been spending the past week in Westerly with her sister, Mrs. George Gagnon, while her son, Ernest, has been undergoing a minor operation.

A merry party of a 150 or more friends and relatives, grangers and others, greeted Mr. and Mrs. John Geer on their 25th wedding anniversary Wednesday evening, Feb. 20, at Grange hall in North Stonington. Hill families were well represented. Among many other gifts, Mr. and Mrs. Geer were presented 25 silver dollars, as a token of regard from old neighbors and friends.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Sewing society was held Wednesday. Among others in attendance were Mrs. Clifford Thompson, whose school duties prevent her frequent attendance. Mrs. Thompson brought with her Mrs. John Geer and Mrs. Emil Gladfelder. The menu included: Salmon loaf with egg sauce, macaroni au gratin, pickled beets, rye bread, fancy cakes and coffee.

Miss Carrie Ryder is making but slow recovery from a severe attack of grip.

Mrs. Birdsey Palmer has again been confined to her bed with the same disease. Birdsey G. Palmer, Jr., is ill with the same malady this week.

Miss Amelia Palmer is at home from Willimantic for a week's vacation, in company with her father, she attended Governor Trumbull's reception and banquet Tuesday.

For the second week, Oswald Koestinen is confined to his bed with his foot and ankle in a plaster cast.

House plants flourish in many local homes. Notable is a large collection of begonias and ferns at Mrs. George Palmer's, Mrs. William Johnson's, Mrs. Clifford Thompson's and Miss Cecile Palmer's. Mrs. Henry Johnson, in addition, has a beautiful calla lily and Mrs. Koestinen has oleander and arbutelon. Mrs. Willis Almy is forcing tulips for Easter.

Herbert Tennant is suffering from eye trouble caused by his occupation of stone driller at the Bradford quarries. He is still under the doctor's care.

OBITUARY

Frank A. Palmer

The recent death of Frank A. Palmer at Long Beach, California, was sad news to many friends in this state and in Rhode Island. Mr. Palmer was one of a family of four, two sons and two daughters, who lived to adult age, children of Dr. Luther Averill Palmer, of Westerly and Providence, R. I. He had spent much time in the home of his grandfather, with his uncle, the late Robert Potter Palmer, at the Palmer homestead. As a young man he taught the Hill school, always and everywhere endearing himself to the children. Mr. Palmer married Miss Margaret Sabina Pendleton, a daughter of Capt. William Pendleton, of Westerly, and a step-daughter of Rev. Thomas Palmer, of Suffield, Conn., by her mother's second marriage. Since their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer have made their home in Springfield, Mass., and Long Beach, California. Mr. Palmer had a beautiful tenor voice and was highly regarded in social and musical circles. He retired from business some time ago, and found life in his lovely California home altogether pleasurable. He leaves his wife, who is in very feeble health. Until his death, Mr. Palmer was the oldest living grandson of Luther Palmer. His passing removes the last male descendant of a family in which there were seven sons and as many daughters.

Three members of this large family of grandsons have died in barely more than that number of months—Josiah Colbert Palmer, lawyer, of New York and Stonington; Edward Palmer York, architect, of New York and Stonington, and Frank Averill Palmer, musician, Long Beach, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thompson entertained several friends at an ice cream party Sunday evening.

The Hill school has been closed for a week's vacation.

PLAINFIELD

CALENDAR AND FLOWERS GIVEN AS MEMORIALS

The calendar and basket of flowers Sunday at the First Congregational church were given by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Butler in memory of their son Earle S. Butler. The C. Fear Effects of Hike.

NEW YORK (AP)—The rapid rise in the prices of copper recently has caused some misgivings among the trade. Although shipments in January reached a record volume, some users of the red metal are said to be dissatisfied with the present prices. German users, particularly, are reported to be reluctant to buy at the current levels, and are said to be seeking to revive some of the substitutes used during the war, or to invent others.

SERIES OF OVATIONS AT HOOVER INAUGURATION

figures in the events of the day, surrounded by members of their parties, were seated in the reviewing stand to receive salutes of the thousands who marched by in honor of a new president.

At the end of the trudging column passed a few minutes before 5 o'clock, then President Hoover invited into the white house the republican national committee, the members of the new and old cabinet, and the committees which arranged for the inaugural ceremonies. The meeting was for the purpose of exchanging greetings.

New Cabinet Takes Office Today

The new cabinet did not go into office with Mr. Hoover, it having been decided to withhold their nominations from the senate until tomorrow when a one-day special session will deal with them.

Tonight the president invited Mr. and Mrs. Mark Requa, of California, as their first white house dinner guests, and that informal function finished the first day of the presidential life of Herbert Hoover.

MAKES SOLEMN PROMISE TO ENFORCE ALL LAWS

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—Herbert Hoover entered upon the presidency today with a solemn promise to enforce the prohibition and all other laws to the extent of his ability and with a declaration that he coveted for his administration a record of having further contributed to advance the cause of peace among nations.

In terse language he told his fellow countrymen that the measure of success the government could attain in law enforcement would depend on the moral support which they extended.

"The duty of citizens to support the laws of the land is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist," he said. "No greater national service can be given by men and women of good will—who, I know, are not unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor.

"If citizens do not like a law, their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its repeal."

With a hope of improving present conditions, Herbert Hoover announced that he would appoint a commission to make a searching investigation of the whole question of law enforcement and to make such recommendations for reorganization of the administration of federal laws and court procedure "as may be found desirable."

(Text of the inaugural address is printed on Page 9.)

TROOPS OF CONNECTICUT OUTSTANDING IN PARADE

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—Up Pennsylvania avenue today from Capitol Hill to the white house the Hoover inaugural parade ran the relentless gauntlet of a drizzle of rain that drenched, though it could not dispirit, the marching host.

Not only did the drilled men of the regular army, navy and marine corps who followed Gen. Charles P. Summerall, grand marshal and chief of staff, display the disciplined contempt of weather, but also the civilian paraders, to the last man, woman, and Girl Scout, snapped into animation and attention as the reviewing stand and the presidential party loomed into sight.

Mist masked much of the aerial show, though flight after flight of heavy and light planes drove down out of the cloud banks, to circle the white house and flit back to base as the march began. Once, too, the navy dirigible Los Angeles dipped way down out of the fog cloak, attended by smaller army and navy dirigibles, and passed over the reviewing stands just at the moment President Hoover and his party came to their feet to receive the salute of a battery of artillery with mounted band and colors.

Troops like those from Connecticut—with horse, foot, and band, all arrayed in bright-hued replicas of Revolutionary war uniforms—threw out chests and straightened ranks at the "eyes right" command shouted to the marchers as the reviewing stand was reached. A Pennsylvania marching club kept on in tail hats and long tailed coats, though it sprouted red-white-and-blue umbrellas thoughtfully brought along for the occasion.

An American Legion outfit from Sharon, Pa., got into uniform slickers, as did a marching club from Erie county, New York, largely feminine, but most of the rest of the marchers refused to concede any point to the weather. Magnificent bearskin shakoes of New Jersey contingents, and lofty white plumes on Richmond Blues of Virginia were by unprotected, pitifully wet but unlowered.

A boys' band from Florida tooted mouthorgans through the rain, and a Girl Scout detachment, greeted with Mrs. Hoover's gleeful approval, detached a young leader who presented a bouquet to the new white house mistress, and got plentiful smiles in return.

It was a full two hours and a half from the time General Summerall's sword came down in the full swoop of salute to the commander-in-chief which started the review, until the last fife-and-drum corps man from Kansas ended the march, but President Hoover's smile was constant—important as the rain drip that veiled every minute of the procession.

"Nuisance" Traders.

NEW YORK (AP)—Several of the leading stock exchange houses have finally taken decisive action to protect themselves from the "nuisance" trader—that is, the clerk, stenographer or bootblack with $50 or $100 who has hopes of making himself rich in the stock market. It requires about as much clerical work to transact an order for one share of stock as it does for 100 shares. Commission houses say they have been losing money steadily on small orders and that their forces have been overburdened trying to handle them. Several are therefore making a minimum charge of $5 for transacting any order.

New Exchanges.

NEW YORK (AP)—New stock exchanges are springing up about the country like mushrooms as a result of the speculative frenzy of the past year. A movement is under way to form a second stock exchange in Los Angeles, to called the California Stock Exchange, although little can be learned as to who is back of the project. San Diego interests are said to be considering the formation of an exchange in that city. Several Buffalo brokers are working upon a plan to establish an exchange to specialize in Western New York securities.

Economic Principle Fails.

NEW YORK (AP)—Not always is the general economic theory that lower prices increase consumption to be relied upon. For several years the platinum market was controlled by a syndicate of Russian, Colombian, Canadian, South African and American producers. Two years ago the Russian government withdrew from the syndicate and sought to expand the use of the metal by slashing prices. The metal, however, is used primarily in making jewelry, is a "luxury product," and the effort was a failure. Russia is now expected to seek to realign itself with the syndicate.

HIGH LIGHTS IN THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP)—President Hoover's inaugural address bristled with epigrammatic statements. Here are some of them:

"We are steadily building a new race—a new civilization great in its own attainments."

"Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress."

"There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it."

"The duty of citizens to support the laws is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist."

"Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support."

"Those who have a true understanding of America know that we have no desire for territorial expansion for economic or other domination of other peoples."

"We not only desire peace with the world, but to see peace maintained throughout the world."

"Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense."

"The animosities of elections should have no place in our government for government must concern itself alone with the common weal."

"Ill-considered remedies for our faults bring only penalties after them."

"Ours is a land rich in resources; stimulating in its glorious beauty, filled with millions of happy homes; blessed with comfort and opportunity."

"No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose."

What Some Men Who Know Say About The Norwich Chamber of Commerce

DEEPER CHANNEL MADE POSSIBLE BY CHAMBER

The deepening of the Thames river through to this city was conceived and carried through to reality by the Norwich chamber of commerce. I don't think our citizens fully realize what a contribution to our commercial and industrial possibilities this one accomplishment is.

It has made us a seaport and made the seven oceans part of our front door yard. It has made it possible for us, through the competition of water freight rates with rail, to get a much more favorable tariff on commodities either going out or coming in and that is a major consideration with certain industries of the type that might be interested in this city.

Cities like Pittsburgh and Chicago are spending millions to secure what we have gained for a song. Perhaps the reason we do not more keenly appreciate this advantage is that we got it too easily.

LUCIUS BRIGGS.
Coal Merchant.

DESERVES FULL MEASURE OF SUPPORT

"Every ambitious citizen realizes that it is only through united cooperative endeavor that community development is attained. The medium used for combined expression magnifies the force of every effort in proportion to the numerical strength of that medium.

The Norwich chamber of commerce is the one non-partisan community-wide civic organization having a definite purpose and responsibility for the commercial economic and industrial development of this city. As such it deserves in full measure the united and liberal financial support of every citizen. "In unity there is strength."

I heartily endorse your program for expansion and urge everyone to join the chamber at this time."

LEE ROY ROBBINS,
Mayor of Norwich
Attorney.

WILL CREATE MORE BUSINESS

"When I agreed to accept the job of lining up the sales organization for the expansion drive of the chamber of commerce, I was well aware the task was not an easy one but I was more than pleased to accept, for as a citizen I wanted to do my part to make it an organization that will be a real force for the advancement of the city, and I firmly believe that every citizen wants a real, live, active chamber of commerce.

In order to have such an organization that will properly function, it certainly must have funds to carry on the work. I believe an aggressive chamber of commerce will create more business for every business man in the community."

F. R. MURDY,
Insurance Manager.

HAS DONE MUCH GOOD

In his letter addressed to Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, general chairman of the chamber campaign committee, Mr. Van Wagenen says:

"The chamber of commerce is to be congratulated in securing you as general chairman for the campaign soon to start. I feel highly honored to be associated with you on the campaign executive committee and accept your appointment. Just how much good I can do your committee is problematical, in view of the fact that this campaign is coming at rather a busy time.

"You may be assured however that I shall be very glad to serve as best I can, as I feel that a chamber of commerce is needed and that they have done much good work."

ALBERT G. VAN WAGENEN,
Manufacturer.

CHAMBER ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

"The question at issue in the present campaign to finance the chamber of commerce doesn't turn on whether we are to have a chamber or not. That would be silly. Any thinking man knows that such an organization is absolutely necessary in a progressive city.

"The question is, are we going to have just a kind of one or are we going to put man power and money power behind it to such a degree that it may render a first class service in the promotion of Norwich?

"I am heartily in accord with the present movement designed to enable the chamber to carry into effect a most valuable and appropriate programme of work."

ARTHUR M. BROWN,
State Attorney.

WORTH WHILE PROGRAM

"There never was a truer statement than the one to the effect that a city is known by the kind of a chamber of commerce it keeps. That is the barometer of civic pride and progress. A poor, starved, struggling chamber of commerce indicates that the city where it is trying to function has lost community vision.

I like the present movement of the Norwich chamber of which you are the general chairman, because it has projected a program which is worth while, and because it is asking for enough budget to enable it to be a first class organization doing a first class job."

E. O. RODIER
Insurance Manager.

RESULTS COMMENSURATE WITH INVESTMENT

"As a past president of the Norwich chamber of commerce, I am heartily in accord with the present activities designed to increase its usefulness to the city.

The chamber has accomplished many worth-while things but it cannot of course do everything everybody thinks it ought to do. No organization to my knowledge claims that distinction. I believe that with the means available in the past and the support given in time as well as money, by many of our business and professional men we have attained an enviable record for a city of our size.

I understand that this year's budget has not been increased materially over that of last year. The reason it appears so is because of the consolidated campaign for the chamber and the merchants bureau. Every item of proposed expense has been carefully gone over by at least two committees and by the board of directors and several items have been reduced that I think might justifiably have been increased.

When one considers the amounts invested in community promotion by other cities of similar size and nature we can conscientiously claim a modest proposal.

I feel sure that the citizens of Norwich will rally to the support of this important phase of our community life as they often have in the past, to the end that Norwich may grow and prosper and thereby become a bigger and better city, in which to live."

JAMES L. CASE,
Real Estate and Insurance.

STANDS FOR PROGRESS

"I believe that everyone living in the town of Norwich would like to have Norwich stand for something progressive in every line of endeavor, so that whenever the name was mentioned it would be said, "there is an ideal place in which to live."

The chamber of commerce is trying to accomplish this very thing and in the new program the community publicity plank is for that purpose. It doesn't contemplate any wild expenditure either of money or objectives, but it does propose to present a summer booklet setting forth the attractions of this city and section, the erection of more road signs, printed matter advertising the city's economic advantages, and an intelligent and persistent scheme of publicity.

If more people know of our natural attractions here, of our favorable economic and industrial situation and the spirit of our community, it is reasonable to believe that more people would come here."

SHEPARD B. PALMER,
Engineer.

TO KEEP NORWICH IN FRONT LINE

"Any organization depending on the public for its funds must justify its existence and its appeal for support by its records of achievements. In the present campaign for the expansion of the programme and budget of the Norwich chamber of commerce the record for the past several years is being brought to the attention of the citizens of Norwich in an account of its stewardship. I believe that anyone who will take the time to go over the record and try to fix the dollars and cents value of the work done will say that now is the time for projecting a much more ambitious programme in order that Norwich may keep her place in the front ranks of Connecticut cities. I am heartily in accord with the present movement."

HAROLD D. LARRABEE,
Manager Public Utility.

WANTS ALL TO SHARE RESPONSIBILITY

"The Norwich chamber of commerce is an organization worthy of every business man's support. If I did not believe this I would not have accepted the presidency and be giving of my time from my business at a personal loss. Just in proportion as we support and work for the chamber of commerce personally, just in the same proportion will Norwich grow industrially and commercially. Much has been done. There is much more to be done and too much at stake for any of us to be pikers now. We must fight together to hold what we have and work hard to keep things expanding. That I can work best and most effectively through an organization is my reason for accepting official responsibility in the chamber of commerce.

For this I seek no personal credit, but feel justified in asking others equally interested to share in support and responsibility. The present programme and budget expansion campaign of the chamber gives each one of us an opportunity to get behind a progressive and constructive programme for the industrial and commercial advancement of Norwich."

JOSEPH C. WORTH,
President C. of C.
Manufacturer.

NORWICH MUST BE FORTIFIED

"American cities today are vitally concerned in their civic commercial and industrial growth. Huge sums are being expended in industrial promotion, community advertising, and civic improvements such as airports, recreation facilities, conventions and tourists, housing, new hotels, etc.

The competition between cities is becoming acute—business men who are vitally concerned in their prosperity are keen to appreciate these facts.

Many of us here in Norwich realize that we must be fortified in order to maintain our position. The chamber of commerce is the one and only organization equipped to cope with this situation and the citizens of Norwich are the only ones who can support it.

"As it is non-sectarian, non-political, and democratic in its principals, every business and professional man or woman who has the future welfare of the city at heart will be found enlisted on its roster at the close of the campaign.

The movement is most commendable and I most certainly lend my endorsement."

WILLIAM G. PARK,
Mill Owner.

BULL FACTORS FAILED IN EFFORT TO ESTABLISH RALLY IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—Inauguration day on the New York stock exchange provided little cheer for "bull" traders today as the market sold off sharply after several ineffectual attempts to bring about a general rally.

Several reasons were advanced for the reactionary price movement, some observers attributing it to the tradition "selling on the good news" following the publication of the Hoover inaugural address. While others regarded it as reflecting speculative disappointment that the address had failed to come up to earlier forecasts.

Revolutionary disturbances in Mexico and the prospect of a further hardening of money rates before March 15 also were given as adverse market factors. Call money held at 8 per cent all day. With between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 in loans called. Prime commercial paper was somewhat firmer. Reviving fears of an early increase in federal reserve rediscount rates.

The monthly report of stock exchange member loans, issued after the close of the market, showed a total of $6,678,545,917 at the end of February, a decrease of $56,618,326, compared with the end of the preceding month. At the end of February 1928 the loan total was $4,322,578,914.

There was little in the day's business news to influence the price movement. Dividends were inaugurated on National Tea new stock at the annual rate of $1.50, equivalent to $6 on the old stock which paid $4 annually, and on International Nickel new at the annual rate of 80 cents, equivalent to $4.80 on the old, which paid $3. Heavy over-subscription was reported for the new Kolster-Brandes, Limited, stock offered here and in London today.

American Express, which established a new high record at 230 last week, broke 25 1-2 points to 302 on a couple of sales. Allied Chemical and Motor Products each lost 10 points. General Electric 8 1-2 and A. M. Byers, Goodyear Tire, Montgomery-Ward, Radio corporation (old) and Wright Aeronautical closed at net declines of 5 to 7 1-4 points.

Packard Motors turned reactionary on the announcement of a price cut for the company's 8 cylinder cars, but Chrysler was run up more than 5 points at the expense of an overcrowded short interest, but lost nearly half its gain. American Bosch Magneto moved into new high ground. U. S. Rubber attained a new peak at 64 and then eased to 61, off 2 1-4 net.

Stocks of copper companies operating in Mexico, namely American Smelting, Howe Sound and American Metal, were under pressure, but the losses were held at a point or two. Kennecott changed hands in large volume, touching a new peak at 95 1-2 and then easing to 93, up 1 1-4 net, such recent pool favorites as Bethlehem Steel, Columbia Graphophone, International Combustion, Spicer Manufacturing and Westinghouse Electric lost 3 points or more.

Rails, which were heavily bought last week on rumors that the Hoover inaugural message would recommend early legislation to facilitate railroad consolidations, fell back when publication of the message disclosed no such reference. Canadian Pacific, New York Central and Atlantic Coast Line each lost 3 points or more and Atchison, Southern Pacific, Frisco common and a number of others fell back a point or more.

Foreign exchanges moved irregularly lower, Japanese yen breaking nearly 40 points to a new low at 44.25 cents and Spanish pesetas dropping 11 points to a new low at 15.14 cents. Sterling cables held steady around $48.5 1-4.

Except for declines of a cent or so a bushel in grain futures the commodity markets developed little of interest. Cotton futures closed 13 points higher to 5 points lower and coffee dropped 7 to 22 points, with little change in sugar prices.

RULES FOR YOUNG WRITERS

1—Write plainly on one side of the paper.
2—Use pen and ink, not pencil.
3—Short and pointed articles will be given preference. Do not use over 250 words.
4—Original stories or letters only will be used.
Write your name, age and address plainly at the bottom of the story.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

With You.

I'd rather be with you
Than anyone.
I meet with others, too,
From sun to sun,
Who pass the time of day.
Some are so bravely gay!
They smile my blues away.
. . . But still I'm It's true . . .
I'd rather be with you!

I'd rather talk to you
Than anyone.
And yet your words are few
You're not much fun!
Though others have more wit,
I won't acknowledge it,
But truthfully admit
(If you but knew!)
I'd rather be with you!

I'd rather be with you
Than anyone.
You hold no crazy view,
You make no pun.
You're restful as the skies
That mirror your clear eyes.
You're plain, and kind and wise,
Love you? I do!
I'd rather be with you!
—Anne Campbell, in the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Snow Forest.

Only the snowshoes whisper
Upon the marbled hill—
No gong of foot, no whistling wing
Wakes white echoing;
The thousand trees are still,
Only the snowshoes whisper
Upon the hill!

The wall of some high door
Clanged at your heels. All sound
Beyond its white lies bound;
Silence alone is free!

Pause here awhile and you
Shall be of silence, too,
Merged with stone and tree
In the mold of a white floor.
You shall watch the lavender
Tree shadows, how they do not stir,
And how the unreaped leaves have carved their gold
Against the cold.

Only the snowshoes whisper
Upon the marbled hill—
The hush hangs white, unbroken.
Listen for what is spoken
When all the words are still
Only the snowshoes whisper
Upon the hill.
—Frank Ernest Hill, in "Stone Dust."

The Polite Visitor

I feel polite, outside the door;
But when it should begin,
I can't remember Not to ask if just their Cat is in.

And if the Sun should sprinkle through
Along the floor that way,
I can't remember what I do
If I am Urged to Stay.

And when I've shaken hands all round,
—No matter how I try,
I can't remember Not to go
And Kiss their Dog good-by.
—Good-by,
—Good-by!

Yes, thank you, please.—They're Very Well;
—I think I'd better go.
Yes, thank you, please. I'm always late;
My Mother told me so.

Yes, thank you!—If I Have to Bring
A message,—yes, I'll come;
—And if your Bird will only Sing;
—And when your Cat is home.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

During the past few days Uncle Jed has received an unusually large number of letters from the members. In most cases the writers have conformed to the rules, while, in some, letters are sent in improperly. Several letters have been received without addresses and these were worthy of a prize. Uncle Jed can not give prize books to writers who do not follow the rules, even though the letter may warrant it. Two especially good letters were received the other day but the addresses were lacking. Try to observe the rules, as set forth at the head of this page and make it easier for those concerned. Be sure and read these rules before writing your next letter and it may mean a prize book for you.

WINNERS OF PRIZE BOOKS.

Sybil Keach, Putnam—Little Woodcrafters' Fun on the Farm.

Helen Paolilli, Moosup—The Girl Scouts Triumph.

Edward J. Swyden, Mystic—The Moving Picture Boys.

Estelle Brunelle, Norwich — The Camp Fire Girls in the Woods.

Mike Kudravetz, Norwich—The Auto Boys Big Six.

Hyman Goldberg, Norwich — A Young Inventor's Pluck.

Dorothy I. Miller, Norwich—The Girl Scouts at Home.

Bernice Watrous, Mystic — The Camp Fire Girls on the March.

Winners of prize books living in Norwich may obtain them by calling at the business office this morning.

LETTERS OF ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Sybil Keach, Putnam—I thank you very much for the book you gave me. It is entirely new to me as I had not heard of the series before.

Florence Hnizdo, Willimantic — I thank you for the book. It was very interesting.

Mike Kudravetz, Norwich—I thank you very much for the two books I won. They are very interesting.

Esther Watrous, Mystic—I was pleased to get a book. I thank you very much for it.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Industries of Putnam.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am telling you about the industries of Putnam. Putnam is a small town, but it is very industrious for its size. It has many mills and factories.

The Belding Hemingway is a silk mill. It is on Providence street where Main street joins Providence. Sewing thread, and hosiery silk are manufactured. The Belding comoany has 200 or 400 people working for it.

On Main street is the Adams cotton mill. This mill makes draperies and curtains. Cotton cloth has an important part in the manufactures of the mill.

Edward Bloom and company manufacture silk cloth, georgette, crepe-de-chine, and also silk sewing threads. Surgical thread is made here, but not as much as the other manufactures.

The National Rhea is on Canal street. This mill makes rayon silk. It does not manufacture rayon cloth, only the rayon silk. Some of the material used in making this is gotten from Japan and looks like very long grass. About 125 employes are used here.

On Pomfret street is the Putnam Woolen mill. Woolen yarn is manufactured, and tweed cloth. It is one of the leading manufactures.

The Putnam foundry on Mechanic street makes the Putnam heaters and radiators. The foundry has its offices in Worcester and Providence where the heaters are stored.

There are also the pin factories, Wheaton Building and Lumberine Co., the Dedy Silk mill and the Eureka Silk mill.

I will not tell you about these this time as I have already written enough.

Her First Letter.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I am writing to the Wide-Awakes. I would like to be a member of this circle. I am going to write you about my trip to New York last Christmas. We went by car, as you know it is a long trip. We passed through all the large cities of Connecticut. We stopped at the nicest restaurants to eat, because I was always getting hungry.

I go to school and I am in the third grade. We have 18 pupils in our school. I have many friends where I live and so I enjoy myself.

An Adventure.

Dear Uncle Jed: It was on a bright summer day when my friends, Gladys, Mary, Walter, and Ernest and I decided to go on a hike.

We packed our lunch and soon were off. My friends and I talked, told jokes, and did many other things which we enjoyed.

At last Mary said, "I felt a drop of rain. I bet it's going to rain."

"You just imagined it I guess," said Walter.

But sure enough it began to rain. "Where shall we go?" asked Ernest. "I see a house in the distance and I think we can get shelter," said I.

At last we reached the house and found it empty and deserted.

"We can eat our lunch in here," said Gladys.

Then my friends and I began to eat in silence. All of a sudden Ernest said quickly, "Look, look," and he pointed near the window. We did and to our astonishment we saw two gypsy men pass by the window, but to our good luck they did not enter the same room.

After a long time of silence Mary dropped a glass and the men had heard.

We heard the gypsies talk in a whisper awhile and then leave the house. We were very glad to have them go and at last it stopped raining so we continued our hike.

My Pet Dog and Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second letter to you. I will tell you about my pet dog and cat. The dog is a Japanese chow, small with short, curly, red hair, very pretty and becoming. We call it Buddy. My cat is large with silky black fur. I call it Blackie. They are very friendly, always playing together, the dog lapping the cat and cleaning his fur, and the cat, doing the same to the dog.

I think it very strange for a dog and cat to be so friendly, as they are most always enemies.

Hoping that my little pets will interest you I will close for this time.

First Fishing Experience.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my second letter that I have written to you. I hope the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story. The name of my story is My First Fishing Experience.

One night my brother asked me if I wanted to go fishing tomorrow morning. I said I would like to go. He said I would have to get up at 4 o'clock in the morning.

I went to bed at 9 o'clock very excited because it was my first fishing trip. I got up in the morning at 4 o'clock. My brother was waiting for me with the fishing rods and the bait.

We got to the pond at 5 o'clock. My brother put in his fishing rod and I did the same. We waited for a while and then my brother caught a small fish. I waited anxiously for a bite. Then all of a sudden I felt a jerk on the line. I pulled and pulled until I finally pulled out the fish. It was a pickerel. I was very happy to think that I had caught a fish. My brother caught some more fish and we went home.

We had fried pickerel for dinner. It was my fish. It tasted better than any other fish I had tasted. It was because I caught it.

His Chickens

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time that I ever wrote to you. Now I am going to tell you about two chickens that I have. My chickens I have named. One is Beauty and the other is Buttercup. I did have a rooster that was such a fighter that I called him Jack Dempsey.

Our Reading Club

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about the Reading club we have in school.

Every Friday we have reading club. We have a president, vice president, treasurer, secretary and a librarian. First the president calls the meeting to order. Then the secretary, treasurer and librarian make their repots. Next we have the roll call. Each child answers by telling what book they are reading. Then if there is no other business we have the program. Some children read poems or sing a song. Others make book reports and read interesting parts of stories they like. At the end of the program the meeting adjourns.

Each child pays two cents a week for dues. From this money we have bought 14 new story books for our club. I hope you and all the Wide-Awakes will enjoy hearing about our Reading club.

Likes Sliding

Dear Uncle Jed: I am 8 years old and go to school every day with my sister and brother. We have to take the trolley to and from school. I'm glad that there is some more snow on the ground, because I like to go sliding.

Nearly Hit by Train

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I am writing to you, and I hope you will like this story.

Last summer we were on the grass playing. As we were thirsty, we crossed the railroad tracks and got some water. Coming back my friend went ahead of me. As I was following her the train came around the bend. I was so frightened I didn't know what to do. When the train was quite close I decided to cross the tracks. Just as I crossed the train whissed by. It came by so fast that it almost hit me in the foot. My mother was so scared that she gave me a licking. Don't you think I deserved the licking and ought to be more careful after this?
JOSEPHINE SUPLICKA, Age 10.
Norwich.

The Elephant

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the elephant. There are two kinds of elephants—the African elephant and the Indian elephant. The elephant is the largest of land animals. It has been known to live from 100 to 400 years and weighs 6,000 to 8,000 pounds. Its height reaches 10 feet, its length from 13 to 16 feet. Its thick wrinkled skin is covered with a few hairs. The eyes are small, the ears are large, and its nose is prolonged into a long trunk. In the upper jaw of the male animal are two tusks which are from three to six feet long and from 30 to 70 pounds in weight. These furnish valuable ivory. The tail is long and has at its end a tuft of coarse bristles. The elephant is a native of central Africa.

A Close Shave

Dear Uncle Jed: Last winter when I was sliding on a hill, I had lots of fun. I was going down the hill. A dog ran after me. They call him "Nigger." He jumped on my back and we went down. He likes rides as well as any boy or girl does. Every time I went down he jumped on. I went up the hill and he was at the bottom of the hill. I went down. A truck was coming up. The sled was broken and I could not stop it. I went under the truck. I made it go to one side. I just missed the hump on the neck of it. Then I went home.

Nutting

Dear Uncle Jed: One bright sunny day in October I went nutting. I took my dog Prince with me. I took lunch for the both of us.

We went into the woods. My dog was smelling the air and he gave a quick jump forward and ran over the stones in the woods. I followed him. He came running back with a young rabbit in his mouth.

I said "Prince, let the rabbit go." He obeyed me and let the rabbit go. He made an attempt to go after it, but I held him back. That day we picked a lot of nuts. On the way home I was greeted by my brother, who helped me bring the nuts up the steps.

An Autobiography

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I am writing to you. My story is entitled "The Autobiography of a Silver Dollar."

When I came out of the mint in Philadelphia I was bright and shining, and was very proud of myself. I was carried to New York with a number of my brothers and sisters and I was taken from the bank there by a rich man. He gave me to a beggar who thought a great deal of me. One day he bought some bread from a baker and gave me to him. The baker gave me to his wife and she put me in her pocket. She did not know that she had a hole in her pocket, but I did, and soon I was rolling away until I fell through a crack in the floor, where I stayed for about six years, when the bakery was burned down, and a little girl found me. She kept me until one day she dropped me into a pit, where I am to this day.

A Fright I Had

Dear Uncle Jed: It is a long time since I have written to you and I sincerely hope you will like my story, "A Fright I Had."

It was while I was on a visit during vacation at Grandmother Sue's. Everything went well for a few days until one night when it was very hot. I could not fall asleep. At last I closed my eyes, but not for long, for I was awakened by a noise. I got up and looked around and saw a ghostly figure doing something in my closet. I was taught to be brave and did not scream. I got up softly and tiptoed down to grandfather's room. I awoke him and he accompanied me to the bedroom. We went softly toward the figure and saw that the person was hiding a great many jewels in a secret panel. By that time we saw and knew that the person was grandmother. Later she told us that she had a dream that some burglars entered the house, so she got up and hid the heirlooms.

Saved

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I'm writing, and I hope you will like this story.

One summer day it was so hot that I went swimming with my brother. When we got there, there was a lot of boys. It was low tide so we went in the middle. It was up to my stomach. I did not know how to swim. We had a lot of fun. We played cannonballs and other games. When we were coming out I went into the channel instead of going where it was low. I went down twice. I was about to go a third time, but my brother caught me. I laid on the grass. I got sunburned. After that my brother and I went home.

Honesty is the Best Policy.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about something very interesting that happened to me. Last night while sitting around the table we started to talk about honesty. As I sat there listening I realized all the things I had done in school that were not honest. That night I went to bed making a new resolution. The resolution was "Honesty is the Best Policy." The next morning I went to school. During my geography lesson, the teacher asked me a question I did not know. While I was standing there thinking the boy next to me whispered the answer. I was about to repeat it to the teacher when I remembered my resolution. "Honesty is the best policy."
HYMAN GOLDBERG.

Valentine Day Programme.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the Better English club of the sixth grade. For Valentine's day we planned a program for the fifth, seventh and eighth grades. About two weeks before Valentine's day we wrote an invitation to the seventh and eighth grades asking them to come to our program given by the sixth grade. They answered it and said they would. When Valentine's day came they came into the assembly room. First we held our meeting to give them an idea how we run it. Next we had a violin selection played by two boys. Then we had a play named "The Comic Valentine." The president of the club recited a poem. We had another play named "Choosing the Queen." Next was a piano solo which I played. Then we told our guests to march to the room and they would be given a Valentine favor.

The day before we made baskets out of red crepe paper. We filled them with candy. The program lasted half an hour. With best wishes to Uncle Jed and the Wide-Awakes.

Wanted to Earn Money

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the third letter that I have written. I hope that you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy it. It is about how Eric earned his money.

Eric was a boy of nine years. He heard some boys talking about earning money. He also wanted to earn money.

One day after he came home from school, he asked his father for some work. Father thought a minute and then said: "I will give you some work, but you must do it right."

Eric set to work. He often got tired. Every ten minutes he sat down to rest. But finally he finished it. He told his father that his work was done.

He expected his father would give him the money right away, but he did not. His father said, "You must write a bill and give it to me. It must tell how much I owe you." Eric sat down and wrote:

Yorktown, Va
Feb. 19, 1929

Dear Father:
You owe me a dollar for my work.
Yours with love,
A ERIC

He received his pay and thanked his father.

My First Ride on Skiis

Dear Uncle Jed: I will tell you and the Wide Awakes about my first ride on skiis.

A couple of weeks ago when the snow was good for sliding or skiing my brother said, "I'll bet you a nickel that you can not ski." I said, "Alright, I will bet you a nickel that I can ski." So I started to make skiis. I took two barrel staves and nailed strags on them. On the back I rubbed some wax, so it would be slippery. Then all was ready. I went up the hill which was in back of my house and put them on. At first, when I put them on, I fell down. The next time I fell again but the third time I succeeded in standing up. Then I started to go down the hill. All went well until I nearly reached the middle. There I lost my balance and went head over heels, the rest of the way down. When I came back I gave my brother my nickel and said that I would not go skiing any more.

Trip to Park

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write about my trip to Roger Williams park in Rhode Island. We left home in the morning, going by auto and arrived at the park around 11 o'clock. We drove into the park and found a nice shady spot, where we sat down and ate our lunch. Then we drove over the different drives in the park, stopping and looking at the different animals, among which were a great many monkeys, three different kinds of bears, four buffaloes, some elks and deer, also sea lions and alligators as well as geese, ducks and swans. We admired the flowers very much of which there were very many varieties. The flower beds were laid out beautifully. It was getting late and we had to leave for home and so my day's pleasure was ended.

The Scorpions

Dear Uncle Jed: Have you and the Wide Awakes ever heard of the scorpions that live in the deserts?

There are quite a number of them in the deserts in California. They are very poisonous and are light green in color. They live in holes in the ground and are about the size of a small crab. They have two claws something like a crab, which they hold out in front of them when they walk, and have long stingers that curl up over their backs.

They go very slow and come out nights mostly.

One time when we were living near Brawley, California, my father found one very early one morning before he had time to get back in his hole. He brought it to the house and showed it to us.

He took it up on a hoe.

Our Picnic

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first letter I have written to you and the Wide Awakes, and I hope you will enjoy reading it.

One pleasant Saturday afternoon we thought we would like to have a picnic. We went home to get some food. Some got doughnuts, some bread sandwiches and jam. We started out and took a small table along to eat from. We walked to the place where the picnic was to be held, not very far away from home, and settled our things. The first thing to do was to build a fireplace. While some built the fireplace another boy and I gathered wood. We came upon the ruins of an old hut. We went in and found a couch. We took it to the picnic spot and ran home to get a mattress to sit on to eat our lunch. We put the potatoes in. While the potatoes were baking I toasted the bread, it was very delicious indeed. Soon the potatoes were done as we had a very fine fire and it did not take them long to bake. They were black but we did not mind that. We peeled it off and buttered them. They also were delicious. We then played some games, and sat down and talked about when we should have another one. We then ate the doughnuts and jam. It was starting to get dark now, so we packed our things up and started for home. That was one Saturday afternoon we enjoyed ourselves very much.

A Narrow Escape

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I am writing. I hope you will like this story.

One day when I was sliding we had lots of fun. I was going down the hill and a boy was going to bump into me. I made the sled go into the gutter. The boy went into some oil. The sled stopped and the boy went head first into the oil. After that I was going down the hill. An automobile was coming up. The man stopped the auto. I went right into a wall. I got hurt. Then I went home.

TEXT OF HOOVER'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, March 4—The text of President Hoover's inaugural address follows:

My Countrymen:

This occasion is not alone the administration of the most sacred oath which can be assumed by an American citizen. It is a dedication and consecration under God to the highest office in service of our people. I assume this trust in the humility of knowledge that only through the guidance of Almighty Providence can I hope to discharge its ever increasing burdens.

It is in keeping with tradition throughout our history that I should express simply and directly the opinions which I hold concerning some of the matters of present importance.

Our Progress

If we survey the situation of our nation both at home and abroad, we find many satisfactions; we find some causes for concern. We have emerged from the losses of the great war and the reconstruction following it with increased virility and strength. From this strength we have contributed to the recovery and progress of the world. What America has done has given renewed hope and courage to all who have faith in government by the people. In the large view, we have reached a higher degree of comfort and security than ever existed before in the history of the world. Through liberation from wide-spread poverty we have reached a higher degree of individual freedom than ever before. The devotion to and concern for our institutions are deep and sincere. We are steadily building a new race—a new civilization great in its own attainments. The influence and high purposes of our nation are respected among the peoples of the world. We aspire to distinction in the world, but to a distinction based upon confidence in our sense of justice as well as our accomplishments within our own borders and in our own lives. For wise guidance in this great period of recovery the nation is deeply indebted to Calvin Coolidge.

But all this majestic advance should not obscure the constant dangers from which self-government must be safe-guarded. The strong man must at all times be alert to the attack of insidious disease.

The Failure of Our System of Criminal Justice

The most malign of all these dangers today is disregarded and disobedience of law. Crime is increasing. Confidence in rigid and speedy justice is decreasing. I am not prepared to believe that this indicates any decay in the normal fibre of the American people. I am not prepared to believe that it indicates an impotence of the federal government to enforce its laws.

It is only in part due to the additional burdens imposed upon our judicial system by the 18th amendment. The problem is much wider than that. Many influences had increasingly complicated and weakened our law enforcement organization long before the adoption of the 18th amendment.

To re-establish the vigor and effectiveness of law enforcement we must critically consider the entire federal machinery of justice, the redistribution of its functions, the simplification of its procedure, the provision of additional special tribunals, the better selection of juries, and the more effective organization of our agencies of investigation and prosecution that justice may be sure and that it may be swift. While the authority of the federal government extends to but part of our vast system of national, state and local justice, yet the standards which the federal government establishes have the most profound influence upon the whole structure.

We are fortunate in the ability and integrity of our federal judges and attorneys. But the system which these officers are called upon to administer is in many respects ill-adapted to present day conditions. Its intricate and involved rules of procedure have become the refuge of both big and little criminals. There is a belief abroad that by invoking technicalities, subterfuge and delay the ends of justice may be thwarted by those who can pay the cost.

Reform, reorganization and strengthening of our whole judicial and enforcement system both in civil and criminal sides have been advocated for years by statesmen, judges, and bar associations. First steps toward that end should not longer be delayed. Rigid and expeditious justice is the first safeguard of freedom, the basis of all ordered liberty, the vital force of progress. It must not come to be in our republic that it can be defeated by the indifference of the citizen, by exploitation of the delays and entanglements of the law, or by combinations of criminals. Justice must not fail because the agencies of enforcement are either delinquent or inefficiently organized. To consider these evils, to find their remedy, is the most sore necessity of our times.

Enforcement of the 18th Amendment

Of the undoubted abuses which have grown up under the 18th amendment, part are due to the causes I have just mentioned; but part are due to the failure of some states to accept their share of responsibility for concurrent enforcement and to the failure of many state and local officials to accept the obligation under their oath of office zealously to enforce the laws. With the failures from these many causes has come a dangerous expansion in the criminal elements who have found enlarged opportunities in dealing in illegal liquor.

But a large responsibility rests directly upon our citizens. There would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. We must awake to the fact that this patronage from large numbers of law-abiding citizens is supplying the rewards and stimulating crime.

I have been selected by you to execute and enforce the laws of the country. I propose to do so to the extent of my own abilities, but the measure of success that the government shall attain will depend upon the moral support which you, as citizens, extend. The duty of citizens to support the laws of the land is co-equal with the duty of their government to enforce the laws which exist. No greater national service can be given by men and women of good will—who I know, are not unindful of the responsibilities of citizenship—than that they should, by their example, assist in stamping out crime and outlawry by refusing participation in and condemning all transactions with illegal liquor. Our whole system of self-government will crumble either if officials elect what laws they will enforce or citizens elect what laws they will support. The worst evil of disregard for some law is that it destroys respect for all law. For our citizens to patronize the violation of a particular law on the ground that they are opposed to it is destructive of the very basis of all that protection of life, of homes and property which they rightly claim under other laws. If citizens do not like a law, their duty as honest men and women is to discourage its violation; their right is openly to work for its repeal.

To those of criminal mind there can be no appeal but vigorous enforcement of the law. Fortunately they are but a small percentage of our people. Their activities must be stopped.

A National Investigation

I propose to appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the whole structure of our federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the 18th amendment and the causes of abuse under it. Its purpose will be to make such recommendations for re-organization of the administration of federal laws and court procedure as may be found desirable. In the meantime it is essential that a large part of the enforcement activities be transferred from the treasury department to the department of justice as a beginning of more effective organization.

The Relation of Government to Business

The election has again confirmed the determination of the American people that regulation of private enterprise and not government ownership or operation is the course rightly to be pursued in our relation to business. In recent years we have established a differentiation in the whole method of business regulation between the industries which produce and distibute commodities on the one hand and public utilities on the other. In the former, our laws insist upon effective competition; in the latter, because we substantially confer a monopoly by limiting competition, we must regulate their services and rates. The rigid enforcement of the laws applicable to both groups is the very base of equal opportunity and freedom from domination for all our people, and it is just as essential for the stability and prosperity of business itself as for the protection of the public at large. Such regulation should be extended by the federal government within the limitations of the Constitution and only when the individual states are without power to protect their citizens through their own authority. On the other hand, we should be fearless when the authority rests only in the federal government.

Cooperation by the Government

The larger purpose of our economic thought should be to establish more firmly stability and security of business and employment and thereby remove poverty still further from our borders. Our people have in recent years developed a new found capacity for cooperation among themselves to effect high purposes in public welfare. It is an advance toward the highest conception of self-government. Self-government does not and should not imply the use of political agencies alone. Progress is born of cooperation in the community—not from governmental restraints. The government should assist and encourage these movements of collective self help by itself cooperating with them. Business has by cooperation made great progress in the advancement of service, in stability, in regularity of employment and in the correction of its own abuses. Such progress, however, can continue only so long as business manifests its respect for law.

There is an equally important field of cooperation by the federal government with the mutitude of agencies, state, municipal and private, in the systematic development of those processes which directly affect public health, recreation, education and the home. We have need further to perfect the means by which government can be adapted to human service.

Education

Although education is primarily a responsibility of the states and local communities, and rightly so, yet the nation as a whole is vitally concerned in its development everywhere to the highest standards and to complete universality. Self-government can succeed only through an instructed electorate. Our objective is not simply to overcome illiteracy. The nation has marched far beyond that. The more complex the problems of the nation become, the greater is the need for more and more advanced instruction. Moreover, as our numbers increase and as our life expands with science and invention, we must discover more and more leaders for every walk of life. We cannot hope to succeed in directing this increasingly complex civilization unless we can draw all the talent of leadership from the whole people. One civilization after another has been wrecked upon the attempt to secure sufficient leadership from a single group or class. If we would prevent the growth of class distinctions and would constantly refresh our leadership with the ideals of our people, we must draw constantly from the general mass. The full opportunity for every boy and girl to rise through the selective processes of education can alone secure to us this leadership.

Public Health

In public health the discoveries of science have opened a new era. Many sections of our country and many groups of our citizens suffer from diseases the eradication of which are mere matters of administration and moderate expenditure. Public health service should be as fully organized and as universally incorporated into our governmental system as is public education. The returns are a thousand fold in economic benefits, and infinitely more in reduction of suffering and promotion of human happiness.

World Peace

The United States fully accepts the profound truth that our own progress, prosperity and peace are interlocked with the progress, prosperity and peace of all humanity. The whole world is at peace. The dangers to a continuation of this peace today are largely the fear and suspicion which still haunt the world. No suspicion or fear can be rightly directed toward our country.

Those who have a true understanding of America know that we have no desire for territorial expansion, for economic or other domination of other peoples. Such purposes are repugnant to our ideals of human freedom. Our form of government is ill adapted to the responsibilities which inevitably follow permanent limitation of the independence of other peoples. Superficial observers seem to find no destiny for our abounding increase in population, in wealth and power except that of imperialism. They fail to see that the American people are engrossed in the building for themselves of a new economic system, a new social system, a new political system—all of which are characterized by aspirations of freedom of opportunity and thereby are the negation of imperialism. They fail to realize that because of our abounding prosperity our youth are pressing more and more into our institutions of learning; that our people are seeking a larger vision through art, literature, science and travel; that they are moving toward stronger moral and spiritual life—that from these things our sympathies are broadening beyond the bounds of our nation and race toward their true expression in a real brotherhood of man. They fail to see that the idealism of America will lead it to no narrow or selfish channel, but inspire it to do its full share as a nation toward the advancement of civilization. It will do that not by mere declaration, but by taking a practical part in supporting all useful international undertakings. We not only desire peace with the world, but to see peace maintained throughout the world. We wish to advance the reign of justice and reason toward the extinction of force.

The recent treaty for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy sets an advanced standard in our conception of the relations of nations. Its acceptance should pave the way to greater limitation of armament, the offer of which we sincerely extend to the world. But its full realization also implies a greater and greater perfection in the instrumentalities for pacified settlement of controversies between nations. In the creation and use of these instrumentalities we should support every sound method of conciliation, arbitration and judicial settlement. American statesmen were among the first to propose and they have constantly urged upon the world, the establishment of a tribunal for the settlement of controversies of a justiciable character. The permanent court of international justice in its major purpose is thus peculiarly identified with American ideals and with American statesmanship. No more potent instrumentality for this purpose has ever been conceived and no other is practicable of establishment. The reservations placed upon our adherence should not be misinterpreted. The United States seeks by these reservations no special privilege or advantage, but only to clarify our relation to advisory opinions and other matters which are subsidiary to the major purpose of the court. The way should, and I believe will, be found by which we may take our proper place in a movement so fundamental to the progess of peace.

Our people have determined that we should make no political engagements such as membership in the league of nations, which may commit us in advance as a nation to become involved in the settlements of controversies between other countries. They adhere to the belief that the independence of America from such obligations increases its ability and availability for service in all fields of human progress.

I have lately returned from a journey among our sister republics of the western hemisphere. I have received unbounded hospitality and courtesy as their expression of friendliness to our country. We are held by particular bonds of sympathy and common interest with them. They are each of them building a racial character and a culture which is an impressive contribution to human progress. We wish only for the maintenance of their independence, the growth of their stability and their prosperity. While we have had wars in the western hemisphere yet on the whole the record is in encouraging contrast with that of other parts of the world. Fortunately the new world is largely free from the inheritances of fear and distrust which have so troubled the old world. We should keep it so.

It is impossible, my countrymen, to speak of peace without profound emotion. In thousands of homes in America, in millions of homes around the world, there are vacant chairs. It would be a shameful confession of our unworthiness if it should develop that we have abandoned the hope for which all these men died. Surely civilization is old enough, surely mankind is mature enough so that we ought in our own lifetime to find a way to permanent peace. Abroad, to west and east, are nations whose sons mingled their blood with the blood of our sons on the battlefields. Most of these nations have contributed to our race, to our culture and our knowledge and our progress.

From one of them we derive our very language and from many of them much of the genius to our institutions.

Their desire for peace is as deep and sincere as our own.

Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense. Peace can be promoted by the limitation of arms and by the creation of the instrumentalities for peaceful settlement of controversies. But it will become a reality only through self-restraint and active effort in friendliness and helpfulness. I covet for this administration a record of having further contributed to advance the cause of peace.

Party Responsibilities

In our form of democracy the expression of the popular will can be effected only through the instrumentality of political parties. We maintain party government not to promote intolerant partisanship but because opportunity must be given for expression of the popular will, and organization provided for the execution of its mandates and for accountability of government to the people. It follows that the government both in the executive and the legislative branches must carry out in good faith the platforms upon which the party was entrusted with power. But the government is that of the whole people; the party is the instrument through which policies are determined and men chosen to bring them into being. The animosities of elections should have no place in our government for government must concern itself alone with the common weal.

Special Session of the Congress

Action upon some of the proposals upon which the republican party was returned to power, particularly further agricultural relief and limited changes in the tariff, cannot in justice to our farmers, our labor and our manufacturers be postponed. I shall therefore request a special session of congress for the consideration of these two questions. I shall deal with each of them upon the assembly of the congress.

Other Mandates from the Election

It appears to me that the more important further mandates from the recent election were the maintenance of the integrity of the Constitution; the vigorous enforcement of the laws; the continuance of economy in public expenditure; the continued regulation of business to prevent domination in the community; the denial of ownership of operation of business by the government in competition with its citizens; the avoidance of policies which would involve us in the controversies of foreign nations; the more effective reorganization of the departments of the federal government; the expansion of public works; and the promotion of welfare activities affecting education and the home.

These were the more tangible determinations of the election, but beyond them was the confidence and belief of the people that we would not neglect the support of the embedded ideals and aspirations of America. These ideals and aspirations are the touch-stones upon which the day to day administration and legislative acts of government must be tested. More than this, the government must, so far as lies within its proper powers, give leadership to the realization of these ideals and to the fruition of these aspirations. No one can adequately reduce these things of the spirit to phrases or to a catalogue of definitions. We do know what the attainments of these ideals should be; the preservation of self-government and its full foundations in local government; the perfection of justice whether in economic or in social fields, the maintenance of ordered liberty; the denial of domination by any group or class; the building up and preservation of equality of opportunity; the stimulation of initiative and individuality; absolute integrity in public affairs; the choice of officials for fitness to office; the direction of economic progress toward prosperity and the further lessening of poverty; the freedom of public opinion; the sustaining of education and of the advancement of knowledge; the growth of religious spirit and the tolerance of all faiths; the strengthening of the home; the advancement of peace.

There is no short road to the realization of these aspirations. Ours is a progressive people, but with a determination that progress must be based upon the foundation of experience. Ill-considered remedies for our faults bring only penalties after them. But if we hold the faith of the men in our mighty past who created these ideals, we shall leave them heightened and strengthened for our children.

Conclusion

This is not the time nor the place for extended discussion. The questions before our country are problems of progress to higher standards; they are not the problems of degeneration. They demand thought and they serve to quicken the conscience and enlist our sense of responsibility for their settlement. And that responsibility rests upon you, my countrymen, as much as upon those of us who have been selected for office.

Ours is a land rich in resources, stimulating in its glorious beauty; filled with millions of happy homes; blessed with comfort and opportunity. In no nation are the institutions of progress more advanced. In no nation are the fruits of accomplishment more secure. In no nation is the government more worthy of respect. No country is more loved by its people. I have an abiding faith in their capacity, integrity and high purpose. I have no fears for the future of our country. It is bright with hope.

In the presence of my countrymen, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, knowing what the task means and the responsibility which it involves, I beg your tolerance, your aid and your co-operation. I ask the help of Almighty God in this service to my country to which you have called me.

Breed Theatre.

Charlotte Walker, former stage star, has finally been lured into the movies and has an important role in "Annapolis," a new Pathe production directed by Christy Cabanne which will be seen at the Breed theatre today for the last times.

Miss Walker recently completed a Barrymore in the successful play "The Constant Wife." Prior to that part Miss Walker was seen in the leading role of "The Green Hat."

Jeanette Loff, John Mack Brown and Hugh Allan, who are featured, Annapolis is one of the most thrilling tour playing the role created by Ethel pictures of life at the United States Naval academy ever presented on the screen. It was directed by Christy Cabanne who was responsible for "The Midshipmen" starring Ramon Novarro. It is as full of dramatic action and thrill as an egg is of meat and its sound effects are unsurpassed.

Aside from the players named, the cast includes William Bakewell, Hobart Bosworth, Byron Munson, Maurice Ryan and Charlotte Walker. The production was supervised by F. McGrew Willis. It is well worth seeing.

POETRY

To President Hoover

We know that you are safe and sound,
Endowed with will, nerve, heart and brain,
For doubtless leader now to be
Of this our mighty Union free.

We know your record's worthy, long,
That you are moral, sound and strong,
A worker hard who understands
What's what, who's who, in foreign lands.

We know that you our land adore,
Are patriotic to the core,
And step by step through toil and fray
Have gained the place you hold today.

Of all the states you're President,
Go forward bravely, duty bent;
"Be just and fear not," keen of sight,
And "follow light and do the right."

We trust you will—we're sure you'll try
To keep your standards clean and high;
May God, our Father kind and true
Direct, protect and strengthen you.

—WILLIAM R. SHIELDS.

In Our Boat

Stars trembling o'er us and sunset before us,
Mountains in shadow and forests asleep;
Down the dim river we float on forever,
Speak not, ah, breathe not—there's peace on the deep.

Come not, pale sorrow, flee till tomorrow;
Rest softly falling o'er eyelids that weep;
While down the river we float on forever,
Speak not, ah, breathe not—there's peace on the deep.

Heaven shine above us, bless all that love us;
All whom we love in thy tenderness keep
While down the river we float on forever,
Speak not, ah, breathe not—there's peace on the deep.

—Dinah Maria Mulock Craik.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"What do they mean by this 'higher education'?"

"Something that's over our heads, I suppose."—Boston Transcript.

Father (arriving home) — What's your little brother crying for?

Johnnie—He's not crying for anything—he's had it.—Sydney Bulletin.

She—Eight hundred a year. Why you couldn't even dress me!

He—O, I'd soon get the hang of that.—Everybody's Weekly.

He (during their first quarrel)—But you promised at the altar to obey me.

She—Of course. I didn't want to make a scene.—Exchange.

"Harry, if I were to die, would you marry again?"

"That question is hardly fair, my dear."

"Why not?"

"Because if I were to say 'Yes' you wouldn't like it, and to say 'Never again' wouldn't sound nice."—Detroit News.

First Commuter—I suppose your wife meets you at the station with the car?

Second Commuter—Oh, yes, every two or three weeks there'll be an afternoon when there's no bridge party.—Motorland.

A colored woman went into a store to buy a collar for her husband.

"What size?" asked the clerk.

"Ah done forget de size," replied the woman, "but Ah kin jse' manage to reach 'roun' his throat wif mah both hands."—Boston Transcript.

A roomer at a hotel annoyed the other roomers by jumping and skipping around his room until the proprietor objected and demanded an explanation. The guest explained by saying:

"My doctor gave me some medicine for my rheumatism with instructions to take it three nights running and then to skip a night. This happens to be my skipping night."—The Pathfinder.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

First Aid Week.

CHICAGO, March — The Good Samaritan figures in the 1929 "First Aid—Home Remedy Week" and is designated as the "First First Aid."

This annual merchandising festival arrives with St. Patrick's day, continues March 17-23 and marks the eighth anniversary of the plan dedicated to drugdom by Sterling Products, Inc., in 1922 and immediately sponsored by the National Association of Retail Druggists. Seeing the great advertising and sales possibilities in the plan and its helpfulness to humanity, the National Wholesale Druggists' association has swung behind it with the enthusiastic suggestion that druggists use local newspapers, and providing them with suggestive advertising copy tied to the national slogan, "Fill That Medicine Chest Now!"

Coming at a time when housewives are thinking of house cleaning, the command has added psychological sales value. Secretary S. C. Henry of the N. A. R. D., out of long experience says: "No one knows better than the average retail druggist how much needless suffering there is because most people are neglectful in the matter of making provision for the hour of need which is sure to come when sudden illness or unforeseen accident calls for immediate attention."

"Quick Relief Insurance" is the new definition of First Aid—Home Remedy Week's objective, and is thus bringing the nation's "Health Service Stations" into closer every day life.

NELLIE M. BECKWITH, STRUCK BY AUTO, DIES AT NEW LONDON HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 4—Nellie M. Beckwith, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe L. Beckwith, of Willetts avenue extension, Waterford, died at 3:25 o'clock this morning at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, from a fractured skull. She sustained this injury last night when she and three companions were struck by an automobile driven by Louis Perkins of Waterford. Horace Beebe, 32 Converse place; William Spieler, Station 6, Waterford and Donald Ferguson, 252 Montauk avenue, are patients at the hospital, but their injuries are not considered serious. Beebe has lacerations of the mouth, head and leg; Spieler received a fractured leg and Ferguson's injuries are lacerations of the head and neck.

Perkins, who was arrested shortly after the accident for driving while under the influence of liquor, today was held on a charge of manslaughter in bail of $5,000. He will be given a hearing in the Waterford town court Monday afternoon next.

The Beckwith girl and her companions had attended services at the Montauk avenue Baptist church and about 10 o'clock were walking along the New Haven turnpike on their way to the home of the girl. Being well to the right hand side of the highway they believed they were free from danger, but when the auto driven by Perkins came along it plowed through the quartette of young people. The Beckwith girl was struck with great force and hurled to the concrete pavement, landing on her head. When assistance reached the girl she was unconscious and with her companions was rushed to the hospital. Her condition continued critical from the time she was admitted and she never regained consciousness.

The bearers were John Ryan, Peter Cunningham, Howard Peckham and John Connors. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

THOMAS H. DREW DEAD—LEAVES NORWICH RELATIVES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 4—Thomas H. Drew, 78, died this morning at his residence, 174 Montauk avenue, death resulting from an illness of two weeks with pneumonia, together with a weakened condition of the heart. He is survived by a daughter, Miss Anna Drew, of this city; a brother, Daniel Drew of Norwich and two sisters, Misses Johanna and Mary Drew, also of Norwich. Mr. Drew was born in Ireland, but had resided in this country many years. He was a charter member of Nina Council, No. 43, Knights of Columbus, of Stonington and for several years was employed at the plant of the New London Ship & Engine company.

Fred Dwyer, of Groton; Charles Antrim, 7 Huntington street; Mrs. Charles Hunter, New York; John Quartorone, 36 Reed street; Mrs. Fred Finnegan and infant son, 63 Lewis street; Richard Smith, 50 Goshen street; Mrs. Frances Minault, 15 Goshen street; Morris Main, Norwich, Mrs. Anthony DeCosta and infant son, 15 Hope street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The Savings Bank of New London has sold a tract of land on Ocean avenue to Abraham Agranovitch and Benjamin Kaplan. The property was formerly owned by the late Richard Mansfield, famous actor.

The deed transferring title in the property, corner of Jay and Franklin street, from Lizzie Clark Rogers to the Texas company, was received for record at the office of the city clerk today. The price paid was $15,000. A gasoline filling station will be erected on the site.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today ordered the release of warrants issued recently against Philip Scott Investment company and Joseph W. Hardwick.

Many from here went to Washington to attend the inauguration ceremonies.

Commander E. F. Roach, former commander of the coast guard destroyer Cassin here, will assume command of the cutter Modoc, when it arrives in this port from Boston.

Three drivers' licenses were returned to operators today by Inspector Philip E. Devnew and one was held out as follows: Siegerled Sonneburg, 7 Division street, evading responsibility and reckless driving, not returned; Charles H. B. Cooper, Pease House, Saybrook, operating under the influence, returned; Joseph A. Bruse, 40 Reed street, operating under the influence, returned; Jesse B. Foster, 556 Bank street, fatal accident, returned; Thomas Melady, Philip street, Griswold, allowed to keep license.

Lawrence Moistre of New Haven, was found guilty of a charge of reckless driving, in the Groton town court this morning. Disposition as to the penalty was deferred one week. The car driven by Moistre last night crashed into the parked car owned by Patrolman Edmund Griswold, of the local police department. Griswold was in the police department when the crash occured. Hearing the noise he rushed out to find his car badly damaged. Moistre pleaded not guilty.

DOG WARDEN SWEZEY WILL BE RE-APPOINTED

According to an announcement made by City Manager William A. Holt, Dog Warden John W. Swezey, who has served for six consecutive years, will be re-appointed when his term expires, March 31. Mr. Swezey is also a member of the Connecticut Humane society.

FELL BETWEEN BOAT AND WHARF AT GROTON

Albert Sommers, 43, of the trawler Tern, narrowly escaped death last night when in attempting to jump from the boat to the wharf of the Atlantic Fisheries Co., Groton, he missed his step and fell between the boat and the wharf and was jammed there. Shipmates came to his rescue and he escaped with minor injuries.

Spent Sunday Boozing

That there are many places to obtain liquor in New London was evidenced today by the fact that there were 13 cases of intoxication tried in the police court. Of this number one was a soldier and seven others were sailors. The uniformed men were turned over to a patrol and taken back to their respective bases for military discipline. Another was a woman and judgment was suspended in her case. In the cases of the others, judgment was suspended or nes of $5 and $10 was imposed.

William Tillett, U. S. Coast Guard, charged with driving without a license, was fined $10 and costs.

JOKING SAILORS GET OFF WITH NOMINAL FINES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 4—William Downing and Robert Smith, members of the U. S. Coast Guard, were charged with intoxication, but that they were not charged with the more serious offense of sending in a false fire alarm, was due to their good fortune. They were fined $5 and costs, each. An alarm, was due to their good fortune, of Main and Federal streets at 3:30 o'clock Sunday morning, but when Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and four pieces of apparatus arrived at the location of the box it was found that no fire existed. Downing and Smith were loitering in the vicinity, laughing at the efforts of the firemen to locate a fire, so they were arrested. The officers did not have sufficient evidence on which to bring them to trial on the charge of sending in a false alarm.

The New London police tonight were requested by the Westerly police to be on the lookout for a Dodge touring car that was stolen from the latter city. It is tan colored and carries Rhode Island registration, R-24389.

State Police Officer Donald Brown tonight arrested a resident of Waterford on charge of intoxication, the accused being locked up to be held for hearing next Monday.

WHITE MAN IN NEGRO RAID "COLLECTING LOBSTER MONEY"

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 4—May Barnes, proprietress of a black and tan resort, on Douglass street, was arrested tonight charged with conducting a disorderly house. Anna Ayes, 23, 16 John street; Edith Vader, 31, 715 Dwight street, Springfield, Mass., and Dorothy McKaithen, 30, of 11 Pearl street, all colored, and Hollis Perry, 38, white, together with Roy Steward and George Peterson, members of the crew of U. S. Coast Guard destroyer McCall, also white, were arrested charged with frequenting. All were held in bail of $50 for appearance in the police court tomorrow, excepting the Barnes woman, whose bail was fixed at $200. She has been arrested several times charged with conducting a disorderly house or frequenting. The arrests of the women and men was the result of evidence being obtained against the house by Acting Sergt. John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin. The officers were passing the Douglass street house when they observed Steward and Peterson emerging from the yard. When the sailors were questioned they declared that they had been solicited from a window of the house by one of the Negresses and that they had entered the house at solicitation. When a raiding force was organized, consisting of Acting Sergeant Courtney, Automobile Patrol Officer Martin and Patrolman Frank Philopena, the others were taken into custody. At police headquarters Steward and Peterson could, or would not positively identify the woman who had solicited them, nor would they admit talking to any of the inmates of the house. All the women have police records. Perry, who is a machinist employed at the plant of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, and who resides at 41 North Bank street, declared that he had been at the house but five minutes prior to the raid. He declared that he went there for the purpose of collecting money due him from the Barnes woman for lobsters which he sold her last September.

FASCISTI HALL FIRE BEING INVESTIGATED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 4—Detective Sergts. Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh are investigating the incendiary fire early Sunday morning at the building, 74 Shaw street, occupied by the Fascisti, for there is not the slightest doubt that the building was fired. The officers have ascertained the identity of two women who observed the firebugs leaving the building. One man was observed leaving the premises and followed shortly after by a second, one of which, it is believed was the actual applier of the torch, while the other was a lookout. Over the store are two tenements and when the fire was discovered the occupants retreated for it was believed that the building would be destroyed. The occupants declare that prior to the discovery of the fire two muffled explosions were heard and the police declare that the explosions were the inflammable liquids, a combination of gasoline and alcohol, used to make a fast and furious blaze. One of the women also stated that she found an American flag, trampled and torn in the rear of the building, which was taken from the Fascisti hall by someone and damaged in the yard. Officials of the Fascisti are of the opinion that members of the anti-Fascisti who, last Columbus day, engaged the Fascisti in a fight near the hall which was followed by the finding of the body of one of the fighting Fascisti in the Mystic river several days later, are responsible for the attempt to cause the destruction of the hall.

COUNCIL DOES NOTHING IN FERRYBOAT MATTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 4—At a meeting of the city council the matter of the lease of the Groton-New London ferry was considered and was finally left where it was taken up. The committee of public safety, which gave a hearing on the petition last week of Messrs. Crandall and Sheehan lessees, for a change in schedule, reported tonight advising the abandonment of Sunday trips and running trips every hour on other days. Councilor Twomey objected to any change in the contract being made by the city expressing the opinion that it would be a breach of claim and render the city liable to a suit. The city manager said that no suit was possible as it was a part of the contract that the city or the public utilities commission could change it.

A communication from the lessees asked for an additional $10 per day, or that they be relieved of the contract. Both the communication and report of the committee were referred to the city manager.

The council voted to extend Harris court, the property owners to pay the expense of the work. One Rosenberg, a resident and property owner on Maple avenue, asked that the city provide an opening over the railroad or under the railroad tracks to Pequot avenue. A fence has been erected, closing the street across the railroad, which action has been upheld by the state supreme court. The matter of providing an overhead passage or passage under the tracks is now before the authorities, being considered.

Twenty-one applications for building permits were presented, eight for dwellings, four for garages and another for additions to the Mohican hotel buildings, interior alterations and an addition to the kitchen.

Three thousand yards of screened sand was bought by the city for 98 cents a yard, bids varying from that figure to $1.25 per cubic yard.

Bids for three autos for the police and health departments were opened but there was so much dispute over the bids that no action was taken.

An amendment to the electric ordinance was presented to the council and referred to the public safety committee, which will hold a meeting Monday on the matter. Herbert Prentice offered land to the city for three separate highways. The land has been graded and curbed and would be given to the city without expense. The land will provide for three distinct streets. It was accepted.

Broadway Theatre.

Today and tomorrow will be your last opportunity to see and hear "The Canary Murder Case," which, as a novel swept the country going to eight editions and more than 100,000 copies and is even more enjoyable as a moving picture than it is as a book. The great detective story, written by the mysterious S. S. Van Dine, opened its four-day run at the Broadway theatre Sunday night and has been shown to crowded houses since.

For thrilling, swift-moving action, free from the hokum and "tricks" which characterize many so-called mystery pictures, "The Canary Murder Case" is a perfection of writing, acting and directing. Each step of the stirring story is revealed to the audience as the plot progresses, making every spectator a part of the gripping drama.

This is an all-talking picture and every character is heard as well as seen. Critics have proclaimed it the perfect talking picture. Don't miss it. laughter until the final curtain. It deals with the complicated love affairs of a little girl in a small town and the plot is so human that at times it is almost uncanny in its unfolding. With a father and mother badgering her to marry "Tommy," the local "good boy," the perversity of the feminine sex comes to the fore when Marie tells them that she won't marry Tommy, but has all the intentions of marrying Bernard, the wise-cracking salesman whom they despise. Uncle Dave tries to help Marie in solving her weighty love affairs, and tells Tommy that if he will get himself thrown out of the house by Marie's father, Marie will at once fall into his arms and asserts that she will have him and no one else.

The staging was splendidly executed, in fact the entire show well done and it is safe to predict large audiences will flock to the Palace this week. The attraction is "worth while."

GREENEVILLE

The T. D. Sewing circle were entertained at the home of Miss Alice McNeely on Roosevelt avenue Thursday evening with a large attendance. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles. A social hour followed with piano and vocal solos, the features of entertainment. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The dining room was prettily decorated in pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Casey have returned to their home at New Jersey after spending a few days with relatives on Central avenue.

John Enright has returned to his home at Fishers Island after spending a few days with relatives on Boswell avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Ladd have returned to their home on North Main street after spending two months at Mr. and Mrs. John Smith at Hartford.

H. Club Meets

The Greeneville H club held their regular weekly meeting in their club rooms on Fourth street Monday evening with a large attendance. Regular business was transacted with President Wallace Atterbury presiding. After the meeting a radio hour was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Delaney have returned to their home at Providence after spending the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Delaney on Eighth street.

TAFTVILLE

Mrs. Ulmer Jewett and three children of Norwich have been spending the past week at the home of Mrs. Jewett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Adams and family of North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Linderson and their daughter Janet of Centerville, R. I. spent the week end with Mrs. Linderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Yerrington and family of South Second avenue.

At the Taftville Congregational church Sunday morning, William Penner, the new pastor preached on "Faith." The anthem after the offertory sung under the direction of Miss Nellie S. Howie, the church organist and choir leader was "Lift Up Our Heads" (George Noyes Rockwell), the soprano solo part being sung by Mrs. Elsie K. Pingree. In the evening the Young People Society of Christian Endeavor held a meeting in the church vestry, this being the first meeting in some time. The leader was the president, Robert B. Schmidt and the topic discussed was "Recruiting for Christ." A bass solo was sung by James B. Jackson and Miss Ruth Grimshaw recited a poem, "The World's Bible." Short talks were given by Mrs. Adam Leupold and Victor H. Davis. Present at the meeting was Howard Bushnell of Occum Heights, pastor of the Goshen Congregational church and president of the Norwich Christian Endeavor Union.

Saturday's storm was pronounced by motorists as one of the worst ever experienced. The snow was so wet and heavy that most wind shield wipers refused to function and wind shields has to be kept open. So rapidly did the flakes come down that the road surfaces were quickly covered and drivers had to be careful to stay off the shoulders of the highways. On the Old Canterbury turnpike two cars were marooned in the snow until Sunday morning. Providence street where many people walk in the center of the street rather than use the sidewalks, was the scene of much skidding and sliding around when drivers hastily applied their brakes to avoid striking pedestrians. Although there have been several serious accidents on this street, it still appears to be fashionable to use the middle of the road for a promenade.

After having been closed for one week, the Wequonnoc school resumed sessions Monday morning.

Mrs. Joseph Carter, William Carter and William Bailey of Newmarket, N. H., have been week end guests of the Misses Mary and Louise Stubbs, Miss Addie Sweet and Emile B. Sweet of lower Norwich avenue. Mr. Carter and Mr. Bailey left by automobile for Philadelphia Monday morning, where they have business. Mrs. Carter remaining in town until they return en-route for Newmarket.

Mrs. Thomas Connell has returned to her home in New York after spending several days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred-erick Kupky of the Jewett City road.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lambert and son of Jewett City were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. Lambert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert and family of North B street.

After a brief visit at the home of Mrs. Gley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Meyer of Blissville, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gley and their daughter Hazel have returned to their home in Mystic.

MAYOR ROBBINS ANSWERS LETTER FROM GAS AND ELECTRIC COMMISSIONERS

Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, answering the communication received by him Saturday from the board of gas and electrical commissioners, suggests that if the board is honestly perplexed by any question regarding an interpretation of the laws relating to them and their duties that they refer the matter directly to Corporation Counsel E. W. Perkins, according to their usual practice. The mayor makes no answer to the personal questions contained in the board's letter of Saturday, stating that answers to the questions would not in the least assist them in arriving at the questions he asked of the board in his letter of March 1st.

The mayor's letter, sent Monday to the board of gas and electrical commissioners follows:

March 4, 1929

Board of Gas and Electrical Commissioners, Norwich, Connecticut.
Gentlemen:

Thank you for your prompt reply to my letter of March 1st.

If your board is honestly perplexed by any question regarding the interpretation of the laws relating to you or your duties, I respectfully suggest that you refer the same direct to the corporation counsel for his answer, according to your usual practice.

Answering the personal questions contained in the body of your letter would not assist you in the least to answer the simple questions I ask. If I am correct in depending upon your statement contained in your letter to me under date of October 27th, viz: "This commission takes this opportunity, through you, to acknowledge their duty to the tax payers of the city who are the direct owners of the gas and electrical property," my questions assume no more than your sincerity.

Very truly yours,
LEE ROY ROBBINS
Mayor

The questions which Mayor Robbins asked the G. and E. board in his letter of March 1st were:

"1. Whether or not you intend to comply with the wishes of the citizens as expressed in city meeting regarding the report of the fact finding committee, particularly in relation to the adoption of the schedule of rates for electricity suggested therein?

2. If so whether or not you intend to put such rates into effect, as soon as possible?

3. Whether or not you intend to stop all sales of appliances by May 1st, 1929?"

The G. and E. board held a special meeting Saturday morning at which time a reply to the mayor's letter was drawn up, approved and sent to him. The board, in its letter, made no answer to the above questions. They stated that "apparently there are grave fundamental legal differences between the mayor and the board as to the powers, duties and responsibilities of the city's lighting commission" and asked to have the law interpreted and explained in a written opinion to them by the corporation counsel.

The board also stated that they are of the opinion and have been advised that the two special city meetings had no power of direction and control over the fixing of rates.

Among the questions asked of the mayor were whether or not he favors generally the municipal ownership and operation of public utilities and whether or not he is in favor of selling the city's gas and electric plant and franchise.

MAYOR ROBBINS ILL, COUNCIL MEETING ADJOURNS

Because of the illness of Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, the March meeting of the court of common council, scheduled for Monday evening, was adjourned until March 11, after department bills had been approved. The approving of the bills was the only business transacted. Alderman Harold C. Dahl called the meeting to order at o'clock. Announcement was made of Mayor Robbin's illness after which the department bills were approved as follows.

Park dept., $300.95; water dept. $2,578.44; Deep River reservoir, $170.25; gas and electric, $60,757.65; finance dept., $28,269.97; public works dept., $8,050; fire dept., $6,729.86; police dept., $5,815.59; street lighting, $2,864.65; cemetery dept., $334.97.

On motion of Alderman Paul H. Zahn City Clerk Weston C. Pullen was requested to send flowers to Mayor Robbins from the council. A motion was then made and adopted that the meeting adjourn until next Monday evening.

ADJOURN TOWN MEETING UNTIL NEXT MONDAY

The adjourned town meeting scheduled for Monday evening in the town hall, was again adjourned, this time until next Monday, at which the annual town tax will be laid. A second adjournment was necessary, owing to the fact that the board of relief have not had sufficient time to complete their work and close their books. The books, according to state law, should have been closed Friday, but the board of relief found it impossible to complete their work by that day.

A special bill, extending the time limit until March 9th, has been prepared for introduction in the state legislature and will probably be passed in the legislature today (Tuesday) under suspension of the rules. Selectman William S. Murray called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock Monday evening, and on motion of Town Counsel H. H. Pettis, it was adjourned until next Monday.

DRIVER FINED $$200 FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

A ne of $200 and costs was imposed on one count and a nolle was granted on the second, when George Dufresne, 22, of Jewett City, was arraigned in city court Monday morning, charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and operating a motor vehicle without a 1929 license. In view of the fact that the accused intended to procure a 1929 license the latter charge was nolled. Dufresne was arrested near the Occum mill Saturday afternoon by Constable Filligar of Occum. The Ford delivery truck he was driving ran into an automobile owned and operated by Arthur Godere and then overturned. Godere's machine crashing through a fence. Both machines were badly damaged. Dufresne admitted that he had had four or five drinks before the accident, it is said.

SMALL FIRE AT JEWETT CITY POWER STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March —Engine No. 1 and Chemical No. 1, responded at midnight to an alarm for a small fire at the local power house of The Connecticut Power Co. The fire was discovered by Mr. Ouilette, who lives nearby. Policeman Velgard was notified and turned in the alarm. No damage was down but the borough was in darkness for about an hour and a half. The local trouble man was notified and started work on repairing a break in the lines, due to the fire which was caused by a loose connection.

CHECKING UP SPEEDING AT BURNHAM SQUARE

Officer John Carroll has been detailed to check up on speeding at Burnham square. It has been noticeable that many machines are driven through the square at fast rates.

Auto Case Was Nolled

Presented in the city court Monday morning on the charge of violation of the city ordinances Nathan Seigel of this city had his case nolled on the payment of $2 on recommendation of City Attorney Charles W. Cassidy. He was arrested Saturday morning by Officer John O'Neil after the machine he was driving blocked traffic on Shetucket street.

POQUETANUCK GIRL IS MISSIONARY IN ALASKA

When the "General Jacob" arrived at Anvik last August after the long trip up the mighty Yukon, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Chapman of the Christ church mission were on the bank to welcome Miss Ella B. Lucas, formerly of Poquetanuck. Miss Lucas was returning to begin her second term of work among the "Fish Indians."

Miss Lucas with much experience in teaching and in travel left the comfort of the college atmosphere to bring some comfort to a few of the Alaskan Indians. Her home is now a log cabin; it is also used for her classes. To that cabin once a week come the girls, hungry to learn sewing and other domestic necessities and eager to hear a story read by their teacher. Then before they go out into the bitter cold—if the winter months are on—a "treat" is given, a taste of sweets perhaps. One day in the week, on Friday, the younger children call and eat candy. These youngsters know little of love. And a scholarship to a needy college student might mean less than a picture book to an Anvik lad.

The difficult problem is the tubercular scourge. Miss Lucas writes, "It makes the heart sick to see one of our finest girls slowly losing strength." Poor Anna, who asked to be taken to the hospital on the river (she did not want her children to see her die), died soon after she reached her destination. Kate, one of the finest natives, is touched with the disease; likewise her husband Tom. Inez Williams is gradually weakening. Inez is a girl that any mother should be proud of. She is bright, merry and cheerful. She has the capabilities of a scholar. Her hands do beautiful handiwork. She has a dignity of manner. Her thoughts are of others. But Inez has tuberculosis. Miss Lucas asks, "What can be done about it?" At the mission there is one nurse. There never has been a doctor. In that wilderness a young man is needed to help Dr. Chapman. Miss Lucas and the nurse to "carry on."

DOGS AND PETS VICTIMS OF ILLEGAL TRAPPING

Dog lovers throughout the state have been greatly agitated and disturbed during the past year because of the increasing number of dogs and pet stock that have become victims of illegal trapping. The stories of the cruelties which have been suffered by these innocent animals have been astounding. Game wardens and humane society agents throughout the state have had repeated cases of this kind brought to their attention until the people at large are incensed and stirred over the condition which they claim must not be allowed to continue.

In order to meet a situation which has been created by illegal trappers the Connecticut Humane society is sponsoring a bill before the general assembly (S. B. 297) the purpose of which shall be to prohibit the setting of steel traps except in the water or in the burrow of any wild animals. The object of this bill is to protect the dog life of the state which has a right to roam the field and woods without being menaced at every step by a trap which has not been properly labeled or is not attended every 24 hours as required by law. It is intolerable that high bred dogs and others that are just as sensible of pain should be held for days and weeks in the jaws of a trap suffering not only from the pain inflicted but by the tortures of hunger and thirst.

The hearing on this bill has been set for March 7th at the state capitol, hall of the house, at 1.30 p. m. Dog and animal lovers throughout the state are being urged to write their representatives and senators asking them to give their support to this bill.

MOOSEHEART LEGION GIFT FOR RETIRING PIANIST

Women of Moosehart Legion, at their last regular meeting, Senior Regent Emma Beaver presiding, voted to keep the initiation fee at $5 till further notice. It was voted to give Legionaire Florence Beresford, pianist of Norwich chapter, a transfer card to the New Britain chapter, as she is moving there.

Senior Regent Beaver appointed Legionnaire Florence Beresford, pianist of rest of the year and she will be installed at the next meeting.

Governess Teresa Watters, announced a bridge whist and pinochle to be held in two weeks. She also announced that the Junior Legion meetings will be held the first and third Thursdays for the remainder of Lent. Under the good of the order, the senior regent, on behalf of the chapter presented Legionnaire Beresford a beautiful table lamp.

The chairman of the entertainment committee announced a St. Patrick's entertainment to be held at the next meeting. After the business meeting the following program was given:

Solo, My Wild Irish Rose, Mary Edwards; recitation, Mrs. Emma Beaver; solo, Mary Edwards and chorus: Virginia Reel, by all with Mrs. Lavine Rich furnishing music; refreshments of coffee, rolls, frankfurters and sauerkraut were served by Chairman Elsie Caughey, Irene Burns and Nellie Dorr.

At the next meeting there will be refreshments of apple pie and ice cream.

CONNECTICUT HIGHWAY MAP GREATLY ALTERED

Connecticut's highway map was changed in 119 different places during the calendar year of 1928, according to highway department figures representing the laying of 310 miles of new pavement both on trunkline system and state aid roads. In by far the larger percentage of these changes, the alterations were on important sections of the state's highway network and the coming motoring season will find Conecticut's arteries of transportation in better condition than ever before to accommodate the needs of traffic.

Some few sections of the work begun during the past year still remained uncompleted as far as the statistics of the highway department are concerned, but this merely means that the work has not been officially accepted as complete by the department. In practically all cases, the only work remaining to be done is that of building up and hardening the shoulders of the roads and as far as the motorist is concerned they are finished. None of the jobs begun last year are closed to traffic at the present time.

Of the more important highway jobs finished during the year there were many on roads in the New Haven and Danbury vicinities. Every highway leading into New Haven with one exception was under construction during the year. On Route 114 from New Haven to Middletown, more than five miles of concrete were laid through North Haven and North Branford, thus completing the work finished on the Middletown end of the road in 1927. A stretch of 7,000 feet of concrete was laid on the Boston Post road between Milford and Devon.

The shore road from New Haven to Milford, an auxiliary of the Post road, was taken over a partially new concrete route through Woodmont, and an entirely new stretch of bituminous macadam carries the start of the same route more than two miles along the shore front in West Haven and through the Savin Rock summer amusement park. The latter is complete except for shoulders.

Both of the Thames river roads which join New London and Norwich were repaved in part during 1928. On the west side on Route 12, a long stretch of several miles of new pavement was laid through Montville and Waterford, while shorter pieces in Preston and Ledyard were completed on the east bank of the river. On the Hartford-New London highway, about two miles of new paving improved the route through Colchester.

NEW MEMBERS FOR MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS

A meeting of the board of assistants of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the state of Connecticut was held on February 26th at the home of Mrs. Albert C. Bates of Marshall street, Hartford. In the absence of Governor George C. F. Williams, the society's former governor, Edwin H. Bingham, presided.

The following persons were admitted to membership: Leverett Chase Baker Scott City, Kansas, 10th descent from Stephen Hopkins; William Woods Chandler, Simsbury, 8th from Myles Standish; Mrs. William Woods Chandler, 10th from William Brewster; Mrs. Joseph Gault Futon, Anchorage, Ky., 8th from William Bradford; Miss Julia Gorham, Noroton, 7th from John Howland; Mrs. Frederick Albert Griswold, Wethersfield, 9th from William Brewster; Abraham Avery Hallock, Cromwell, 9th from William Brewster; Mrs. Walter Russell Perry, Lebanon, Conn., 10th from John Howland; Miss Bertha Clark Perry, Lebanon, 11th from John Howland; Irving Sterling Tinker, West Haven 8th from William Bradford.

The secretary, Miss Jennie Loomis of Windsor, reported two deaths—Miss Frances Potter of New London, who died Nov. 14, 1928 and Mrs. Benjamin L. Holmes of Mystic, on Nov. 13, 192. Two members resigned—Mrs. Abby C. Gallup of Norwich and Mrs. Holiway Kilborn of Westville, Conn. Anna Mabel Fryer of Norwalk was transferred to the New York society and Mrs. Kendall Wyman of East Orange, N. J., to the New Jersey society. The society now numbers 536 members.

HIGHWAY DEPT. ASKS BIDS FOR NEW PAVING

Paving of ten miles of Connecticut highway and teh construction of three new bridges will be contracted for under bids to be received by the state highway department on Tuesday, March 19, according to an announcement made by Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald. There are eight contracts in all, three in the New Milford district, two in the Winsted district, two in Hartford and one in New Haven.

The largest stretch of pavement to be laid is slightly more than four miles in length. It will consist of 21,478 feet of waterbound macadam on the Stevenson road in the town of Monroe. More than two miles of waterbound macadam will be laid on the Terryville-Bristol road in the towns of Bristol and Plymouth. Slightly more than a mile and a half of waterbound macadam is to be built on the Merryall road in New Milford; and about a mile of the same type of pavement will be laid on the Bee Brook road in the town of Washington. About 4,088 feet of concrete pavement and ashpalt surface on a concrete base is to be laid on Albany avenue in Hartford.

Two of the bridges advertised for bid will span the Farmington river, one of the steel deck girder type on Route No. 17 in the town of Avon, and the other a steel truss structure, over the east branch of the river at Compensating reservoir in New Hartford. The third bridge is of the concrete slab type. It will be constructed on the Naugatuck-New Haven road in Bethany.

SHEPHERDS OF BETHLEHEM ACCEPT HARTFORD INVITATION

Rose of New England lodge, No. 62, Shepherds of Bethlehem, held its regular meeting recently at Buckingham Memorial with Commander Charlotte Dennison presiding. Business of a routine nature was transacted and one new member was taken in. It was voted to accept an invitation to attend an open meeting to be held next month in Hartford. A rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Oscar Bjork for the whist and pinochle held at her home. Deputy Lady Lockhart installed two members of the lodge and also gave a short talk on lodge work.

A card party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Denison recently, the prizes being awarded as follows: At pinochle—Prof. Herbert E. Rich, Miss Mary Ulric, Mrs. Thomas Story. Mrs. Mary LaValley. Whist—Mrs. William Sanders, Mrs. Louis Waters. The prizes were donated by Miss Marion Fowler, Mrs. Mary LaValley and Mrs. Charlotte Denison. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

WOMEN'S BENEFIT ASS'N OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

The following officers of the Women's Benefit association were installed by Deputy Louise Manchester at its recent regular meeting in Eagles hall: President, Clementine Eckstein; financial secretary, Nellie Dorr; recording secretary, Louise Manchester; past president, Mary Kinnep; lady of ceremonies, Rose Conaty; chaplain, Mary Dicario; inner hostess, Rachel Peterson; outer hostess, Anna Kelley; musician, Lucy DiCarlo.

Previous to the meeting the officers and members had supper at the Mohegan restaurant. Plans were made at the business session for a social at the next meeting. The officers of the review have new uniforms of white dresses and red ties, giving them a very natty appearance. Each member was presented a rose at the installation and two members were voted on and accepted.

INAUGURAL CEREMONIES HEARD AT SAM'L HUNTINGTON SCHOOL

The teachers and pupils of the Samuel Huntington school assembled in the auditorium on Monday afternoon and listened to the inaugural ceremonies. The teachers and pupils from Town street school were invited. Hail to the Chief as played by the band was heard very clearly, also the oath of office as administered by Chief Justice William Howard Taft.

The entire school stood at attention during the playing of the national anthem.

This privilege which was thoroughly enjoyed by the school, was made possible by the courtesy and generosity of the United Music company of Norwich.

How to Have Soft, Pretty White Hands

Many women will be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands regardless of the work they have to do. The secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands as they are really the true marks of refinement. A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

THE LATE BORIS DE STRUVE GRANDSON OF WM. A. SLATER

In the Catholic churches of Norwich Sunday prayers were asked for the repose of the soul of Boris De Struve, 16, who died from pneumonia Thursday at Concord, Mass., where he was a student at Middlesex school. The young student was a grandson of Mrs. William A. Slater, now of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., and the late William A. Slater, of Norwich and Washington. His mother, who was Eleanor Slater, of Norwich, died at Mt. Kisco May 21st, 1928.

She was the widow of Baron Boris De Struve, of the Russian embassy, Washington, when her marriage with Halsey Malone, prominent New York lawyer and brother of Dudley Field Malone took place in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Malone had one child, Adrian Malone. Besides Boris De Struve there is a daughter by the first marriage, Miss Elena De Struve, now studying in Europe.

After the death of Baron De Struve in Russia, when his widow and their two young children arrived in America the daughter and son were so remarkably beautiful that the fact excited wide comment in New York and Washington.

On the death of Mrs. Malone last May her husband was left as executor of her estate and guardian of the children and they have spent some time at Hot Springs and other exclusive winter resorts.

The late William A. Slater was such a liberal benefactor of the city and town of Norwich that the fact of the family's residing in suburban New York in later years has not lessened public interest in its members; consequently friends of Mr. and Mrs. Slater learned with sorrow of the latest bereavement of Mrs. William A. Slater and her son-in-law, Mrs. Slater a number of years ago purchased the property adjoining the Malone estate, in Westchester county, N. Y., and the combined estates have been developed into one of the notably beautiful places of Westchester county.

WEEKLY WINNERS IN EGG CONTEST AT STORRS

Continued cold weather and the biggest snow storm of the season, which came just a week later than last year's, did not seem to bother the hens much in the Storrs contest for they came through with a yield of 4,441 eggs or 63.4 per cent. This is 42 eggs less than last week, but 6.8 per cent more than for the corresponding week last year. With 17 weeks just ended the birds have an average egg production of 68.2 eggs each.

Fox & Sons' White Leghorns from Little Falls, N. J., tied for first place with a pen of the same breed owned by George Lowry, West Willington, Conn. These pens laid 63 eggs each. Second honors for the week went to a pen of the same breed owned by Hanson's Leghorn Farm, Corvallis, Ore., with a score of 62 eggs. Two pens of White Leghorns were tied for third place with 61 eggs each. They were entered by St. John's Poultry Farm, Oronogo, Mo., and William L. Gilbert Home, Winsted, Conn. A pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by F. S. Chapin of Longmeadow, Mass., the only heavy breed to appear in the running for the week, took fourth place with a lay of 60 eggs. The White Leghorns as a breed were the best producers for the week with a lay of 68.1 per cent. The Barred Rocks came next with 63.5, the Rhode Island Reds were third and the White Rocks fourth.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties:

Barred Rocks—R. C. Cobb, Old Pickard Farm, Littleton, Mass., 931; R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, Conn., 871; Hawes Bros., Union, Me., 806.

White Rocks—E. A. Hirt, South Weymouth, Mass., 808; Granite Springs Farm, Granite Springs, N. Y., 603.

White Wyandottes — Ebenwood Farm, West Bridgewater, Mass., 820; Fisher Poultry Farm, Ayton, Ont., 813.

Rhode Island Red — Charlescote Farm, Sherborn, Mass., 897; John Z. LeBelle, Ballouville, Conn., 889; Zephirim LeBelle, Ballouville, Conn., 855; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 837.

NICE WORDS WON'T DYE a dress or coat...

Neither pretty pictures nor colorful adjectives will dye a dress or coat. It takes real dyes to do the work; dyes made from true anilines.

Next time you have dyeing to do, try Diamond Dyes. See how easy it is to use them. Then compare the results. Your dealer will refund your money if you don't agree they are better dyes.

You get none of that re-dyed look from Diamond Dyes; no streaking or spotting. Just fresh, crisp, bright new color. And watch the way they keep their brilliance through wear and washing. They are better dyes because they contain plenty of real anilines—from three to five times more than other dyes. But you pay no more for them than for ordinary dyes.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the original "all-purpose" dye for any and every kind of material. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk or wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. Remember this when you buy. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool. Your dealer has both packages.

HOOVER'S FIRST DAY IN THE PRESIDENCY MIGHTY BUSY

Activities Covered a Wide Range—Decided Non-Interference With Regulations Regarding Shipment of Arms to Mexico—Received Members of Republican National Committee—Chatted With Governors of Several States—Transacted a Large Amount of Public Business—Was in a Jocular Mood When He Met Newspaper Correspondents—First Cabinet Meeting Will Be Held Friday

WASHINGTON, March 5—This first day in the presidency was a mighty busy one for Herbert Hoover, and, from all appearances, a mighty happy one.

His day's activities extended all the way from a decision of major policy that of non-interference with present regulations regarding the shipments of arms into Mexico to reminiscenses of his boyhood days in West Branch, Iowa, with his one time school teacher, Mrs. Mollie Carran, who was his luncheon guest at the white house.

Between times he touched shoulders with the plain folks who called upon him by the hundreds; received members of the republican national committee in a group; chatted with the governors of several states who were here for the inauguration, and transacted a large amount of public business.

Prompt favorable action by the senate on his cabinet nominations added to the pleasure of his day, during which he not only appeared unruffled by the many interruptions of his work, but smiled broadly during his several public appearances to pose for pictures with some of his callers.

Meeting the newspaper correspondents at noon in his first press conference as president, he made jocular comments as the nearly 200 news writers streamed into his office, jamming it from wall to wall and overflowing around his desk.

The president, wearing a suit of blue, his favorite color, but with a single breasted coat, told the correspondents that he not only wanted to continue the usual contacts with them, but wished to devise methods by which these could be improved to the mutual benefit of the press and himself.

There was no change in the office from the days of its occupancy by President Coolidge. There was the same desk in the same place, but some of the furnishings on it were personal ones of the new president. A tall vase full of red carnations was the only decoration in the brightly lighted room.

Reaching his office at 7:55 a. m. ahead of most of his staff, and after a simple breakfast with his family, Mr Hoover had an early conference with Secretary Kellogg on the new revolutionary movement in Mexico. After a second conference later it was announced that there would be no change in the policy on arms shipments.

Soon after that the army of visitors began to march through the executive offices. A delegation from his own state of California came first, bearing a large state flag and standard and an inkwell with a redwood stand surmounted by a small bear made of California gold.

After a delegation of Floridians had filed through the president's office, about 300 Texans including several of the presidential electors, called. After shaking hands with each, the chief executive walked to the door of the executive offices to pose with this group.

The cowboy band from Simmons university, Abilene, gave a short serenade, played the Texas state song and then playing "Dixie", Mr. Hoover smiled broadly, and, turning to go to the front potico of the white house so that the band might serenade her.

A group of Iowans from Cedar Rapids also brought along a band and the president posed with them on the south side of the white house, receiving a second serenade. The Hamilton club of Chicago and delegations from Wisconsin and Ohio followed and then came the folks from the old birth place.

Mrs. Carran led them into the president's office, Mr. Hoover greeted her warmly and, drawing up a chair for her to sit beside him, asked that she introduce the others. This reception over the little teacher's cup of gladnes was filled to overflowing by an invitation from the president that she and her husband have lunch with him and Mrs. Hoover in the white house.

As 2,434 persons by actual count, filed past his desk during the day, Mr. Hoover got his first real taste of presidential handshaking, but he apparently enjoyed it as it was his first real personal contact with the people since the days of his campaign.

After luncheon the chief executive posed with a dozen Union veterans of the war between the states who had formed a guard of honor at his inaugural ceremonies yesterday; received the national committeemen and other guest and finally closed his desk late in the day, a very tired, but a very, happy man.

As dinner guest tonight, the president and Mrs. Hoover had at the white house Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts, the new secretary of the navy, and Mrs. Adams, and Robert P. Lamont, who late in the day took the oath as secretary of commerce.

Although the eight new members of the cabinet were confirmed by the senate the cabinet will not be called into session until the regular meeting day, Friday. Meanwhile Mr. Hoover will confer with some of them individually concerning the work of their departments. It was stated that he soon would take up with Attorney General William D. Mitchell the appointment of he national commission which is to investigate general law enforcement.

SENATE ORDERS INQUIRY OF SEC'Y MELLON'S RIGHTS

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—President Hoover's new cabinet members were quickly confirmed today by the senate but after approving them, it ordered a surprise inquiry into the right of Andrew Mellon to carry on as secretary of the treasury.

Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, challenged the right of Mr. Mellon to hold office or to go on with Mr. Hoover without renomination and confirmation. Friends of the secretary did not resist the inquiry requested and it was ordered without a record vote. No opposition was presented to the selection of Secretary of Labor Davis who also continues in the cabinet.

President Hoover transmitted the nominations of his eight new cabinet officers to the senate at the opening of the special session today and within twenty minutes after their receipt they stood approved.

The president chose not to forward the names of Mr. Mellon and Secretary Davis, confirmed eight years ago with other members of the Harding cabinet. They are the only members of the Coolidge cabinet who will go into the Hoover official family.

The new cabinet officers confirmed today are:

Henry Lewis Stimson, of New York, secretary of state.

James William Good, of Iowa, secretary of war.

William Dewitt Mitchell, of Minnesota, attorney general.

Walter Folger Brown, of Ohio, postmaster general.

Charles Francis Adams, of Massachusetts, secretary of navy.

Ray Lyman Wilbur, of California, secretary of interior.

Arthur M. Hyde, of Missouri, secretary of agriculture.

Robert Patterson Lamont, of Illinois, secretary of commerce.

STORM THREATENED TO WRECK THREE BLIMPS

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP)—A heavy rain storm, accompanied by a 45 mile an hour wind, tonight threatened to wreck two navy and one army blimps at Bolling field here and the airships were kept anchored to the ground only through the efforts of 150 soldiers and sailors.

Officers of the field, however, said that unless the storm grew worse, they had the situation under control.

The blimps, which had participated in yesterday's inaugural aerial review, were buffeted about by the driving wind and rain, which for a time turned to sleet. Flying crews were placed aboard the air ships and the motors were kept running in case the blimps were swept away from the ground.

The night flying flood lights at the field were turned on and an emergency crew of men was called out. Then groups of 50 men were assigned to handle a score of lines attached to each blimp.

MURDER WARRANTS IN POISONED LIQUOR CASE

PEORIA, Ill., March 5—(AP)—Two men and two women were named in murder warrants issued today as a 16th person died apparently from the effects of poisoned liquor circulated in Peoria and vicinity during the last week end.

The two couples were ordered held by Coroner William B. Elliott, on conclusion of his inquest into the death of Clarence Hoppe, testimony disclosed Hoppe had obtained liquor from C. O. Guffin, reputed bootlegger, who was named with his wife, Nita, in one of the warrants.

The other warrants named Maurice Mansfield and his wife, Jesse, who were reported to have provided Guffin with liquor. The Mansfields were ordered held in jail without bond. The Guffins were admitted to bail.

In the county jail at Lewiston, not far from Peoria, John Cox, 45, was held for manslaughter, also accused of distributing some of the poisoned liquor.

A chemical analysis of some of the fluid taken from vital organs of several of the victims disclosed that the liquor contained from 10 to 15 per cent. wood alcohol, according to Prof. George Ashman, of Bradley Institute, Peoria, who made the analysis for the coroner. He said it appeared that the liquor was industrial alcohol that had been redistilled poorly.

CALVIN COOLIDGE AT HOME; DESIRES NO PUBLICITY

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 5—(AP)—The thirtieth president of the United States and his wife returned to Northampton today to become once again "Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge of Northampton."

Within a half hour of the time they stepped from their train at Northampton station, they were in their modest home on Massasoit street, the house they occupied before Mr. Coolidge became a figure in public.

After five years and seven months in the presidency Mr. Coolidge sought complete and detached retirement and to that end he followed the same taciturn methods which have characterized him in most of his affairs. He made it plain that he desired no publicity. He was a private citizen again and wanted, as far as possible, to be left alone to attend to his private affairs.

CLYDE LINER MOHAWK PULLED OFF SAND BAR

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 5—(AP)—The Clyde Liner Mohawk was pulled late today from a sand bar where it ran aground in the St. John's river this morning. Listing badly to starboard, the vessel proceeded to port under its own power.

Two tugs succeeded in getting the Mohawk afloat about 3:30 p.m., after the vessel had been aground since five o'clock this morning when blown ashore by a gale.

Clyde line officials said everything was "all right." No attempt was made to remove the passengers as the ship was not in danger.

As the tugs wrenched the liner from the shore the vessel listed suddenly and women passengers were heard to scream.

$2,000,000 Fire Loss In Los Angeles

Flames Swept Auto Show—Destroyed Autos, Besides Trucks and Motorcycles.

LOS ANGELES, March 5—(AP)—Damage estimated at $2,000,000 or more was done by a fire which swept the automobile show here this afternoon destroying more than 300 automobiles, besides a number of airplanes, trucks and motor boats. The show was housed in four large tents.

A crowd estimated at 2,500 persons was in the tents when the fire broke out. The band stood by its post and continued playing and the tents were emptied in an orderly manner. Two firemen were the only persons injured.

Witnesses said sparks from either an electric wire or an airplane engine started the fire.

Most of the automobile loss was covered by insurance but the airplanes were not so protected.

DRUNKEN MAN WOUNDED LANDLORD, KILLED HIMSELF

MANCHESTER, Conn., March 5—(AP)—While in a drunken frenzy Ignatz Charley, a tailor, tonight shot and seriously wounded Rocco Farr, his landlord and then killed himself with the same weapon. The shooting took place in the tailor shop and Farr was wounded when he asked Charley to desist from making noise.

The bullet lodged in Farr's neck and he fell to the ground outside the rear door of the shop. Turning the weapon upon himself, Charley, also known as Chabley shot himself through the head. The scene of the shooting was about 300 yards from the police station and Chief Samuel G. Gordon with Captain Herman Schendell and Sergeant John Crockett went to the store when summoned by telephone.

They broke open the rear door and in the darkness found the body of Charley on the floor. Farr was rushed to the Manchester Memorial hospital where his condition is reported as grave.

Charley whose name also appears on a writ of attachment for $1,400 brought by a Norwich resident and returnable in New York, as Chabley, came here last August, buying over the tailor business where the shooting took place. He resided in a boarding house at 231 Center street.

Since yesterday, he had been in a drunken stupor and tonight shortly after 8 o'clock, he came to his shop and began to make considerable noise. Farr was attracted by the disturbance and it is believed when he asked to be admitted to the shop Charley fired from a .38 calibre revolver through the rear window. Farr is one of the best known residents of the city.

SENTENCED FOR BEING A HABITUAL CRIMINAL

HARTFORD, March 5 (AP)—Thomas McLaughlin, 35, single, pleaded guilty to being a habitual criminal, in the criminal superior court today, and was sentenced to state prison for from one to thirty years by Judge Isaac Wolfe on the recommendation of Assistant State's Attorney Donald A. Gaffney. Facing return to Sing Sing for parole violation, he preferred Wethersfield.

His criminal record came to light December 19, when he was arrested and charged with breaking into a Main street lunch room, where he had been formerly employed, and stealing $39. His record is as follows: As Thomas Stare, burglary, Elmira penitentiary, 1910; as Thomas Simpson, burglary in Brooklyn, Sing Sing, 1913; as Thomas Starr, Sing Sing, burglary, 1916, as Charles McKune, 1920, Sing Sing, 10 years for burglary.

Rockefeller Interests "Certain Of Success"

Contest Will Be Settled Thursday at Meeting of Stockholders of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

CHICAGO, March 5—(AP)—The plans the Rockefeller faction has regarding the Standard Oil Company of Indiana are for the removal of Colonel Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of directors, Winthrop W. Aldrich of New York, leader of the group said today.

In the first statement made since he arrived with 16,000 proxies to be used against Stewart, Mr. Aldrich disclaimed any interest in other companies, such as the Standard Oil concerns of New York, New Jersey, Kentucky and Louisiana.

He was asked in regard to rumors that these companies were behind John D. Rockefeller in his demand for Stewart's resignation because the Indiana corporation was stepping on their toes by not confining its activities to its middlewest territory. His reply was a complete denial of such an alliance.

Richard E. Dwight, member of the law firm of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight in New York, supplemented the Aldrich version by explaining "we do not wish to hamper the Standard Oil company of Indiana in any way." Charles Evan Hughes, former supreme court justice, heads the firm represented by Mr. Dwight, and has been active in the Rockefeller fight.

Mr. Aldrich said about 59 per cent of the total of more than 9,000,000 outstanding shares of the company had been checked in against Stewart, and he refused to estimate what percentage of that number would be lost through revocations.

"I am absolutely certain of success, however," he smilingly assured newspaper men.

As to a successor for Colonel Stewart, should he be deposed, Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Dwight were uncommunicative. The Rockefellers have not indicated they favored E. G. Seubert for the position.

They admitted, however, Mr. Seubert is now president of the company and it had been understood the easterners favored him for the chairman of the board, as well as retention of the other board members. The attitude of Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Dwight was that the Rockefeller program as to any other officers of the company, other than Colonel Stewart, was incomplete.

In the meantime the gray haired, huge framed chief executive of the company who dared John D. Jr., to oust him, refused to concede defeat. He said the battle was not over until after the stockholders meeting, to be held Thursday in Whiting, Indiana, where the company has its largest refinery. He had to his credit 99.67 per cent of the proxies of the employes and he claimed the majority of the middlewest stockholders' proxies.

ELIHU ROOT TALKED WITH FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER

GENEVA, March 5—(AP)—Elihu Root today made his first concrete move to get the United States into the world court of justice. He had a long talk with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France this afternoon and explained his formula, written as he traversed the Atlantic. It was designed to bridge the difficulty created by the American reservation concerning the right of the council of the league to ask the court for advisory opinions.

After this meeting, The Associated Press was informed by French circles that France has already manifested a keen desire to have America join the court as a measure of promoting peace. Nevertheless, in the interest of the league and court there remains a question whether the United States can be given privileges which may well be demanded by other non-member states and even by member countries which are not members of the council.

The point of this observation is that the Root formula gives the right to the United States to exchange views with the council to determine whether an American objection to a request for an advisory opinion should be sustained or rejected.

ARRESTED AFTER SERVING SENTENCE AT SING SING

OSSINING, N. Y., March 5—(AP)—A Sing Sing prisoner, famed mainly as the possessor of an alarm clock, which he used, was arrested today at the prison gates as he finished a term for burglary and parole breaking from Manhattan.

The prisoner, Frank Melito, was arrested by Detective William Van Orden, of Paterson, N. J., on a warrant charging grand larceny.

Melito's alarm clock afforded considerable amusement to the other prisoners and keepers as they couldn't see why he should want to use it, since he had no place to go once he was awakened and all the prisoners are called at a certain time in the morning by the keepers.

STUDENT FLIERS KILLED NEAR LAWRENCE, KANSAS

LAWRENCE, Kansas, March 5—(AP)—William Walker of Minneapolis, Minn., and Glenn Southen, Topeka, Kansas, student fliers were killed late today when their airplane crashed into a field south of here.

Both youths were students at the Weil's airport here and Walker also attended the University of Kansas.

Walker was piloting the plane, when it fell and buried its nose in the field.

HEAVY FIGHTING REPORTED IN THE MEXICAN REVOLT

Battle at Railway Center in the State of Nuevo Leon Has Been in Progress Two Days—Federal Troops Are Reported to Have Driven in Some of the Outposts of the Rebels at Vera Cruz—Advices From the City of Vera Cruz Stated That the Ships of the Mexican Navy Stationed There Had Declared For the Rebel Cause—Government to Confiscate Property of Rebels.

(By The Associated Press)

The Mexican government got into action Tuesday with its counter-offensive against the revolution.

Former President Calles took over command of the government forces which will campaign against the northern insurgents in Sonora while General Almazan took the field against the rebels at Vera Cruz.

Heavy fighting was reported from the vicinity of Monterey, important strategic railway center in the state of Nuevo Leon, where battle beginning yesterday was still in progress.

The rebels claimed to have captured Monterey, but this was denied by General Cervera in command of the federal forces at Matamoras, who said that the city had not fallen.

Federal troops were reported to have driven in some of the outposts of the rebels in Vera Cruz.

Direct advices from the city of Vera Cruz stated that the ships of the Mexican navy stationed there had declared for the rebel cause. No fighting had been reported there and the city was stated to be quiet although entirely isolated from the rest of the country.

The government, in addition to its military offensive, struck another blow at the insurgents, announcing that all the property of rebel leaders will be forfeited.

Washington dispatches stated that President Hoover saw no reason to disturb the American policy under which shipments of arms and munitions for the Mexican government have been permitted under license during the last five years.

There was no intimation, however, that any request had come from the Mexican government that it be permitted to purchase war supplies in the United States.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY MEXICAN GOVERNMENT

MEXICO CITY, March 5—(AP)—The federal government tonight announced its first important success in the campaign to crush the revolt which broke out on Sunday. The entire rebel garrison of Orizaba, a regiment numbering about 500 men, was reported to have surrendered to the advancing loyal troops led by Gen. Andreu Almazan. Whether conflict preceded the surrender was not stated.

Orizaba is an important city in the state of Vera Cruz, located on the railroad line which connects the capital with the Gulf of Mexico through the port of Vera Cruz. When Gen. Jesus Maria Aguirre led into rebellion the troops under his command in Vera Cruz, they seized Orizaba together with other important cities of the state. Regained possession by the federals means that they are within 80 miles of the port.

From this communique it would appear tonight that the eastern rebels are confined largely to the coastal plain and would have a sharp uphill fight if they choose to attack the federals.

Former President Calles, now secretary of war because of the emergency, was preparing to direct the campaign against the insurgents in the north. All that was known of the situation in that direction was that the National railway announced it would sell tickets northward of the Laredo line only to San Luis Potosi and on the Juarez line only to Canitas in the state of Zacatecas.

Officials here estimated today that not more than one-sixth of the army, or about 10,000 men out of more than 60,000, have joined the rebel movement. The authorities pointed out that in the De la Huerta revolution in 1923 more than half of the army revolted, and yet the government won.

Government officials continue to be confident that they will suppress the present revolution. They admit that it is more serious than the short-lived Gonzalez-Serrano affair of last July but maintained that it is less serious than the De la Huerta attempt.

It is reported that the insurgents control Monterey, Saltillo, Vera Cruz and other cities in the state of Vera Cruz and in Sonora. Both Tampico and Oaxaca City were reported to have remained loyal with their federal garrisons.

The federal authorities have cut the Southern Pacific line on the west coast so as to prevent the Sonora rebels from moving south, because there are no other railroad connections.

Between Sonora and the central part of the republic the government believes the insurgents will be unable to advance against other states.

As the situation is outlined here, it appears that there are three rebellions in as many separate states. Apparently the government strategy is to send expeditions first against Vera Cruz and Coahuila and then to concentrate against Sonora. Insurgents in Sonora are regarded as isolated and unable to join rebels in other states.

Strong federal forces continued mobilizing today for the Vera Cruz campaign. They formed in three columns, perhaps totaling 15,000 men, assembling on both the Inter-Oceanic and Mexicano railroads, between 60 and 110 miles from the capital.

General Aguirre, commander of the Vera Cruz insurgents, was reported to have left that city to organize his forces in the field. He is reputed to lead about 3,000 men.

HOARDING OF FOOD BEGUN IN MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, March 5—(AP)—Food prices advanced and hoarding began here today which led the newspaper El Universal Grafico to suggest a food dictatorship to prevent profiteering. So far there has been no scarcity of food although some householders are purchasing quantities of such staples as flour and canned goods.

In the foreign colonies there is much interest in the situation, but no excitement. Many foreigners resident here have gone through revolutions before and found that life in the capital was little or not at all disturbed. They do not seem to regard themselves as in any danger.

It was estimated that several hundred tourists from the United States are in the capital. No trains are running direct to the border and apparently the only way they can get out at present is to go by railroad to San Luis Potosi and then to Tampico, where they can take ship.

A "REAL LOVE MATCH" TERMINATES IN DIVORCE

NEWPORT, R. I., March 5—(AP)—A romance which had been hailed as a "real love match," was definitely terminated here today, when Muriel Vanderbilt Church was granted a divorce from her gridiron hero husband, Frederic C. Church, Jr.

The decree was granted by Judge Edward W. Blodgett, of the superior court on the grounds of desertion.

Neither of the couple appeared in court as Church had not contested the action and testimony was all by deposition.

Mrs. Church deposed that although her husband was not without means, he had failed to provide for her and that she had been forced to devote her own funds to her support. A deposition from her mother, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, supported her contention. Another deposition, from Chief of Police James Bloomfield, of Middletown, R. I., was introduced to show she had made her home at her estate in that town more than two years.

The marriage of the daughter of William K. Vanderbilt, July 25, 1925, to the former Harvard football star was the most brilliant function in the Newport society colony in many years. Church was graduated from Harvard in 1920. He was the hero of the intersectional post-season football game in 1919, scoring the touchdown that gave Harvard a victory over Oregon.

Mrs. Church filed her suit for divorce February 2, when it was learned the couple had been living apart about six months. Church, at the time expressed surprise. He is associated with his father in Boston in an insurance business.

A VAST SEIZURE OF NARCOTICS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)—Narcotics valued at $1,000,000, at retail prices were seized as they were being shipped by express to distributors of the illegal drug trade in the south and west.

Four men, one of them said to be a professional bodyguard to gangsters were arrested and held in high bail and arrest of another was postponed temporarily because of his illness.

As in the case of other narcotics seizures in the past, the name of Arnold Rothstein, slain gambler and reputed banker of an international drug syndicate, was connected with today's activities.

On the prisoners when they were arrested were papers showing exchanges of money between them and Rothstein through a mortgage company owned by the gambler. It was through a tip gleaned from Rothstein's papers after his death that federal agents seized $2,000,000 worth of narcotics being transported to Chicago several months ago by Joseph Unger, now serving a long term in Atlanta.

Some of the packages seized today already were in the hands of the express company and some merely prepared for shipment.

PLAN "BETTER VARIETY OF APPLES PROGRAM"

STORRS, March 5—(AP)—William H. Darrow, fruit specialist of the Connecticut Agricultural college extension department, today announced the cooperation of agricultural colleges in New England to work under a plan of "better variety of apples program." This project was stressed last year and the combined plans of the different stations were arranged, under three headings.

First—Grafting over the young trees of the odd varieties to the "New England seven" which include Baldwin, Macintosh, Northern Spy, Gravenstein, Wealthy, Rhode Island Greening and Delicious. Second, the planting of only the "New England seven" except in a limited way for special or local markets. Third, the cutting down of old trees especially the unprofitable ones and those of the odd varieties not in demand.

The methods as prescribed by the combined extension departments will give the New England farmer added profits and an increase in his individual sales by growing these varieties now in demand, it was said. This would eliminate the production of the odd varieties that have passed their useful and practical stage on the market today.

REPARATIONS EXPERTS EXPECT DEFINITE FIGURES

PARIS, March 5—(AP)—The experts engaged in revision of the Dawes plan for reparations payments are indicating to their friends that they hope to reach definite figures toward the end of this week and certain by the beginning of next. Their desire is to conclude the heavy work before Easter and take an adjournment for a few days before returning to draw up the final texts of their recommendations. Their deliberations have reached the documentary stage.

A DULL DAY IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, March 6—While there was not a great amount of action in the assembly today, ten committees were holding hearings.

Among those that were attracting attention was H. B. 58, an act amending the charter of the Masonic Charity Foundation of Connecticut. The act would strike out the provision in the present charter whereby the sisters and daughters of Masons may receive the benefits of the home at Wallingford.

The judiciary had before them resolutions concerning the appointment of Henry A. Adams as judge and Lewis J. Fontaine as deputy judge of the town court of Sprague.

The appropriations committee had before them bills for repairs at Groton monument and for repair of the headstone and care of the grave of Colonel Ledyard.

Norwich Board Granted Extension

An emergency act was passed in both the house and senate which extends the time to March 9, in which the Norwich board of relief may complete their work. It also extends the time in which appeals may be taken from the findings of the board to May 9. The bill was passed in both houses under suspension of the rules.

BOARD OF RELIEF CUTS $41,814 FROM GRAND LIST

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 5—The corrected grand list of the town of Windham as completed by the board of relief this forenoon totals $17,915,975, showing a reduction of $41,814 from the figures of the town assessors which were $17,957,789. The board acted on a large number of complaints of property owners at a series of eight meetings. The 1928 grand list is increased by $346,303 over the 1927 list, but offsetting the increased revenue from this swelling of the tax valuations is an increase in the town budget for 1928-1929 of $19,000 over the previous year. The total of the budget for this year's business is $328,500. The town faces an unexpected expense in the nature of a state and county tax. This tax was over $20,000 last year and this week First Selectman William A. Buck received a bill for state and county taxes which must be met this month and which amounts to $23,000. The former board of selectmen had been of the opinion that an item of $15,000 in the budget would amply cover this state and county tax, indicated that an expenditure of $8,000 must now be made which was not expected.

On the 1927 grand list the rate was 14 mills and with the increase of nearly $350,000 in the grand list, there is general belief that a similar tax rate will suffice this year. The town has additional revenue other than from taxation of about $70,000 due this year. About $40,000 of this amount comes from high and grammar school tuition from outside towns, personal taxes, etc.

The board of relief which consists of Charles Palmer, J. Octave Blanchette and Cyril A. Lamoureux filed its report at the office of the town clerk today and sent a copy to be filed with the state tax commissioner at Hartford. Included in the reports are the expenses of the members. The assessors' bill was for $1,530.60 and that of the board of relief $100.15.

BELIEVES DEER-KILLING RING OPERATES IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 5—Chief State Warden W. J. Williams inferred in a statement made today that a deer killing ring existed in this section with several Willimantic men as the prime movers and backers of this unusual "racket". He based his belief on a report that many deer had been slain in this territrov this year in an illegal manner, resulting in the arrest and conviction of three men who were tried in the Hampton town court Monday night. Fred Duprey of this city was charged with killing a wild deer and upon his plea of guilty was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $82.05. Frank Lynch, also of this city was charged with possession of the deer in question. He was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $42.95. The third member of the trio implicated in the deer-killing was Herbert Porter of Hebron who was charged with assisting to take a wild deer. He was also fined $25 and costs amounting to $35.75. Like Duprey, the latter two men pleaded guilty. It was alleged that the deer was killed on March first, the violation having been under investigation since that time by Deputy Game Warden George A. Willis of Chaplin. State Warden Williams and Special Deputy J. D. Healy who assisted Warden Willis in closing the investigation were in this city for a time today to secure information on other similar infractions of the law alleged to involve local men. In remarking at the surprisingly large number of deer slain in this territory this year Deputy-Healy said: "We intend to wage an unrelenting campaign so that this wrong doing may be stopped."

CAPT. CHASE IS SPEAKER AT ROTARY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 5—Captain Thornton Chase, commander of the R. O. T. C. unit at Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs delivered an instructive talk on The Military Policy of the United States this noon at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club of which he is a new member. The meeting was held in the Nathan Hale hotel and was in charge of President Raymond A. Parker. In his talk Captain Chase traced the military policy of the nation since the outbreak of the Revolutionary war to the present time. In reference to the Civil War he made a significant statement in that the war could and should have been decisively won by the north at the Battle of Bull Run, lack of policy and the existence of time-enlistments accounting for the prolonged struggle. He concluded with an endorsement of the provisions of the act of 1920 which has met with favorable comment by President Hoover.

It was announced that the initiation of the seven new members would be held at next week's meeting when the ceremonial of the building of the Rotary wheel will be carried out under the chairmanship of James P. Mustard. The new members are: Ralph H. Gibson, Paul L. Moran, Nelson A. Daniels, Captain Thornton Chase, Professor Albert E. Moss, Raymond E. Shepard and Earl J. Arnold.

Chairman Herbert W. Huber of the program committee announced that the meeting of March 19 would be in charge of John F. Ahern, chairman of the public relations committee. Representative Albert E. Lavery of Bridgeport, former governor of the 30th Rotary district will speak on "Club Service" under the chairmanship of Justice George E. Hinman at the meeting of March 26.

An outline of the program for the District spring conference to be held in Hartford April 18 and 19 was given by Professor Richard E. Dodge who is chairman of the program for this event. President Parker appointed the following committee to arrange for the attendance of local members at the conference: Sumner A. Dole, chairman, Wilfred A. Gagnon, Ralph H. Gibson, Nelson A. Daniels and Louis A. Kingsbury.

Mrs. Ellen O. D. Hennessey.

Mrs. Ellen O. Dwyer Hennessey died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary C. Wilgon of Jamaica Plains, Mass., this morning. She leaves her daughter; three grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. William V. Palmer of this city; one brother, Frank O. Dwyer of Cambridge, Mass., and several nieces and nephews.

The newly elected directors of the Retail Merchants' bureau of the chamber of commerce held their first meeting in the chamber rooms this forenoon with President James H. Hurley in charge. President Hurley read a request from the committee in charge of the state conventions of the Christian Endeavor unions which will be held here early in April asking for the cooperation of the merchants. The request was referred to a committee with a recommendation that the merchants offer their assistance in staging the four conventions scheduled for this city. Among the several mercantile matters discussed was the project of establishing a Retail Merchants' Credit bureau. This proposition is expected to come up at a later date for action.

Mrs. James F. English, wife of the pastor of the Second Congregational church of Putnam will be the speaker at a meeting of the Ladies' society of the Congregational church to be held here Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. English is Windham county vice president of the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut.

After doing business at the same stand, 738 Main street, for the past 39 years, the firm of Brick & Sullivan, shoe dealers, is now about to remove to a new location on the street. The business was founded at the old location by John E. Brick in 1890 who three years later took into partnership J. E. Sullivan, who now retains an interest in the business, Mr. Brick having retired. The store became connected with a group of shoe shops January 1, last, when Mark D. Emerson of Boston, Mass., took over the interests of Mr. Brick. Archille J. Veziard, member of the sales force, has been connected with the company for 28 years, while Miss Alice Peterson, another employe, has been with the firm for six years.

John R. McCarthy of this city will be one of the speakers at a gathering of the students of the Connecticut Agricultural college in the Community house at Storrs Wednesday morning.

The Exchange club will start work in a few days to have the word Willimantic painted on the spacious roof of the New Haven railroad freight house near the Bridge street crossing for the information and assistance of aviators.

Edward Skoglund and Miss Mildred Frost of Simsbury have returned there after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Skoglund. They came here to attend the Bunnell-Skoglund wedding Saturday.

Coach Sumner A. Dole of the Connecticut Agricultural college will referee the contest of a three-game series between Warren Harding and Central High school in Bridgeport Wednesday afternoon, returning here to preside at the Academy-Windham game to be played off at the state armory in the evening.

Mrs. James P. Bath is now with Mrs. Lizzie Bath in Miami, after being guest for several weeks of Mrs. H. C. Murray in Orange City, Fla.

At the regular meeting of the Willimantic Exchange club held in the Nathan Hale hotel this evening the following programs for March were announced by the entertainment committee: March 12, Real Estate, George M. Graves; March 19, Athletics, by Coach Sumner A. Dole of C. A. C. with Harold C. Lincoln in charge; March 26, Psychology and the Auctioneer, E. M. Granger, Jr., of Thompsonville.

Major Lewis W. Baker of Hartford, who was to have been the speaker, was unable to fill the appointment and Edwin J. Donnelly, a member gave a treatise on Hearts Desires.

COLCHESTER

TOWN MEETING PUT OVER TILL TUESDAY OF NEXT WEEK

The adjourned town meeting scheduled for Monday evening in Grange hall, was again adjourned, this time until next Tuesday at which time the annual town tax will be laid and several other important matters will be brought to the attention of the taxpayers. The second adjournment was found necessary in view of the fact that the board of relief was delayed in completing its work on the grand list figures so that very little time was given the selectmen to prepare the ensuing year's budget before the Monday night meeting. Selectman Chas. A. Kramer called the meeting to order at 7:30 Monday evening and Charles F. Brown was the chairman. Immediately after opening the meeting, a motion was made to adjourn until next Tuesday.

Miss Cora E. Carrier, teacher in Hartford schools is spending a week's vacation at her home on South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dember and Joseph Weinstein were callers in Hartford Monday.

The March business and social meeting of the S. S. S. C. 4-H club was held Monday afternoon at the home of the leader, Mrs. H. H. Tompkins. After business, games were played and refreshments were served by the hostesses, Misses Anna Sigal and Gertrude Seger. The next gathering will be a sewing meeting at which all finished work will be judged.

ROBT. BROOKS' RECORD SWIM IN ITALIAN STRAITS

A former Colchester boy, Robert Brooks, recently made a record swim across the dangerous Italian straits a distance of over three miles from the city of Messina to the Italian mainland in about fifty minutes. Mr. Brooks is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brooks, now of Asheville, North Carolina, former residents of Colchester, when James Brooks was principal of Bacon Academy for a number of years. The son, Robert is a graduate of Wesleyan university, class of 1926 and is now a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, England. It was during a short vacation in Italy that he recently accomplished the remarkable swimming feat.

EAST WOODSTOCK

ANCIENT GRIST MILL RAZED BY NEW OWNER

The old grist mill built by Colonel Elisha Lyon nearly 100 years ago, is being torn down by L. H. Lindeman the present owner. It has been unfit for use since it was badly damaged by ice when the dams gave way several years ago. For fifty or more years it was operated by Nathan (Miller) Morse and son Marcus B. Morse, both deceased. Mrs. Lindeman has only had the property about one and one-half years. It is located on the Main street by the bridge.

Mr. B. E. Eddy and Alden Adams attended the funeral of their mother, Mr. Adams, at Montague City, Mass., Sunday. She had been in failing health for sometime and was over 80.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McMullen, Mrs. Eva McDougal and daughter of Waterbury spent the week end with George Neely and family.

A largely attended meeting of the League of Women Voters was held with Mrs. Asa Scranton last week Wednesday. Mr. Clinton Taylor had an interesting paper on Latin America, a discussion following. The hostess served cake, cookies and tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy White of Brookfield, Mass., spent the week end at their home here.

COLUMBIA

TOWN TO CELEBRATE ITS 125TH ANNIVERSARY

At a well attended town meeting Saturday afternoon subjects discussed included the road which has just reverted to the town from the state, from Katzman's corner to the intersection of the state highway. This stretch was abandoned when the road was straightened out last year. It was voted to abandon the road. A subject discussed at some length was in regard to repairs of the roads. At the town meeting last October it was voted to buy a road truck and procure a roadmaster. At Saturday's meeting this vote was rescinded, as the majority seemed to think that it would not solve the road problem. A vote was passed leaving the repair of the highway to the board of selectmen, as in the past. A committee of five was appointed to consider some plan of celebrating the 125th anniversary of the incorporation of Columbia this spring. The following committee was appointed by the moderator: Hubert Collins, Mrs. Henry Hutchins, Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, Clair Robinson and Edward Lyman. One hundred and twenty-five dollars was appropriated by the meeting toward the expenses of such a celebration. It was voted to add $200 to the estimated expense for the year for town paupers, also to add $1000 to the budget to pay for indexing probate records. The last vote was to lay a 13 mill tax on the grand list; said tax payable April 7, 1929.

The heaviest snow of the season fell Saturday afternoon and early in the evening. It stuck to everything it touched, so that when the sun rose Sunday morning it was a most beautiful sight. The storm had other effects not so beautiful, inasmuch as there were no electric lights in town for most of the evening. Some lighted candles and others went to bed early and got a little sleep ahead. The snow plows cleaned the state roads at an early hour, but the country roads with a layer of snow over the previous mud and ruts are in bad shape for auto travel.

At the Sunday morning service of the Congregational church, the pastor spoke on the Last Supper. At the close of the service the Lord's Supper was observed. Mrs. Charles Watsch and Miss Anne Dix were received into membership, by letters from Brooklyn churches.

Miss Marie Field was leader of the C. E. meeting Sunday evening. Her subject was "Rercruiting for Christ." It was the monthly consecration meeting.

The town schools opened Monday morning after a week's vacation. The pupils attending school at the Windham High school have also had a vacation, both being on the eight-weeks plan now.

William Wolff has just purchased 1200 baby chicks. Mrs. Ruth Jacobs has just added 200 to her flock, making over 700.

The real wit has a little to say, but makes that little tell.

"Nothing stirs the heart like soft, smooth skin,"

say 39 leading motion picture directors

A GIRL with lovely skin, petal-smooth, has a delightful sense of confidence. She knows that she wins hearts wherever she goes.

Hollywood has found that it is only the girl with exquisite skin whose charm really wins and holds the great public.

As Lewis Milestone, Paramount director, puts it: "Smooth, exquisite skin is more captivating than anything else about a girl. A screen star especially must have perfect skin—for the cleverest make-up can't fake it under the fierce lights of the close-up.

"The girls who have achieved stardom," he goes on to say, "though they differ widely in type, all have this essential beauty of marvelous skin."

9 out of 10 screen stars keep their skin smooth with Lux Toilet Soap

When the popular close-up is being taken, the glare from the new incandescent "sun-spot" lights streams down on the screen star, and any defect in her skin would inevitably be registered on the highly sensitized film.

This is why, of the 451 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 442 are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap. They have found that this delicately fragrant white soap gives their skin the satin-smoothness necessary for the close-up.

In fact, so delighted are they with this soap that it has been made the official soap in the dressing rooms of all the great film studios.

You will be charmed with Lux Toilet Soap, too. Try it—today. Remember: nine out of ten screen stars use it for smooth skin.

BETTY BRONSON, Warner Brothers' star, says: "A star must have smooth skin—'studio skin'. I find Lux Toilet Soap wonderful for my skin."

MARY BRIAN, exquisite little Paramount star, in the bathroom of dark marble and gray-green tile which is one of the most luxurious built in Hollywood.

She is one of the 442 important screen actresses who use Lux Toilet Soap to keep their skin lovely and smooth. She says: "The charm of a perfect skin is a social asset to any woman, but for a star it is a business necessity, too! That's why so many stars guard the smoothness of their skin with Lux Toilet Soap—it certainly keeps 'studio skin' in perfect condition."

DANIELSON

HARTFORD WILL ROGERS IS SPEAKER AT CHAMBER MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 6—An open meeting of the chamber of commerce was held this evening in the community room of the Eastern Connecticut Power company's building with President E. M. Wilbur presiding and with Will Rogers of Hartford as the speaker of the evening. It was the first meeting the chamber has held in the cozily appointed community room and the first time the majority of those attending had seen this and adjoining rooms that the power company has made available for community gatherings.

Something of Mr. Rogers' mission here may be indicated by quoting the title of his talk—You Have Got to Run Like H——Today to Keep From Standing Still. The main objective of President Wilbur's administration as president of the chamber of commerce this year is to speed up Danielson's ambition to get new industries, to expand its manufacturing activities. In a word, to speed it up industrially. Mr. Rogers splendid talk this evening is the real opening of the drive toward that end.

In line with the problem of clearing of radio interference in Danielson there came the suggestion today for a meeting of dealers in radio sets, representatives of electric light and telephone companies and owners of sets with the object of forming a committee representative of all of these interests to work together toward the elimination of the trouble.

The plan involves some work. No interested person, it is held, would hardly deny that the probable results would be well worth it. The work would involve checking up all possible sources of interference in the borough, and arranging for the correction of them. Making the check up would bring the bulk of the work. It likely would include checks on noisy oil heaters, on electrical devices within homes as well as on lines and connections of the service company. A detector device to search out origins of noises that interfere with radio reception is understood to be available for use in the work it is proposed to do. The point is stressed that such a committee as is suggested should work together in the most friendly spirit for the general good of all. Radio has become part of the daily life of hundreds of Danielson people. It can educate as well as entertain. To make it possible to enjoy it and benefit by it to the utmost good reception is necessary. That can be obtained, it is asserted, if the lines suggested here are followed out. Clearing up the present trouble would be a good stroke of business for all concerned. It has been done in other towns and, without doubt, can be done here.

The first of the quarantined dogs that have been vaccinated will regain their liberty in Danielson the coming week end. Knowing that the quarantine was to be made effective, some owners had their dogs vaccinated well in advance of the enforcement of the order. These dogs are now doing their last week of confinement. From the week end on there will be releases of vaccinated dogs from day to day as they complete their 21 days in durance vile. In another fortnight there will be dozens of these immunized dogs at liberty in Danielson, a fact that is mentioned to prevent creating the impression that their owners are not obeying the quarantine regulations. All of the vaccinated dogs will have a special tag attached to their collars, setting forth that they have been treated. Owners of them hold dated certificates to that effect from the veterinarian who did the vaccination, so that releases of dogs cannot be faked without getting the owner into difficulties with the enforcement authorities.

Norwich Man Jailed

This morning Michael Wall of Norwich was presented before Judge W. Fenton Woodward in the town court to answer to charges of operating a motor vehicle without having a license to do so, and with driving a motor vehicle without permission of the owner. Wall was fined $5 on the first count, $10 on the second count, with costs of prosecution of $14.37. Not having the $29.37 necessary to pay the court bill he was taken to the county jail at Brooklyn. It was understood he hoped to get the money to bring about his release this afternoon.

Killingly Grange observed Inaugural night at its regular meeting last evening and the feature numbers of the program dealt with inaugural matters, past and present. Mrs. Verna Cartier presented a paper on The Inauguration of George Washington. Particularly interesting was the debate on the subject, Resolved, that the Presidential Inauguration and the Opening of Congress Should Take Place Jan. 1. Messrs Frank J. G. Bailey and Walter G. Bruce had the affirmative side and Rev. Charles A. Downs and Charles E. Haynes the negative. No decision was given, but it may be related that both sides brought forth some strong arguments and many important points, both for and against a change from March 4. Mrs. Charles A. Downs gave a talk on Inaugurations of the Past Compared With Those of the Present Day. Entertainingly Mrs. Downs traced inauguration customs from the days early presidents of the Union rode into Washington on horseback to take their oath of office through the changing times up to the present day with its elaborate ceremonies and with the wonder of the radio to let countless millions listen in on the proceedings. really have quite a thrilling little part in it, though hundreds of miles away. Grange songs were sung during the course of the meeting.

Serving up thrillers for an avid public must be an exhausting mental stunt for the special writers who work on them, but it probably isn't so hard if one is allowed certain freedom in juggling around facts. Take a feature section of a Boston paper of last Sunday, for instance. It had an illustrated story of Frank Weeden, noted Rhode Island criminal, forcing Edward Pinkham of East Killingly to dig his own grave. As a matter of fact, Weeden had nothing at all to do with that creepy experience in young Pinkham's life. An escaped inmate of the Norwich state hospital, one Harrington who had lived in this town before his commitment was the man that had Pinkham booked to dig his own grave, under Harrington's supervision, with tools stolen from where they were stored at a small building at Westfield cemetery. This episode happened several years ago. At the time Weeden was in custody.

Next Tuesday is to be the 41st anniversary of the great blizzard of March 12, 1888. No storm even comparable to it in intensity has since visited this section of eastern Connecticut, though there are old residents of this town who recall one of even a earlier date that was its equal in severity. Judge James N. Tucker of East Killingly said this afternoon that the 1888 storm left a deposit of about three feet of snow on the level in his section of the town. He also recalled having been told by F. A. Jacobs of Danielson, who was in New York when the storm started on a Monday, that when Mr. Jacobs managed to return to Danielson on the following Friday no vehicle had yet traversed Main street, piled high with drifts. Another recollection of this storm from another source was that where the highway passes through a hollow over in the Sparks district men tunneled a road through the great drifts and drove through it for several days thereafter. There were several deaths in this section of the county as a direct result of the storm.

Max E. Bretschneider, who is in the engineering department of one of the great western railroad systems and usually stationed at Horton, Kan., has been ordered to Silvis, Ill., to help run road tests on a new high power type of freight locomotive. He will be out on the road the greatest part of the time. Mr. Bretschneider, a graduate of Killingly high school and of Northeastern university, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arndt Bretschneider of Mechanic street.

A roaming dog, without collar or tag, was held at the police station this morning until turned over to a veterinarian to be disposed of in accord with practice in force during the quarantine period.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Atwood of Wauregan are leaving this week for a stay in Bermuda. They are to return just prior to Easter.

Selectmen of the town have their March meeting scheduled for Wednesday, at which time the final draft of the budget for the current year will be approved for submission to the electors.

Thursday evening at the Westfield Congregational church Rev. Harding W. Gaylord will deliver one of a series of special Lenten sermons under the general topic Four Great Realities of Life.

PUTNAM

SELECTMEN TO RECOMMEND TAX RATE OF 12 1-2 MILLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 5—Despite the fact that the grand list of the town of Putnam for the year has decreased over a half million dollars from a year ago, and with a $10,000 county tax legally due from the town of Putnam, the board of selectmen have decided to recommend the tax rate of 12 1-2 mills the same as it was in 1928. This was disclosed this morning by the board of selectmen following their meeting held at the town building on Monday evening.

At the meeting of Monday evening all appropriations for the general town expense were made, the two most important items being outside poor $12,500 and for the upkeep of highways $9,000. Funds were also set aside for the celebration of a number of national holidays during the year.

The meeting held behind closed doors was a lengthy one, because of time spent in figuring the budget to the closest possible dollar in order to obtain a tax rate that would net the town enough revenue to meet the current expenses which will be greatly increased this year. At first it was thought that a greatly increased rate over the comparatively low assessment of 12 1-2 would have to be decided upon this year, but it was discovered that the old tax rate would be satisfactory and would be recommended to the voters at the adjourned town meeting to be held on next Monday morning. Unless some unforeseen project that will necessitate financial backing from the town treasury develops the 12 1-2 mill tax rate will be levied on all property.

Clarence E. Pierce, William P. Warren and Edward E. Girard, who comprise the board of selectmen were this morning highly elated over their accomplishment in being able to maintain the town of Putnam during the year 1929 on the same economical financial basis which they attained during the past two years in office.

An alphabetical list of all industries and manufacturers in the city of Putnam is now being compiled by the new industries committee of the chamber of commerce to be inserted into a national buyers' guide. Major C. A. Richard is chairman of a sub-committee to gather the necessary information and has about completed his work on the subject. The local manufacturers who have submitted their names and an account of products manufactured by them will be listed in the guide. An effort is being made to make the list as complete as possible and those who have not been aproached should communicate with Major Richard at once.

Selectman William P. Warren said this morning that the board of selectmen in cooperating with the state department of domestic animals in an effort to stamp out all trace of rabies will provide Dog Warden E. L. Chandler with an improvised dog pound to be used during the duration of the quarantine. Mr. Warren said that Warden Chandler appeared before the selectmen Monday evening and outlined tentative plans for three or four kennel enclosures to confine dogs suspected of having rabies, during a period of observation. Mr. Warren agreed that the proposed dog pound was a necessity and could be had at little expense to the town. No definite location has been decided upon but according to the selectmen today several sites, satisfactory to all and complying with the regulations of the department of domestic animals are available. The construction of a "pound" was asked Monday by Special Acting Chief Deputy of the Department of Domestic Animals Chauncey E. Genung, state director of the enforcement of the quarantine.

A city tax rate on real property of six mills as recommended by Mayor Charles A. Richard and members of the city council to meet the expenses to be incurred by the appropriations recently made to manage the affairs of various city departments was approved by a turnout of citizens estimated at 13, at the special city meeting held Monday in the town hall on Church street. All appropriations as were outlined in the call to the voters were passed. Although the turnout was an increase of one voter more than the attendance at the meeting of last year, the crowd was small enough so that all were able to voice an opinion but none did other than to approve of the items carried in the call.

At the adjourned meeting of the common council held two weeks ago the aldermanic body announced that they forced to increase the city tax rate one half to meet the expense of the city budget. At this matter was brought to the forum at the meeting yesterday there was no comment whatever on the matter, it meeting the approval of the 13 voters assembled. Mayor Richard presided at the meeting.

The weekly meeting of the Bridge Widows slated to have been held last evening at the home of Mrs. J. Dyer Potter on Grove street, was postponed because of the inability of a number of the club members to be participants in the bridge contests. Mrs. Potter said that the widows will be entertained at her home on next Monday evening.

A number of cases scheduled for a hearing this morning in police court before Judge M. H. Geissler were continued until Thursday and Friday mornings of this week. This was done in the accommodations to prisoners under bonds.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Congregational church parlors for Mrs. Susan M. Riordan, who died Sunday evening at the "Haven" home in Abington. The service was in charge of Rev. James M. English, pastor of the church. Burial was in Webster.

Mrs. Riordan was formerly of Putnam. She was the widow of Charles Riodan who formerly made his home in this city.

PLAINFIELD

THE LEES BROTHERS START TO MOTOR TO WEST COAST

Thomas Lees and Samuel Lees, sons of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Lees left in their automobile Monday morning for the Pacific coast, going to one of the fruit valleys of Washington where Samuel Lees has a position awaiting him. The young men will take the southern route, going through Texas and stopping to see some Plainfield people in Arizona, Westerly Blanchard's people. The young men plan, after reaching a milder climate, to camp along the way. Friends wish the adventurers every success.

When it was learned that Thomas Lees was to leave the Lawton Mills, the employes of the repair shop made him several valuable gifts. Samuel Lees recently received his discharge from the army, having been located at Fort Adams.

Two new Scouts were made Feb. 15th, Lawrence Krauss, and Edmond Herbert. Percy Wilcox, Stephen Wilcox and Ernest Plassman have received their second class pins.

Williams Barstow arrived home last week from Framingham, Mass., where he and Mrs. Barstow have been for the winter. Mrs. Barstow will return later.

The Woman's club is to hold its meeting March 7 at the Community house.

Chauncey Hill of Central Village is gaining at Day Kimball hospital, after an injury received Monday, Feb. 18. It is probable that he will have to remain at the hospital for some time yet.

HOPKINTON, R. I.

The superintendent of schools for this town in union with Richmond and Charlestown, O. R. McCoy, has been attending the convention of the superintendent's department of the National Educational association, in Cleveland Ohio.

An adjourned financial town meeting to consider building an addition to Hope Valley school house and disposing of unused school property was held in the town hall last Thursday afternoon. The meeting was well attended but adjourned soon after being called to order, without accomplishing anything.

George N. Crandall, 81, who died at his home in North Hopkinton, March 1st, was a lifelong resident of this town. He served the town as one of its tax assessors and in other capacities for several years. He was a farmer, a good neighbor and of a jolly disposition.

Sarah Frances Langworthy, who passed away in Providence, March 3rd, lived for many years in Yomaugag Valley, in this town. She had nearly reached the age of 59. She was a member of the Second S. D. B. church of Hopkinton, and in the prime of life was active in church work. Her husband was a deacon of that church. A daughter, a brother, and a sister survive her.

The Shippee sawmill has been moved to Chase Hill and is sawing the lumber from a large tract of land.

During the storm Saturday evening the street electric lights and many telephones were put out of commisison.

Mrs. Walter D. Kenyon is spending some time in a sanatorium in Melrose, Mass., for rest and treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Kenyon were callers at the home of Rev. E. P. Mathewson last Monday afternoon.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

BROTHER OF PRENTICE CHASE DIES SUDDENLY TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 5—P. W. Chase, welfare superintendent for the Ashland Cotton Co., received a telephone call from Washington, R. I., this morning at 1 o'clock, telling of the sudden death of his oldest brother, Ralph E. Chase, 46. Heart trouble was the cause, as he was at work as usual Monday morning. Mr. Chase was the overseer of weaving, dressing and spooling in the Washington woolen mills, where he has been employed 21 years. Besides his wife, two sons survive, Edgar and Prentice, his parents, two brothers and two sisters. Mr. Chase left for Washington immediately by automobile, returning late today.

Water Too High for Fishing.

The appearance of fishing tackle for sale in the windows has caused speculation relative to the probable luck in local brooks. Recent stockings, it was said, should cause a little pick-up over the creels of last spring. Five brook have received several thousand fingerlings. A pair of the early liners were out looking over the water Tuesday with the result that no trout were actually labelled for future reference. Three local streams in southern Griswold were over their banks Tuesday night. One in Pachaug is close up to the bridge that spans it on one of the back country roads.

The local craft were considerably interested in the news in the Danielson column, to the effect that one at least, of the "battleship" variety had been located in the town of Killingly.

It is figured here that Havey's brook a mile above the town, in the home of one considerably good sized trout.

A Griswold man, a while ago built a small electric lighting station on the brook, a little way below his home. A small dam was constructed with a sluiceway ditch at one side, where runs a home made wooden overshot water wheel, of the one time "Old Mill" type. The plant worked O. K. until the othr night the lights went out. Hurrying out, the owner found the mill, dynamo, wheel and dam intact, but noticed it soon, that the water was low in the little pond. Following up the stream a ways with a lantern, his surprise was almost overcoming, when he found two trout had blocked the brook. One was north-bound, the other south, they sideswiped in passing, locked fins, and dammed the stream.

Girls Defeat Westerly.

The girls bowling team from the Lorraine club, Westerly, lost 3 strings to the Acco club, at the Park bowling alleys in Jewett City, Monday evening. An enthusiastic gallery watched a fine exhibition of young women bowling skill. The local contestants were Wanda and Mary Solenski, Catherine Misiaseck, Elizabeth Chase, Lillian Dugas, Stello Shorey.

The two evenly matched teams now stand one and one. The deciding strings promise much interest when the rubber takes place at the A. C. house.

FUNERAL.

Mrs. Mary Brown Whipple.

The funeral services for Mrs. Mary Brown Whipple, who died in Auburn, R. I., were held in Jewett City Methodist church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. J. W. Carter conducted the services. Burial was in Jewett City cemetery. The bearers were two sons, Fred and George Whipple, a son-in-law, William Walpole, Ralph Worrell and George Evans of Auburn. There were many beautiful flowers. Relatives and friends who attended from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. William Walpole, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morrell and George Evans of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whipple of Cranston, Mrs. Ida Herrick, of Norwich, Mrs. Eva Burdick and daughter Ethel and Miss Spencer of Mystic. Mr. and Mrs. Scott Roode of Lisbon. Mrs. Phebe Belcher, Mr. and Mrs. George Scussel, Elaine Scussel, Dorothy and Norman Belcher of Stafford Springs, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and Mrs. Martin Brown of Willimantic and Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver of Norwich Town.

To Entertain Granges.

Pachaug grange is planning to entertain a number of neighboring granges Thursday evening. The speakers to be Mr. and Mrs. Fred Midgely of Worcester. They were sent by the grangers of the United States to take charge of the Near East orphanage and teach the children agriculture on the Island of Syra, Greece, where they were stationed for three years. Mrs. Midgely is a cousin of Mrs. W. B. Montgomery who will entertain them during their stay in Pachaug.

Mrs. E. H. Hiscox visited Tuesday her cousin, Miss Gertrude L. Arnold, who has been ill for nearly two weeks, at her home in Windham.

High Lights of the Storm.

The stories told by two actual observers of the elaborate illuminations that have been unintentionally pulled off locally within a week are of much interest.

The first was Saturday evening during the latter part of the 5-hour blizzard that visited this section. In the rear of St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon, the high tension wires of the Connecticut Light & Power Co., come into the local district. The wind blew a gale, and as the wires swung together, the arcing of the high voltage current, was communicated to the snow-filled air, giving the impression that the very sky itself was afire. Monday night at the electric power-house, a jumping current, was taken over by the heavy fog that hung over this section at midnight. Again the firemen had a view of a wonderful commercial aurora borealis, Officer Vegiard said that it looked as though half the town had burst suddenly into a blaze.

When it comes to handing out Christmas gifts people seldom do as they would be done by.

THE PRESIDENT'S CABINET.

Although there have been plenty of suggestions offered him, President Hoover has chosen his own cabinet and it will have to be conceded that he has chosen well. Because of his long service as a cabinet member he well understands the requirements of the presidential advisers and in picking his own he has chosen men who measure up to the particular requirements for the posts assigned.

Five of the men who have been chosen are lawyers, but they are especially well equipped to deal with certain problems which exist in their respective departments. Others have been named because of their ability and their qualifications to direct that work. They are all men upon whom full reliance can be placed and it is quite certain that Mr. Hoover has made no mistake in his selections.

The cabinet members come from various sections of the country but without any endeavor to include them because of their political activities. Instead of using the cabinet nominations as a means of paying political debts President Hoover has given consideration to getting men that will swing the job and swing it right. It is a characteristic Hoover move, quite the same as that which he has made in selecting members of the various organizations which he has so successfully directed.

The two holdovers are men of excellent records in other cabinets, whose retention means the aid of capable men. Messrs. Mellon and Davis are particularly valuable in their respective posts. It is an outstanding service that the former has performed and the country at large as well as Mr. Hoover recognizes it.

As secretary of state, Mr. Stimson has demonstrated in other work that he should be the mainstay that is desired. His choice is a commendable one and equally valuable is the selection of William Mitchell as attorney general. His sympathy with the Hoover policies and his record as solicitor general insure a valuable head of the department of justice.

New England was looked to to provide the secretary of the navy, and Charles F. Adams possesses the qualifications for administering that department if anyone can, while Dr. Ray L. Wilbur as secretary of the interior and Arthur M. Hyde as secretary of agriculture are men in whom the president has full confidence for dealing with special questions and conditions about to be faced.

R. P. Lamont as secretary of commerce must be looked upon as the man to keep that department going in the channels directed by the president himself, or he wouldn't have been chosen, while Walter F. Brown as postmaster general and James W. Good as secretary of war are men of executive ability who should make a success of their work.

The president is fully aware of the fact that the cabinet is one body for which he is responsible and in making his selections he has of course had that in mind. He has made no appointments to handicap himself or his administration.

DAWES' VIEWS UNCHANGED.

When Vice President Dawes acknowledged the tributes paid him during the closing session of the 70th congress, it was no more than was to be expected when he let it be known that even though he had not succeeded in impressing upon the senate the need of making changes in its rules he was still of that same mind as when he brought that need to the senate's attention.

None understands any better than its presiding officer what a lot of time is wasted and what a lot of handicaps are placed in the way of quicker action because of the rules to which the senate adheres. The senate takes the view that there are advantages and of course it realizes that it has a right to do about as it pleases. It is not required to accept advice and it doesn't bother it because it appears ludicrous to observers.

When Mr. Dawes undertook to call the senate's and the country's attention to the situation created by the senate's methods he was sincere. He could look at the situation like an outsider and pick out the defects in a manner which naturally prompted him to suggest a remedy. No doubt it was distressing time and again for the presiding officer to witness the senate tie itself in knots because of its rules, when it simply meant the blocking of the will of the majority of that body, and the interruption of legislation that ought to be acted upon one way or another. In place of these clogged conditions he would have the senate apply the needed remedy. In other words he would have it cure some of its ills by self administered action.

Probably Mr. Dawes has long since recognized that he rushed in where angels would hesitate to go, but he had the courage of his convictions and he voiced them where it would do the most good. That proved to have been very little. It aroused much discussion and criticism but it accomplished nothing. The senate is of the same mind that it always has been. The recommended changes have not been made. The bothersome rules prevail and will continue to. And yet the lack of success and the unwillingness of the senate to listen or at least to accept the advice hasn't altered the views of the ex-vice president. It was one of his parting shots to the senate that he still holds to his proclaimed views.

SIGNBOARDS.

Commendation for the manner in which Connecticut provides for the licensing of filling stations and requiring location and arrangement to be approved is given by Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the federal bureau of public roads. He recognizes the manner in which it keeps the business off the highway and rates it as one of the best laws for dealing with that problem among the various states.

He is outspoken in his denunciation of the practice that is resorted to throughout the country of erecting road signboards "the most offensive of which shriek at the traveler who is in hopeful search of the beauty of the countryside and a restful, uplifting change from city streets."

These signboards to which he refers are not those giving directions to the traveler, not those which indicate where the cross road leads, but those which are urging the purchase of all kinds of articles, the stopping at hostelries and buying supplies and food and declares that "it is to the credit of many of the best producers that their wares are not advertised in this way."

Chief MacDonald finds that while many of the states have restrictions regarding such signs Nevada is the only state that really enforces them.

As for the signboards for the giving of aid to the traveling public by indicating which road to take for his destination and possibly the distance, he had nothing to say but he might well have urged greater attention in that direction. Highway users are so numerous and ask so many questions that it is obvious that there is need for giving them all possible aid without requiring them to clog the highways while asking. The directional signboards are much more numerous and far better placed than in years gone by, but there is still an opportunity for placing more of them on the cross roads and particularly the country roads. There is no chance that too much information will be conveyed in such a manner and there is no chance that they will be referred to as needless and disfiguring. The unfortunate part is that there are not more of this kind and less of the other.

THE GUILT OF NOBILE.

It has taken some time for the investigating committee to report in regard to the Italia expedition and the conduct of its commander, General Umberto Nobile, so much so that it had nearly been forgotten. Not so by the commander probably and from the manner in which he has been condemned by the committee it is not likely that he will ever forget it, either the expedition or the verdict.

According to the report which has been made to Premier Mussolini, General Nobile is roundly condemned because of the wrong maneuvre which caused the wreck of the ship and the departure from the ice pack while others of his crew were allowed to remain.

The investigators have a right to claim that they made an exhaustive inquiry if the time involved is considered. Examination of hundreds of documents, questioning of members of the crew and the holding of 60 sittings have served to put so much time between the loss of the airship and the finding as to take off the sharp edges of much of the feeling that existed immediately after the disaster, and particularly the efforts of various countries to take the matter into their own hands.

The committee finds that many of the stories that were circulated, involving some of the most serious charges, were without foundation. That helps to relieve the situation greatly, but the report will be used as a basis for claiming that such criticisms as were made concerning the fitness of the ship for such a journey were well founded.

While opinions may differ in regard to the action of General Nobile in leaving the ice following the disaster, the committee hasn't hesitated to condemn it. It is held that the commander should have taken the same attitude that is expected of the captain of a ship in case his ship sinks when he is supposed to be the last to leave in case of rescue, and where it often happens that he insists in going down with his ship though rescue may be possible.

The report recommends no penalty for General Nobile. Perhaps it is figured that the fixing of the blame will be sufficient in itself, that the condemnation of his actions will do as much as any penalization. It is possible, however, that the premier of Italy will think differently about it.

PAGE THE GROOM

"Margery's going to be married," announced the girl who was arriving late for luncheon, and wished to change the subject.

"What!" cried the brunette, who looked her best when startled. "I can't realize it. Now I shall believe in fairies."

"This is a bitter blow to an earnest and hardworking young girl like me, who has stuck faithfully to the job and can't get even temporarily engaged," mourned the frank young person. "Who is he?"

"You mean what is he?" corrected the languid girl, wearily. "It does not matter in the least what a man's name is if he is located in the right spot downtown. I had much rather remark casually that my husband was president of the bond and mortgage company than admit that he belonged to the Smythe-Vanderpoole-Smythe family which came over with Columbus. I don't suppose we could combine on one smashing wedding present?"

"Not if we retain consciousness," objected the girl who had arrived late. "When there are ten names on a card the bride remembers the first one and the rest are a haze. Five years later, when somebody asks who gave them that utterly gorgeous silver platter, she says right away that it came from Silbey Sommers, and that it is one of their most prized possessions. Moreover, it is Silbey who gets asked to their dinners as a reward all the rest of their lives.

"It is the same situation which prevails when two women combine and give a tea. No. 2 may toil helping slick up No. 1's house, carrying over her own rugs and pictures and flower bowls and dessert plates—and without a doubt she pays half the bills for flowers and catering—but six months later every woman who was present will in referring to the event mention it as 'the lovely tea Mabel No. 1 gave last January.'

"No ma'am! I shall send Margery my little $10 gift with my card attached in all its solitary and insistent glory. At least when she looks at the thing it will be my countenance which arises in her mind."

"It won't if you pick out a coffee table or a glass tree centerpiece," the languid girl sighed. "I heard of one girl last winter who got thirty trees among her several hundred gifts and I'll bet all that rises in her mind when she looks at them now is a nervous yearn to hurl a brick among them. Moreover, they could provide kindling for the furnace for several years if they stacked up their coffee tables beside a nice sharp ax. Margery isn't going to marry that wonderful Prentice Parker, is she?"

"Oh, I was afraid to ask!" the frank girl admitted. "I felt if it were so I couldn't bear it. I expect that Prentice will wear thin matrimonially like most husbands, but he is such a charming preliminary. And he actually looked at me the other night as though he saw me. I've gone about ever since in a sort of daze. To have him snatched by Margery would—"

"To think she should be the first of this crowd to get married," muttered the brunette indignantly. "Why, she never had dates, and much as I admire Margery, she is dowdy and she hasn't even a line of chatter. All I've ever seen her do when a man did get marooned with her was to listen to him as though drinking in something remarkably interesting. I supose the poor thing was so flattered at being talked to at all."

"Her trousseau," contributed the girl who had brought the news, "will be dreadful. It will be sensible from start to finish and warranted to wear. Oh, and she's to have an apartment on the drive—"

"This is an unjust world," groaned the frank girl enviously. "And with her nose!"

"By the way," the languid girl interposed, "just who is the man?" There was a blank silence.

"Dear me!" gasped the girl who had brought the news. "How simply ridiculous. I was so excited when Grace met me on the way here and told me that I forgot to ask!"—Chicago News.

"LENT AND MY CHURCH"

Memory Verse for Wednesday

"So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one to another." (Romans 12:5). (Read: Romans 12:1 to 16).

MEDITATION: A church united and harmonious is a wholesome support to the religious life. It incorporates us in itself, interweaving our several lives in its own fabric. These brethren in my church are a part of myself. In their faults as in their virtues I share. If I am critical and censorious, it is myself that I am attacking, my own strength that I am shattering. We are one body and if one member suffer, all the members suffer with it. If my church is torn and weakened by any dissension, I am the loser. In patience, forbearance, yielding my will and opinion, I am contributing to my own good. So, if occasion arises, let me have the beautitude of the peacemaker.

PRAYER: O God who are love, grant to Thy children to bear one another's burdens in perfect goodwill that Thy peace which passes understanding may keep our hearts and minds in Christ Jesus our Lord. Amen.
—Book of Hours.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 5—It is a pity that first reports of the friendly adjustment of the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru were premature. Had the settlement been an accomplished fact before March 4 it would have been another of those happy circumstances which came to round out the closing days of the Coolidge administration.

Secretary Kellogg would have been entitled to sport another plume on the peace helmet he seems fated to wear, despite the fact that he was so recently pictured in the senate as a sword-rattling, swaggering international bully in dealing with Nicaragua and Mexico.

The Bystander has very little doubt, however, that the premature report of settlement was quite well founded. It is on the cards that the dispute, which has kept alive for decades fears of a general Latin-American war, is to be terminated through direct diplomatic exchanges between the interested states. That is about the only way out of the muddle left by the attempt to solve the riddle by outside arbitration and a plebiscite.

Credit to Chilean

If such is the outcome, Senor Don Carlos G. Davila, ambassador in Washington from Chile, will be very largely responsible. Hard as Secretary Kellogg and Secretary Hughes worked to find a solution, it remained for Davila, a newspaperman and impatient of the legalistic technicalities which so frequently becloud Latin-American diplomatic functioning, to point the road to peace.

Davila is something new in Latin-American diplomacy. He is a product of modern journalistic training, being editor and publisher of La Nacion, Santiago, in private life. When he came to Washington the Tacna-Arica row was in about as bad shape as it possibly could be. Publication of the report of the Pershing-Lassiter plebiscite commission, giving an unbiased American account of what happened to bring that effort to an impasse, would disclose that officially. So of course it has not been and in all likelihood will not be published. It could only make a bad situation worse.

A New Start

Davila's idea was to forget all past efforts and make a new start. With the aid of Secretary Kellogg and his Peruvian colleague, Ambassador Velarde, he succeeded in getting diplomatic relations between Chile and Peru restored and diplomats appointed whose personal interest demanded that a method of direct settlement be found. That changed the whole situation.

In these circumstances it is to be expected that announcement of a settlement will not be long delayed.

YOUR INCOME TAX

To obtain a deduction for traveling expenses, which form an important item in the returns of many taxpayers certain regulations must be observed. The taxpayer is required to attach to his return a statement showing the nature of business in which engaged, number of days away from home during taxable year on account of business, total amount of expenses incidental to meals and lodging while absent from home on business, and total amount of "other expenses incidental to travel and claimed as a deduction." Among the "other expenses" are tips, which are held to be part of traveling expenses, provided they are reasonable in amount. Traveling expenses are deductible only when the trip is on business. They are limited to such expenses as are reasonable and necessary in the conduct of the business and directly attributable to it. Examples are payment for the use of a sample room or the hire of vehicles in visiting customers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

In The Days Gone By.

Mr. Editor: It is a favorite device of all men to devote part of their time when they become old writing some of the memories of boyhood days and through this means to try and recall the happiest hours. Perhaps one of the great thrills was to see the bill posters when they were busy sticking up their highly colored bills announcing the coming of the fly by night circus. That was gayly pictured with the lady bareback rider as she rode around the ring on her wild and untamed horse that the bills said was captured on the plains of Tartary or some other unknown place by a party of hunters and we believed it all. Also the gay pictures of the wild animals, lions, tigers and every thing that was impossible. We lived in a mimic world of make believe, and we would talk this over and almost think we were a part of the greatest show on earth. How slow the time moved along while we waited for the eventful day! When the day had really arrived we would go up early to meet it as a welcoming party to escort it into town. Some one had started a story that one of the lions had escaped, and we kept a sharp lookout that we didn't furnish the king of hearts with a free lunch at our expense. We would go to meet the incoming galaxy of the world's greatest aggregation of colossal and stupendous wonders—(at least that is the way the bills read), and we would see them finally coming into view. The elephants would get as far as the Bilissville bridge but they knew that old wooden structure of those days would not hold them, and the driver would have them swim across, when they got good and ready, for they sure did like to sport in the water. This ford in the river was just about where the Narragansett Indians used to cross when they were on the way to fight the Mohegans on the battle ground at Sachem's Plain, which was close to where the old Norwich ball ground was in years after and where Miantonomo's memorial is today.

The elephants after a lot of prodding were finally induced to come out and take their place in the parade. Who among us has not stood on the curbstone and looking up the street waited for that welcome cry, here comes the circus, with all its wonders, collected from all corners of the earth! The band strikes up and then this great dream has become a reality and the gayly dressed riders with their prancing steeds go by and then the camels with their nostrils dilated and their haughty heads thrust forward and you hear their footfalls as they go padding down the street. What does it matter if they do look a little the worse for wear, and are slightly moth eaten near their long necks, hasn't the driver promised us a ticket for the show if we will come along and carry water for the animals? After these come the herd of wild elephants and we count them and are a little bit disappointed to find there are only two in this immense herd. As I ran along beside the parade with the other boys I wondered if the people on the sidewalks wouldn't think we were a part of this great show. We eventually arrive at the circus grounds up at the head of Cliff street, and at Robbins' circus lot, and then we are handed a pail and told to bring water. Where to get it was the question, but we Street Arabs didn't ask questions for any well that had water in it was good enough for us, and it seemed as though there was no limit to the amount of water that was needed. It was like pouring water down a sewer. Finally after chasing around and locating the driver, he handed out our piece of pasteboard and we quit work right away. We could look with contempt on the ones who were pulling and hauling around the ticket seller's window for didn't we have our ticket! Now and then we would thrust our hand into our pocket to make sure we still had that precious pasteboard. What did it matter if we were half starved, for we didn't anything to eat since early morning, we didn't want to miss the show. Is it any wonder we travel back to memory land, our childhood days? It recalls to the old man the pleasures of his youth, and we live over again the days of long ago. You of today who are surfeited with pleasures may not think we "kids" were happy, with not a cent in our pockets, and carefree were just as happy as though we had millions. A friend of mine said, "What do you think is the greatest happiness that we can have today?" I think the nearest approach to real pleasure is to live on a farm that is your own, far from the noise and the artificial life of the city, out under the free canopy of heaven, where you know every one and every one knows you. Where, as you look from your window, you can see the glorious works of nature out in a real world. Where your neighbor is every ready to help in times of trouble; unlike the city where you do not ever know your next door neighbor and as you look through your rear window you see nothing but a mass or network of clotheslines. Surely these things are as obvious as the fact that there is no comparison between life in the city and the real world that you see as you gaze through your windows over the hills, and into the glorious sunshine of the great outdoors. A real world and not the world of make believe, but where nature clothes the hills with green and gold.

The Connecticut Agricultural College at Storrs.

Mr. Editor: The refusal of the proper committee of the legislature to generously support the educational work at Storrs is greatly to be regretted. This institution is coming more and more to be our state university. The curriculum should be broadened, the teaching force strengthened and enlarged, more laboratory and dormitory space provided. It is the democratic school for Connecticut boys and girls from town or country. The costs should be kept as low as possible and every effort should be made to guard against the things which have taken Yale out of the class of a state university. Yale has become a national rather than a state institution. It has prospered so tremendously that the assistance given by the state is comparatively insignificant. All that assistance might well be withdrawn and given entirely to Storrs, with the proviso that buildings be kept modest in cost and appearance and that college life be kept free from luxury and pretention. Storrs should be maintained as a place where youth from modest homes may attend a real college and suffer no handicap from an educational standpoint, and at the time put no unnecessary financial strain upon their parents.

A legislature dominated by the country districts which will vote $2,500,000 for an ornate office building to house so luxuriously very-matter-of-fact branches of state government and neglect to properly provide for Storrs should be seriously inspected by the home folks of the country towns. That the legislature should contemplate such action is another argument that such an institution as Storrs should be given every encouragement to teach high thinking and sane, practical economy of the Cal Coolidge sort.

Now Opposed To Setting Steel Traps.

Mr. Editor: In reply to the letter of Daniel E. Marra published by you in your paper of March 5, 1929, permit me to say that Mr. Marra, and all others with any knowledge of trapping, know that certain conditions brought about by the weather and other causes over which we have no control, make it impossible for anyone to attend traps daily as required by law. This is one reason why I am now opposed to the setting of steel traps.

I have set steel traps from the time I was a small boy until recently, and, I now see where I have been wrong in so doing, and, I am striving to tell others in order that they will not make the same mistakes which I have made.

Should Mr. Marra wish to know other reasons why I have changed my ideas concerning trapping, I shall be pleased to inform him in Hartford, Thursday, March 7, 1929.

Sincerely,
WILLIS P. AUSTIN.

Norwich Should Keep Agricultural Society Going

Mr. Editor: We have read in the New London Day that plans were being laid to place the affairs of the New London County Agricultural society in the hands of a receiver and reorganize into a stock company. In our opinion it is a grave mistake and is not needed at this time. The grounds are in the best condition to go on and earn money to pay its obligations that they have been for several years and all that is needed are new cattle sheds which can be built for not over $2,500 which is partly provided for as we understand the trustee of the bond holders is willing to turn over the insurance money when the sheds are complete. It seems to us that a valuable property as the fair grounds are and what they mean to the business interests of the city and as much wealth as there is there, there ought to be no trouble in taking care of a floating of indebtedness of $20,000. If the people of Norwich can subscribe $200,000 to build an air castle out on a country road with all its uncertain risks of a dividend they ought to be willing to invest in this, which we are confident will pay a dividend after the next fair which is only eight months away. The society is on its feet although the books show a deficit, which was owing to a lot of old debts being carried along and no credit given for the permanent improvements that were made and worth at least $5,000. Also, the note of $2,500 is paid. A year ago the society was flat on its back, nothing to do with no equipment and no money and no public interest or sympathy. The officers went to work as best they could, public interest and sympathy were restored, more than $2,000 worth of labor was given, also other things that will be valuable to the society for many years to come. After the cattle sheds are complete and the horse barns are painted the grounds will be in splendid condition to do business for several years at little expense. This year with an administration of economy and common sense and better business methods which we are confident our executive board will give us, the operating expenses will be reduced at least one half. Last year hundreds of dollars were lost on unprofitable labor and by interference and upsetting of well laid plans which will be eliminated this year.

As valuable an asset as the fair is in bringing hundreds of dollars into the city from all over the county, Norwich cannot afford to let it degenerate into a stock company. It will lose its individuality as an agricultural institution giving practical ideas of agriculture to future farmers which the colleges cannot furnish. Agriculture is the bulwark of the nation and this is one way to keep it intact. If various people in Norwich would loan to the society different amounts as they can afford, taking the future earnings of the grounds as security, it would be a safer investment than seven-tenths of the stock propositions that are offered to the investing public today. We repeat, the New London County Agricultural society is on its feet and will be able to earn enough to pay its bills and a dividend to its investors. At this time all that it needs is a little assistance financially and $20,000 is a small amount for a wealthy city like Norwich to pay to keep such a valuable institution within its borders.

The Wanderers Make Themselves at Home

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Be neighborly, and you will find
Your friends reciprocate in kind.
—Peter Rabbit.

It wasn't long before all the feathered folk who were wintering in the Old Orchard made the acquaintance of Wanderer the Evening Grosbeak and Mrs. Wanderer. At first they were regarded with suspicion, but this was for only a little while, for the Wanderers were very quiet people and attended strictly to their own business. They didn't interfere with others, so they made no enemies.

Of course, Farmer Brown's Boy soon discovered their presence and he was delighted. It was surprising to some of the other feathered folk to see how fearless Mr. and Mrs. Wanderer were. They seemed not at all afraid of Farmer Brown's Boy and would allow him to come within a very short distance of them as they fed.

"I hope you'll like the Old Orchard and the Green Forest," said Tommy Tit the Chickadee.

"We do," replied Wanderer. "We like it very much, indeed. Already we feel very much at home here. It is one of the pleasantest places we have found in all our travels."

"Then I suppose you will stay," said Tommy Tit, his little black eyes twinkling.

"Of course we will," replied Wanderer. "Didn't I say that we feel very much at home here? We will stay until it is time for us to go back to our nesting home."

"Is that very far away?" inquired Tommy Tit.

"It is quite a distance, quite a distance," replied Wanderer, and he chuckled to himself.

"I suppose," said Tommy, "it is away up North."

"Yes," replied Wanderer, "it is away up North. Also, it is away out beyond the Purple Hills."

"But that is where jolly, round, red Mr. Sun goes to bed every night," exclaimed Tommy Tit.

"You mean," said Wanderer, "it is where it looks as if jolly, round, red Mr Sun goes to bed. If you should go beyond those Purple Hills that you see from here, you would see jolly, round, red Mr. Sun appearing to go to bed each night just as far away in the distance as you see him here."

Tommy Tit thought this over for a few minutes. Then he looked down. There sat Peter Rabbit with his eyes very wide open and his ears standing straight up. And such a funny look on his face! It was the first time Peter had been up in the Old Orchard since the Wanderers had arrived. "Did you hear that, Peter Rabbit?" cried Tommy Tit.

Peter nodded. "Yes, but I don't believe it," replied Peter, most impolitely.

Wanderer chuckled. He wasn't in the least bit offended. "People who do not travel have a great deal to learn," said he. "You could go for days and days and days straight over beyond the Purple Hills and never be any nearer to where jolly, round, red Mr. Sun goes to bed each night. You should travel. There is nothing like travel as a means of gaining knowledge."

Peter once more nodded. Then he sighed. "That's what I've heard," said he, "from some of the feathered folk who go away down South to spend the winter. But you are the first people I have ever met who have come from beyond the Purple Hills, excepting Old Man Coyote."

"Oh," exclaimed Wanderer, "does Old Man Coyote live here?"

"Yes," replied Peter, "he lives in the Old Pasture. But he doesn't really belong here. Do you know Old Man Coyote?"

"I know a lot of his relatives," replied Wanderer.

KEEP STOMACH YOUNG!
Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and sour bile. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally it makes you miserable and despondent, because your system is not nourished—you lose weight.
Pape's Diapepsin dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood. Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.
Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin after meals. It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences.

Do it tonight! Join the ranks of the millions who know the secret of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime!

Cascarets give your bowels as much exercise as you get from an hour on the links. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things only produce mechanical or chemical action which really weakens your bowels.

Each time you use Cascarets your bowels become stronger! They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million boxes a year, and people everywhere depend on them for lasting relief from headaches, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc.

Officer Luke Riley Captures Alleged Burglar

While making his rounds on Franklin street about 12:45 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning Officer Luke Riley arrested Adelard Robarge, 17, of Chestnut street on two burglary charges. Robarge is accused of breaking into the fruit store on Franklin street conducted by Antonio Longo and the adjoining store Jack's Sport Shop, John H. Wilson, proprietor, shortly before his arrest.

While inspecting the rear of the building in which the two stores are located, Officer Riley saw the youth slinking away from the premises. Robarge evidently saw the officer about the same time and started to run. Officer Riley set chase and stopped him.

The youth gave an unsatisfactory explanation of his presence in the rear of the building and the officer asked him what he had in his pocket. It developed that he had a harmonica in his pocket one of several taken from Jack's Sport Shop.

Further investigation revealed the fact that a screened window in the rear of Longo's fruit store had been forced. The safe, left open, was rifled, as was Mr. Longo's desk, and papers were scattered about the floor. Boxes of candy and about 25 packages of cigarettes were taken. The cash drawer was also forced.

The thief had rifled and smashed a [illegible] in the store and had taken four or five harmonicas and jackknives, besides small change from the smashed cash register.

Officer Riley booked his prisoner at headquarters and Robarge will be presented in the city court this (Wednesday) morning. It is understood that Robarge has been in trouble with the police before.

FUNERALS

James A. Mahoney

The funeral of James A. Mahoney, who died at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the funeral parlors of Undertakers Hourigan Bros., was largely attended, relatives and friends coming from New York city, Providence, South Brewer, Me., and other places. At the requiem mass in St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. William A. Keefe was celebrant and the music was in charge of Mrs. M. J. Farrell, Edward T. Connelly assisting with the singing. When Evening Comes was sung by Mr. Connelly as a waiting hymn and Chopin's Funeral March was played by Mrs. Farrell at the recessional. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Frederick M. Cocolam read the committal service. The bearers were George Swanton, John O'Brien, Edward Gleason and Thomas Mahoney. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. William Caruthers

At 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. William Caruthers was held from her residence, No. 77 McKinley avenue, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, and the floral tributes were most beautiful. Burial was in Yantic cemetery and the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Abbott. The bearers were Henry F. Parker, Rollin C. Jones, Arthur L. Peale, William R. Frisbie, George E. Zimmerman and Carl W. Brown. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Henry Allen & Son.

Joseph Balionsty

Burial services for Joseph Balionsty of Salem were held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the grave in Paugwaump cemetery, Salem, a number of mourners attending. The funeral was in charge of Undertaker C. A. Gager. Mr. Balionsty, a native of Russia, died in this city Saturday. He was for years employed as a farm hand at Salem.

JOINT TRIAL IN THREE SUITS IN SUPERIOR COURT

Before Judge Christopher L. Avery and a jury in the superior court at New London, a joint trial of three auto negligence suits brought against Manuel G. and Arthur J. Davis of Stonington for $20,750 damages was started Tuesday morning. One of the plaintiffs, Peter Morosini of Stonington sue sfor $10,000 for personal injuries. Another suit is brought by Dominic Morosini for personal injuries. He, too, asks for damages of $10,000 and Morris Morosini, a minor, through his father Dominic, seeks $750 for damages to his automobile.

The complaint alleges that an automobile owned by Morris Morosini, was being driven in a northerly direction in Greenmanville avenue, Mystic, by Dominic Morosini, under the instruction of Peter Morosini, at about 4.30 p. m., on Dec. 19, 1927, when an automobile of the defendant, Arthur J. Davis was driven out of a private driveway into the path of the plaintiff car.

The complaint states that a crash occurred, Peter and Dominic Morosini being seriously injured and the car belonging to Morris Morosini being considerably damaged.

The fourth quarterly conference of Trinity M. E. church, Monday evening requested by an unanimous vote that the pastor, Rev. Joseph Cooper be retained for the next conference year.

Ernest M. Newbury, the superintendent of the Sunday school, and Miss Mary Crowe the new president of the Epworth league, were confirmed in their offices and given seats in the quarterly conference. Mrs. Louis Geer was appointed delegate to the World Service counsel of the Norwich district. Wilbur E. Baldwin was elected a trustee of the church.

Dabol's Almanac predicts high winds to follow the present stretch of rainy weather.

WOMAN'S CITY CLUB NAMES COMMITTEE ON NOMINATIONS

A nominating committee of five was appointed Tuesday evening at a supper-business meeting of the Woman's City club at the Wauregan hotel. The supper was served at 6 o'clock and despite the unpleasant weather over 100 members were present.

In keeping with the inaugural season, Mrs. James Bidwell, who led the singing, thoughtfully selected patriotic songs and songs representing various sections of the country. Lighted candles, in green holders and pots of beautiful tulips and daffodils gave promise of the coming of spring.

The house and hospitality committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Amy Burlingame and Mrs. James A. Dutton combined in planning the meeting and were assisted by Mrs. Don Houghton, Mrs. Henry Ulmer, Miss Agnes Brennahan and Mrs. John Conway. Hostesses at the tables were Mrs. Alvin Brand, Miss Agnes Brennahan, Mrs. John McWilliams, Miss Amy Burlingame and Mrs. Don Houghton.

At the close of the supper, when Miss Marion L. Bishop, the president, called the business meeting to order, the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Frank S. Bunnell, the treasurer's statement, presented by Mrs. Albert S. Comstock, showed a good working balance in the treasurer.

Reports of the different departments, art, literature, civics, program, and music, were given in an interesting manner by the respective chairmen, Mrs. Ordas Dodge, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn, Miss Elizabeth Huntington, Mrs. A. N. Foster and Miss Margaret Suck. During the next two months there will be several particularly attractive events, at three of which, at least, the men of the community will be welcome.

Plans are under way for a fashion show, April 2nd, the presentation of two plays at Slater hall, March 19th and a musical event, Scenes From the Mikado, on April 16th. Mrs. Dawley's report of the girls' work committee, showed a sustained interest in the work being done and a growing program which will include callisthenics and folk dancing at the conclusion of Lent.

New business consisted of the appointment of a nominating committee of five to draw up a list of officers for the coming year. Three, Mrs. A. N. Foster, Mrs. Roderick F. Sullivan and Mrs. William G. Park, were appointed by the president and the other two, Mrs. Walter F. Lester and Mrs. Allen Latham, were nominated from the floor. Mrs. Roderick F. Sullivan presented a motion to the effect that the club go on record as opposed to the use of the cruel steel trap in the state of Connecticut. The motion was voted and it was suggested that individual letters, as well, be sent to the local representatives and senator.

The five minute speaker of the evening, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, spoke on the Chamber of Commerce, its value as a community organization and its need of the active support of the women of Norwich. Dr. Campbell outlined briefly several of the outstanding projects in city life in which the local chamber of commerce has had a vital part. Its aim has been and will continue to be in this present drive, a real desire to make our city a better one in which to live. In attaining this aim, the speaker felt that the women could help materially.

HOLLYWOOD STAR COMING TO NORWICH SUNDAY

Miss Rosamonde Joyzelle of Hollywood, Cal., will present "The Master" at the Central Baptist church on Sunday evening, according to an announcement made Tuesday evening.

Miss Joyzelle is known as the Madonna of the Pilgrimage play at Hollywood because of her many appearances as the Madonna. Her work has been so outstanding that the motion picture industry has tried repeatedly to draw her into the screen depiction, but she has been devoting her art in the field of religious dramatization. She has been booked all through the fall and winter and spring in New York city where she appears under the indorsement of the Greater New York Federation of Churches.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman says of her that her work "excels for realism, reverence, and arresting persuasiveness." Her portrayal is spiritually beautiful. Noted divines everywhere are on record in high praise of her work.

A year ago Miss Joyzelle gave an entire week's program at former President Coolidge's church in Washington, D. C., giving "The Madonna" on Christmas night.

LEFT MONEY IN THRIFT BANK AT LOCAL SCHOOL

Who is the anonymous contributor of two $2 bills, a 50 cent piece and four quarters that were found by the police in a thrift stamp bank at the Boswell avenue school, is the question that is puzzling the department. The finding of the bills and coins in the machine came as the result of police investigation following reported breaks at the Boswell avenue, Broadway and St. Patrick's schools. The thrift stamp machines at the respective schools were tampered with, evidently the work of boys, it was discovered by the police, but nothing was taken. On examining the bank at the Boswell avenue school the police found the money tucked into it. The machines were somewhat damaged.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY PLANS TO GIVE EASTER DANCE

The regular monthly meeting of Mercier assembly, C. L. of C., was held Tuesday evening with the president, Miss Loretta Gadie, presiding. Considerable business was transacted and plans were perfected for the bean supper to be held by the assembly the latter part of the week. This will be the first event to be given by the assembly in their new hall in T. A. B. building. Mrs. Anna Burke is chairman of the supper committee.

Arrangements are also well under way for the Easter dance to be given by the assembly. A number of membership applications have been accepted and the candidates will be initiated at the next meeting of the assembly, at which time it is expected there will be a large attendance.

SPECIAL SPEAKER FOR TODAY'S D. A. R. MEETING

At the meeting of Faith Trumbull chapter D. A. R., today at the Wauregan, W. Foster Schreeder, forest engineer of the State Park and Forest commission, is to address the members on Forests for Conservation of Water Supplies, for Preservation of Wild and Game Life, for Preservation of Natural Landscape.

The members of the civics department of the Woman's City club have been invited to hear the address.

REFUSED INJUNCTION AGAINST PEQUOT BEACH COMPANY

According to a decision by Judge Rufus Booth of the superior court filed Tuesday with Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court in this city, the City of New London has lost its suit against The Pequot Point Co., to recover land on Pequot avenue, New London, claimed for "highway purposes." Judge Booth in his decision says:

The action is in two counts. The first is in the nature of ejectment, and the second is in equity to enjoin claimed obstructions to the right of public travel on a claimed public highway.

The authority relied upon for the form of action under the first count is the case of Taylor vs. Public Hall Co., 35 Conn., 430, 432, wherein it was held that a warantee deed which conveys land to a town, "for the sole use and purpose of a highway" conveys something more than an easement, and that so long as the premises continue to be used for a highway the town has complete title to the fee thereof.

The authority relied upon for the form of action under the second count is the case of the City of Hartford vs. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co., 59 Conn., 250, 260, wherein it was held that relief against the obstruction of a highway might be obtained by a mandatory injunction.

The character of the title involved in and which forms the fundamental basis of the plaintiff's claim, as set forth in each of the counts, is that and that only which a municipal corporation may possess in land which is actually devoted to the use of a public highway.

The claimed highway in question is located immediately west of the Old United States Lighthouse, in the city of New London. It is known as Pequot avenue and the disputed portion is that lying south of the northerly face of a fence which runs westerly from the Lighthouse property to the extension of the center line of a street known as Parkway, which street intersects Pequot avenue from the north.

The claimed obstructions consist of the aforesaid fence, such portion of a stone coping as is south of the northerly face of the fence, and a row of bathing houses located approximately two feet south thereof.

While a portion of the stone coping also extends northerly of the fence and unquestionably encroaches upon north portion of Pequot avenue, as is admittedly a legally established highway, no claim is made in the pleadings or by counsel as to such encroachment. Therefore it forms no part of the issues in this case and furnishes no basis for a judgment under either of the counts. Indeed, counsel for the plaintiff makes no claim thereto, and in brief and oral arguments its claim to such alleged obstructions as lie to the south of the northerly face of the fence.

The portion of the stone coping involved in the issues was erected by the defendant Whiton's predecessor in title in 1902, as was also the present fence, and ever since June, 1923, this defendant has maintained the same in their present positions. The bathing houses were erected on behalf of the incorporators of the defendant, The Pequot Point Beach Co., in June or July, 1923, and have ever since been maintained by such defendant.

The decisive practical question in the case is whether the land south of the northerly face of the aforesaid fence is or is not a part of a legally established public highway.

According to the claim of the plaintiff such land is a part of the public highway known as Pequot avenue; while the claim of the defendants is that it never was a part of such highway, and that if it ever was such part, it has since been abandoned, that title thereto by adverse possession has been acquired by the defendants and their predecessors in interest, and that the plaintiff, by its conduct, is estopped from denying the defendant's ownership thereof.

Highways are established by the state (1) through the direct action of the legislature; (2) through authorized proceedings involving an application to a court; (3) through authorized proceedings by agents appointed for that purpose, such as selectmen of towns and specified authorities of cities and boroughs; (4) through private dedication of land for that purpose and its acceptance by the public. * * * *

No evidence was offered or claim made that the highway in question was established in accordance with the first or second methods above referred to, and although considerable time was consumed at the trial in an effort to bring its establishment within the requirements of the third method this effort was abandoned by the plaintiff after it became plainly apparent from the evidence that no such establishment was legally completed.

The fourth method is the sole basis of the plaintiff's claim in connection with the manner in which the highway in question was established. This method is composed of two elements; first, through private dedication of land for the purpose of a highway and second, through acceptance of such land for such purpose by the public.

That there was in fact such dedication there is no doubt, indeed, it is conceded by the defendants that land for the purpose of the highway in question was dedicated to the plaintiff by means of a warantee deed, and by filing in the town clerk's office of the plaintiff city a map of the land thus conveyed, which deed and map described the land as inclusive of that in dispute.

In order to complete its establishment however, there must necessarily have been an acceptance of such land by the public.

The acceptance must be by the unorganized public, and not by formal action of a municipality. Neither town nor city has power to establish a highway by corporate vote, accepting land given for that purpose, when the legislature has not given it specific authority. Acts of a municipality may, however, tend to show a use by the public, as well as its nature and extent, and for this reason such acts may be relevant to the question of acceptance by the public. * * * *

A careful examination and analysis of all of the evidence in the case, as well as personal inspection of the premises, lead me to the conclusion that there was no acceptance by the unorganized public of the portion of the land in dispute.

It is located on the edge of a bank a large portion thereof is composed of a sandy beach in close proximity to the sea, and it is obvious that before it could be used as a highway not only would extensive grading and filling be required, but a sea wall would apparently become a necessity in order to protect such a highway from the action of the tides.

While no direct evidence was offered to the effect that inappropriateness for its dedicated purpose influenced the conduct of the public in relation to its acceptance as a highway, such fact may reasonably be inferred from such conduct. At no time from the date of dedication, in 1879, to the date of suit, which was a period of 47 years, did the public actually use any portion of the disputed land as a highway, nor did the officials of the plaintiff city, during such period, perform any act tending toward such use.

The part of the dedicated land actually used as a highway is approximately 47 feet in width, 26 feet of which has been hardened, and on either side of which sidewalks have been laid.

According to the evidence offered, a highway of this width has at all times and now is sufficient to meet the needs of public travel in that vicinity.

For over 30 years prior to suit the area in dispute has been separated from the traveled portion by a succession of fences, located on substantially the same line occupied by that now standing. During all of this time no objection was made by the plaintiff's officials or the public to the maintenance of these fences by the defendants and their predecessors, who, in addition, occupied the disputed land, improved it by filling in and planting hedges upon it, by building walls and coping thereon, by extending private sewer pipes thereunder, and, who generally assumed proprietorship thereof.

Ever since the erection of the first fence, which was sometime prior to 1890, the public and even the officials of the plaintiff city, evidently assumed that the northerly face of the fence was the southerly boundary of the highway. Various maps were prepared for use by the departments of the plaintiff city in making sewer assessments, tax assessments, and the like, all of which depicted the southerly line of the highway in question as being coincident with the aforesaid fence line. * * * *

Not only were these maps so used, but assessments based thereon were actually laid upon the property in dispute, as being the property of the defendants and their predecessors, and while perhaps some of these acts were not definitely authorized by the city, they and various other acts by the officials of the plaintiff city, and the public generally, completely eliminate actual use as a basis for the acceptance claimed, for there was in fact no such use.

Neither is the evidence reasonably susceptible to the construction that the acceptance by use of that which was legally established, covers as incidental thereto, any part of the portion which is in dispute, for no part thereof was ever opened for public use; therefore the acceptance by use stopped where the actual use stopped and that was at the north face of the aforesaid fence line. * * * *

Nor does the evidence justify a conclusion that the acceptance should be presumed, for it appears therein that common convenience and necessity have not and do not require an extension in width of the highway now in use. * * * *

From all the evidence in the case and in view of all the facts and circumstances surrounding the case, including that of personal inspection by the court of the premises in question, my conclusion, as previously expressed, is that the land in dispute while legally dedicated as a portion of a highway, was never accepted as such by the unorganized public, and therefore, is not a part of a legally established highway.

While it is no doubt true that the city by virtue of the Jerome deed, became invested with the legal title to the premises, as trustee for the public, I find that the evidence offered established that there was an intentional abandonment by the unorganized public of all the rights it ever possessed in the land in question and that the defendants and their predecessors have acquired at least a right of possession thereto, which the public and the plaintiff as such trustee are estopped to deny.

Such being the situation, the plaintiff city, at the time of the institution of this action, had no right as against the defendants to possession of the disputed premises, or to an injunction against the maintenance thereon by the defendants of the specified structures.

Judgment is therefore rendered for the defendants upon the issues of both counts of the complaint, that the application for an injunction be denied, that the defendants recover of the plaintiff their costs.

WINDHAM-PUTNAM CONTROVERSY DEADLOCKED; NO GAME UNLESS ORDERED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 5—The date for the Putnam high-Windham high basketball game, which according to schedule is to be played in Putnam some time within the next two weeks, was still unsettled today according to an official of the Putnam high school athletic board. Coach L. F. Noyes, Putnam high basketball mentor, told the Bulletin this afternoon that he has had no further talk with Coach T. A. Callaghan of Willimantic regarding a date to play off the game, which in Willimantic is generally regarded as to have been forfeited to Windham, although no official statement regarding this fact has come from either coach.

Last evening Coach Noyes in a statement to the Bulletin flatly denied that he had forfeited the game and intimated he would not agree to do so unless compelled by the officials of the Eastern Connecticut basketball league with which both schools are affiliated.

Coach Noyes today explained that he saw no reason why Willimantic should desire that the Putnam team forfeit the game to them, since both he and Coach Callaghan on Jan. 17, agreed to a postponement of the game to be played at a later date in the season. Coach Noyes said that at the time the both teams were to clash in Putnam, the local schedule was overtaxed for that particular week and he did not feel that his boys could stand the strain, nor do justice to themselves or the fans by meeting so many teams during one week. In view of this fact he arranged with Coach Callaghan to have the tilt carried over until the latter part of the season. To this the Willimantic mentor was agreeable. During the time that has elapsed, Willimantic has lost the services of a valuable member of their quintet and it is generally believed that this loss would reduce the showing of the team in Putnam and is thought to be the reason for the desired cancelling of the game.

Coach Noyes in his semi-official statement to the Bulletin tonight said that he ardently hoped a compromise could be reached between the athletic boards of both schools to have the game played off in this city without any interference on the part of the league officials.

There was some talk among the student body at Putnam high today to the effect that athletic relations between Putnam and Windham might be severed in the event no satisfactory agreement is reached—but Coach Noyes will take all steps to avoid any such drastic action.

On Friday evening the Putnam quintet clashes for the second time this season with the league leading Chapman Tech five of New London. This game will be the last on the schedule, if the Willimantic question does not reach a favorable settlement. The local net men are going through the most strenuous workout of the season to scalp the New Londoners and then enter into a tie for the championship. In a practice tilt this afternoon the first string Noyesmen inflicted a decisive beating upon the second team men, in one of the fastest point getting games seen this season. Bill Shann, whose appearance in the lineup will figure heavily for the locals showed up well today and unless new complications develop in his injured spine during the few days previous to the Friday game, Shann will be in his regular berth at center. Carman Leo the highest scoring forward in the league is still holding his excellent shooting strides that he has maintained all season, while Captain Walt Cody continued to display good court and pass work. Cody will play forward opposite Leo. The two guards Marion and Sabin, who have figured in every game this season are slated to occupy their regular posts Friday night. All ardent lovers of basketball are anticipating the Tech-Putnam game and hope to see Putnam have their revenge upon the group from the Whaling city who defeated them a month ago in New London.

WINDHAM NOT TO PLAY UNLESS ORDERED BY LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 6—If Coach Laurison F. Noyes of the Putnam high basketball quintet insists on a play-off of the return Putnam-Windham game that is alleged to have been forfeited in local circles, he will have to receive that order from the league officials. Such was the status of the controversy as left today in statement by Coach Thomas A. Callaghan of Windham who said: "There shall be no controversy as far as we are concerned with regard to the Putnam-Windham basketball game that was to have been played in Putnam, January 19th, and the matter can be considered closed from our viewpoint." The Windham mentor added that the season for the Crimson and Blue would be considered completed when the team goes onto the floor in South Manchester Friday evening for the final regularly scheduled contest.

Coach Callaghan made no reference to the conference officials as a means of settling the controversy in the event that Putnam meets with defeat at the hands of Chapman Tech of New London Friday evening the Putnam five will be eliminated from consideration as to the championship and the matter will automatically be closed. The New London team is now in leadership in the conference race.

In the athletic circles "on the hill" today preparations were being pressed for the game with the Academy at the state armory Wednesday evening. This game will close the home season. It is expected that the Rose of New England outfit will bring an escort of many rooters and Thread cityites will very likely turn out in numbers an Academy-Windham encounter of any kind always proving a strong magnet. Sumner A. Dole of C. A. C. will referee. "Artie" Meikle continues to lead the Windham scorers with the handsome total of 122 points.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

RAIN UPSETS PRACTICE PLANS OF MAJOR CLUBS

ATLANTA, Ga., March 5—(AP)—Heavy rains upset major league baseball training in certain sections of Dixie today.

Morning practice for the Phillies at Winter Haven was called off because of downpours. The Philadelphia National leaguers are looking to the arrival of Bob McGraw, who is expected from California within a day or so. John Holloway, Louisiana collegian also is expected in for a try at pitching by the end of the week.

The group at Winter Haven now includes a dozen pitchers, four catchers and two infielders.

Despite inclement weather at West Palm Beach, Fla., Manager Dan Howley put his full squad of Browns through a lengthy drill. Twenty seven of the St. Louis squad worked out, with all prospects in camp. Fred Schulte, Ralph Kress, Otis Brannon, Lou Blue, Heinie Manush, Frank O'Rourke, Earl McNeely, Frank McGowan and Bill Mack are among those on hand.

The Chicago White Sox out at Dallas, Tex., expected Metzler, outfielder, and Berg, catcher, in camp today. McKain, former Cleveland pitcher and declared a free agent by Commissioner Landis, has been signed, Red Faber in the early work is showing mid-season form.

Rain kept the Cincinnati Reds indoors all the forenoon, but the sun broke through a pall of clouds in the afternoon and Jack Hendricks squad spent more than an hour in bunting practice, pepper games and then took a fast turn around the field before calling it a day.

Connie Mack cut practice short at Fort Myers and let the Athletics join the galleries following the star of another branch of sports, golf, in the Fort Myers open tournament. Mack announced a Regular-Yannigan game tomorrow after which his club will journey to Avon Park for the official opening of the Grapefruit league Thursday with the National league champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Glenn Myatt, veteran catcher, joined the Cleveland Indians at New Orleans today, leaving only Johnny Millus of the batterymen absent. The rest of the Indians will arrive in New Orleans Sunday. In the meantime the batterymen are rounding into shape and will be ready to hook the corners on the batemen in practice games.

SUCCESSOR TO RICKARD TO BE NAMED TODAY

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)—The job of choosing a successor to the late Tex Rickard is expected to monopolize a joint meeting tomorrow of the board of directors and executive committee of the Madison Square Garden corporation.

The meeting, originally scheduled for today, was postponed when William F. Carey, vice president of the corporation and the moving spirit in the recent Sharkey-Stribling conflict at Miami Beach, Fla., "played hookey" from business duties to reminisince with sport writers just returned from the south land. Once his chair became tilted to just the proper and most comfortable angle, Carey forgot the problems of the day.

The big railroad builder, who teamed with Jack Dempsey to make a success of a battle that seemed doomed to failure from the start is the almost unanimous choice for Rickard's post at the head of the Garden. The decision, if made tomorrow, probably will not be announced for some time, however.

Although Dempsey is not considered a candidate at the moment, there is a possibility that he will be offered a post as vice president of the corporation in charge of boxing. The former champion is due here from Miami Beach Thursday for conferences with Carey.

Careful consideration also is expected of an offer made by the Harden for a controlling interest in the New York Giants. During a visit of John McGraw, manager of the team, to Miami Beach, Carey made a bid of $4,000,000 for the 75 per cent interest Charles A. Stoneham, former Judge Francis X. McQuade, and McGraw hold in the club.

The heavy weight situation came in for a thorough overhauling during the day's "barbering." Carey indicated that Jack Sharkey, winner of the battle of the everglades, will be saved from further heavyweight elimination contests and given a final bracket for the title match the Garden plans here next September.

A series between Jimmy Maloney, Paulino Uzcudun and Max Schmeling probably will decide the second finalist if Dempsey decides to remain in retirement.

BOROTRA ENTERS INDOOR TENNIS TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP)—Jean Borotra, who twice captured the United States national indoor tennis championship and carried it back to France, has cabled his entry for the 1929 event which will begin at the 7th regiment armory here March 16, the United States Lawn Tennis association announced today.

The bounding Basque who won the singles championship in 1927 and 1928 and the doubles title the same years, being partnered by A. W. Asthalter in 1928 and his countryman, Jacques Brugnon, in 1927, again will try for both crowns, appearing with Watson Washburn American veteran, in the doubles. Borotra is expected to leave Paris the latter part of this week to arrive by the time the tournament opens.

DEMPSEY TO BE AT DUNDEE-MELLO FIGHT

BOSTON, March 5—(AP)—The services of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, were obtained by Eddie Mack, Boston Garden boxing promoter, today for the Joe Dundee-Al Mello charity boxing show in the Garden next Friday night.

Dempsey, who has found it possible to leave Miami, Fla., where he helped in the promotion of the recent Sharkey-Stribling battle, earlier than he expected, wired Mack today that he would arrive in Boston sometime Thursday and would probably be accompanied by William H. Carey, successor to the late Tex Rickard.

THREE MANAGERS ARE OPTIMISTIC OVER PROSPECTS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5—(AP)—Optimism, as sunny as the skies under which their charges are preparing for the 1929 season, continued to underlie reports today from the managers of three major league baseball clubs training in the far west.

Only in the Pittsburgh Pirates' camp at Paso Robles, Cal., was there a hint of any worry, for Donie Bush. The only fly in the ointment was concerned with George Grantham, blonde ex-first baseman. Grantham has been working at left field and Bush has been reluctantly forced to the conclusion that George won't do in that spot. All experience has been in right field. That place belongs to Paul Waner and where Grantham will land if the Waner brothers show up is a problem for Donie to solve. In the meantime the Pirates are at top form.

George Uhle, veteran right hander, whom Manager Bucky Harris expects to be the mainstay of his pitching staff this season, arrived at the Detroit Tigers' camp at Phoenix, Ariz., today. The former Cleveland ace has been having his right arm treated by a Los Angeles specialist for the past few weeks and is reported to be in fine condition.

At Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., the Chicago Cubs' batterymen today rounded out their second week of training while the infielders and outfielders put a week of drills behind them.

Tomorrow's workout will be the last before the Cubs leave for the mainland for a three-game exhibition series at Los Angeles.

KILLINGLY PLAYS BARTLETT HIGH THIS AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 5—The Killingly quintet clashes with the strong Bartlett Gym Wednesday afternoon. Bartlett has one of the best basketball teams in Massachusetts, holding Tourtellotte to three overtime periods. Coach Schofield held a short practice today in which he changed the usual lineup, due to the illness of some of the players. McKeon, first string center came to practice today after a short illness and he will probably start at center in the Bartlett game. Dascoli and Szafranski will probably start as forwards and Young and Waldron in their usual guard positions.

With last night's victory over Tourtellotte, Killingly has won eight games and has lost five. Killingly team has four more games to play, one with Pomfret, one with Chapman, one with Stonington and tomorrow's game with Bartlett.

ROXBURY FIVE ELIMINATED IN PENN TOURNEY

PHILADELPHIA, March 5—(AP)—Fort Washington Preparatory school, New York city, today moved into the semi-final round in the preparatory school division of the Interscholastic basketball tournament at the University of Pennsylvania by defeating Roxbury school, Cheshire, Conn., 28 to 25.

A field goal by O'Carmody in the last minute of the contest gave Fort Washington the victory. It was a close, hard-fought battle all the way, Fort Washington holding an 11-9 lead at half time. Frank Shields, Junior National tennis champion, who played center for Roxbury, scored a field goal that tied the count at 25-all, but O'Carmody came through a little later with the winning goal.

Northampton (Mass.) stretched its winning streak to 20 consecutive games by conquering Oneida (N. Y.) high 29 to 23 in an extra-period contest. It was the first defeat for Oneida in its last six starts. At the end of the regular game the score stood 21-21. In the overtime session, Rutkowski, Northampton forward, evaded the Oneida defense for a pair of field goals that clinched the decision and placed Northampton in the fourth round of the high school section.

Yonkers (N. Y.) high also advanced to the fourth round, defeating St. Joseph's high of this city, 26 to 17, in a hard-fought battle.

Other winners today included Collegiate Prep of New Haven, Catholic high of Philadelphia and West Philadelphia high.

SHARKEY CLAIMS HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE IN LETTER TO COMMISSION

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)—The usually grave deliberations of the state athletic commission, were enlivened by a laugh or two today upon receipt of a telegram from Johnny Buckley, claiming the world's heavyweight championship for Jack Sharkey.

"Jack Sharkey claims the world's heavyweight championship," read the optimistic communication, "in view of the vote of a national poll of sports writers and his recent decisive victory over Stribling."

"Sharkey prepared to defend his title against Dempsey. He intends to prove himself fighting champion."

Although appreciating the enthusiasm of the Boston sailor's manager, the commission refused to take any action and tabled the hopeful message indefinitely. No such claims are being recognized, it was made clear.

DANIELSON PLAYS HARTFORD DIXIES FRIDAY EVENING

Another exceptionally fast team will appear in Town hall, Danielson, Friday night when the fast Hartford Dixies will meet the Danielson Towners.

The Hartford Dixies are playing a great game of basketball this year and have played and beaten the best in the state. Only last week they came through with a two-point win over the South Manchester "Recs" in the State armory in Hartford in one of their greatest games of the season. They have played such teams as Bristol Endees, Meriden Endees and completely outclassed the fast K. of C. team of Hartford.

The Dixie lineup will include "Wardy" Waterman, fast traveling guard, who also plays with the Bristol Endees; Larson, "Dutch" Leonard, another star who needs no introduction to fans in eastern Connecticut; "Terrible" Ted Torrant, Murphy and Bolby Hafner.

This should draw a great many fans to Danielson, as there is no question of a great game Friday night.

MISS WALL IS MEDALIST IN EAST COAST TOURNEY

ST AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 5—(AP)—A gale made golf balls do uncalled for tricks on the fairways today and forced Miss Bernice Wall, Wisconsin state champion, to take an 83 for the medal in the qualifying round of the Florida east coast women's tournament.

A galaxy of stars, including Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R. I., national women's champion, Miss Helen Hicks, sensational young New Yorker, and Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago could not do as well. Miss Hicks was runner-up with an 84 while Miss Van Wie and Miss Collett ranked next with 85 and 86 respectively.

READING, Pa., March 5—(AP)—Pinky Kauffman, 142, Hartford, Conn., defeated Bobby Risden, 138, Reading, in eight rounds here tonight. Kauffman won every round from the Reading Negro.

PLAINFIELD PROS PLAY ARCOLA BEARS TONIGHT IN PLACE OF BROOKLYN

Owing to traveling conditions the Brooklyn Visitations, who are in Vermont at the present time, have notified Manager Salisbury of the Plainfield Pros that they will be unable to play at the Community house this evening. The Visitations, who travel by automobile are afraid that the rain and present weather conditions would make it impossible for them to arrive in Plainfield on time. The long jump that the Visitations would have to make to get to Plainfield would tire the lavers so that they could not give their best. However, they have given Manager Salisbury March 27th, as the next date.

In place of the Visitations the Plainfield management has been fortunate in securing on short notice the Original Arcola Bears of Bogota, New Jersey, one of the fastest clubs in that state and rated as a top notch basketball outfit. The Arcola Bears, an independent basketball organization, have been playing some of the best teams in the country having met a number of the American league clubs with more than ordinary success. The team consists of five who are nationally known throughout basketball circles and display a brilliant brand of basketball.

For the preliminary game the Baltic Independents will clash with the Plainfield Buddies in a game that has created considerable interest throughout the eastern part of the state. There is keen rivalry between the two clubs and the battle will be bitterly fought.

Bill Alexander will referee the preliminary while Dave Harper of New York will officiate at the big game. Dancing as usual will follow the main attraction.

ACADEMY CLASHES WITH WINDHAM THIS EVENING

The Academy and Windham meet tonight at Willimantic in an Eastern Connecticut Conference basketball game. This is the second-last high school combat for both teams, as each closes its season Friday night. Windham rules the favorite for this evening's clash, mainly on a 28 to 18 decision scored here earlier in the season.

Windham and the Academy have long been athletic rivals. In their three years of basketball warfare, Windham has won five straight games and the Wildcats have yet to come off the floor victorious. The game here about a month ago was one of their closest tilts and it may be that the Red and White greatly improved now over early-season performances, can come through with a victory.

The Academy has had a dismal season so far, winning but four games in 18 while Windham's campaign has been successful.

At present, Windham stands with a chance of tieing Chapman Tech for the lead in the Conference race and cannot afford to lose tonight. Windham and Putnam seem to be having some controversy and this should add to the interest in tonight's game.

The Academy, by winning tonight can make sure of not landing in last place in the race, at least not alone, for Stonington, present tenant of that unenviable position, has not won a game while the Academy beat Stonington, N. F. A. plays Stonington again Friday at Stonington.

Both teams will use their strongest lineups, and the main game will start about 8.30 p. m. Sumner Dole, of Conn. Agricultural college will referee.

The Majors and Independents, Willimantic City league teams, meet in the preliminary.

The lineups:

N. F. A.: Stevens lf, Henschel rf, Berghinzo c, LaCroix (C) lg, Barber rg.

Windham High: Mason lf, Meikle rf, Lamson c, Sroka lg, Luciani, rg.

TRAVERS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR STEINFELD MONDAY

Tony Travers, making a spectacular comeback in foreign fields with three straight knockout victories—the sensational being that scored over Georgie Sidders, breaking up a long string of victories—will essay to show just what he can do on home grounds in the special eight rounder on the card to be presented at the New Haven arena on Monday night, March 11.

Travers will go against Joey Steinfeld, of New York, and if he comes through with another kayo he will undoubtedly be in line for more work in New Haven. His home town has been a jinx to him, however, for after a meteoric rise he suddenly went sour. There was no explaining the sudden decline, and to make it more puzzling he did well out-of-town, but every time he was brought back made a poor showing. The poor showings are out of his system, now, he says, and he expects to put Steinfeld away as he put away the others. Steinfeld is a worthy welterweight, but he is not rated any higher than Sidders and Travers may be right.

The main attraction on the card is one of those "natural" bout which occur rarely. Over the ten round distance Georgie Day, of New Haven, and Eddie Elkins, of New York, will trade blows. Elkins won the main bout assignment when, in two appearances in New Haven, he scored knockout victories over Irish Jimmy Kelly, of New York, and Willie Hussey, of Bridgeport. Day is much tougher than either of these, although Hussey is a hard man to put away, but Elkins maintains that he will go out as easily as the other two did.

SARAZEN LEADS FIELD WITH 141 AT FORT MYERS

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 5—(AP)—Dapper Gene Sarazen, the smiling Italian professional who winters at Newport Richey, Fla., swung into first place with a 141 when the half way mark was reached late today in the 72 hole Fort Myers open golf tournament.

Shooting a 70 on his afternoon round to add to a 71 on the first 18 holes, Sarazen tok a two stroke lead over Densmore Shute, Columbus, Ohio, who had 143 for the day.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

D. A. R. Movie Guide.

The following films are recommended by Mrs. Newton D. Chapman, national chairman, better films committee, N. S. D. A. R.:

The Canary Murder Case—Paramount—A gripping mystery solved by William Powell as the detective. Children would probably not understand it.

The Kid's Clever—Universal—An amusing film about a young inventor. Fine for children.

King of the Rodeo—Universal—Another Hoot Gibson "western", will surely please the youngsters.

Land of the Silver Fox—Warner—A very good Rin-Tin-Tin picture with Vitaphone effects. The whole family.

The Leatherneck—Pathe—Concerns three American marines in China. A very entering picture but too mature for children.

The Little Wildcat—Warner—All about a Kentucky judge who hates aviators and his "wildcat" granddaughter who falls in love with one. Certain sophisticated scenes make it unsuitable for children.

Marquis Preferred—Paramount—Adolph Menjou as a poverty-stricken marquis who lives handsomely on other people's money. Done as only Menjou can do it. For adults.

Over There—Of educational value and interesting from the standpoint of being authentic pictures taken during the World war.

Pep and Pep—Fox—Concerning a boy at military school. For everyone.

The Shopworn Angel—A fine example of brilliant technique in screen work, featuring Gary Cooper and Nancy Carroll.

Under the Southern Cross—Universal—Unusual drama of the South Seas with entire native cast. Contains much educational material. For high school children and adults.

The Water Hole—Paramount—A Zane Grey story. Jack Holt does the taming in a way which makes for good entertainment. A family picture.

What a Night—Paramount—Bebe Daniels in a rather silly comedy from which everyone will get a good many laughs.

Cadillac-La Salle Dominance of Fine Car Field Creates Unique Opportunity to Buy Cars Almost New at Remarkably Low Prices—Now Is Year's Best Bargain Period

CADILLAC
FLEETWOOD

the place If you know a dealer whose Used Cars are almost new and have seen little service, then by all means inspect his stock first.

Cadillac-La Salle dealers offer this special advantage. Their Used Cars are remarkably fresh, as well as varied, because of the very nature of their new car business, the commanding position they occupy in the fine car field, and the character of their clientele.

Most of their Used Cars have seen little service. Many are only a year or two old. They look good. They are good, and ready to deliver thousands of miles of excellent service.

the time Now is the best time to buy from any Cadillac-La Salle dealer.

There are sound reasons why you can pick up better bargains today than at any other time of the year.

During the past few weeks, it has been possible to spend much time in re-conditioning. All Used Cars carried by Cadillac-La Salle dealers are therefore in exceptionally fine shape.

Low prices now prevail, because with the natural acceleration of new car sales from now on, it is desirable for the dealer to accelerate the sales of present Used Car stocks.

extra values A further reason why Used Cars, of any make, sold by Cadillac-La Salle dealers offer the highest obtainable values is because there is never an excess in price that must be absorbed by the purchaser of a trade-in.

There is a temptation in some quarters to make over-allowances for trade-ins to force sales of new cars.

The sale of new Cadillacs and La Salles is not made in that fashion. Thanks to their acknowledged position, no artificial stimulants are necessary.

ease of purchase It is a simple and an easy matter to purchase any Used Car from any Cadillac-La Salle dealer. The General Motors Deferred Payment Plan is a banking service for your convenience. You enjoy the car now and pay for it out of income.

Wise buyers of Used Cars will naturally seize these opportunities. The time is now. The place is wherever Cadillac-La Salle dealers sell Used Cars.

WESTERLY

START ON TESTIMONY IN GACCIONE MURDER CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 5—Crowds again clamored for admission Tuesday morning to the court house for the second day of the trial of Louis Gencarelli for the death of Santo Gaccione in Westerly by shot gun on the early morning of Jan. 21st. The doors and policing of the courtroom, hallways and corridors was continued the same as on the previous day.

Three Years For Liotta

Edward Liotta, proprietor of the former Black Coffee shop on Pleasant street was called before Judge Carpenter for sentence, on complaint of Chief Brown that July 6, 1928 he made a violent assault upon John DeSantis, whom he wounded with a pistol shot. Assistant Attorney General Louis V. Jackvony informed the court that DeSantis was driving a motor truck through Pleasant street when he drove over a foot, the propriety of Liotta but did not hit the dog. Liotta rushed to the driver pulled him from the seat, struck him and then pulled his pisto, and fired the shot, for which wound DeSantis was treated at Westerly hospital. The shooting he said was deliberately done at close range. He moved for the imposing of a five year sentence, saying that at the time defendant was under a suspended sentence for keeping a liquor nuisance which only carried a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and year imprisonment. The imposition of sentence had been held up for the outcome of the case. The court imposed a sentence of 2 years in Providence county jail while Liotta went. The judge said that wit hgood behavior defendant would be out in fourteen months. Sheriff Mitchell took him to Providence in the afternoon to begin the jail sentence.

Judge Carpenter declared all such cases unfortunate. Then said, "Bring in the jury and let's start this murder case."

State's Case Outlined

Assistant Attorney General Jackvony then outlined the state's case for first degree murder against Louis Gencarelli as follows: Louis Gencarelli and the slain Santo Gaccione had been friends and on the night of Jan. 20th both had been in the house where Gaccione lived upstairs and Mrs. Groccia lived downstairs. Gaccione was called and came to the downstairs apartment where something was said about Mrs. Groccia's niece, Louise Groccia. An argument started and Mrs. Groccia ordered both men out of her apartment. Gencarelli left by the front door and Gaccione by the rear door. A scuffle was heard upstairs, the defendant having gone upstairs and a fight followed in which Louis received a blackened eye and Gaccione had a handful of hair pulled from his head by the accused. Louis then went to the Murano house on Oak street and called up the police. Lieut. Champlin and Officer Madison going to the 4 Marion street house, but no complaints were lodged and no arrests were made at the time.

At 11:30 p. m. Gencarelli went back to the Groccia home when Mrs. Groccia asked the men to keep quiet and tried to make peace between them. Louis threatened Santo and declared that he would cut out his heart and liver and eat them and said he would allow his hands to fall off before he would make peace.

Visited Medicine Man

The defendant then went to the house of the Indian Medicine man "Chief Big Horn" and told him what had happened and declared that Santo had placed dynamite in the Indian's auto which had been previously blown up as it was parked in the roadway and stated to the Indian "I'll get the son of a ——!" He had a baseball bat and knife with him. The Indian advised him to go home and went home with him, saying that on the next day he would have a warant sworn out for Gaccione's arrest. The Indian chief then went alone to the house of Joe Grabb, corner of Oak and Marion streets.

Murdered In His Bed

Mrs. Gaccione went to bed with her husband and infant and at about 1 a. m., heard a shot; her husband asked her to get up and get him a drink of water. He followed her to the kitchen and on the way back to bed dropped in the hallway. Mrs. Groccia was called upstairs and helped get him in bed where his death occurred a short time later from a gun shot wound in the small of his back to which he had called his wife's attention. Mrs. Groccia went to the Murano house on Oak street and first tried to get a doctor for Gaccione, then called the police. Returning to her home she and her niece saw Gencarelli, fully clothed, with overcoat on and a shot gun under his arm, cross Oak street going in the direction of his home, corner of Oak and Tower street.

Shot Gun Found

Lieutenant Champlin and Officer Kessel and Medical Examiner Dr. M. H. Scanlon visited the Marion street house and then went to Gencarelli's home where he was found lying all dressed, on a couch in the kitchen. Dr. M. H. Scanlon searched and found his shot gun and cartridges in the man's coat pockets, the cartridges being high power load, of smokeless powder and single ball shot. Police officers arrested Gencarelli and later went to the Marion street house and obtained the direction the shot had come from the hole in the front wall of the house. Near an outhouse were found an empty shell and some wadding similar to the shells found on Gencarelli. An expert, Capt. VanAmburgh had declared the shell red from the left barrel of Gencarelli's gun. Mr. Jackvony then arranged the various exhibits on a table before the jurymen, where they were placed when admitted for evidence.

Highway Engineer's Evidence

The first witness, Highway Engineer A. L. Leon of Westerly, submitted plans, plats, sketches and profiles to show the surrounding territory and the measurement taken, including the line of fire of the shotgun from a mound at the rear of the Joe Grabb property, also the height of a gun held to defendant's shoulder in the Westerly police station.

Court convened at 2 p. m. with Mr. Leon still on the stand detailing measurements. He was followed by Inspector Herbert Caffrey, of Providence who introduced photos taken by him of the deceased man and the exterior and interior of the Gaccione home. The testimony of Richard W. Allen of the South County Public Service Co., was ordered stricken from the record when it was found that he was giving the neighborhood electric light measurements and power from statements made to him. The man who made them is to be placed on the witness stand Wednesday morning.

Widow Testifies

In the middle of the afternoon the widow of the slain man, Mrs. Susie Gaccione was given a lengthy examination and cross-examination. Court did not adjourn until 5:15 to convene at 10:45 Wednesday morning.

Petit Jurors Summoned

Town Sergt. George L. Madison has summoned the following additional jurors to report this (Wednesday) morning for petty jury duty: Thomas Purnle, stonecutter; Sylvester A. Murano, insurance man; Robert D. Thompson, 119 Main street; Joseph F. Bray, engineer; Gilbert H. James, meter tester; Grover C. King, soda manufacturer; William H. Browning, clothing store clerk; Alfred E. Johnson, painter; James H. Crowley, weaver.

FINAL QUOTATIONS OF STOCKS SHOWED LIST OF DECLINES IN ACTIVE ISSUES

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)—High call money rates and increasing revolutionary disturbances in Mexico proved too great an obstacle for spectators for the advance in today's stock market, and prices broke sharply after a mid-day flurry of buying had carried a score of the coppers and rails into new high ground. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 6 points in the active issues, and 7 to 10 points in a few specialties. A sprinkling of coppers, rails and specialties retained part of their early gains.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent, advanced to 9 and thence to 10 as banks called between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 in loans. Time money, commercial paper and bankers acceptance rates held firm around the year's high levels. With federal income tax payments and the quarterly treasury financing due next week, and a steady spring expansion in commercial and agricultural borrowings, bankers see little hope of any early relaxation in money rates.

One of the principal business developments of the day was the announcement, after the close of the market, that stockholders of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co., would be given the right to subscribe for two shares of additional common at $55 a share for every five shares now held, the proceeds to be used to retire $103,802,000 in 6 per cent. first mortgage bonds, and for other corporate purposes.

Widespread circulation of unconfirmed rumors that directors of the New York federal reserve bank recently voted to increase the rediscount rate to 6 per cent. but were overruled by the federal reserve board on the ground that such action would interfere with March treasury financing plans, also had a disturbing effect on sentiment. The drop of $56,618,000 in stock exchange member loans was about in line with Wall street's expectations and corresponded closely to the reduction in federal reserve borrowings, but the total at the end of the month was still 54 per cent. above a year ago.

Rails enjoyed a temporary flurry of strength in today's market on buying presumably influenced by the excellent character of current earnings and traffic reports, and possibly by hopes of an early favorable decision by the supreme court in the St. Louis & O'Fallon valuation case. New peak prices for the year, or longer, were registered by Erie common, Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Seaboard Air Line common and preferred, Baltimore & Ohio and a few others.

Coppers moved forward under the leadership of Anaconda, which advanced about 7 points to a new high at 55 1-4 and closed within a point of the top. Chile jumped 7 points to a new high at 117 and Kennecott (new) attained a new peak at 46 3-4 and then eased to 34, up 1 point net. American Smelting, American Metals and Howe Sound, all of which have Mexican properties, closed 1 to 2 1-2 points lower.

High priced specialties were among the hardest hit in the late selling movement. Radio (old stock) broke from an early high of 298 to $31 and then snapped back to $38, off 6 points net, and the new stock closed 1 1-4 points lower at 77 3-4. Victor Talking Machine certificates advanced nearly 4 points to within a fraction of the year's high on the announcement that sufficient Victor stock had been deposited to make the merger with Radio effective. Western Union advanced 3 1-2 points to within a fraction of the year's high but lost 2 1-2 points of its gain.

Adams Express broke 10 points on one sale. Johns Manville and Montgomery Ward were heavily sold on the reported illness of Theodore F. Merseles, the former closing 5 3-4 points lower and the latter 2 3-4. American & Foreign Power, Commonwealth Power, Curtiss Aero, Dupont, Electric Auto-Lite, National Cash Register and Wright Aero sold down 3 to nearly 9 points.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet and colorless, sterling cables holding steady around 4.85 7-32.

Establishment of the lowest levels in eight years by refined sugar prices, a drop of more than 2 cents a bushel in wheat prices and a rally of $2 to nearly $2.50 in cotton were the chief features in the commodity markets.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 5—(AP)—The line of least resistance in today's curb market was downward. Although at least a score individual issues were pushed into new high ground during the day, the general list turned reactionary on the raising of the call money rate from 8 to 10 per cent., and growing uneasiness over the Mexican situation.

Public utilities were again subjected to selling pressure, particularly those with a low yield basis. Electric Bond & Share (old stock) broke 9 points and rallied 2. American Super Power A and B lost 3 3-8 and 6 3-8 points, respectively, and American & Foreign Power warrants, United Gas Improvement, and some of the other recent favorites lost 3 points or more.

Tubize Artificial Silk, which sold as high as 550 this year, broke 35 points to 400 on odd lot transactions and then rallied 10. Singer Manufacturing dropped 10, Bendix (new) 17 and Ford of Canada 5.

Some sharp breaks also developed in the aviation group. Wright Aeronautical (new) and Sikorsky each fell more than 6 points and Aviation Corporation of America 10. Fokker moved into new high ground and Fairchild closed nearly 5 points higher, presumably on the announcement of a new $200,000,000 aviation holding company headed by the president of the Fairchild concern.

Marked irregularity also developed in the merchandising and mail order groups. Heavy buying of American Department Stores, which sold at the year's high price of 29, was based on merger reports. National Family Stores, Neisner, J. C. Penney and Isaac Silver issues were heavy. Fandango Corporation was heavily bought, touching a new high at 10 on reports that stockholders should shortly receive rights to subscribe for stock of a new company to manufacture removable automobile upholstery.

Oils developed few points of interest, establishment of a new high by Crystal Oil Refining and a gain of 2 5-8 points in Continental being offset by a 2 point drop in Vacuum. Trans-Lux was bid up to a new high at 13 on reports that the company had closed 104 new contracts last month. New high prices also were registered by Evans Wallow preferred, Haygart issues, Republic Brass A, Safe-T-Stat and Westvaco, while American Chain, Doehler Die Casting and several others registered new lows.

A DULL DAY IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

judge of the court of common pleas of Litchfield county was in sharp contrast to the action two years ago, when a bitter and acrimonious fight was made when Governor Trumbull sent his name to the assembly. He was finally confirmed by a scant majority.

The hearing before the fish and game committee might have been called a Norwich day, as most of the proponents and opponents were present from that city. Bills favoring a reduction of the fee for hunters and anglers were favored by a rising vote. Another bill would repeal the law requiring a license in inland tidal waters. A bill that would prohibit fishing in small feeder streams was both favored and opposed. The hearing on a bill that would give the state fish and game commission power to enforce its rules and regulations, Thursday next, promises to be well attended. At the hearing before this committee a number of bills relating to trapping and snaring will be heard. Some of these bills are sponsored by the Connecticut Humane society and by prominent men and women from all parts of the state.

HOUSE

The house was called to order at 11:18 by ex-Speaker John H. Hill, of Shelton. He was received with a burst of applause as he assumed the chair. Prayer was offered by the chaplain.

A large number of bills on which action had been taken were received from the senate and concurrent action was taken. Favorable reports from the cities and boroughs committee were received on the following bills: H. B. 319, an act concerning the election of tax collector in the town of Bloomfield; H. B. 189, an act creating a board of finance in the town of Bethel and providing for control of sidewalks and culverts by the finance board; H. B. 719, an act amending the charter of the city of Norwalk, providing for policewomen and female clerks in the police department of the town.

Under suspension of the rules an emergency bill was passed that extended the time in which the board of relief of Norwich may complete its work to March 9 and the time in which appeals may be taken was set at May 9. The bill was immediately transmitted to the senate.

The appropriations committee reported favorably a bill making an appropriation of $37,000 for the Israel Putnam Memorial association.

The nomination of Elbert B. Hamlin as judge of the court of common pleas for Litchfield county by the governor was confirmed by a vote of 230 to 1. The nomination of Thomas J. Malloy to be judge of the court of common pleas for Hartford county was also confirmed by a vote of 229 to 2. The nomination of Arthur E. Howard, Jr., to be associate judge of the court of common pleas for Hartford county was confirmed by a vote of 219 to 2.

Unfavorable reports were made by the cities and boroughs committee on: H. B. 730, an act amending the charter of the city of Norwalk, providing for duties of school board; H. B. 732, an act concerning the duties of the board of public safety in Norwalk; H. B. 318, an act providing for sale or leasing of municipal water plants only after approval by referendum vote.

From the aviation committee an unfavorable report came on H. B. 695, concerning the carrying of poisonous substances in airplanes, and providing a fine for such practice.

Matters passed that were stored for action on the calendar were:

Calendar

Substitute for H. B. No. 410. An act creating two voting districts in the town of Bloomfield. Favorable report of the committee on the judiciary.

H. B. No. 670. An act concerning use of highways for switching regulated on petition and appeal from public utilities commission. Favorable report of the committee on railroads.

H. B. No. 673. An act concerning petition for order to stop trains. Favorable report of the committee on railroads.

H. B. No. 674. An act concerning street railway companies. Favorable report of the committee on railroads.

H. B. No. 675. An act amending an act concerning protection at grade crossings. Favorable report of the committee on railroads.

H. B. No. 676. An act concerning easements and private crossings. Favorable report of the committee on railroads.

H. B. No. 769. An act amending the charter of the Danbury hospital. Favorable report of the committee on incorporations.

Substitute for H. B. No. 789. An act concerning sessions of registrars in certain towns. Favorable report of the committee on the judiciary.

At 12:10 the house adjourned till Wednesday at 11:15.

SENATE

The senate was called to order at 11:23 by Senator Harry S. Durant of Guilford. Chaplain Ayer offered prayer in which he prayed that Herbert Hoover may "have the joy of work well done."

Armed with a letter that "gave reasons," he said, "why former Senator J. James Floyd may not be rejected after all as a candidate for judge of the Waterford town court," Senator Fox of New London, who last week fought the senate's appointment of Frederick Schofield, a carpenter, to the post, today effected the tabling of the unfavorably reported resolution naming Floyd.

Senator Fox displayed the letter, signed by Mrs. Louise F. Schofield of No. 2328 Second avenue, New York, who said she was Schofield's wife, that his full name is Charles Frederick Schofield and that "there are reasons why he should not become a judge."

The woman invited Senator Fox to a conference at which, she said, she would give him the "reasons."

Senator Fox had attacked the appointment of Schofield because he was not a lawyer and did not ask the appointment, and spoke in favor of Senator Floyd because he was a trained legal man, had created the Waterford court, served as its prosecutor and had other experience qualifying him for the post. Senator Peasley, judiciary chairman, said Schofield was the "wisest choice," adding that "there are times when it is wiser to choose an untrained man than one who is trained." To this Senator Fox retorted: "Not a wise choice, but a wise political choice."

The letter he displayed today said that the woman signing herself Mrs Schofield had read of Schofield's appointment in a New Haven paper, which described Senator Fox's attack on the judiciary's favorable report on his candidacy.

When the committee's report on former Senator Floyd was read, Senator Fox asked that the resolution be tabled. Senator Hull, of Bridgeport second senate member of the judiciary said the committee was agreeable. Senator Durant of Guilford, presiding over the upper body, ordered the tabling.

The state senate today passed a bill that would prevent "surprise" tickets from cropping up and upsetting future school district elections. This bill was introduced by Senator Michael A. Connor.

It provides that every school district shall hold an anual meeting in June for election of officers and the transaction of school business; no person shall be eligible as a candidate for any office to be filled at such annual meeting unless his name is filed with the clerk not later than May 15 in the year of the meeting. Judiciary.

Other bills taken from the calendar and passed were:

Substitute for House Bill No. 338, increasing the exemption from attachment of wages, benefits and insurance money for personal services to $25. Judiciary.

H. B. No. 610, establishing the town of the Raymond Cemetery association. Incorporations.

H. B. No. 610, establishing the town court of Glastonbury, providing for civil and criminal court in said town with limited jurisdiction, the salary of the juge to be $750; deputy judge, $5 per day of actual sitting, prosecutor $600, assistant prosecutor, $5 per day of service. Judiciary.

S. B. No. 54, amending charter of the Mountain Grove Cemetery association. Incorporations.

Under suspension of rules, the following judgeship apointments were confirmed: Elbert B. Hamlin, of Litchfield, judge of court of common pleas, of Litchfield county; Thomas J. Molloy, of Hartford, judge of court of common pleas, of Hartford county; Arthur E. Howard, Jr., of West Hartford, associate judge of court of common pleas of Hartford county.

The senate adjourned at 12.05 until 11:15 Wednesday morning.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and Houdaille shock absorbers used on the new Ford.

Though the Ford tires are 30 x 4.50 in size, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel spoke wheels.

Another unusual feature of the new Ford tires is the provision for balancing the tire assembly. Every tire is marked on the side-wall with a red spot to show where the valve stem should be when the tube is inserted. This is just a little thing, but it assures a uniformly high standard of tire performance at all speeds.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the side-walls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent the possibility of premature wear of the tires.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

SAILOR'S WIFE AT NEW LONDON, DESPONDENT, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 5—Mrs. Lora Allen, 28, of 28 Terrace court, wife of a sailor, attempted self-destruction this afternoon. About 1:30 o'clock Mrs. Allen, who has been perplexed by domestic worries for several days, decided that her troubles would be ended by death and going to a closet took a bottle containing iodine and drank a portion of its contents. Her act was immediately discovered by a member of the household, who informed the police. Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray was sent to the house and the Lawrence hospital ambulance was summoned. It was believed that Mrs. Allen was in a serious condition and she was rushed to the hospital, where a stomach pump was used to remove the poison. It came out that the woman had swallowed only a small quantity of the liquid and an hour after she was received at the hospital her condition was such that she was sent to her home.

ROBT. C. BURCHARD ABLE TO LEAVE LOCAL HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 5—Robert C. Burchard, Montville mill owner, who was seriously injured several weeks ago when the automobile in which he was riding with Mrs. Anna Crandall, of Williams street, collided with another machine, was discharged today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Burchard and Mrs. Crandall were riding on Bank street when their auto crashed against the motionless car of George Linicus in attempting to pass a trolley car. Burchard received serious lacerations of the face and head and for a month it was uncertain as to whether he would recover. The only other patient discharged today was George Phillips, 120 Main street.

Philip J. Hendel and Louis Elfenbein have sold a dwelling house on the easterly side of Main street to Thomas David and Kalil Murad.

Archibald S. MacFarlane has sold a building lot on Ledyard street to Marion A. Miller.

OBITUARY

Leon M. Colver

Leon M. Colver, about 50, of Ledyard, where he was a farmer, died last night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital where he had been a patient but a few days ill with pneumonia.

The Connecticut Motor Transportation company has renewed the lease of Mary Shea, proprietress of the rooming house, 15 State street. The lease is for the upper two stories of the building, excepting two rooms on the second floor, used by the bus company for offices. The lease is for one year from April 1, 1929, and the rental will be $360.

City Clerk Julian D. Moran is confined to his home on Ocean avenue by illness.

BLACKS AND WHITES GIVEN FINES IN THE CITY COURT

A gang of blacks and whites was in the police court this morning, one charged with being the proprietress of a black-and-tan resort on Douglass street, and the others charged with frequenting. May Washington Barnes, colored, the proprietress, was fined $50 and costs, while the frequenters, Anna Ayers, 23, colored, of 16 John street; Edith Vader, 31, colored, of 715 Dwight street, Springfield, Mass., and Dorothy McKeithen, 30, colored, of 41 Pearl street, and Roy Steward and George Peterson, U. S. Coast Guard destroyer McCall, and Hollis Perry, 41 North Bank street, all white, charged with frequenting, were fined $5 and costs. The women and men were arrested last night when Acting Sergt. John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman Frank Philopena raided the Douglass street house.

NORWICH DRIVER'S CASE NOLLED ON EVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 5—Harold Cocoline, 21 West Thames street, Norwich, was in court on a charge of reckless driving, but the allegation was not substantiated by fact and the charge was nolled. Cocoline and two companions drove to New London and as the auto passed through Main street, its course was suddenly diverted to the left-hand side of the fishway. At the same time two young girls were in the course of the auto and ran to a point off the sidewalk. Cocoline was arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin. In court, Cocoline denied that he drove his auto recklessly, nor intentionally in the direction of the girls. He declared that a heavy fog prevailed and that he changed his course slightly for the purpose of endeavoring to obtain better vision. His statements were corroborated by his companions.

A special train arrived in this city at 9:15 o'clock this morning from Washington, carrying several hundred men and women who attended the inaugural ceremonies yesterday. The train remained at the union station 15 minutes in order to permit the passengers to obtain lunches as the train was not equipped with a dining car.

Members of the Crowley club will have their final play, Friday night, in the bridge tournament which has been running for some time and cups will be awarded the winners. The tournament is in charge of Miss Nellie Dugan.

Mrs. Cyrus S. Pembroke, 7 Colman street, entertained members of the bridge club last night. Two tables were in play and the prize winners were Mrs. Margaret Lyman and Mrs. George Jackman.

At the meeting of New London chapter of Hadassah, last night, plans were made for holding a dance at the Hotel Mohican in March. Plans were also made for a membership tea next month.

The first anniversary of Anoma circle of the First Baptist church was celebrated last night at the home of Mrs. George R. Bruhns, 17 Cole street. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Edith Keeney; vice-president, Mrs. Edward L. Smith; secretary, Mrs. George R. Bruhns; treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Gray. Refreshments and an anniversary cake followed.

Members of the Sisters of the Holy Trinity had a whist and pinochle party last night in Odd Fellows' hall, in charge of Mrs. Louise Pelletier. Prizes were won by Mrs. Irene Edwards, Mrs. Dorothy Baker, Mrs. J. Sylvia and Miss Anna Sylvia.

At the meeting of the Shepherds of Bethlehem, held last night in Eagles' hall, it was voted to make special plans for the observance of the sixth anniversary of the organization, March 18.

SEVERAL NORWICH DRIVERS AMONG 27 PICKED IN GROTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 5—As the result of the drive being made by the state police of Groton barracks, to compel drivers of automobiles to comply with the laws of the state motor vehicle department, officers late yesterday and last night arrested 27 drivers, all but one charged with driving without having a license. The other driver was also charged with driving with defective brakes. All of the drivers will be presented in the Groton and Waterford town court Monday next. Those arrested were Theresa B. Conlon, 114 Asylum street, Norwich; Samuel Harlewicz, R. F. D., No. 1, Norwich; Hadley Potter, R. F. D., No. 1, Norwich; Adolphus Benoit, R. F. D., No. 4, Norwich; Marie Angie Bugas, 41 Mechanic street, Taftville; Ben Touber, R. F. D., No. 1, Uncasville; Emile S. Sudreaut, P. O. Box, 458, Plainfield; Joseph Rzepniewski, 5 Hines street, Groton; Emmett F. Murphy, 357 Bank street, this city; Frances Brundage, Home Memorial hospital, this city; Vera Chapman, Mystic; T. C. Cooper, 716 Ocean avenue, this city; B. E. Weidermann, 63 Palmier street, New Haven; James M. Barrett, 15 Morse avenue, Groton; Delia Marooney, 42 Jay street, this city; Henry T. Thurber, state pier; Horace W. Patch, this city; Emory W. Churchill, R. F. D. 2, Waterford; Edward J. Neary, 47 Franklin street, this city; Dwight Getchell, 618 Williams street, this city; Harold G. Brown, 223 Poquonoc road, Groton and Herbert A. Ereifacher, 514 Ocean avenue, all charged with having no license. Paul Gager, Station 16, Waterford, was charged with not having a license and driving a truck equipped with defective brakes.

PERKINS GETS $5,000 BAIL FOLLOWING GIRL'S DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 5—Louis Perkins, Waterford, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Nellie M. Beckwith, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe L. Beckwith, of Willetts avenue extension, succeeded in procuring a surety on his bond of $5,000 last night and obtained his liberty. He will be in Waterford town court Monday next. Perkins was driving his automobile on Mallory Hill, New Haven turnpike, Sunday night and it is claimed was intoxicated. The car struck Miss Beckwith and three young men companions, who were walking beside the road on the way to Miss Beckwith's home, after having attended services at the Montauk avenue Baptist church. Miss Beckwith sustained a fractured skull and expired at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital Monday morning. Horace Beebe, 32 Converse place; William Spieler, Station 6 Waterford and Donald Ferguson, son of Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Ferguson, 252 Montauk avenue, are still patients at the hospital, but their injuries are not of such a nature as to cause alarm.

FERRY BOAT CAPTAINS BOUND TO GIVE UP LEASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 5—Following a continued loss in the operation of the New London-Groton ferry, Captains George Crandal and David Sheehan, the lessees, this afternoon had a conference with City Manager William A. Holt, informing the city manager that they desire to be released from their lease. As a result of the petition City Manager Holt issued a call for a special meeting of the city council for tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock for the purpose of considering the action and request of the ferryboat lesses. Captain Crandall and Sheehan leased the ferry for a year, for which they are paid $6,000. This amount is shared by this city and by the town of Groton. Recently a request was made for an additional appropriation of $10 a day as it was claimed the boat is operated at such a loss every day that the service is maintained. The captains have suggested the curtailing of the number of trips daily, which would permit a lesser number of hands to be employed and have also sugested the laying up of the boat on Sundays, but both plans met opposition from the city officials as wel as the selectmen of Groton.

Messrs Crandall and Sheehan gave a surety bond of $1,000 for the faithful performance of their contract and in the event that the city does not release the boat masters and they refuse to further operate the craft, they will forfeit their hand.

The trawlers Wild Goose and Petrol arrived at the plant of the Atlantic Fisheries, Groton, today with catches of 92,200 and 108,700 pounds of fish respectively. The trawler Cutler is expected to arrive tomorrow with even a larger catch.

Benjamin A. Armstrong, president of the National Bank of Commerce has ben named as chairman of the committee which is to arrange for an observance of Philippine day, May 1.

Commander E. F. Cutts, executive officer at the submarine base, is to be relieved of that post in June by Commander C. M. Elde, now serving in Asiatic waters. Commander Cutts has been ordered to duty aboard U. S. S. Memphis.

5 Student Nurses Pass

The following members of the senior class at Joseph Lawrence Training School for Nurses successfully passed the examinations recently held by the state board of registration: Mary McElarney, Helen McMahon, Margaret McMahon and Verna Svenburg, all of this city. The girls will be graduated from the school sometime this month.

Thursday night, the New London Women's club is to hold its March meeting.

Mrs. John Sheridan, of 65 Morgan street, entertained the Past Chief Daughters of Lady Aberdeen lodge at her home tonight.

Peterson-Swanson

Announcement was received in this city today of the marriage, in Balboa, Canal Zone, of Miss Bertha E. Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Swanson, of 382 Broad street, and Lieut. George E. Peterson, of submarine S-10. The wedding ceremony was performed in the military manner with naval officers and officials present. Miss Elizabeth Chappell, of this city, was present at the affair.

Mrs. H. S. Brooks, who will leave this city for Spokane, Wash., next week, was tendered a farewell shower last night by Mrs. C. S. Bailey, of 45 Sherman street. Mrs. Brooks received many beautiful gifts.

There will be no social activities at the meeting tomorrow night of the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent association, owing to the recent deaths of two members.

Friday the last thible party of the year is to be held by members of the Woman's league of the Second Congregational church. A program of songs has been arranged by Mrs. Edward R. Calvert, of Groton.

At a special meeting of voters of the Second school district, to be held in Groton Monday night, plans will be discussed for the erection of a larger building for the Pleasant Valley school house.

The national council of the Junior Order, American Mechanics, has granted authority to Roosevelt council, No. 5, of this city, to launch a drive for new members during the next 30 days.

A slight fire broke out in the basement of the Chateau Belle Vue apartments, Pequot avenue, at 8:02 o'clock this morning. The blaze was started by a flooded oil burner which is used to heat the building. The Ockford Hose company responded to the alarm and had little difficulty in extinguishing the flames.

The charge of reckless driving against Maurice Marholin, of New Britain, driver of the car which struck and injured Patrolman Louis Tooker at Ocean Beach, was nolled in the police court this morning.

Tax Collector Alexander today released from sale property in Park street, Ocean Beach, owned by William Vogel, of Hartford, which was to have been sold Feb. 28 to satisfy taxes due the city.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Dolores Costello's latest starring production, The Redeeming Sin, the Vitaphone special in which she is presented by Warner Bros., comes to the Broadway theatre tomorrow.

The Redeeming Sin is a thrilling and glamorous romance of the Paris underworld in which Miss Costello plays the part of a cafe dancer—ruled by a thief and rescued by a young doctor, who is called to save the life of her young brother who has been accidentally shot. Surrounded by forces of evil she finally finds what she wants most—love and peace.

Vitaphone gives this great story the warmth, the terror and the beauty of actual life—in voice and sound reproduction and glorious symphonic accompaniment.

In The Redeeming Sin, Miss Costello's leading man is Conrad Nagel, who has appeared with her in a number of recent productions. Other prominent members of the cast are George Stone, Lionel Belmore, Philippe de Lacy, Warner Richmond and Nina Quantero. The Redeeming Sin was directed by Howard Bretherton, and was adapted for the screen by Harvey Gates from a story by L. V. Jefferson.

Breed Theatre.

A partially blind architect, who is forced to frequent soup kitchens on the East Side of New York, is rescued by a homeless urchin and through the boy's aid finally attains success. That is the theme of Little Mickey Grogan, an FBO classic of boy life, which will be shown at the Breed theatre today and Thursday.

Frankie Darro, 8-year-old prodigy of the circus, has the leading role in Little Mickey Grogan. He is supported by Jobyna Ralston, Lassie Lou Ahern and many other well known motion picture players. Little Mickey Grogan was directed by Leo Meehan, who also directed Judgment of the Hills, which won Frankie Darro a starring contract.

How a wise city confidence man to whom the squawk of a "sucker" is the sweetest music ever made, gets trimmed at his own game by a country maid, is the theme of Fox Films feature comedy, The Farmer's Daughter, which is the added feature on today's program. Marjorie Beebe, the red haired comedienne, and Arthur Stone, another famed master of comedy, have the leading roles.

St. Mary's Players.

The public has already noticed that the various baseball clubs have their players in the south where they are in training for the coming season. It is still some time before the season begins, but the players are hard at work preparing for it. St. Mary's Players, too, have been rehearsing for some weeks. They are, so to speak, in training in order that their play may be properly presented. No half way measures are taken to put on their plays. Study, hard work—that has been and is the secret of the success of all their plays. Baseball clubs look around for talent, and when they find it secure it. St. Mary's Players follow a like method. A good cast has been assembled. Be sure and see them in their offering this year. The names of the cast will be in Friday's paper.

Palace Theatre.

The Chicago Stock company played to large and enthusiastic audiences again yesterday at the Palace theatre and the general concensus of opinion among local theatregoers is, that it is the best stock company that has ever been seen in Norwich. Not only the plays excellently acted but staged and costumed in a manner equal to the original New York presentation. Yesterday's attraction, Jimmie's Women, ran all last year at the Biltmore theatre in New York and was a most entertaining type of comedy.

Today matinee and night the players will turn to farce and offer a typical laugh festival entitled How Women Ruin Men, from the pen of the author of Parlor, Bedroom and Bath, Getting Gertie's Garter, Up In Mabel's Room, The Best People and a score or more of successful productions. It is the story of a young wife who thought it harmless to be always surrounded by men—but her husband couldn't see it that way, and as as this flapper wife said to her husband, "Dearie, I've kissed many but I love only you." If you like to laugh—this production will provide three hours of solid fun for all who witness it.

Tomorrow two plays will be staged. The matinee attraction is the New York Little Theatre success, Married—and How, and the evening attraction, The Noose, the world's famous drama of the night clubs tat ran a solid year at the Hudson theatre in New York.

Friday the clever comedy That's Her Weakness Now, wil be presented and on Saturday the closing production Why Girls Walk Home, will be staged.

Matinees are given daily, at which time the seats are not reserved. For the evening performances the first fifteen rows are reserved and are now on sale for all week.

Josef Lhevinne, Pianist, who appears in Bulkeley Auditorium tonight under the auspices of Connecticut college.

Nearly a third of all the woman members of the Finnish Lutheran church at Gardner, Mass., are named Ida. When the fact was discovered the Idas joined in a festival and bazar.

GREENEVILLE

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MASTER WILLIAM EVANS

A children's party was given Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. William Evans on Prospect street in honor of the fifth birthday of their son, Billy. The children enjoyed an hour of games and nursery songs, played on the Victrola by Miss Beatrice Johnson after which a luncheon of cake, fancy cookies, ice cream and candy was served by Mrs. Evans, assisted by Mrs. Albert Evans. The dining room was prettily decorated in pink, the center attraction being the large dome hung directly over the center of the table, which was decorated in pink crepe paper with streamers suspended, at the ends of which hung balloons of gay colors. These were distributed to the children after the luncheon. Miss Virginia Campbell won first prize for pinning the cotton tail on the Bunny. The children attending were Mary Desmond, Mary Jane Evans, Virginia Campbell, Dorothy Szerlong, John Hanks, Donald Marshall, Junior Murphy, Francis Szerlong, Jerry Theve, Ralph Evans, Bobby and Billy Evans.

On Monday evening at 7:15, Troop 11, Boy Scouts held their regular weekly meeting in the hall of the Third Baptist church. Thirteen boys attended. Anthony Laypo was admitted to membership and four other applications were made. The boys enjoyed drills, games and contests.

The Home department of the Third Baptist church will meet at the home of Mrs. William Sweet on Central avenue Thursday evening at 7:30. The mid-week service of the Third Baptist church will be held Thursday. The topic will be "On the Lord's Side."

On Friday evening, at the Lenten service held in St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Rev. Edwin J. Norris, rector, admitted six new members to the Girls' Friendly society. A very large congregation assembled, the special preacher being Rev. A. N. Samwell, rector of Oakville, near aterbury.

TAFTVILLE

Because of the heavy snowstorm on Saturday night, there was only a fair attendance at the subscription dance at the Community hall at the Newent school house given under the auspices of the Liston Community club. The Colonial orchestra played.

Mrs. Raymond A. Pingree and her daughter, Miss Lois C. Pingree, of Bayleeville, R. I., are guests of the former's father, Axel L. Aberg, and her sister, Miss Helen C. Aberg of North Third avenue.

Monday evening the members of Fire Company No. 1, entertained the members of Fire Company No. 2, at Ponemah hall. The speaker of the evening was Chief Howard L. Stanton of the Norwich fire department, who outlined some of his work in the past as a fire-fighter and also answered questions pertaining to fires and how to control them. Cards and radio music were enjoyed and refreshments were served.

At the local post office this week the advertised mail is for Miss Mary Cassidy, E. S. Beckers, Mrs. Lottis and Harold B. Sandman and Mrs. G. Baudreau.

The monthly business meeting of the members of the Taftville Social and Football club was held Monday evening in the club rooms in the Ponemah house. President Fred Ince presided and routine business was transacted.

The Artisans met Monday evening. Miss Louise Sigrist, R. N., was in charge of the meeting of the class of young ladies in home nursing and hygiene held Tuesday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

When members of Branch 98, Polish Workers Sick Mutual Aid association held their monthly meeting Sunday afternoon at their rooms on lower Norwich avenue, the president George Serus presided.

Mrs. William J. Malone, the president, was in charge of the meeting of the members of the Ladies' auxiliary, Ancient Order of Hibernians held Tuesday evening in their rooms in Parish hall.

The regular business meeting of the Ponemah Wheel club was held Tuesday evening at the club house on Norwich avenue, with a large attendance.

The barrel of clothing which was packed by the Ladies Benevolent society of the Taftville Congregational church for Frederick J. Werking, principal of the University at Atlanta, Ga., was shipped to him this week.

The monthly business meeting of the members of Peter Gallan Post, No. 104, American Legion, was held Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building with Commander Napoleon J. Pepin, presiding.

Miss Anne Dailey of Merchants' avenue has been appointed chairman of the committee which will arrange for a card party to be given under the auspices of St. Veronica's society in the near future.

Leading a woman to the altar is usually a man's last act of leadership.

CHAMBER CAMPAIGN WORKERS EXPECT TO REACH HALF-WAY MARK TONIGHT

All teams and the activities fund committee in the chamber of commerce campaign entered the field on Tuesday afternoon after the noon report luncheon, determined to reach the half-way mark by this (Wednesday) evening, when they will assemble for a 6 o'clock dinner at the Wauregan hotel to make their second report in the drive for members and subscriptions to the fund. The drive opened at 9.30 o'clock Tuesday morning, with $20,000 as the goal.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, general chairman of the campaign, appealed to the workers to put in full time on Tuesday afternoon and all day Wednesday, in order to have the best report possible. He pointed out that with the full day and a half to work there was no reason why every team, as well as the activities fund committee, should not have a good report to make at the dinner this evening.

Frank R. Murdy, commanding ace of the teams, in a brief talk at the luncheon Tuesday, instructed every worker to be in the field promptly at 9.30 o'clock Wednesday morning, with a full quota of workers.

For the first day's report, Abner Schwartz' division won the flag for the best report in subscriptions, with a total of $536; and also the "dollar sign" for the best showing in collections.

Among the individual planes, Pilot John B. Caron carried off the pennant for the best report in subscriptions and Max Hanover's plane took home the bacon for the best showing in collections.

R. W. Perkins of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., has written to Dr. Campbell the following endorsement of the present endeavor to build a bigger and better chamber of commerce in Norwich:

"A civic organization made up of the energetic, ambitious and progressive men of the community, back by sufficient funds to make it effective, is just as essential to the proper conduct and development of a community as an organization backed by ample capital is in the development of a business.

"We call such a civic organization in Norwich the chamber of commerce, but, whatever it is called, it is simply an organization ready to and capable of crystallizing the opinions of the people and directing their efforts toward the development of the community.

"Every man ambitious for a better and a bigger city should generously support this endeavor to build an organization strong in men and money."

Abner Schwartz of Schwartz Bros. and ace of Division 1, has given the following endorsement of the campaign to Dr. Campbell:

"As a citizen, I believe that every possible effort should be made to improve the city in which we live, and that this can be done only through well directed action under the guidance of one whose entire time may be given to the subject.

"As a merchant, I feel that the chamber has acted as a clearing house for the many ideas of the merchants and that we have had better results than could have been obtained through any other organization.

"As a director, I know that any movement that is brought before the chamber is sure of a fair and impartial hearing, and cooperation that no other organization is in a position to give.

"For the welfare of the whole city the present members in campaign should have the hearty support of every citizen".

The standing of divisions and planes Tuesday was as follows:

QUARTERLY RALLY OF GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETIES

The quarterly rally of the Girls' Friendly societies was held at St. Andrew's church, Sunday. The proceedings began with a meeting in the guild room at 4 p. m. The presiding officer was Mrs. Chester Dimmick. Mrs. H. W. Williams, vice-president, and Miss Lucille Christian, also spoke.

Miss Arndd of Maine was the visiting speaker and gave a fine address on G. F. S. endeavor, cleverly defining it as "Adventure."

At 5 p. m., the meeting passed into the church where Rev. E. J. Norris, rector, conducted a service and gave an address.

At 6 p. m., the visitors and others were entertained at supper in the guild room by St. Andrew's G. F. S.

During supper, Ruth Crowe sang very pleasingly and Miss Ina Ufford read a poem entitled "Keeping Lent."

Delegates were present from New London, Yantic, Jewett City, Plainfield, Willimantic and Norwich, over 150 in all.

JUDGE WALLER REVERSES JUSTICE SWEENEY'S DECISION

Judge Charles B. Waller of the court of common pleas handed down two decisions Monday. The judge reversed the decision of Justice of the Peace John J. Sweeney of Bozrah, when he rendered judgment for the defendant, Betty Katlinsky of Bozrah, in the suit brought against her by Jack H. Goldberg of Hartford.

Goldberg claimed that while his automobile was parked in the yard at Spruce lodge, in Bozrah, an automobile owned by the defendant, and without driver in it, crashed into the Goldberg car.

Justice of the Peace Sweeney heard the action and gave judgment for $100 for Goldberg, the exact amount which the latter sued for.

Judge Waller also gives judgment for the defendant, William Jennings, Jr., of Norwich in the $200 civil action brought against him by Samuel Schatz of Yantic, for an alleged bill of merchandise.

ST. VINCENT'S GUILD HAS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting and election of officers of St. Vincent's guild of Christ church was held Tuesday evening in the parish rooms with a large attendance. Earle M. Wood was elected president; Walter W. Kellner, vice-president; Peter Lukoff, secretary; treasurer, Clifford Moody; senior warden, Gustave Lambert; junior warden, Harry Wonnacott; master-of-ceremonies, Theodore Lambert.

Plans were made for the annual guild dance to be held after Lent and Lorrens I. Hamilton was elected chairman of the committee. The other members of the committee are Purton Robinson, Roland Denison, George Guile, Edmund H. Hindle, Leslie Gordon, George Lambert, Gordon Cruikshank, Harold Blanchard, Robert Wonnacott, Harry Cooke and Leonard Johnson.

Tenth Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Koskie, of Norwich Town, entertained at their home from 3 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon in honor of the tenth birthday of their daughter, Helen.

Games were played and the peanut hunt prize won by Phyllis Bradley. The fortune telling prize was won by Ruth Lasch and Mildred Koskie. Miss Josephine Skinder entertained the children with toe dancing, music being furnished by a victrola. Phyllis Bradley and Helen Koskie gave their idea of the Charleston. The color scheme in the decorations was pink and white. At 5 o'clock a dainty lunch was served in the dining room. The center of attraction was a beautiful birthday cake lighted with candles. The favors were pink and white baskets filled with candy. Mrs. Koskie was assisted in serving by Mrs. Harry Koskie and Mrs. Frieion Smith.

Those present were: Ruth and Marie Lasch, Phyllis Bradley, Bertha Gordon, Mildred and Morton Koskie, Marcell Starr, Lorretta Seresefski, Josephine and Bernard Skinder and Helen Koskie.

Little Helen received many pretty gifts and all present wished her many happy returns of the day. After listening to a radio program the children left for their homes.

WOMAN GIVEN AWARD OF $1,000 BY COMMISSIONER

An award of $1,000 has been given Helen Carterud of New London and Hartford for the death of her husband, Elmer Carterud, who died as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident, according to a finding handed down Monday by Compensation Commissioner Albert J. Bailey. This is a compromise settlement in Mrs. Carterud's claim against Elizabeth M. Russell, now deceased, for which Carterud worked at the time of the accident. The $1,000 is to be paid in a lump sum.

The claim was a disputed one. The claimant alleged that her husband was chauffeur for Mrs. Russell and that on May 8, 1928, he informed Mrs. Russell that he purchased for $80 an automobile. The claimant set out that her husband used this car to run errands for Mrs. Russell and that while he was working on the car which was jacked up in Mrs. Russell's garage the car fell and Carterud received injuries which proved fatal.

The insurance company involved claimed that the car was the personal property of Carterud and that there was no claim upon the company. The Carteruds were married in Hartford, Feb. 16, 1915 and they had three children.

SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS VERDICT FOR $2,500

The supreme court of errors has found no error in the $10,000 damage suit brought by Geneva Genishevsky, a minor of Preston, against Isadore Fishbone of this city and Israel Chiat of Preston, according to a decision received Monday by Clerk John H. Walker.

Some time ago, the Genishevsky girl received a verdict for $2,500 by a jury in superior court here for injuries she sustained when struck by an automobile owned by Fishbone and operated by Chiat. The little girl was playing in her yard when struck by the machine. Her chief injury was a broken leg.

An appeal to the supreme court of errors resulted in the verdict being sustained, which will have to be paid.

WOMAN VOTER'S BULLETIN ON LEGISLATOR'S DESKS

Members of the legislature found on their desks Tuesday a special number of the weekly legislative edition of the Woman Voter's Bulletin, the official organ of the Connecticut League of Women Voters. It features jury service for women and other bills pertaining to the legal status of Connecticut women.

In the leading article, "Why Delay Longer?" Mrs. Ruth McIntire Dadourian of Hartford gives the league's reasons for sponsoring Senate Bill 36, making women eligible and liable for jury service on the same terms as men, with exemptions for nurses and mothers of children under sixteen.

Excerpts from a number of letters regarding service on juries by women from prosecuting attorneys, lawyers, judges and editors in Ohio are given under the title, "Are Connecticut Women Different?" They all agree that the jury system has improved since women have served on Ohio juries.

Charles P. Taft, 2nd, the son of William Howard Taft, expresses his opinion as follows: "Women serve as jurors, of course in this state, and we have had a great deal of experience with them in criminal cases. I would say that on the whole they are quite satisfactory, and that it is usually possible to retain in the panel more intelligent women than intelligent men. The women do not ordinarily have the business engagements that legitimately prevent service by men.

"So far as criminal cases are concerned, while women are somewhat more confiding in their earlier cases, and do not at first recognize the amount of perjury that goes on in that kind of case, they are very rapidly educated and prove most satisfactory, even from the selfish standpoint of the state.

"During the Ford case, in which Ford was convicted and sentenced to death, the jury consisted of eight women and four men. My experience has led me to approve of their service on juries."

FEBRUARY DONATIONS TO FAMILY WELFARE DEPT.

The family welfare department of the United Workers acknowledges the donations received uring the month of February from the following:

Miss B. A. Metzger, Miss Jane Aiken, Mrs. Lorinsky, Mrs. W. R. Perkins, Mrs. O. G. Chase, Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. Flint Brayton, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Ed. Y. Messinger, Mrs. Willis Austin, Mrs. Christian Hanson, Miss Jane Driscoll, Mrs. William Shanley, Mrs. James Morton, Mrs. Adam Ensling.

State Insurance Day

The annual observance of Insurance day in Connecticut will take place in Hartford on March 15, at which time it is anticipated that more than 2,000 agents, representing every phase of insurance endeavor, will assemble there for the purpose of solving their mutual problems, and also in order to listen to outstanding figures in the insurance world of today. The day's schedule will be concluded during the evening with a banquet at the Hotel Bond, at which nationally known men in the insurace business will be heard.

NORWICH TOWN

PUPILS ALL LISTEN IN THROUGH INAUGURATION

Through the courtesy of the United Music company, the pupils of Samuel Huntington school, Norwich Town, were privileged to hear President Herbert Hoover take his oath of office, also to hear his inaugural address at 1 o'clock Monday in Washington. Following the ceremonies broadcast over the radio, which was procured by one of the teachers, Miss Florence M. Bennett, the children were dismissed to their several rooms about 1.45. The program was listened to in the school auditorium.

Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist church, Mrs. William Weaver, president, is to hold its March meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Fulton, Huntington avenue. Members will bring their mite boxes to this meeting.

Mrs. Charles E. Reeves, Scotland road is to be hostess Friday afternoon, to the work committee of the Woman's department of the League of Service of the Congregational church.

FUNERAL
Frederick W. Weir

With a large attendance of relatives, friends and neighbors, funeral services for Frederick W. Weir were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home, 140 West Town street. The ritual of the Episcopal church was read by Rev. George Warren Potter, pastor of Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, who also conducted the committal service at the grave in the family plot in the Johnson cemetery, Bozrah. There were beautiful floral remembrances. Attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Nelson C. Taintor and son, John Taintor, of Hartford, relatives, also Joseph Morrow, an intimate friend. The bearers were N. C. Pierce, James A. Bidwell, Walter Nelson, Frank B. Decker, Allyn M. Brand and John Murphy. Undertaker Charles A. Gager was in charge of the arrangements.

WHITE SIDE WINS OUT IN C. E. COMPETITION

The First Congregational church Sunday evening held a large congregation for the closing meeting in the C. E. attendance contest, conducted by the young people. The White side, captained by Miss Lucile Browning, was victorious, winning the contest with 85 points ahead of the Reds, captained by Reginald Avery. Sunday evening there was a total attendance including visitors, of 258, the Reds numbering 124, while the White side totaled 134.

The topic of the meeting was Recruiting for Christ, with Miss Grace Wheeler leader. She was assisted by Miss Dorothy Waterman, president of the C. E. society, Robert Stott, Jr., and Rev. Charles E. Reeves of Norwich Town, and Rev. Edward F. Smiley, pastor of the Congregational church of South Windham.

Dwight Richardson, organist at the Trinity Methodist church, played two selections on the organ while the congregation was assembling, also accompanied skilfully for the solo, "Light," by Stevenson, sung by his mother, Mrs. Herbert Richardson. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Reeves, the congregation uniting in the Lord's Prayer at the close. Miss Wheeler announced that the White side had won out in the contest, also congratulated those who had worked hard in making the contest a success. Miss Wheeler mentioned that the losing side, according to agreement, would tender a banquet to the C. E. members on the White side, also to all who intend to become members of this society.

Rev. Mr. Smiley, of South Windham, gave an interesting talk in relation to the general theme. He chose for his text Matthew 27:22, "What then, shall I do with Jesus, which is called Christ?" He spoke of three distinctive groups: The group that needs recruiting for Christ; a group of people indifferent to Christianity in striving to reach Jesus; and thirdly, people who are devotedly Christian, who have put the principles of Jesus Christ into action. Rev. Mr. Smiley emphasized the principles of the Sermon on the Mount, also expressed the hope that as Christians, all would try to promote Christianity and make minds and hearts bow down to Jesus of Nazareth. The hymns during the meeting included, Christ for the World We Sing, Lead On, O King Eternal, and Jesus Shall Reign Where'er the Sun, with Herbert L. Yerrington at the organ for the last two. The Christian Endeavor benediction brought the impressive service to a close. Later Rev. Mr. Smiley in appreciation of his eloquent discourse, was presented a generous sum in behalf of the C. E. society.

Sunday morning at the Congregational church the pastor, Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey, preached a fine sermon on Man's Need of a Saviour, the first in a series of Lenten sermons. Rev. Mr. Bailey officiated at the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, assisted by Rev. Charles E. Reeves.

MRS CATHERINE F. MORRIS HAD REACHED AGE OF 89

Catherine Fisher Norris, 89, died Monday morning at 3.40, following a serious illness of a month, due to her advanced age. She was born in Germany, Sept. 7th, 1839, the daughter of John A. and Wilhelmina Sell-Fisher. She came to America when a girl of 15, and resided in South Windham for many years. At the time of her death she resided with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Norris of New London turnpike, where she had made her home the past six years.

For many years she lived in Hanover, where she was a member of the Congregational church, and before coming to Norwich Town resided for several years in Hallville. Mrs. Norris was mother of ten children, nine of whom survive her. The six sons are, Edward D. Norris of Norwich Town; Louis J. Kiess, South Windham; Charles F. Kiess of Norwich; Alfred W. Kiess of Essex; Julius L. Kiess of Norwich Town; and John A. Kiess of Baltic. Her daughters are Mrs. Louisa Way, Norwich Town, Mrs. Grace Peck of Norwich and Mrs. Henry Hazler of Groton. A brother, Charles Fisher of Scotland, Conn., also survives her. She leaves 13 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. During her illness Mrs. Norris was tenderly cared for by the daughter-in-law, with whom she lived, Mrs. Edward Norris, also for the past two weeks by her daughter, Mrs. Hazler, who came to Norwich Town to assist her sister-in-law.

Mrs. Norris was a kind and loving mother, always ready and willing to minister to the needs of others. A woman of fine traits of character, she will be greatly missed, especially in the home where she took so much comfort in her declining years.

POETRY

Ladde

Lowly the soul that waits
At the white celestial gates
A threshold soul to greet
Beloved feet.

Down the streets that are beams of sun
Cherubim children run;
They welcome it from the hall;
Their voices call.

But the Warder saith: "Nay, this
Is the City of Holy Bliss.
What claim canst thou make good
To angelhood?"

"Joy," answereth it from eyes
That are amber ecstasies
Listening, alert, elate,
Before the gate.

Oh, how the frolic feet
On lonely memory beat!
What rapture in a run
'Twixt snow and sun!

"Nay, brother of the sod,
What part hast thou in God?
What spirit art thou off?"
It answers: "Love."

Lifting its head, no less
Cajoling a caress,
Our winsome coilie wraith,
Trust in glad faith

The door will open wide,
Or kind voice bid: "Abide,
A threshold soul to greet
The longed-for feet."

Ah, Keeper of the Portal,
If Love be not immortal,
If Joy be not divine,
What prayer is mine?

—Katharine Lee Bates.

Early Music

The sap is music; suddenly it surges
Up to the stars, wounding the dark tree's heart;
A fountain from a source of roots, it urges
The boughs to wake, the leaves to split apart.
We never listen close against a tree,
Hugging the bark, but if we did we would Hear some bright stanza of a song set free
Deep in the inner core of solitude.

For winter, that unprosperous interval,
Is come to end; a swollen river wakes;
The heart of April trembles once again;
The sap is rising and the very lakes
Are swollen with the floods and musical
Under the first soft downpour of the rain.

MEXICAN FEDERAL TROOPS HAVE CAPTURED MONTEREY

Mexico City Reports That the Rebel Troops Have Been Driven Out—Official Belief is That Vera Cruz Will Be Reoccupied Within Three Days—Mexican Ambassador Reports to State Department That Rebellious Forces Now Hold Control Only in the States of Sonora, Vera Cruz, and to Some Extent in Chihuahua—Guaymas Has Been Captured by the Insurgents Together With the Warship Bolivar—Battle is Imminent at Juarez

(By The Associated Press)

Monterey has been re-taken by the swift driving march of several federal columns, Mexico City officially claimed Wednesday.

General Escobar's rebel troops were driven out before they had a chance even to consolidate their position.

Vera Cruz will share a like fate within three days, federal authorities said.

The revolutionists are acting as one unit in the north where loyal troops still are widely scattered and generally outnumbered. Where the federals have had a chance to strike, as at Vera Cruz, they have hit the revolution heavy blows.

A battle was imminent for Juarez, across the boundary from El Paso, and rebel leaders said its fall was only a matter of hours. The city was feverishly excited. Machine guns were mounted at strategic points and civilian troops patrolled the streets.

A detachment of several hundred federal troops at Juarez for the north Tuesday night to meet advancing rebels. It was persistently rumored that they were about to clash at Samalayuca, 22 miles to the south.

Rebels reported forces were reported everywhere in the north from Guaymas on the gulf of Lower California to eastern Sonora. Isolated bodies of loyal troops have taken to the mountains.

Guaymas has been captured by the rebel general, Manzo, together with the Mexican warship Bolivar, lying in the harbor. The federals were apparently abandoning the state of Sinaloa and have evacuated government employes from Mazatlan and closed the telegraph offices.

Municipal authorities were left in Mazatlan, the fall of which would open the way for a rebel march down the west coast of Mexico to outflank the capital itself.

FIGHTING BETWEEN REBEL FACTIONS AT VERA CRUZ

MEXICO CITY, March 6—(AP)—The government announced tonight that fighting had broken out between factions in the rebel forces in Vera Cruz, some of the troops of General Jesps M. Aguirre were said to have turned against him. The announcement added that the government expects the recapture of the gulfport soon.

REPORT TO STATE DEPT. ON REVOLT IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—After a long distance telephone conversation with President Portes Gil, Ambassador Manuel C. Tellez, of Mexico, reported tonight to the state department that rebellious forces in his country now hold control only in the states of Sonora, Vera Cruz, and to some extent in Chihuahua.

MASS WILL BE SAID IN CATHEDRALS OF SONORA

NOGALES, Ariz., March 6—(AP)—Mass will be said in cathedrals of Sonora tomorrow for the first time in more than two years. This was announced today in instructions forwarded to the Very Rev. Father M. Portela, vicar general of the diocese of Hermosillo.

REINFORCEMENTS AT INSURGENTS AT NOGALES

NOGALES, Ariz., Mrch 6—(AP)—General Francisco Manzo, who has been named commander of the revolutionary troops of the northwest, advised General Francisco Borquez, commander of revolutionary forces at Nogales, Sonora, across the border from here, that a force of 1,000 was being sent to reinforce the Nogales garrison. The present garrison is reported to comprise 500 men.

ORDER INDICATES FALL OF JUAREZ IS EXPECTED

ALBQUERQUE, N. M., March 6—(AP)—The Mexican consul in Albuquerque late this afternoon was advised by his government in Mexico City not to certify any documents going through the port of Juarez. He interpreted the order that Juarez was in the hands of rebels or was expected to be soon.

SPEEDY END OF MEXICAN REBELLION PREDICTED

MEXICO CITY, March 6—(AP)—A speedy end of the rebellion against the administration of Provisional President Portes Gill was predicted in an official government bulletin issued this evening.

The bulletin said that General Jesus M. Aguirre, Rebel leader of Vera Cruz, had been deserted by most of his soldiers who had returned to the support of the government and were fighting their former leader.

It said too that General Gonzalo Escobar was in full flight after a defeat by government troops in Coahuila.

Announcement also was made that the Federals had today recaptured Monterey, the strategic center in Nuevo Leon, had taken Cordova, in the state of Vera Cruz, and would, in a few days, be in full control of the gulf port of that name.

BLUE LAWS MAKE ATLANTA DORMANT ON SUNDAYS

ATLANTA, Ga., March 6—(AP)—Invoking a law that makes it illegal for the city to engage in business on the Sabbath, the parks committee of city council today ordered the closing on Sundays of all Atlanta municipal golf courses, swimming pools, tennis courts, other recreation facilities and park concession stands.

The action was based on a ruling of the city attorney, who had been asked for an opinion on the legality of Sunday operation of park concessions following a dispute between two applicants for contracts in Piedmont and Grant parks.

Not only is such activity on the Sabbath unlawful, the city attorney held, but it likewise is illegal for the city legally to collect money for use of its sports and educational facilities on that day. He added that the law does not prohibit the playing of golf.

Park superintendents were ordered to apply the edict beginning next Sunday.

No Sunday amusements, such as motion picture theatres, play houses and dance halls, have been operated here in years.

WATCHING VAST AMERICAN INTERESTS IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—Developments in revolution-torn Mexico were studied today by United States government officials who are watching carefully the tide of rebellion and its effect on the vast American interests in that country estimated at [illegible], Ambassador Morrow at Mexico City continued to keep Secretary Kellogg fully informed on all phases of the revolution.

There was nothing in the reports reaching Washington to cause apprehension among officials over the safety of American interests as the revolution.

There was nothing in the reports reaching Washington to cause apprehension among officials over the safety of American interests as the revolutionary forces have threatened no American lives nor committed depredations on the property of American citizens.

NEW YORK GUNMAN KILLED IN HARRISBURG

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—James Hogan alias Patrick McDonald, who was fatally wounded during a holdup at Harrisburg, Pa., yesterday, was being sought by New York police for the slaying of Patrolman George Dugan near Irvington-on-Hudson Sunday.

The patrolman was shot as he rode his motorcycle along a lonely road and the motorcycle crashed into a tree. His body was found along the road near the wrecked machine. A short time later a man appeared at the home of William E. Spratt, Jr., just as Mr. and Mrs. Spratt were preparing to enter their automobile for a Sunday afternoon drive.

ARTHUR M. BROWN'S VIEWS ON APPOINTMENT OF JUDGES

STATE CAPITOL, Hartford, March 6—(AP)—The judiciary committee heard this afternoon arguments on the bill providing that the governor, rather than the general assembly, appoint judges of town, city and borough courts, as he does of New Haven. State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown, of New London county, appeared in favor of the measure, saying there was no reason why the governor should not appoint such judges just as he does those of the superior and common pleas courts.

"Such a bill, if enacted," he declared, "would do away with log-rolling and trading in the general assembly. The responsibility for city, town and borough court judges should be placed on the governor. The judiciary committee merely recommends the judges and then forgets about them, and there is no responsibility on its shoulders. A conscientious governor would make sure the best men got the positions and then would look after them to make sure they were competent, faithful and honest."

Mr. Peck, of Bristol, member of the judiciary, asked Mr. Brown: "Wouldn't such a thing result in a tremendous factional organization centering around the governor?"

Mr. Brown thought that, regardless of that, the judicial council feels the governor should appoint the judges, since his office is such that he could "keep an eye" on the judges throughout a biennium.

THOMAS TAGGART DIED AT HOME IN INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 6—(AP)—Thomas Taggart, a democrat in politics but non-partisan in his affability and generosity, died here today at his home after a lingering illness. He was 72 years old.

With Charles Murphy of New York and Roger Sullivan of Illinois he formed a triumvirate that once controlled the affairs of the democratic party. All three have now passed on.

Mr. Taggart died at his home in the old North Side residential district of this city. Kidney disorders complicated by heart disease caused his death.

His passing immediately brought tributes from friends throughout the state and nation. Accumulation of these friendships began early in life when as a lad he held a humble post in a railroad lunch counter at Xenia, Ohio, then grew as wit and thrift carried him on to success as a hotel proprietor, business man and a politician.

Mr. Taggart's highest post was that of United States senator from Indiana. He was appointed to this position March 20, 1926 by Governor Samuel M. Ralston when a vacancy was created by the death of Senator Benjamin F. Shively. He was twice drafted by his party for the senatorial nomination but was defeated both times by James E. Watson, republican, the present senior senator from Indiana.

COPENHAGEN, March 6 (AP)—Three royal passengers, King Christian, Queen Alexandrine and Prince Knud are stranded in mid-Baltic sea on the ice-bound railway ferry Danmark.

JERUSALEM, March 6—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., arrived here yesterday with the intention of starting a tour through Palestine. Mr. Rockefeller is especially interested in visiting excavations undertaken by the University of Chicago near the Megiddon valley in the plain of Esdraelon.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 6—(AP)—Premier Count Stefan Bethlen is confined to his bed with influenza. He has been ill for some time but took to bed only yesterday on the advice of physicians. The cabinet council has been suspended until his recovery.

BOGNOR, Sussex, March 6—(AP)—King George had an opportunity to indulge his love of horses yesterday though he was not yet able to venture outdoors. This morning the sands along the shore in front of Craigwell House resembled a miniature race course. Nearly 100 horses were brought there by their trainers for practise gallops. His majesty, from the open window of a sundoom, was able to watch the animals being timed over fixed distances.

TWO NAVY BLIMPS WERE WRECKED BY WIND STORM

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—Two navy non-rigid dirigibles which flew here from Lakehurst, N. J., to take part in the inaugural ceremonies, today were on their return trip in crates. Two army blimps which also were held here were able to make their home stations today via the air.

The navy blimps J-3 and J-4 were packed away for their trip northward after an unusual and spectacular battle between the winds and the crew at the naval air station here where the air ships had been stormbound since Monday.

Naval officials viewed the results as about even, the wind having taken away about 360,000 cubic feet of helium and the crew having saved the baskets and the bags, although the latter were badly damaged.

Early last night a high wind began to toss the blimps around with such force that extra details of men were called out to hold them on the ground. About midnight the envelope of one of the navy craft began to pull apart and the helium was let out. The basket of the blimp was dragged and thrown over a hundred yards, narrowly missing a number of the men holding it, and damaging one side.

Early today the nose of the other ship began to pull away and gas began to escape with such rapidity that it also was ordered deflated.

70TH CONGRESS APPROPRIATED VAST SUM OF $9,291,599,377

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—Establishing a new high record for peace time outlay for government expenses, the 70th congress appropriated the vast sum of $9,291,599,377 during its life of two years.

Although small compared to the appropriation of $27,000,000,000 for the fiscal year 1918-1919 when this country was lending all its resources to win the World war, it exceeds by more than half a billion dollars the total appropriation of the preceding congress.

Of the $4,628,045,035 appropriated during the first session, the 70th congress allotted $40,000,000 for Mississippi valley and New England flood control work. In the second session $75,000,000 of the total of $4,663,554,342 was appropriated for tax returns.

For the first time since the bureau of the budget was created in 1923, the 70th congress in the second session appropriated more money than Director Lord of the budget submitted in estimates. The estimates, amounting to $4,657,094,473 were exceeded by $6,459,869. However, during the first session, congress deducted $9,331,779 from bureau estimates.

TWO YOUTHFUL BANDITS ATTACKED WRONG MAN

DANBURY, March 6—(AP)—Two youthful bandits were sad but wiser tonight after an attempt to hold up Alfred Taylor, taxi driver with World war experience and six feet two inches in height in his favor. Instead of complying with their demand to put up his hands and turn over his money, Taylor struck one of the youths a blow, took his gun, and marched both to police headquarters.

They gave their names as Lester Morrell, 16, and William Dunn, 19, and were held under $50,00 bail for hearing in city court tomorrow charged with attempted robbery with violence.

The holdup occurred about five miles toward Ridgefield where the boys had asked to be driven. Suddenly at the command to halt the driver got out and one of the two youths poked a gun in his ribs. Asked for his money, Taylor instead responded with his fist, sending the youth hurtling to the ground. With the gun he ordered the two back into his cab and they were brought here and arrested.

EAMON DE VALERA WAS EXPELLED FROM ULSTER

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 6—(AP)—Eamon De Valera, Irish republican leader, was spirited out of jail by Ulster authorities today, escorted to the border of the Irish Free State and put on a train for the southern part of the island.

His release had not been expected until tomorrow, although a small group of his sympathizers tried to anticipate the action and waited around the gates of the jail for several hours this morning. They had gone, however, when De Valera came out.

The republican leader was arrested on the Ulster-Free State frontier on Feb 5 because he was trying to come to Belfast in violation of the long-standing order prohibiting him from entering Ulster territory. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

BANDITS CARRIED THEIR GUNS IN VIOLIN CASES

CHICAGO, March 6—(AP)—Two young men of innocent mien unbuckled their violin cases in a Minneapolis-bound Rock Island train, today, drew from them sub-machine guns and menaced passengers, while holding up a bank messenger. The pair drew the guns as the train approached the 91st street station and, slugging Joseph Carlos, snatched his satchel containing cancelled checks bound for the First National bank of Joliet. Then they held up Herman Scheidt, vice-president of the bank, took $20 cash from him. Still brandishing the weapons the holdups ordered a brakeman to make an emergency stop at 81st street. They jumped from the train and boarded a waiting automobile.

Republicans to Build Up Party in South

National Committee to Create Militant Organizations in the Southern States.

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—With a decision to endeavor to make permanent the result of the recent campaign in the south and to build up a virile party organization there, the executive body of the republican national committee adjourned today without settling the controversies that center around southern committee posts.

A statement issued by Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, said the decision to fight for a stronger foothold in the south was inspired by "the demands from people from virtually every southern state to become permanently identified with the republican party."

There was no reference, however, in his statement to the disputed posts of national committeeman and committeewoman from Georgia although interest in it had kept more than a dozen persons, several of them Negroes, from southern states camping in the committee headquarters for the last two days.

George F. Flanders, of Swainsboro, Ga., is seeking the place as national committeeman to replace Ben Davis, Atlanta Negro, who has thrown his support to Flanders against J. H. Watson, another Negro, who heads the other faction.

While no reference was made to the Georgia matter, the committee authorized Dr. Work to hear and determine the facts in the controversy over members of the national committee for Alaska and officially to recognize those entitled to seats.

TESTIMONY IN ALLEGED $5,000,000 STOCK SWINDLE

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—William Patrick Stokes, former clerk for the defunct brokerage firm of Cameron, Michel & company, testified in federal court today that by order of company officials he burned 20 Canaric Copper stock record books when investigation by postal inspectors of the alleged $5,000,000 stock swindle threatened.

Stokes was testifying for the government in the trial of Herbert Locke, John C. Locke, George F. Shurtleff and four associates, indicted on 35 counts for using the mails to defraud.

Stokes testified John Locke told him "there are 20 books in this room—take them out and burn them."

Later he said, he was called into Herbert C. Locke's apartment and told by Harry C. Carragher, one of the others on trial that certain designated books "were to be taken to the post office inspector's office."

"He said I should see that the books were O. K. before I took them," the witness added.

Theodore V. Bennett, department of justice accountant, said that records disclosed that 1,971,084 shares of Canaric were sold to customers of the brokerage house for $5,585,381.75.

NO DEFENSE TESTIMONY IN EDEL MURDER TRIAL

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—Failing to take the stand himself or failing to call one witness in his behalf, Frederick W. Edel today hastened toward the close of his trial for the murder of Mrs. Emmeline Harrington actress.

After Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., in general sessions court, had denied a motion for dismissal of the indictment, Alexander I. Rorke, counsel for Edel, and James E. McDonald, assistant district attorney, completed their summations, and the judge announced he would charge the jury tomorrow.

In denying the motion, Judge Nott said it would be unnecessary for the jury to consider first degree murder on the ground of premeditation and deliberation, which Rorke said had not been proved. Although the judge added the jury should consider first degree murder based on a killing committed while another felony was taking place, Judge Nott said he would permit the jury to consider a second degree murder or a first or second degree manslaughter verdict.

MORE THAN 100 PERSONS KILLED BY LANDSLIDE

LISBON, Portugal, March 6—(AP)—A dispatch from Funchal, Madeira Islands, today said that more than 100 persons have been killed and numerous others injured by a big landslide in the valley of St. Vincent, many of the victims were buried in their houses. The slide resulted from recent torrential rains.

Fight For Control Of Childs Restaurants

Effort is to Be Made to Oust the Childs Family From the Business.

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—In a building on Madison Square, which until recent years rang with the cheers of fight fans in the old Garden, two white-haired gladiators in the realm of high finance will clash tomorrow in a battle for control of the Child's restaurants.

One of the principals in tomorrow's contest is William Child's fighting to retain active management of the company he founded with his brother, 40 years ago.

The other is William A. Barber, former attorney general of South Carolina and a figure long high in the councils of the restaurant company, who wants to oust Childs and all his family from the business bearing their name.

Mr. Barber, or more technically, the group of large stockholders which he actually thought not nominally heads, charges Mr. Childs with wasteful management and with a vegetarian obsession which is blamed by the anti-Childs camp for the company's earnings falling off in 1928 from more than $2,000,000 to less than $1,000,000.

This obsession, according to the Barber faction, caused patrons to stay away in large and increasing numbers, resentful at being told to eat vegetables when they were hungry for meat and being admonished not to drink water with their meals when their throats were parched.

Childs refers to the charge of compulsory vegetarianism as a "meatless fiction," denies that he ever completely removed meat and water from the menus, but acknowledges that, being a light meat eater himself, he took every means to "educate" his patrons to the health values of fresh vegetables and a balanced ration.

Declining profits he attributed to "natural causes," among which he numbers inclement weather, industrial reactions such as the Ford shutdown, ocean travel, the plentitude of money, increasing competition resulting from prohibition and the growing use of the automobile.

When these "adverse influences" shall have spent themselves, he assures the stockholders, Childs' restaurants, under his management, will have survived by their fitness.

Not content with defending his own position, Childs brings counter charges against Barber and his associates that they seek primarily the company's real estate holdings, value at more than $10,000,000, and have neither the ability nor the desire to run the restaurants properly.

Mr. Childs professes optimism about the outcome of the battle of proxies at the company's annual meeting tomorrow, but he will have against him the strength of a stock pool syndicate in which Barber is the leading figure and to which he sold his own holdings in the company only last November. He has no stock to speak of and the known large stockholders have thrown their lot with the syndicate.

ALLOTMENTS FOR RIVER AND HARBOR IMPROVEMENT

WASHINGTON, March 6—(AP)—Allotment of $41587,060 for river and harbor improvement and maintenance for the fiscal year beginning July 1, was announced today by the secretary of war.

Last December it was estimated $50,781,880 could be profitably expended during the coming year. The allotments today are larger in some cases and smaller in others than those estimated in December.

The allotments include:

Portland Harbor, Maine	$13,700
Saco River, Maine	$15,400
Boston harbor, Mass.	$50,000

EMIL AND WILL CARROLL ACQUITTED BY JURY

TUSCOLA, Ills., March 6—(AP)—A jury today acquitted Emil and Will Carroll, of the murder of Walter McAllister, their farmhand, after deliberating less than four hours.

Emil, a former professional baseball player, and his brother, were charged with beating their farmhand to death with a baseball bat and then placing the body in an automobile parked on the railroad tracks to make the man's death appears accidental after a train struck the car.

STATE TO RETAIN DRY ENFORCEMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, March 6—Four times there has been an effort made to pass a "birth control" bill in Connecticut and the same number of times it has failed. The bill repealing the statute which prohibits the use of contraceptibles was the subject of the most largely attended hearing of this session. This morning the judiciary committee presented an adverse report and the bill was rejected at the hearing. The bill had the support of several of the members of the assembly including a large proportion of the women members.

A bill of interest to many was introduced by Mr. Schriver of Groton and was passed from the calendar. It provides that all charitable organizations that are exempt from taxation need only to report to the taxing boards in 1929 and quadrennially thereafter "a statement on forms prepared by the tax commission, that shall be filed on or before the last day required by law for the filing of assessment returns with the local board of assessors of any town, city or borough."

The bill for the formation of a state racing commission was quickly disposed of on an unfavorable report from the judiciary committee.

The bills that would have provided a closed season on foxes and would have prohibited the killing of more than five in any one year did not meet with the favor of the committee on fish and game and were rejected.

One thousand dollars was voted for the preservation of the original headstone and care of the burial lots of Colonel Ledyard at Groton and $1,000 for repairs to Groton monument. All bills that have been introduced appropriating money to various hospitals have been relected as the items asked for are included in the bills as endorsed by the board of finance and control.

The bill that provided for a racing commission for New London county met the same fate as did the state bill and was rejected.

Committee Hearings

Numerous bills seeking to correct existing abuses and weaknesses in the present court system along lines recommended by the judicial council of Connecticut were heard by the legislative judiciary committee this afternoon. They included measures correcting the opportunity of abuse of the suspended sentence system by making judges the sole power in suspending sentences, eliminating trial of motor vehicle law violators on minor charges, changing divorce procedure and procedure in other court actions.

The more important bills heard were:

H. B. No. 21, providing for a state bureau of identification under state police to keep criminal records, fingerprints, etc.

H. B. No. 22, providing for suspension of sentences allowed during good behavior for a period not exceeding six years, the reasons to be spread on the records, no suspensions allowed on second offenders for driving under the influence of liquor and no suspensions for third offenders of a felony.

H. B. No. 23, providing for proba-
